The Czech Skoda automobile might be attractive to Canadians too, the Saskatoon senator said, but the Czech trade minister had told the delegates that orders for the car are piled up two years ahead.

Reporters were hoping to speak with two party leaders who made the tour, Real Caouette of the Creditistes and T. C. Douglas of the New Democrats, but Mr. Caouette passed through Montreal unexpectedly on a Saturday night flight and Mr. Douglas continued his European trip with a private visit to Yugoslavia.

The three other MPs to arrive Sunday were Ken More (PC—Regina City), Jack Roxburgh (L—Norfolk) and G. R. McWilliam (L — Northumberland - Miramichi), parliamentary assistant to Works Minister McIlraith.

Mr. Roxburgh said the delegation, whose expenses were paid by the House of Commons, got the feeling the Soviets consider Canada "a country they can trust."

Alan McLaine, second secretary of the Canadian Embassy in Cuba and formerly posted in Moscow, travelled with the group.

TREATMENT PUZZLING

The parliamentarians interviewed in London Saturday said the Communists gave them royal treatment that was sometimes daunting and a trifle puzzling.

Stopping off here Saturday night en route home, they raved about the caviar-for-breakfast and champagne-for-supper welcome they received during two weeks in Russia and a week in Czechoslovakia.

Caviar, pickled herring, cold meat, salad, cognac and vodka for breakfast—followed by ham and eggs—had novelty value at first but became awesome on repetition.

The travellers said the overwhelming official welcome clearly was an effort to impress that went beyond even the legendary hospitality of Eastern Europe.

"Perhaps the Russians feel we may serve a useful purpose as a go-between with the United States," the senator said. "It's hard to say exactly what the motive was."

GROUP BROKE UP

The group dispersed following its departure from Prague Saturday morning.

Commons Speaker Alan Macnaughton, co-leader of the delegation, made a private detour to Geneva. Liberal Donald S. Macdonald of Toronto-Rosedale stopped off in Vienna.

The Czechoslovak news agency CTK said the invitation was accepted "with pleasure" by representatives of the Czechoslovak assembly. Details would be worked out through diplomatic channels.

Other members of the delegation were Liberal MPs Maurice Rinfret (Montreal St. Jacques) and Alexandre Cyr (Gaspe), and Horace Olson, Social Credit member for Medicine Hat.

to study federal government Class D salaries in the wake of the postal workers strike which started July 22 and spread to 75 centres, including 70 per-cent of the country's postal workers, and affected B.C., Ontario and Quebec. There are 35,000 other federal government employees in Class D occupations.

Another victory the postal workers won was a promise by the government to overhaul the Postal Act, which Mr. Houle called "19th century in outlook."

He said: "Nominally we went out for more money, but actually this whole action arose out of an accumulation of injustices and stupid regulations that were worsening day by day."

Also agreed to at a meeting in Ottawa between the Montreal unions, the Postal Workers Brotherhood and the government, was that there will be no reprisals against the strikers, nor against non-union personnel — mostly women — who stayed out in sympathy.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Pearson said he was very happy the strike was over, and added that legislation on collective bargaining "now is waiting to go before Parliament.

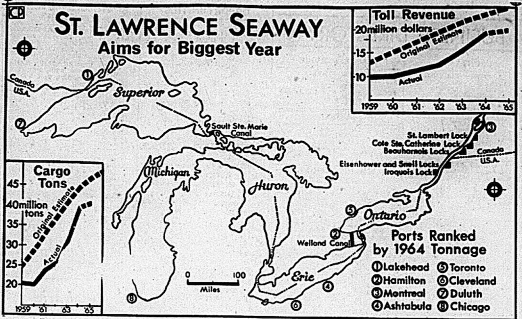
"So that there will be no misunderstanding, let me add this," the prime minister said. "The recommendations made by Judge Anderson were not arrived at to settle the strike in Montreal or to meet strikers' demands in Montreal.

"The recommendations would have been exactly the same—and the government action exactly the same—if the Montreal postal workers had followed the lead of postal workers in other parts of the country who returned to work more than a week ago, pending Judge Anderson's report.

"And, of course, the pay increases apply to all workers in all parts of Canada. They have nothing to do with who went on strike."

The executive of the Postal Workers Brotherhood has recommended acceptance of the government offer to its three affiliated unions—the Federated Association of Letter Carriers, the Association of Canadian Postal Employees and the Canadian Railway Mail Clerks Federation.

Ballots have been distributed and are to be returned by midnight, Aug. 20. They will be tallied and the results announced immediately.



SEAWAY FACES CRITICAL PERIOD — The St. Lawrence Seaway, Canadian-American canal system that enables ocean vessels to travel 2,300 miles from the Atlantic to the head of the Great Lakes in the heart of the continent, has consistently fallen short of cargo and revenue forecasts made before it opened in 1959.

But the gap between fact and forecast is closing and the Canadian St. Lawrence Seaway Authority recently predicted that 1965 will be the waterway's biggest year. The authority expects cargo traffic to reach 40,320,000 tons and toll revenue $20,000,000 by the time the shipping closes in early December.

This forecast is 6,680,000 tons and $4,600,000 below the original estimates for 1965. But Dr. Pierre Camu of Montreal, president of the seaway authority, says he is confident that the original concept of a maximum annual traffic of 50,000,000 cargo tons by 1968 will be surpassed. He says the seaway has a capacity of 65,000,000 tons a year.

The seaway tolls, based now on the 1958 traffic estimates, are to be reviewed in 1966 by the Canadian and United States governments in the light of actual revenue.

Union Rejects Suggestion To Arbitrate

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP) — The membership of Local 459 of the United Packinghouse, Food and Allied Workers of America (CLC) has rejected the suggestion of Ontario Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree that the J. J. Heinz Company of Canada and the union arbitrate their differences.

The local, representing more than 1,100 employees of the vegetable processing firm, rejected the minister's proposal by an overwhelming standing vote here Saturday.

As a consequence of their rejection, the strike against the company—which began July 27—will likely continue at least until further negotiations between the two parties are resumed. No date has been set for a resumption of talks on a new contract.

Vegetable growers in Essex County, who are not covered by their contracts with Heinz in the event of strike action, have called a meeting for Tuesday to discuss their problems. They claim a bumper crop of tomatoes will rot in the fields if the strike continues beyond a few days more.

Saskatchewan Could Save 15 Million

REGINA (CP) — A well-run business firm could tell the Saskatchewan government a thing or two about efficiency, a royal commission said today.

The commission, headed by Mr. Justice F. W. Johnson, made public a 1,040-page report after a year-long study of how the provincial government conducts its day-to-day business.

The report said the government needs a large dose of "modern management science" to streamline its operations. Savings could amount to as much as $15,000,000 a year.

The commission was set up by Premier Ross Thatcher's Liberal government shortly after Mr. Thatcher took office in mid-1964. A major election campaign promise was that he would streamline government operations.

The commission said it will take some years to carry out most or all of its 177 specific recommendations.

It suggested that a new government department, under a cabinet minister, be set up to supervise day - to - day government operations.

ESTABLISH POOLS

The new department, to be called the department of central government services, also would help set up pools of brainpower and talent to tackle the government's programs.

The royal commission said it was "surprised and disturbed at the lack of program planning in government." Inefficiency and lack of long-range planning were making the government clumsy and slow in meeting the needs of the province's citizens.

The commission said the day-by-day administration of government programs and services in Saskatchewan now costs about $25,000,000. This could be halved if the government spends $800,000 in applying modern management techniques.

Seventy - five robed and hooded Klansmen were scattered along the procession. Others wore sport coats emblazoned with Klan emblems. There were no masks, which are outlawed by Georgia law.

The demonstrators included many women and some teenagers.

GIVE WARNING

The marchers had been warned to maintain order. A Klan official said anyone who could not control his emotions should leave. "We want a silent march," he said.

"We're here to let the people know the Klan is on the move," said Calvin Craig of Atlanta, Georgia grand dragon. "The [illegible] is the only salvation of the white man."

"Let's do what the Negroes do when they want legislation," said Craig. "Let's march. Public officials are scared of the Negro vote — let's get them scared of the white vote."

When about 300 Negroes gathered a few hours later they renewed demands for a biracial committee. Civil rights leaders have promised to march on the home of Mayor T. Griffin Walker if one is not formed today.

Mayday Calls Said Hoax by Coast Guard

CLEVELAND (AP) — The ninth district coast guard headquarters says it will ask the Federal Communications Commission to investigate the possible fraudulent use of mayday calls on the Great Lakes.

"We have a strong hunch this latest search of ours is a hoax," Lieut. Wayne Wheeler of the Cleveland - based U.S. Coast Guard search and rescue operation for all the Great Lakes, said Saturday.

Boats equipped with radios which have the international distress frequency—2182 k.c.—are only supposed to use it for that purpose.

Not only have a rash of erroneous reports over the last few weeks proved costly, Wheeler said, "but our search crews are dog-tired and are taking a risk by going out in bad weather when it isn't necessary."

Wheeler said an FCC probe was decided upon when an air and sea search of a broad expanse of Lake Michigan Friday and Saturday failed to turn up clues to a missing cabin cruiser.

The search was for the Kenmar, from which mayday calls were heard by other ships shortly after sunset Friday.

Wheeler said the coast guard had located three yachts named Kenmar since the distress call and none had made any mayday calls.

Mountain Tribe Children Have 50-50 Survival Chance In South Viet Nam Hills

By HAL BOYLE

KHE SANH, South Viet Nam (AP)—Life is so unlikely among the Vietnamese mountain tribes that a child isn't even given a name until its first birthday.

Since many infants die before they are a year old, there does not seem much point in naming them until they have at least a 50-50 chance of growing up.

Mountain folk are always interesting to outsiders, who find their ways quaint, repulsive, but full of a primitive charm.

The hillbillies here are no exception. They are members of a Montagnard tribe called the Brous, which rhymes with booze. They live in rugged hills amid rich, green jungle drapery a few miles south of the demilitarized zone that theoretically divides this war - torn land.

The Brous are small, slender, dark-skinned people with an intensely black thatch of hair that gives them a wild look.

To anybody but a fellow Brou, the life of the ordinary Brou would seem insufferable. He dwells at a bare survival level. Some work on a French-owned coffee plantation; others till arid hillside patches.

EAT ANYTHING

Gastronomically speaking, the Brous' motto seems to be: "If it is smaller than you and can't get away, eat it. You never know where your next meal is coming from."

You see many small, young dogs around Brou hamlets, but rarely any big, older dogs. As soon as they reach an appetizing soze, most dogs go into the pot. Among other things the Brous put in the pot are lizards, cats, rats and monkeys.

On religious occasions, they will sacrifice and eat one of their highly prized water buffaloes. Although they almost venerate this animal, they kill him by hamstringing him and then slowly hacking him into a pulp with machetes.

The chief war weapon of the Brous formerly was the crossbow, a silent, deadly and effective tool for closeup jungle hunting. The tiny bamboo arrows are tipped with a poison made from tree gum. The poison affects the blood of a game animal but not the meat.

Brou children start courting at 12 or 13 and marry at 15 or 16. The moral standards of married Brous are a cut above civilized conduct. Wife swapping appears unheard of, and the price of adultery may be a poisoned arrow through the heart.

Viet Cong Uses Marine Actions To Stir Anger

DA NANG (AP)—Viet Cong agents have moved rapidly and astutely to take advantage of the burned homes and civilian casualties caused by U.S. marine and air operations south of Da Nang, well-informed military sources said today.

The sources said some military circles believe the Communist drive to undermine politically the American position around this strategic air base is gaining momentum.

Senior Viet Cong cadres tell the peasants they are from the Viet Minh, Ho Chi Minh's army which destroyed French power in Indochina and won the peninsula its independence.

The communist propaganda line now is that the Americans have replaced the French and are trying to take over the country in a new war against the Vietnamese people.

During the last week marines killed at least five civilians in one operation. About 100 homes were destroyed in another by marines using flamethrowers, cigarette lighters and matches. The marines had received sniper fire from both villages.

Viet Cong propaganda also is reported having some effect on government troops. Stories, many of them highly exaggerated, are being circulated among these troops concerning marine activities.

LBJ And Aides Stress Public Backing In War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and his top aides are bearing down hard, in briefings, public statements and interviews, on their view that the bulk of Congress and the country back U.S. policies in the Viet Nam war.

Johnson, State Secretary Dean Rusk and Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara all spoke out along this line Monday. The day in Washington was also marked by the arrest of 260 persons in noisy demonstrations and counter-demonstrations swirling around the issue of U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Johnson unexpectedly met with the White House press between two extensive briefing sessions, each for half the Senate. He said to the reporters, referring to what he called would-be hopeful enemies:.

"I don't want any of them to say, because somebody makes a speech that questions this or questions that, or suggests a different method of different idea . . . that there is any substantial division in our country. And, in my judgment, there is no substantial division in the Congress."

He said:

WASHINGTON (AP)—Police whistles blew, red paint splattered and a march on Capitol Hill to protest U.S. policies in Viet Nam ended in noisy confusion with the arrest of 260 persons who defied police orders and staged a sit-down.

Most of those arrested—about half of the estimated total of 500 demonstrators — were charged with two counts of disorderly conduct.

Their cases were handled in Washington's first night police court in 10 years.

Those who pleaded guilty before the three judges received varying sentences: $50 or 30 days in jail, $25 or five days and $25 or three days.

Those who pleaded not guilty were scheduled for trial later in the week.

BELONG TO GROUPS

The demonstration ended four days of meetings and picketing by the newly-formed Assembly of Unrepresented People. Most of its members also belong to civil rights organizations and they sang We Shall Overcome and Freedom as they marched Monday.

In the early planning stages for the assembly's meetings, leaders had said the group would try to invade the House

'Sizable' Battle Fought In Drive to Lift Siege

SAIGON (AP)—A large government force attempting to relieve the besieged special forces camp at Du Co has killed 219 Viet Cong in a "battle of sizable proportions" that is continuing, a U.S. spokesman reported today.

Government casualties — including American dead and wounded—so far are "moderate," the spokesman said, but added: "I describe them as moderate only because of the large number of troops involved."

The spokesman said the Viet Cong casualties have been confirmed by body count.

The government force was battling its way westward along Route 19, the east-west highway through the central highlands, in an attempt to reach the special forces camp five miles from the Cambodian border.

Its garrison, now numbering 12 U.S. special forces advisers and about 150 South Vietnamese and mountain tribesmen, has been under siege for 67 days. The Communists attack the camp nightly with mortars and small arms.

Since early Monday Viet Cong forces have been hitting the relief force systematically as it tried to cover the 30 miles between Pleiku, capital of the 2nd Corps area, and Duc Co.

In other action reported today, a U.S. marine tank position was hit by about 20 rounds of mortar fire about a mile south of Da Nang air base. One American was killed and four wounded, but no tanks were reported damaged.

Negroes Placed On Rolls

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal registrars begin placing Negroes on the voting rolls of nine U.S. southern counties today—with no questions asked about their intelligence.

And the justice department goes to work in the federal courts of Texas, Virginia and Alabama to seek an end to poll taxes as a requirement for voting in state and local elections.

The Voting Rights Act of 1965 got up a full head of steam Monday night when Attorney-General Nicholas Katzenbach—after a day of study and telephone consultations — designated those counties where past experience led him to believe the services of examiners, all regular Civil Service Commission employees, would be needed.

The first one on the justice department's list was Dallas County, Ala. That's where Selma is, and Selma is where racial violence flared last spring just before President Johnson called for legislation to guarantee the right to vote to southern Negroes.

Immediately upon Katzenbach's announcement of the nine counties in which federal registration will be launched, Chairman John W. Macy of the Civil Service Commission sent two examiners to each.

BAR FELONS

Negroes who have been turned away before now may fill out a simple application form—or have it filled out for them, if they're illiterate—and be placed on the voting rolls simply by meeting such requirements as age, residence and a record clear of felony convictions.

Meanwhile, justice department lawyers put the finishing touches on suits to be filed in Austin, Richmond and Montgomery attacking the state poll tax requirements. These suits are required of the attorney-general by the new law. The first was filed Saturday challenging Mississippi's poll tax.

The dispatching of federal registrars brought a generally critical reaction from officials in the counties affected.

In Dempolis, Ala., in Marengo County, Registrar Taylor Speidle said he had never discriminated against would-be Negro voters. He said he thought voters should be able to read and write, and that "everyone got the same test."

"It's pretty rough the way they're going to register these illiterates," he said. "Why some of them don't know a thing in the world."

Singapore's Plan to Trade With Indonesia Is Obstacle to Harmony With Malaysia

From AP-Reuters

SAINGAPORE (CP) — Malaysia and Singapore, which Monday suddenly seceded from the Malaysian Federation, appeared today to be ready to work together in harmony provided they can reconcile their disagreements over Indonesia.

Statements issued by leaders of the two governments following Singapore's sudden withdrawal from the two-year-old federation stressed the theme of coexistence and co-operation. But there remains Singapore's stated desire to trade with Indonesia and Malaysia's fears of Indonesian aggression.

Meanwhile, British officials in London announced today that Singapore has asked to remain in the Commonwealth as an independent country. And Britain, which earlier announced recognition of Singapore as an independent state, indicated she would support the appeal for Commonwealth membership.

"We now separate on terms of friendship," said Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman. He underscored points in the separation agreement calling for joint action in major economic and defence matters.

Singapore's Premier Lee Kuan Yew also stressed the need for working relations between the two governments, particularly in trade.

But at the same time Lee said he hoped for diplomatic relations and trade with Indonesia.

"We can't allow that to happen," said Rahman, speaking in the Malaysian capital of Kuala Lumpur. "We would take action."

The secession agreement signed secretly Saturday gives Malaysia the right to station military forces in Singapore and allows Britain to continue using its bases there. But it was viewed in some circles as a victory for Sukarno.

In Jakarta, Indonesia Foreign Minister Subandrio suggested to a Chinese Communist delegation that both their countries recognize Singapore if it "really becomes a fully independent and sovereign state."

Lee, spokesman for Singapore's predominantly Chinese population, claimed the Malay-dominated government in Kuala Lumpur was trying to perpetuate Malay supremacy in Malaysia. Ultra-nationalist Malays feared Lee would unite his forces with the large Chinese population on the Malayan mainland and get control of the government.

Lee said Rahman told him separation was the only alternative to racial strife and rejected his plea for a looser federation.

Kashmir Freedom Fighters Challenge Indian Control

KARACHI (Reuters)—Heavy fighting has broken out in Indian-controlled areas of Kashmir, reports reaching the Pakistani city said today.

Pakistani sources claimed the violence in the long - disputed territory was "a massive uprising" by Kashmir freedom fighters against the Indian authorities.

But a New Delhi message Monday night quoting the Indian chief minister of Kashmir described the trouble as "a full-blood invasion" by Pakistan.

And in New Delhi today an Indian government spokesman said the situation was well in hand in the parts of Kashmir where fighting broke out during the last few days.

The Indian spokesman said there had been no contact between Indian security forces and what he described as armed infiltrators from Pakistan since late Monday night.

But reports reaching here spoke of heavy fighting in the Srinagar and Poonch areas of Kashmir between "freedom fighters" and Indian army and police units.

A clandestine radio calling itself the "voice of Kashmir" has announced the formation of a revolutionary council in the Indian-controlled part of Kashmir and warned that all "collaborators" with the Indian authorities would be shot.

A report from Jammu quoted by the Press Trust of India Monday said Indian army patrols had intercepted at least 20 bands of armed Pakistani saboteurs who had infiltrated deep into Kashmir.

It added that Indian patrols inflicted heavy casualties on the Pakistani saboteurs and had captured large quantities of arms, ammunition, women's clothing and other apparel intended for disguise.

Two Children Found Dead In Dense Bush

MILLINOCKET, Me. (AP)—Robbie and Timmie Mott were found dead Monday, 15 feet apart on a wooded knoll near the base of Mount Katahdin.

The Rochester, N.Y., brothers had been lost in the wilderness area 10 days. Robbie was 17, mentally retarded and a diabetic. Timmie was three.

They were found only a 13-minute walk from Avalanche Field, where national guardsmen and an air force helicopter crew had been based during much of a long search for the boys.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mott, took the grim news bravely.

"Thank God, they have been found," said their 43-year-old father.

They had been sought by search forces that had numbered up to 400 men.

The search leader, David Priest, reported both boys apparently had been dead for some time. Dr. Norman Nickerson, a medical examiner, was called from Greenville to inspect the bodies.

All Victims Apparently Asphyxiated

SEARCY, Ark. (AP) — The death count from an explosion and fire in a Titan II missile launching site rose to 53 today with the discovery of six more bodies on lower levels of the underground silo.

"It is very possible this is the final count," said Capt. Douglas Wood, U.S. Air Force public information officer at site.

Searchers planned to pump several feet of water out of the bottom of the concrete tube holding the missile before giving up the search.

The exact number of civilian workmen in the missile complex at the time of the blast and fire Monday was uncertain through the long night of probing—first, hopefully, for survivors, and then for the bodies of the dead scattered through the various levels of the shaft.

Two workmen scrambled out when the fire erupted and escaped without serious injury.

The air force said all the victims apparently were asphyxiated when the blast and fire sealed off their means of escape and filled the complex with smoke.

Rescue teams wearing asbestos suits and gas masks, and using special gear to help their breathing in the smoke-clogged silo, worked through the night bringing the bodies to the surface.

The air force said the Titan II in the tube, an intercontinental ballistics missile capable of delivering a nuclear warhead 6,000 miles, did not burn.

NO NUCLEAR PERIL

It was not armed, the air force said, and there was no danger of a nuclear explosion.

Cause of the blast and fire was not determined.

Two men escaped with minor burns from the fiery launching tube, bringing out sketchy details of a sudden blast, fire and smoke.

The men in the tube were civilians working to update the physical plant of the missile complex, part of a ring of Titan II launching sites in central Arkansas.

At least eight other air force men and a number of civilians working above ground were not harmed by the blast.

Air force rescue teams in asbestos suits climbed down into the 155-foot deep launch complex and carried bodies out of the upper levels—about 45 feet below ground.

Grain Handlers End Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Farmers and shippers were breathing easier after an almost unanimous vote by Montreal's 1,000 grain-handlers to go back on the job today.

With the offer of a new two-year contract providing for a 50-cent hourly pay increase, the striking grain-handlers, cold storage and maintenance employees agreed to end the eight-week walkout at a Monday meeting called by the Montreal Port Employees' Union (CNTU).

The men left their jobs June 16 in support of 107 of their fellow workers who had been threatened with dismissal by the national harbors board when they objected to supervisory appointments made by the board.

The work stoppage began with "study sessions" and later included mass marches and scuffles with harbors board police before a new contract proposal was drafted at an all-night negotiating session Sunday and Monday.

SETTLE FOR 50 CENTS

Originally seeking a 70-cent hourly increase, the union settled for a 50-cent boost over two years—30 cents retroactive to last Jan. 1, five cents effective from the date of the new contract and 15 cents effective next Jan. 1.

Before the strike, grain-handlers earned $1.97, maintenance

Titan II Missile Complex Nearly Invulnerable Underground City

SEARCY, Ark. (AP) — The U.S. Air Force calls the Titan II missile complex a nearly invulnerable underground city, endangered only by a direct or near direct atomic hit.

The bird costs $2,600,000. Its nest raises the total cost of one such complex to about $8,000,000.

The missile weighs 150 tons when fully loaded with its liquid propellent fuel. It is maintained primed for travelling 6,000 miles at a top speed of 18,000 miles an hour with a 24-megaton nuclear warhead in its nose—one flight only, one way.

The warhead becomes armed some time after launch. Exactly when it becomes detonatable is classified information.

The missile is 108 feet long, about 10 feet in diameter at its widest point. It rests in a tube that extends downward 155 feet into the ground.

There are 54 Titan II sites in the United States—18 near Little Rock, 18 near Tucson and 18 near Wichita. They were completed in December, 1963, at a total cost of more than $400,000,000. All are operational. Their targets have been programmed into them. All that remains is to be fired. Only the president can give the order to fire the missiles.

The air force considers the sites nearly invulnerable because they are located completely underground. They are covered by a 490-ton steel-and-concrete door that moves laterally on rails and flanged wheels—just like a train.

The walls of the silo range from four to eight feet thick—also concrete and steel.

A complex is built with three chambers — the launch tube (which has nine levels), an access unit, and a control centre. The access unit is between the tube and the control centre and is connected to both by way of an underground passage about 10 feet in diameter.

Lone Man Picked up in Skiff Admits Murdering Five on Ship

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Cuban seaman picked off a skiff in the Gulf Stream today has admitted that he went on a murder rampage on the banana boat Seven Seas, a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said today.

"As I understand it, he admitted doing them all in except the cook," Cmdr. W. C. Wahl of the Key West coast guard base told The Associated Press.

"The last thing he said was that he sent the cook (Gerald Davidson) down to the engine room for something. We don't know where the cook is.

"There is five feet of water in that engine room and we don't know what we'll find there."

Wahl said Roberto Ramirez, described as a burly, dark-haired man of about 30, told interrogators that he left the Seven Seas alone in the skiff.

Ramirez was taken aboard a merchant vessel which located the Seven Seas' 14-foot skiff in the Gulf Stream 60 miles south of Miami. He was transferred to a coast guard patrol boat which took him to Miami Beach where U.S. immigration service agents took him into custody. Another coast guard spokesman said Ramirez told investigators that he shot and killed five of the eight crew members aboard the 166-foot vessel, then fled the death ship when her engines went dead as she churned toward his Cuban homeland.

The only known survivor of the murder spree was Elvin Burywaise, 17-year-old crew member who hid in terror for 18 hours in a dark, smelly chain locker so small he could not stand erect.

"There is no word on the motive" for the killings, Wahl said. When silence fell over the ship after the bursts of gunfire, Burywaise said, he could tell from his place of refuge that her course was changed southward toward Cuba, but the fuel in her main tanks apparently ran out two hours later.

The coast guard speculated that Ramirez did not know how to switch to auxiliary tanks.

When the Seven Seas was towed into Key West Monday by a coast guard cutter, the bodies of three crew members were found, one on deck and two in their blood-stained bunks below.

Canadian Nuns Ready For Foreign Missions

TORONTO Six members of Our Lady's Missionaries—3 nurses and 3 teachers—who will leave shortly for foreign mission fields, took part in a departure ceremony in St. Michael's Cathedral last night.

Two of the sisters are going to a new mission to be opened by this Canadian community in Aguscalientes, Mexico. Sister Mary Carmel, (Gwen Legault, Berwick, Ont.) has been teaching deaf children at a centre under the Metropolitan Toronto Separate school board in St. Monica's school, for the past four years. Prior to that she taught at the Ontario School for the Deaf, Belleville, for five years. Sister Mary Bernadette (Joan Missiaen of Edmonton) has been teaching at St. Gregory's School, Toronto.

At the new mission they will teach Mexican nuns and do parish work. The Canadian sisters will attend a language school at the Intercultural Formation Centre, Cuernavaca, before assuming their new duties.

Three of the sisters will go to Fortaleza in the northeast region of Brazil, where they will join four members of their community already at the 150-bed maternity hospital. This modern hospital, in a slum setting, was erected by a group of newspapers who held a fund drive to provide a hospital for the country, which has high maternity and infant mortality rates. The newspapers turned the hospital over to the Fortaleza university to equip and operate.

Our Lady's Missionaries were invited to take over and to train local young women as staff.

The three nurses going to Fortaleza are: Sister Mary Anne, (Theresa MacDonald, Panmure, P. E. I.); Sister Mary Magdalen (Pauline Doherty, Sussex, N.B.) and Sister Mary Donald (Doris MacDonell, Wililamsburg, Ont.-.

Sister Mary Gerard, (Valerie Bannert, Grand Forks, B.C.), who has taught at St. Anthony's School, St. Catharines, and St. Gregory's Toronto, will go to Suita, Japan where the community opened a new mission last year.

Our Lady's Missionaries are the only English-speaking congregation of sisters in Canada devoted exclusively to foreign mission work. The community was founded 16 years ago in Alexandria, Ont., by the late Monsignor D. MacDonald with the co-operation of the Bishop of Alexandria. The community has about 60 members, with headquarters in Toronto and a novitiate at Richmond Hill. Besides teaching and nursing, they do laboratory and X-ray work, take charge of orphanages and do various types of social work.

Legion Picnic At Cove Beach Is Success

Positive thinking made the annual Legion picnic a success.

The weather on Sunday morning was threatening but despite this, Legion president Dick Kirby, thinking positively, kept repeating, "It isn't going to rain. It isn't going to rain."

It didn't.

The picnic, sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 99 and the Ladies' Auxiliary, was held at Cove Beach.

The picnic was a great success. There was swimming, races, lots of food and a ball game which capped off with a home run chalked up by sports chairman, Ernie Chalk – quite a remarkable feat by a man who claims to be older than Jack Benny.

Independent Retailer Holding Own

OTTAWA (CP)—Contrary to appearances, the booming growth of flossy shopping centres with their acres of parking space and numerous chain store outlets hasn't cut into the sales volume of the independent retailer.

Official statistics show that sales by chain store outlets actually were a smaller proportion of total retail trade this spring than they were in 1930.

Bureau of statistics figures on May retail sales reported last week, together with figures for March and April, show that chain stores did $1,091,003,000 worth of retail business in the three spring months.

This was 20.4 per cent of total retail trade in Canada. The 1930 census found that chain stores did 20.5 per cent of the retail trade that year. In 1941 the figure rose to 22.1, and in 1951 it eased to 21.4.

Retailing is a $20,000,000,000 business in Canada. It passed that mark last year and this year, after the usual slow start in January and February, is running five to seven per cent ahead of 1964. Prices currently are about 2½ per cent higher than last year.

Ice Making Will Start In Arena on August 24th

TRENTON — Ice making operations will start in the community gardens by Aug. 24 and as soon as the ice is ready for use, practice times will be available to Trenton and area hockey teams.

This was the decision of the arena commission, meeting last night.

The regulation ice rental of $15 an hour will apply to practice time. Arena customers and teams in other communities will be notified by mail to reserve practice time within a few days and sent a reminder around Sept. 1. Scheduled play is expected to start by the end of October.

Meanwhile, the Trenton Lions' club which has been renting the arena twice a month on Monday nights for games' nights, may try to run the games all winter in the upstairs auditorium.

Tenders will be called for the rental of a small space in the arena foyer where the lesee might operate a skate sharpening service and sell "emergency replacement items," such as hockey sticks, tape, shoe laces and pucks. One local man had made an offer to rent the space but the commission members felt they must advertise the space as they were dealing with a public building.

WANT FLOOR PUT IN

Commission chairman, C. V. Graham, (councillor) will take a motion passed by the board last night, to town council for approval. Council will be asked to approve the expenditure of $1,500 for the installation of sewer outlets and a concrete floor in a space of 18 feet by 150 feet on the south side of the arena, underneath the seats. Here, children could put on and remove their skates, instead of using the lobby or the seats themselves. At some future date, dressing rooms could be built in this area.

Full time employees at the arena will be paid two per cent of their annual wage and be given two weeks' summer holiday, after they have completed twelve full months of employment. The commission members also voted last night to up the percent to four percent after the employee has completed two full years of employment. The percentages will apply should the employee decide to "quit", and would be based on his term of employment in months.

Commissioner Carl Weese said last night he felt this holiday pay system would tend to produce steady employees who would be interested in keeping their jobs.

$2,000 Is Won By Bridegroom

Last night he won the $2,000 jackpot at the Trenton Lions' Club games' night.

Saturday, he's being married in St. Alphonsus Church in Wooler to Pat Simple of Trenton.

Lawrence isn't saying where he and his bride plan to spend their honeymoon, but admits he won't have to worry about meeting expenses for a day or two.

The car, a 1958 Oldsmobile was considered a complete write off, said OPP from Brighton who investigated.

Raised a Thirst

TRENTON—The shortage of water in New York City has led the authorities there to make it an offence for hotels and restaurants to serve water with meals unless the customer specifically asks for it.

This weekend, an American tourist at the 1867 Restaurant on Highway 401, west of Trenton, drank five glasses of water, explaining to the waitress he was "getting loaded up before he returned to New York."

TRADERS GLOOMY

LONDON (Reuters)—A report by British businessmen said Monday that the country's merchants are "clearly gloomy" over their country's foreign trading prospects. The Association of British Chambers of Commerce said only one-tenth of 295 merchants who took part in a survey reported improving prospects.

Belleville Defeats Trenton 3-2

On Monday night, August 9, at Trenton High School, Belleville All - Stars defeated Trenton 3-2 in a closely, hard fought soccer contest. Belleville showed a complete turnabout from their previous 7-0 loss, as they came on strong in the second half with three goals to wipe out an early Trenton lead.

The game started with Belleville pressing Trenton, but the losers made use of lapses by Belleville and scored at the fifteen minute mark. Alvin Gainsforth kicked it in with an assist from Vic Witriach.

Belleville came on strong in the second half, using quick passes and accurate shooting. They scored at the five minute mark, with Allan Brown getting it after having two shots stopped. Belleville continued their pressure and finally Bob Watson scored a picture goal. Watson dove through the air to head the ball into the corner past a surprised Trenton goalie. The time was 18 minutes.

This is an artist's drawing of the new Canadian National express freight building which will be built here. The modern two-storey complex, estimated to cost in excess of $600,000, will be located at the east end of Belleville Yard.

CN Plans to Spend $600,000 On Express Freight Terminal

Construction of a new Canadian National express freight terminal in Belleville costing in excess of $600,000 will commence shortly, it was announced today by H. J. Fast, manager of CN's Rideau Area, with headquarters here.

The new facility, which will be located 1½ miles east of the CN Station complex, is to replace the present 45-year-old freight shed at Bleecker Avenue.

Mr. Fast said that the new building, which was designed by CN architects, will house streamline facilities for the sorting and handling of express, and less carload freight shipments.

It will be the most modern of its kind between Montreal and Toronto and will serve all traffic centres along the lakeshore between Gananoque and Port Hope inclusive, extending southward to and including Picton, and northward to include all Rideau Area points on the Madoc, Maynooth, Campbellford, Haliburton, Coboconk and Uxbridge subdivisions of the CN. Points up to including Smiths Falls on the Napanee - Smiths Falls line will also be served from the new building.

The express freight terminal is to be 168 feet long and 100 feet wide. General offices in the brick and steel centre will be located on the second floor, while the first floor will house an on - hand room, as well as value rooms, etc. The basement will have a modern locker and lunch room facilities for employees.

UNDER ONE ROOF

"The integration of express freight service under one roof will eliminate any possible duplication which may have existed before," Mr. Fast said. "One staff will handle all aspects of express freight business. The new building will definitely improve our service," he said.

Some 70 employees will work in the new centre, to operate 24 hours a day, six days a week. To handle some 20 CN trucks and those of other companies in the Belleville area, 24 loading docks will be built, each dock opening especially designed so that the end of the truck will fit snugly into it. This will reduce the loss of heat during the winter and make working conditions much more comfortable for the men. In addition to the trucks, the terminal will also be able to accomodate 25 box - cars at one time on five parallel tracks.

One of the main keys to efficient performance within the new terminal will be a motor driven endless chain know as a "towveyor." Travelling along a trough in the concrete floor of the building, the chains follows a rectangular path and moves laden carts at a speed of 120 feet a minute.

Express freight shipments are sorted into dock carts, each equipped with towpins which are manually lowered into a narrow slot to engage with the continually moving "towveyor" chain. Under power of this chain, parcel-filled carts glide along the floor to their coded destination for sorting or loading. Carts are removed manually from the chain conveyor.

This mechanical aid eliminates much of the heavy work previously required to move shipments. The "towveyor's" predetermined path will also reduce snarls in the building.

Mr. Fast said that the new express freight terminal, which will have parking facilities for both customers and employees, is another step by Canadian National in Belleville to provide not only better service for its near and distant customers, but to improve its image here as well.

"During the past few years," Mr. Fast said, "extensive improvements amounting to well over $100,000 have taken place not only in the Area Headquarters building, but in the station grounds, the waiting part of the depot, a new team track, piggyback facilities, etc."

J. C. Houston, president of the Belleville Industrial Commission, on hearing of the new development said: "We welcome this announcement by Canadian National Railways — yet another step in their continuing program of expansion in the city of Belleville. This new building will enhance the many facilities that our city offers industry and will further stimulate the efforts of the Industrial Commission."

Ground breaking ceremonies for the new building will be held Monday afternoon, Aug. 16 at 2.30 p.m. Hon. Stanley J. Randall, Minister of Economics and Development for Ontario will be in attendance. The public is invited to attend.

Attempt to Rob Liquor Store Fails

TWEED (Staff) — Police today are attempting to trace an automobile used in a getaway after an abortive burglary attempt at the government liquor store here last night.

The would-be thieves showed an extra measure of daring by attempting to stage the break-in at 7 p.m. — while it was still daylight.

The fact may also have been their undoing.

Police were called to the scene after an elderly woman living nearby heard glass being smashed in a side window of the store.

"In fact, some the neighbors, when they heard the glass breaking, started wandering around," said police chief Joseph Paquette.

Several men were seen scrambling into an automobile and roaring north out of the village. Police threw up roadblocks on Highway 7 near Kaladar and Madoc but turned up no trace of the wanted car.

Diefenbaker Calls Challenge 'Smokescreen'

OTTAWA (CP) — Revenue Minister Benson cannot be taken to court for saying Opposition Leader Diefenbaker made an untrue statement during the postal strike, the opposition leader said through his office Monday.

Mr. Benson Saturday challenged Mr. Diefenbaker to take him to court for saying the opposition leader made a statement "that was just not true"— that the Civil Service Commission's pay research bureau had recommended a $660-a-year pay boost for postal workers.

Mr. Diefenbaker, in a statement he authorized a spokesman to issue, said there is no legal recourse against a person who makes an accusation that a statement is untrue.

He called Mr. Benson's challenge a smokescreen, and again demanded that the bureau's recommendations to the commission be made public.

The government has denied the bureau makes recommendations. It says the bureau provides comparative data which the commission uses to make recommendations to the government.

In this case, the commission's recommendations of $300-$360 increases were followed to the letter, Prime Minister Pearson has said.

Mr. Diefenbaker says the government's argument is hair-splitting, and that it should produce the bureau's report whether specific pay recommendations are in it or not.

F. B. Allore New Inspector Of R.C. Schools

The Ontario Department of Education announced the appointment of F. B. Allore, B.A., B. Ed., M. Ed., to the Belleville R.C.S.S. Inspectorate, Supervision Branch.

Mr. Allore has been an Inspector of Schools in the City of Toronto for the past three years. Previous to that, he had served as a teacher and principal in the elementary and secondary schools of the province.

In the reorganization, Mr. J. Bannon, Toronto, assumes administration of the Brantford area and Mr. P. Gravelle, Toronto, is placed in charge of the Timmins area.

BANCROFT (Special)—Some 20,000 "rockhounds" and tourists from U. S. and across Canada are expected to attend the second annual Bancroft Gem-Boree that will be officially opened by Ontario Tourism and Information Minister Auld on Thursday.

The event, sponsored by the Bancroft Chamber of Commerce and the Mineral Society, will cover some 10,000 square feet of land in the northern section of the town.

Highlight of the event, lasting four days, till Sunday, will be some 3,000 gem stones, rocks and jewellery housed in tents. During last year's Gem-Boree about $75,000 worth of gems were bought, sold and traded. Species on display will be from all parts of the world and will be shown by hobbyists as well as commercial interests. There will be field trips to some 28 mine locations in the area where there are 1,500 species for the expert rockhound as well as the pebble-puppy (a beginner). In addition there will be many exhibits of handicraft and art.

For rounded out entertainment there will be a midway, parachute free falls, fiddling and old time dancing contests, and a soap box derby. A fly-in breakfast will be sponsored by the local airport members. For the sportsmen, daily fishing trips will be held to nearby lakes for trout, pickerel and bass.

To accommodate the expected influx, local residents, lodges and motels are busy preparing spare rooms and food that will be served home-style at various locations in Bancroft.

Gas Prices May Rise Two Cents A Gallon

TORONTO (CP) — Gasoline prices throughout Ontario may rise two cents a gallon because of a price increase recently implemented in Toronto.

Kenneth W. Langdon, executive secretary of the Ontario Retail Gasoline and Automotive Service Association, said Monday Hamilton service station operators have begun to raise their price to 43.9 cents a gallon for regular gasoline and operators in London, Ottawa and Cornwall will do the same soon.

The increase was made to eliminate oil company consignment subsidies which aided dealers in price wars but allowed the companies to control gasoline prices and keep ownership of the stations, he said.

Mr. Langdon said all major oil companies, except Imperial Oil Co. Ltd., have dropped the subsidies by raising their wholesale prices one cent to 36.4 cents a gallon.

To make a desired 8¼-cent profit on each gallon the dealers will probably raise prices another cent to 44.9 cents a gallon.

About 950 of Toronto's 1,200 dealers have implemented the two-cent increase announced by the association last week.

Sinatra Yacht Crew Member Is Drowned

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass. (AP)—A small boat from Frank Sinatra's chartered launch overturned early today off Martha's Vineyard Island with the possible loss of one life.

The U.S. Coast Guard said Robert Goldfarb, 23, disappeared when the boat capsized near the anchored yacht Southern Breeze.

Goldfarb was not further identified by the coast guard but local authorities said they believe he is a member of the yacht's crew, one of 29 persons aboard.

Two girls who were with Goldfarb swam to the yacht and were hauled aboard.

The girls were not identified. Officials, however, said the girls were not members of Sinatra's party.

Paddlers Reach Frank's Bay In Trial Run

NORTH BAY (CP)—The paddlers of eight canoes, following Champlain's route through On-tario from North Bay to Gananoque on the St. Lawrence River, set up camp Monday night at Frank's Bay where Lake Nipissing flows into the French River 20 miles southwest of here.

Two canoes each from Ontario, Alberta and the Northwest Territories and one from New Brunswick and the Yukon are participating in the 600-mile trial run for a race to be held in 1967 from Edmonton to Montreal.

The two Alberta canoes were first to beach four hours after leaving North Bay at noon, although a Centennial Commission official said the test run is not a race.

The 56 men participating are expected to reach Gananoque, 16 miles northeast of Kingston, Aug. 29.

The 22-foot canoes were built in Fredericton to the same design as those used by the French voyageurs in the 17th century.

The next stage of the trip will take the canoes down the French River to Lake Huron.

Auto Toll Is "Epidemic"

To return once more to the subject of highway safety—or rather, the lack of it—we propose to quote some observations and statistics presented by the Traffic Injury Research Foundation of Canada, an organization with headquarters in Ottawa.

The Foundation notes: "We are living with, and accepting with an astounding degree of apathy an epidemic of a disease known as 'traffic injury.' In the under-35 age group this disease has the highest mortality rate in Canada and the injury rate is even more tragic. The statistics are repeated so often that we read them without blinking—in cold figures 35,031 dead and more than 950,000 injured over the past decade.

"Not even our experience over the last three years seems to stir us—an annual increase of 10 per cent in the case of fatalities and more than 11 per cent in the number of injuries. In the same period the annual increase in car registrations has been less than 5 per cent. If the current slope of these mortality and injury curves is not altered, simple arithmetic will show that in the next decade, we can expect 81,000 fatalities and 2,500,000 injured on Canadian streets and highways."

J. G. Kerr, executive director of the Traffic Injury Research Foundation (which is sponsored by a dozen groups, including the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada, he Canadian Foundation on Alcoholism and the Highway Safety Council) says his organization nas collected a library and bibliography on the ubject.

However when it comes to making specific ecommendations, the Foundation is as baffled by he enormity of the problem as everyone else.

"From our study of background data, we are onvinced that no single law, regulation, organiz-tion or campaign will make significant or last-ng progress in the face of this problem. We elieve that to achieve any meaningful degree f success, this mounting tide of death and in-ry must be met with a co-ordinated effort such s would be marshalled to combat a major epi-emic of contagious disease."

We can only agree—and hope that the overnment, car manufacturers and drivers particularly the latter because they are at the se of the problem) will co-operate fully.

China Has Sub Fleet

Communist and Nationalist Chinese gun-ats clashed near the Nationalist island of emoy last week. The Chinese have never had ich in the way of a navy, but reports from ashington suggest that Peking has been busy some time filling in this gap in its armed ength.

It has been doing so in a manner most likely cause maximum damage in any war with the ited States and its allies. In less than a ade, says the Washington source, Communist ina has built a submarine fleet which in nbers may be the third largest in the world.

They are believed to number at least 30 and ne put the figure at 55, more than Britain's marine strength. The top authority in these tters, Jane's Fighting Ships, a British publi-on, lists the original figure, with Russia 0) first, the United States (198) second and ain (50) third.

Most of the Chinese subs are Soviet type lass craft armed only with conventional tor-pes, but construction is believed to be under on a larger Soviet type submarine of the G- s, equipped with vertical tubes for missile nching and with a total range of more than 00 miles.

This would enable Peking to deliver nuclear heads to American coastal cities. While this bility cannot compare with the overall U.S. ear arsenal it is nevertheless not being rded lightly in Washington.

Every time I get out here in the land of ig sky, I grudgingly have to admit to myself the westerners may have something when exhibit those amused smiles on survey- Toronto's proud skyscrapers. Whenever I across the wide stretches of Canada I can't thinking what a shame it is that more dians don't have the opportunity of seeing country in more of its entirety. . . . What it is that we are risking the disintegra- of this immense and awesome domain by ging in petty local and regional bickering. West in The Globe and Mail.

Ottawa Offbeat

Nagging, Harping Opposition Finally Hits Pay Dirt

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

And since you can never hope to beat tthe Bureaucrats, then you might as well join in the laughs over their latest — and greatest — bulletin from the Emergency Measures Organization.

Just in case you've been worried about what they ominously like to call "National Survival," they've let it be known that when the Little-Men-from-Outer-Space invade, or the snow keeps falling and falling and falling, or some Quebec Terrorist bomb blasts the Earth off its customary and comfortable orbit, good old EMO will be ready, aye ready.

So will the Government, say the men of EMO in what has gone into Parliament's records as a "Civil Emergency Measures Organization Planning Order."

This outfit known as EMO, you may remember, first hit the public in the eye with a multi-million dollar bill for what is still familiarly known as the "Diefenbunker," a fantastically costly underground bunker installation, jack-hammered into the native Nepean sandstone 28 miles west of the Capital.

When Doomsday dawns, the Cabinet and its Mandarins of the Federal Bureaucracy are supposed to cut and run for the Diefenbunker.

YES, WHO?

Who they expect to govern or, more important, tax when they emerge from this plush funk-hole — equipped as it is with all the comforts of home and more — has never been explained.

An interesting point, too, especially, since to read the EMO press releases, it is going to be the lucky taxpayer, left up top to brave the blast, who is going to survive the holocaust of Doomsday.

But on with the "Civil Emergency Measures Organization Planning Order" . . .

Postmaster General Tremblay says this directive, already has been instructed to hand out emergency change of address cards (although what happens if there is a postal strike at the time the End-of-The World threatens, the EMO planners have neglected to say.)

But fear not, for External Affairs Minister Martin, reports EMO of Doomsday. has been directed to "assess the international situation."

Defence Minister Hellyer is assigned to "giving the necessary warnings of nuclear fall-out to the public," and Labor Minister MacEachen to "provide estimates of the surviving population," and, get this, to regulate the rates of pay and working condition of those who live through the Ultimate Disaster.

(Last time the warning system sounded off here in the Capital, it was on a weekend, and with EMO and Defence Headquarters working the regulation Civil Service Five-Day-Week, nobody knew how to turn off the 48 screaming sirens. It took a couple of hours of amateur electronic fumbling to restore silence.)

GIANT MARTIAN BUGS

Agriculture Minister Harry Hays is in the EMO Doomsday line-up, assigned to handling, "plant, animal, insect and disease control," which could turn out to be quite a rumble if the nation is attacked by giant bugs from Mars.

Just so that everything will still be nice and legal, if in little pieces, Justice Minister Cardin has been instructed to "advise other Federal departments and agencies on any problems of law which may arise . . ."

At the same time, while the world may be falling apart, Mr. Cardin is being assigned to "perform the normal functions of the Department of Justice."

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh is going to be a busy girl the Day-the-Balloon-Goes - Up for hers is the responsibility of providing "medical and health supplies from the national medical stockpile," and furnishing detailed estimates of "traumatic and radiation injuries."

Finance Minister Gordon, any day now, will have to start stockpiling great stacks of cash. for he has been assigned to "providing funds for normal and emergency federal expenditures including emergency financial assistance to the provinces."

And so it goes, with the various Cabinet Ministers getting their Doomsday marching orders in the EMO directive spelling out "powers and duties and functions relating to civil defence and national survival in an enemy attack."

By the time La Judy and her Cabinet colleagues get done with their "obligations and responsibilities" on that Day-the-Earth-Catches - Fire, Blows-Up, or Spins - Off - Into - the- Great-Outer-Void, there won't be any time left to cut and run those 28 "Last Miles" to the underground safety of the velvet-lined Diefenbunker.

U.K. Tories Get New Leader

The Globe and Mail

Mr. Heath's accession to the leadership of the Conservative Party in Britain, should ensure that the Tories once again will be able to function as a true Opposition and present themselves to the country as a credible alternative to the Labor Government.

As long as Sir Alec Douglas-Home remained as their leader, the Tories could be no more than paper tigers; they could growl at the iniquities of the Laborites, but they could never summon the courage to strike them down. A new election they knew (or, just as important, they believed) would see their champion, Sir Alec badly mauled by that formidable brawler, Mr. Harold Wilson.

Sir Alec was not merely unable to stand up to the shafts of Mr. Wilson, he was unable to unite his own party behind him, the bulk of which had no voice in his selection as leader in the autumn of 1963. These two factors made it difficult if not impossible for him to continue to "lead" the Tories. It was to Sir Alec's credit that he recognized the injury his continued presence could do to his party and his country and that he stepped down before open revolt broke out. Had he not done so, it would only have been a question of time until he was forcibly removed, leaving wounds which would have taken years to heal.

Sir Alec, who designed the machinery by which his successor was chosen, recognized that any effective Parliament must have an Opposition which is ready, willing and able to replace the Government.

Mr. Heath, perhaps as able an economist as Mr. Wilson himself, and conceding nothing in aggressiveness and tough-mindedness, will have no shortage of issues to exploit both in Parliament and, eventually, on the hustings. He can preach the doctrine of increased productivity and domestic belt-tightening while free of much of the influence of the trade unions which has hamstrung Mr. Wilson in his efforts at reform. As a representative of the "new Tory democracy," Mr. Heath will hardly be open to criticism for advocating austerity for the Lower Classes while he shoots grouse with his wealthy, old-school-tie friends.

The months and years ahead will be critical ones for Britain. Regardless of which party and which Prime Minister hold office, many hard decisions will have to be made if the country is to protect the pound, increase exports, modernize its industry, repay its international loans and eliminate the balance of payments deficit.

The Conservatives, united under Mr. Heath's steady and capable hand, will now have the chance to devise remedies to deal with these myriad problems. These remedies are not likely to be palatable, but at least the British people will have a choice of doctors.

Save The Land

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

As heavy machinery cuts across the country, changing even the appearance of our familiar world, there are many considerations to keep in mind, besides keeping roads straight.

There must be a time coming when consideration of need for food production will weigh heavily in decisions about road locations. There has to be a limit to the amount of land that can be put under pavement.

Just What Is Meant by Reasonable?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Some months ago, I was invited to take part in a television forum on the subject of "The Unreasonable Man." The program's point of departure was Bernard Shaw's famous aphorism:

"The reasonable man adapts himself to the world; the unreasonable one persists in trying to adapt the world to himself. Therefore all progress depends on the unreasonable man."

Illness prevented me from appearing on the program, or even watching it, but I had been thinking about Shaw's quotation and wondering what was right and what was wrong with it.

It seems to me that the catch lies in the phrase "the unreasonable man." There are two distinct ways of being "unreasonable" — we might call them the irrational way and the supra-rational way.

The irrational way is a perversion of reason; the supra-rational way is a going beyond reason. There is a world of difference between the man who twists the facts to fit his preconceptions, and the man who is dissatisfied with the facts and looks for new and different ones to support and validate his views.

The irrational way is the way of tyrants and bigots; the supra-rational way is the way of prophets and inventors and creative geniuses.

As someone has pointed out, Hitler was "unreasonable," but so was Pasteur. Hitler tried to change the world to fit his paranoid version of reality; Pasteur, who was derided by all the "reasonable" scientists of his time, ploughed ahead to find justification in reality for his revolutionary view of the germ theory of disease.

It is true that reasonable men do not accomplish very much; they are content to accept the world as they find it, to rub along, to make the best of things, to adjust themselves to conditions, to limit their vision, curb their imagination, and repress their zeal.

It would be wrong, however, to agree with Shaw that "all progress depends on the unreasonable man." Most evil depends on him, too, if he is merely irrational and not supra-rational, if his intuitions and drives are for destruction, division and despotism. An enormous gulf separates the fanatic who has not yet risen to reason, and the one who has gone beyond it.

Was Jesus "reasonable" or "unreasonable"? In one sense, he was profoundly unreasonable in making demands on human beings that are nearly impossible to fulfill. On the other hand, we might say that he exemplified the essence of reasonableness, for as Shaw said elsewhere, "nobody has ever been sane enough to try his way."

Liberals Rely on Quebec

Montreal Gazette

It could prove to be one of the tragedies of Canada's history that a vacuum exists in its federal politics. In any political situation that is real and alive, the failings of the Government of the day become the opportunities of its rivals. The hard condition keeps governments alert. It makes the whole party system effective.

But Canada today is in a position where the Government may make almost any error it pleases, be almost unembarrassed by probes into scandalous details, and make slight and perfunctory cabinet changes. It does not greatly matter..

For the Government rests in the comforting confidence that it will have the basic political advantage of the support of Quebec, because the voters in Quebec have nowhere else to go. And any party that can begin with Quebec's support has the best chance of any in forming a government, even though it be only a minority government. And any party that wins without Quebec — if so improbable an event should take place — would find that it had injured itself more by its victory, than it would have done by a defeat.

The Government, in looking over the bemused ranks of its opponents, has little to fear. The Progressive Conservative Party under its present leadership, injured itself as far as Quebec is concerned with its victory of 1957, where it won almost without Quebec's support. It injured itself further by the fact that it failed to develop any influence in Quebec in the years that followed. And it has injured itself by the fact that even its Quebec leader, Mr. Leon Balcer, had to give up and become an Independent, because he felt he could find no place within the party. And Mr. Balcer is a moderate man, a believer in the federal system, an outspoken defender of the Canadian view.

The New Democratic Party, now holding its annual convention, is making enterprising efforts to make contact with Quebec. But the difficulties are many. The party, which has no Quebec member, is now offering Quebec the right to differ in social welfare policies from the rest of Canada, and to have special freedom of political action in this field because of its special position as the centre of French culture on this continent.

But how far a party, whose policies are centralist almost by their nature, can reconcile such a gesture to Quebec with its general program, or make the gesture effective in Quebec, is so conjectural as not to present the federal Liberals, at least in the next election, with grave concern.

And as for the Creditiste Party of Mr. Caouette, it seems unlikely to regain the power of protest that once lifted it to a surprising degree of support.

This difficulty of Quebec's virtual dependence upon a single federal party has been a characteristic of Canadian politics throughout the Twentieth Century. But until recent years strong Quebec leadership was provided in Ottawa. The succession of Laurier, Lapointe and St. Laurent, and the presence of many cabinet figures with real influence in Quebec as well as in Ottawa, meant that Quebec representation, though more or less steadily committed to one party, remained nonetheless an impressive and vital presence.

Mr. Pearson does not have that kind of Quebec representation today. His recent cabinet reorganization discloses little sense of urgency in achieving it.

The danger now lies in the growing listlessness and indifference of Quebec towards Ottawa. It is not the number of Quebec members that Mr. Pearson has now, or may have in the next election that matters. What will be needed is the feeling in Quebec that Ottawa is seriously aware of Quebec's aims and interests, and has drawn to the federal ranks some of its most commanding and representative figures.

But so long as the present political vacuum continues, the challenging spirit in Ottawa will be absent. The Progressive Conservatives, under their present leadership, can hope to win no more than token Quebec representation. The NDP is reaching for what is has never had, and has yet to prove that its gesture will not be regarded as inconsistency. The Creditistes are a smoldering fire.

The tragedy is that under these circumstances, Mr. Pearson, even while he comfortably holds Quebec in his hands, may find that he holds more of its shadow than its substance.

Parks Neglected, City Is 'Rundown'

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

There is not a beautiful park in the City of Belleville.

This City, located on the lovely Bay of Quinte, blessed with many large shade trees, has the potential to be one of the most attractive cities in Eastern Ontario. Yet our City looks run down.

Last December the citizens of Belleville voted to retain the one mill for the Parks Board so that our parks could be a thing of beauty. Today there is not one attractive park in the City.

Corby Park, given to this city by the late Senator Corby is a disgrace. Once a simple, attractive park with a centred fountain, large shade trees and well - kept shrubs, it is today a weed - infested vacant lot. Barren of its fountain and shrubbery it is a poor memorial to its generous benefactor.

There are some who would keep our city attractive. The Jaycees and the Belleville Horticultural Society both have undertaken projects to improve its appearance. Many businesses and industries keep their grounds most attractive.

We approved the one mill for the Parks Board so that Belleville would be made and kept beautiful. What's wrong with our City Fathers that we must look upon such ugliness?

Loss of the Rylstone cheese factory by fire with 280 cheese in their cold storage room came up for brief discussion at the Belleville Cheese Board on Thursday evening when it was reported that only $1,000 insurance was carried on stored cheese.

Commenting on the loss to Rylstone shareholders, a local cheese buyer stated that the above amount of insurance carried, if correct, was entirely inadequate for the protection of the patrons. He recommended that a standard amount of insurance be carried by all factories.

Establishment of some sort of a standard insurance for cheese factories and stored cheese would be a splendid measure of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association to work on, and one which would undoubtedly prove of great value to the factories, it was stated.

Fire Hydrants and Kings

While talking to a fire hydrant the other day—it was a yellow fire hydrant, not red—I couldn't help noticing that people walking by were staring incredulously in my direction.

One man, completely overcome by curiosity, even asked me to whom I was talking

"The fire hydrant," I said.

"The fire hydrant?"

The yellow fire hydrant."

He looked stunned for a moment, then mumbled a few unintelligible syllables and strode off shaking his head and glancing back in my direction every few feet.

Talking to a fire hydrant may seem strange, but it has its advantages.

Fire hydrants don't talk back. They get a lot of abuse—don't take my word for it, just ask your pet dog—and take it passively.

There's a moral here. If people could listen as well as fire hydrants there would be more understanding among men.

Fire hydrants are definitely pacifists. They take anything you give them and don't fight back. They have a job to do and they do it. No bands playing. No rewards. No bows. Just a job.

They are in many ways like freedom fighters in the southern states fighting for racial equality. The goal is plain, the sights are set and the method is clear. If no medal comes for your work, then so what? At least you've done something. Your work will outlive all your critics. You are building something that lasts.

So I talked away to the fire hydrant. He listened. And while I was telling him my side of the story it even made me think about the other side, and just by having something listen, things were made clearer.

Fire hydrants get a rotten deal. Their hours are long, their pay is nothing and they don't have any fringe benefits. But those little fire hydrants, powerless though they may seem, are willing to face any holocaust stoically.

Sometimes a fire hydrant, when it looks at a fire blazing out of control, must feel like Martin Luther King must have felt three years ago when he started his "impossible" fight.

Yes sir, that fire hydrant made me feel better and I say hello whenever I pass him. He doesn't answer now, but I know if my house ever caught on fire he'd be there.

And he'd do his job without expecting a pat on the back.

New Canadian Flag Can Be Flown at War Memorial Opinion of County Warden

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County Council last night was on its best behavior before a visiting delegation of four from the council of Lennox and Addington. Little mention was made of the recent issue of the court adjournment called by Picton's Judge Wilfrid Lane because the new Maple Leaf flag was not flown at Shire Hall.

In his opening remarks to council, however, Warden Bernard (Barney) Hepburn said that while he was holidaying in the Thousand Islands he did hear something of the news regarding at flag at Picton. "I personally support Judge Lane to the fullest extent, however. Judge Lane never came to me personally and asked that the new Canadian Flag be flown. There was never anything in writing. He probably asked Mr. T Walker, the county clerk. I wish Judge Lane had used a little different approach in this matter. This is not a court house," continued the warden, "this is the council chambers. A day or so after this incident another judge sat in a court session here and I never heard any complaint about a flag.

"I do feel," the warden continued, "that this council has more to do here tonight than discuss this flag issue. These things will be dealt with as soon as possible to the mutual advantage of both parties. So far as the flag at the Cenotaph is concerned the memorial stands on county property and the flagstaff is on town property. If councillor Mrs. B Ward wishes to fly the Canadian Flag on town property with their approval why she can fly it if she wishes. In closing I do not wish to see too big an issue made of this."

Council did pass a motion to erect another flagstaff in front of Shire Hall. Two committees at a previous meeting voted unanimously in favor of two poles. Reeve Robert Boyce of Wellington said that he felt this was a fair decision to both parties concerned.

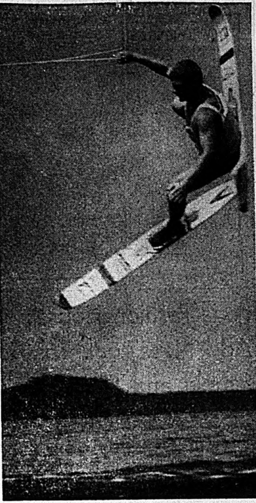
Of five names submitted in application for the position of Assessment Commissioner three men were interviewed yesterday afternoon and Mr. S. G. Manley of Copper Cliff was accepted and hired. The salary to be $10,000 per annum with increments up to $250. and fringe benefits. Chairman Robert Boyce said his committee had a difficult time with the interviews, that all three were good men and well qualified. "We did not hire the man with the lowest salary offer, there was little difference anyway. We felt Mr. Manley was the man most qualified." A by-law was passed to appoint Mr. Fred Jennings, who previously held this position and who wished to step down, to the position of assistant assess. commissioner for the County.

With thefts and acts of vandalism being more prevalent at the Outlet and other Provincial and private parks throughout the vacation areas it was decided Queens Park should be consulted in an attempt to set up an O.P.P. detachment at the outlet for the summer period. Reeve R. Boyce told council "we have had record attendances at the parks this year and there has been considerable trouble in the area. The blame does not lie entirely with the teenagers, he said, other campers have been involved as well.

TELLS OF FISHING

Mr. Waner, representing the Department of Lands and Forests appeared briefly to answer questions regarding the apparent lack of fish in Bay of Quinte waters for angling. Reeve Harold Bonter said that in the past few years sport fishing seems to be getting worse. Mr. Warner replied that so far as small mouth bass were concerned there were many reports of good catches particularly off lighthouse island in the Bay of Quinte. This spring, he stated, there were all kinds of pike and large ones observed in the Big Island marsh area. Pickerel he said do not appear to be reproducing. This has been noticed over the past four to five years. Large ones are being caught but no small ones. In the Wellers Bay and West Lake region this situation is better he said. He said that in his opinion the white perch were the most likely reason for poor fishing. The larger game fish hardly take a plug or artificial lure with so many of these in the waters.

Pollution may have some effect but I think it is the abundance of small fish in the bay. What we call pollution in a lot of cases is fertilization stated Mr. Warner. Pickerel fishing in the Trent river appears to be normal, he continued, however, the pickerel derby this year was considered only a mild success. Though the Trent river remained near normal the Hay Bay and Bay of Quinte areas were poor. However, the fish are still in uinteQ waters, concluded Mr. Warner, all you have to do is catch them.



Like the coach said, when you come in for a landing. . . . Harold Townsend, from Belleville, was not hurt — just a bit shaken up when he took this unexpected spill during jumping practice at Kirk-Kove, Ont. Harold will be competing in the jumping contest to be held at the Kove, Sunday, August 15th, immediately following the regular 3:00 p.m. ski show.

This proposal was dropped, however, and the demonstrators sat on a hot sidewalk in 90-degree weather.

Shortly before the mass arrest, two men later identified as followers of the American Nazi party jumped from a crowd of on-lookers to hurl red plant at the marchers.

Rusk, interviewed along with McNamara on a CBS television program Monday night, remarked that "It is quite true that Hanoi lives on expressions of dissent or disagreement here within our own society."

He said it is right in the U.S. to debate great issues vigorously, but "I think the repeated demonstration of unity in this country is very important in persuading Hanoi that they cannot rely upon differences here at home that cause us to pull away from our commitment to South Viet Nam."

McNamara was asked whether Americans can stick out a five 10 or 20-year war in Viet Nam.

Reaction of senators who attended Monday's briefing ranged from caution through enthusiasm. Several said they heard nothing new.

The first bodies were brought out about four hours after the blast.

The site is about 12 miles outside of Searcy, a town of 8,000 population about 50 miles northeast of Little Rock.

The civilians — carpenters, painters, millwrights, electricians and pipefitters—were employees of Peter Kiewit and Son Co. of Aurora, Colo.

One of the survivors, Hubert A. Saunders, 59, of Conway, a paint foreman, said the fire might have resulted from the explosion of a diesel engine.

"The fire poured into the gun barrel (launch tube)," he said. "I was in there and so was the bird (missile) so I got out of there."

He said the power failed in the silo after the fire and he groped his way up an emergency ladder. He was in hospital because of smoke inhalation.

Another survivor, 18-year old Gary Wayne Lay of Clinton, a part-time laborer at the project, said he heard an explosion.

"It was horrible," Lay said. "I could hear men screaming and crying. Somebody was yelling 'Help me God, help me!' I tried to go down the ladder, but the men were jammed up there, so I went up, through the fire."

Ann Landers

'Dirty-Neck' Nickname Disturbs Sensitive Wife

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I were at the ball game the other night and in the middle of the fifth inning a loud voice from behind bellowed, "Well, if it isn't Dirty-Neck Swanson." I wanted to fall right straight through the bleachers.

My husband turned around and there was a fellow he hadn't seen since grammar school in Springfield. The man and his wife moved to this city just a few months ago. They'd been meaning to look us up.

We have run into them twice since the ball game and it's always "Hello Dirty-Neck". This upsets me no end. In my opinion, "Dirty-Neck is not an appropriate greeting for a grown man who is an attorney and a member of the school board.

My husband says he doesn't mind it—in fact he thinks it's funny. You know how nicknames catch on. I'm afraid this loudmouth might start something. Any suggestions?—LIVID LIVIA.

DEAR LIV: If it bothers you (and I can see your point) tell the Springfield Flash to knock it off. In dealing with insensitive clods the direct approach is the only way.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am incensed by the advice you gave the young widow with the 9-year-old son. She said the boy was full of conversation at the dinner table and her father-in-law made the boy be quiet because he didn't approve of talking at the table. You said kids SHOULD talk at the table and suggested that the mother and son eat first and let the old man eat alone if he wants silence.

The trouble with kids today is they are all mouth. They run everything and everybody. They tell adults where to head in. They hit teachers and have no respect for authority. If a grandfather wants to discipline a boy by saying, "Shut up and eat. That's what you're at the table for," he should do it. — OLD FASHIONED FATHER.

DEAR OLD FASHIONED: Sorry, Dad, but I don't call "Shut up and eat" discipline. It's more like a dictatorship — and in my book this is no way to raise kids.

Dinner time should be a family time. And family time means conversation involving all members of the family — small fry included.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago I became engaged to a sweet girl. I've changed the date twice because frankly I'm scared. As the time gets closer I have the feeling I just can't go through with it. Maggie is a wonderful person but the fire is out, if you know what I mean. Ever since I gave her a ring it's like I got a dead battery.

To make matters worse, I think I'm in love with her sister. Gert is three years younger than Maggie and I didn't meet her until after we were engaged. The minute I looked at Gert I knew I had the wrong one.

A few weeks ago I jokingly asked Gert for a date. She told me to go soak my head in a rain-barrel. Please give me the straight word like you do everybody else. — EENIE MEENIE.

DEAR EENIE: Now is a fine time to decide you've got a dead battery. Break up with Maggie at once. It would be unfair to marry her feelings as you do.

Date others and don't go near Gert for at least six months. If she refuses to go out with you after that I wouldn't blame her. You've taken up enough of that family's time.

Author Searches in Vain For Enemy of Col. Baker

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The biggest problem in writing the biography of Col. Edwin Baker of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind "was the search for people who did not like him, says the author of his life story, Marjorie Wilkins Campbell of Toronto.

"You need light, dark and shadow in any work and in this case I was greatly handicapped," the author says. "Right through the research I tried to find somebody who did not like him but I couldn't."

In a biography the subject's enemies "throw a great deal of light on the character of the individual that you don't get from his admirers."

Entitled No Compromise, Col. Baker of the CNIB, the work covers 40 years in the life of the man who, blinded during the First World War at 21, was instrumental in forming the CNIB and was first president of the World Council for the Welfare of the Blind.

Mrs. Campbell, author of seven books and numerous magazine articles, says research and writing took two years and included interviews with more than 20 persons in five European countries as well as with representatives of more than 40 countries who attended the world body's meeting in New York last year.

TAPED INTERVIEWS

She also spent six weeks taping interviews with Col. Baker. Covering 1,500 pages, these were transcribed by blind dictaphone operators at Bakerwood, CNIB headquarters in Toronto.

The 400-page book, revised four times before being submitted to the printer, will be published in October by McClelland and Stewart.

Choosing a title took a lot of time, Mrs. Campbell says. Fifteen titles were considered by the author and publishers during a year-long period, and No Compromise was picked only this July.

"Col. Baker has made no compromise for his handicap and has managed not only to earn his own living and support himself but has enabled thousands of other blind people to make a living to such an extent that there are few professions I can think of outside of surgery and engineering that some blind people are not undertaking."

Mrs. Campbell says an interesting aspect of her work on the book was that during the six weeks she spent with Col. Baker she "forgot he was blind."

"He has learned so well how to overcome many of the handicaps of blindness, such as mannerisms, that as you talk to him he always turns his face toward you and is so attentive that you completely forget he is blind."

Paris Fashion Houses Add New Look That Is Simple and Satisfactory

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters)—The high-fashion houses of Paris have spoken again and now we know there is little that is sensational in the styles for the coming autumn and winter.

The latest collections are based on elementary arithmetic rather than any complicated new fashion equation. Designers have added subtle new cuts and subtracted superfluous details.

The result does not shake the foundations of contemporary fashion or even outmode last season's style. It does add up to a new look that is simple and satisfactory.

Relaxed fitting and short hemlines are the dominant features in trend-setting houses.

Knee-high hemlines, featured by such traditionally conservative designers as Chanel and Molyneux, give new proportions to the total silhouette.

Pierre Cardin is the most influential designer to feature skirts cut off well above the knees, though his clothes are softer and more sinuous than those shown by the followers of Andre Courreges who have adapted the streamlined space-age approach to fashion.

With the price of couture silks and woollens running high, short skirts also represent a serious economy on fabric costs.

INFLUENCE STRONG

The Courreges influence is strong in geometrically - constructed coats and suits, with seams dramatized by welting, slot seaming or saddle stitching in heavy contrasting colored thread.

Hemlines are likewise often finished with a half-inch-wide welted seam, instead of the classic hem folded back underneath the skirt.

The clean, stripped-down look has diminished collars and often abolished them completely. The same look tends to widen and square off the shoulders, paired with slim sleeves cut high under the arms.

It does not impose a waistline at any one place or make an ultimatum on the width of skirts.

There are high waistlines in fluid draped afternoon and evening dresses. Waistlines are non-existent in eternal evolutions of the shift, the chemise and gently flared trapeze styles.

And finally there are low waistlines marked beneath long torso bloused sweater bodices.

Dior's new profile silhouette strikes a compromise with a seamed waist cut at the natural point in front, dipping lower in a squared or curved line at the back.

V-SHAPED YOKES

Castillo reverses the procedure, with elongated V-shaped yokes set into the front of the dress, contrasting a natural waistline in the back.

Many houses endorse the bicolored look, with skirt and bodice divided horizontally by opposing colors.

Most skirts endorse moderate width, often paired with hemline interest. There are conical skirts and panelled and tunic treatments.

Chanel mesmerized her faithful followers with a new wraparound skirt that is slit up to the top of the stockings.

Cardin gives an added bonus to the short hemline with wide zigzag bands of fur or contrasting fabric, or froths the hems of supple crepe dancing dresses with ruching or embroidery.

Jacket hems are likewise played up with bias bands or fabric contrasting with the straight and diagonal use of checked or patterned fabrics.

Most suits have longer basques, or feature boxy jackets with a low slung belt or martingale.

Dior revives the three-piece suit from the 1930s, with three-quarter-length barrel - shaped topcoat.

Lanvin and Guy Laroche evolve removable capelets, stoles, or panels. Chanel continues her classic cardigan jackets, but reduces the amount of braid trimmings, bandings, and the gold lion-head buttons.

Kunmari of Katmandu Loneliest Girl in World

By CONRAD FINK

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—She is a "living goddess" but she must be one of the loneliest little girls in the world.

This is the six-year-old Kumari of Katmandu, a slender, solemn - faced little girl worshipped by thousands of Nepalese who keep her a virtual prisoner.

She leads a life of seclusion and in accordance with ancient religious law is kept in a dusty old temple off Durban Square in Katmandu, away from her family and away from the world.

Sometimes, the Kumari (living goddess) can be seen peeking from a window high in the Hindu temple, watching laughing children at play in the square below.

But she is as quick as a sun ray and if too many eyes turn upward to her window, or if there is a reach for a camera, she is gone with a rustle of drapes and a flash of her red ceremonial dress.

The kumari never is permitted to play or even walk in the courtyard. Her world is the dim, inner recesses of the temple, guarded from society and its contaminations by attendants and the ever-present guruma (mother-teacher).

A few times each year, during important religious festivals, the kumari is dressed in fine robes and a rich headdress, hoisted to a palanquin on men's shoulders and paraded through the streets.

But even then, released from her temple prison, she cannot act like a little girl.

The origin of this Nepalese custom is lost in the distant past. But there has been a kumari as long as there has been someone to write the history of this Himalayan kingdom.

Each kumari is selected at about the age of three and reigns until the onset of puberty, or until (heaven forbid, Nepalese say) an accident scratches her or otherwise causes her to bleed.

When a vacancy occurs, word goes out to Nepal's priest-goldsmith community: A new kumari is among you.

The Nepalese, eager for the honor of providing a living goddess, trek to Katmandu with their young daughters. Priests from the temple off Durbar Square take over from there.

All the tiny girls, some separated from their mothers for the first time, are put in a dark room filled with the bloody heads of sacrificial buffaloes, goats and chickens. Huge drums are beaten, horns are blown as priests put up a frightening din.

With one exception, the priests say, the little girls dissolve into tears and walls of fright.

That exception, the priests add, obviously is the new kumari — composed, stately and unafraid, even at the age of three.

The present kumari has been in the temple three years—three years of no running, no laughing and even no weeping.

For if a kumari were to weep, it is said, a great calamity of some sort would sweep down from the Himalayas.

BLUEBERRY PUDDING

The best thing about this pudding is the sauce. It is a clear lemon sauce and uncommonly good and I'm hoping you will try it over our blueberry cottage pudding (below) and clip and file the recipe for future use over any variation of cottage pudding. It would be excellent over plain bread pudding or steamed carrot pudding.

¼ cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2½ teaspoons single-acting baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup washed, drained and dried fresh blueberries, 2/3 cup milk.

In mixing bowl cream together the shortening and sugar until light. Beat in the egg and vanilla until blended. Sift together the sifted flour, baking powder and salt and stir in alternately with the milk, one-third of each at a time. Fold in the blueberries. (This is a stiff batter and the blueberries remain suspended in it after baking.)

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Baked Pork Sausages, Buttered New Baby Beets and Green Tops; Pilaf. Fried Rice, Onions and Tomatoes; Blueberries over Vanilla Ice Cream; Coffee.

Turn into buttered baking dish. (I used a pyrex one 7½" in diameter by 2¼" deep.) Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes. Test with finger tip at centre to be sure pudding is baked.

Serve warm with

1 cup granulated sugar, 1 1/3 cups water, 2 tablespoons cold water, 2 teaspoons cornstarch, ½ cup lemon juice (we used canned), ¼ teaspoon yellow food coloring, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind (we used bottled).

Gently boil the water and sugar together for 2 minutes. Mix together to a smooth paste the cornstarch and the 2 tablespoons cold water and stir in until thickened. Cook gently for 5 minutes, stirring 2 or 3 times. Remove from heat and add lemon juice, yellow food coloring and lemon rind. Serve warm or cold.

NOTE:

It may cross your mind that this is a lot of sauce — about 2 cups — but it is so popular there will not be one drop left. Clip this sauce recipe for future use over winter puddings.

MR. AND MRS. ANTHONY G. WHITE

White – Stanley

Elizabeth Marlene Stanley and Anthony Geoffrey White were united in marriage by Captain Fraelick in St. Barbara's Chapel, Camp Picton, on Saturday, August 7, 1965, at 11 a.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Stanley of Belleville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. White of London, Ontario.

The organist, Mrs. Marian Foster, played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Enid Cooper, in appropriate selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white silk organza over taffeta, with long lily-point sleeves, and a bodice and skirt appliqued in Chantilly lace. The straight sheath skirt had a full overskirt falling to a train at the back. Her bouffant veil was caught with a cluster of organza roses and lily-of-the-valley trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations and roses.

Mrs. Lou Burley, matron of honor, and sister of the bride, wore a full length gown of white Chantilly lace over soft yellow taffeta. The yellow taffeta cummerbund was caught with taffeta roses at the waist. A cluster of yellow roses surrounded a by a small veil formed her headdress. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white carnations. The bridesmaids Miss Sharron Harrington, London, Ontario, and Miss Irene Bankey of Belleville wore matching gowns and headdresses to that of the matron of honor but in a blue shade. The flower girl, Miss Kim Burley of Belleville, niece of the bride, wore a floor length dress of soft yellow organza over taffeta. The bodice and front paneled of the skirt were trimmed with white Chantilly lace and the waist was caught with a wide sash. Her headdress was of yellow organza and white roses and she carried a small basket of yellow and white carnations.

Mr. Ernie Dennis of Belleville was the groomsman and Mr. Lou Burley of Belleville and Mr. Tom Arbour of Picton were ushers. Master Barry White of London, brother of the bridegroom was ring - bearer.

The reception was held at the Maple Inn, Bloomfield. Mrs. Stanley chose a walking length dress of soft blue shantung with a brocade embroidered bodice and sheath skirt. Her accessories were white and she wore a pink and white carnation corsage. Mrs. White wore a walking length dress of blue crepe with matching accessories and a pink and white carnation corsage.

On their return the couple will live at 284 Albert Street, Belleville.

Successful Living

Sulky, Stubborn, Spoiled, Let Him Walk Away

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — We are very much in love and plan on a wedding in a couple of months. For the past few weeks it seems we have been growing apart for some unknown reason. We just can't seem to be able to talk to each other about anything. I can talk to his friends, my friends, his folks, but I just can't talk to him.

He notices this and has been upset over it. He just won't talk to me and tell me what bothers him. He is very sulky and stubborn and has to have his own way. He says we have to find out if things are going to work out now, and yet I feel he isn't going to give me a chance and will just pack up and leave. — DESPERATE AND IN LOVE.

DEAR DESPERATE — Communications seem to be blocked both ways. A marriage ceremony isn't going to bring about any miraculous change.

"Sulky, stubborn, has to have his own way. Will just pack up and leave." Then let him. It's a long, lonely road for marriage partners who can't talk to each other. When the right one comes along you'll be so comfortable with him you'll chatter to your heart's content, about everything.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I wanted to have my hair tipped and cut. Well, the cutting part came out all right but my mother proceeded to tip it silver. It turned out blond, and streaked, not tipped, but it turned out nicely.

What I want to know is: Is it evil or wrong to do this? Some people think that only a jerk or punk (excuse language) would do such a thing. I only did this because I wanted a change and I thought it would look nice. What do you think? — NOT A PUNK.

DEAR NOT A — Evil? No. But gilding the lily is questionable good sense. At 18 your shining brown hair hardly needs silver tips to be beautiful.

Fourth U.C.W. School Opens at Albert College

By MRS. KENNETH FARROW

Mrs. Claude Ives of Bowmanville, as dean, welcomed members of the United Church Women to the fourth annual school of the Bay of Quinte Conference UCW being held August 9 to 12 at Albert College.

Mrs. Ives expressed the desire that all might find a new vision, a new charity, new wisdom and fresh understanding of the mission of the church. She enjoined her listeners to think on the quotation "What we are is God's gift to us, What we make of it is our gift to Him."

SCHOOL THEME

Using the school theme "Eternal Values in a Changing World" Mr. Davis' message was concerned with "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever." He stated that while people were born, grew, withered and died, as also did things in nature, and even the earth changed in its structure, there was one thing in the heavens that was constant, the North Star. In the midst of changing life, there was one thing constant, God. The laws of God in nature were constant and dependable and in the midst of wars, materialism and selfishness, Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever.

Mr. Davis conducted an inspiring communion service assisted by Mrs. J. D. McIntosh, chairman of the committee for leadership development and elder of Chalmers Street United Church, Kingston; Mrs. Frank Smith, president of the Belleville Presbyterial United Church Women and elder of Newburgh United Church; Mrs. George Huskinson, elder of Lansdowne United Church, Kingston Presbyterial; Mrs. Elton Eligh, Mallorytown, lay preacher at Yonge Mills, Kingston Presbyterial.

SONG SESSION

Mrs. Kenneth Tedford, director of music for the four days, taught new songs and unfamiliar hymns to a volunteer choir who sang several selections at the evening session.

The afternoon session included group discussions of problems in the local organizations. In the evening there were 14 groups for Bible study, led by two representatives from each of the seven presbyterials, including Belleville, Cobourg, Kingston, Lindsay, Peterborough, Oshawa and Renfrew.

PURPOSE OF STUDY

Miss Marion Thompson, travelling secretary for the Board of Women for the United Church, theme speaker for the Bible study, brought greetings from the Board of Women. She stated that the purpose of the study for the school was twofold: (1) to discover the significance of Jesus' baptism and temptations for Jesus and for us; (2) to learn and experience more about the conditions of discipleship.

In elaborating on the subject of the two purposes, Miss Thompson gave some of the background of the situation. She said that the Old Testament was incomplete without the fulfilment in Jesus Christ who brought the "newness" to the New Testament. She stated that the Old Testament told of God's covenant with His people whom He had set apart to bring truth to the Gentiles, but that Israel had failed in her high destiny by choosing nationalism and self-assertion.

She said in part "Jesus was not an accident but rather a fulfilment. The church is not a sudden development but rather its roots are imbedded in the history of Israel. You can't have one without the other."

Miss Thompson closed by comparing the story of Jesus' baptism in the synoptic gospels and explained the significance that Jesus purposed to declare Himself to be the Messiah, not with status, but with a vocation of obedience in sonship deeply rooted in the Old Testament.

Literature plays a vital part in the life of the United Church women. Mr. Lloyd Tilley, left, assistant director of the United Church Distribution Services is seen showing some of the vast display to Miss Frances Nancekievill of Cannington and Mrs. Roy Wilson of Lindsay, at the school being held at Albert College by the Bay of Quinte Conference United Church Women. Miss Verna Hillyard, secretary to Mr. Tilley, stands next to Mrs. R. C. Walker of Kingston, conference literature secretary.

WOMEN MARCH

SANTO DOMINGO (Reuters) About 250 women chanting "out with the invaders" demonstrated Sunday against Brazilian soldiers at the Avenida Independencia checkpoint, separating the international and rebel zones of this divided Dominican capital. Earlier, the demonstrating women had faced heavily armed U.S. troops at the Avenida Duarte checkpoint, as an American helicopter flew overhead.

Sky-high Hemline Makes Appearance in London

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—The sky-high hemline, just about the shortest skirt on record, made its first appearance in London ready-to-wear shops Monday.

The most logical reaction was—wow.

One little number was described as "thigh-high."

All of them were four to five inches above the knee.

Sales were said to be brisk. Gasps The Evening News: "Lop another two inches off these hems and we'll be verging on the skirtless dress."

The sky-high hemline created an immediate and real problem for the wearers—how to sit down without revealing most of the thigh. Leg-crossing appeared to be out.

IT'S TRICKY

As the skirts shot up, Barbara Criggs, fashion writer for The Evening Standard, said:

"The shorter skirt poses a tricky problem: How not to reveal a messy composite of stocking welt, faintly bulging thigh, suspender (garter belt) and girdle if you happen to cross your legs too incautiously or allow your skirt to ride up too far."

With the thight-high skirt, a lot is very obvious. One of the most obvious facts is that the skirt-hikers have outdistanced the British underwear-makers.

How's a girl going to bridge that gap?

Miss Criggs suggested the American panty-girdle—which British girls have never embraced—might be the answer to the sky-high hemline.

PANTY—AND THEN

But—

"Find your panty-girdle," she said, "and you're up against another problem—how to find a nylon that's exactly the right length for the normally non-adjustable suspenders of the panty-girdle."

Wrestling hard with the problem, she said nylon tights might be the answer.

The Evening News' fashion writer, Ann Beveridge, said:

"My advice for the moment—wait, before you lop (cut several inches off your skirt), for the stocking and underwear manufacturers to bring in their answer to bridging that gap."

A sky-high hemline skirt in crepe, black and white, sizes 10 to 14, was selling for seven pounds 17 shillings and sixpence ($23.62). A summer silver dress with the skirt four to five inches above the knee retailed for eight pounds eight shillings ($25.20).

Family Uses Bus to Take First Holiday

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Doug Warnes of Loretto, Ont., took their first holiday in 13 years this summer, but they had to take the kids. So they took them—11 of them—in a school bus and crossed Canada in fourteen days, singing all the way.

"The children sang constantly, as long as they were awake," Mrs. Warnes said.

The youngsters, six of whom are adopted, slept on a mattress in the back of the bus and organized a tight system of duties to cut down on the length of stops.

Mr. Warnes counted heads during stops — the heads of Christopher, 11 months; Tarra-Lynn, 3, Laurie, 6, Peter 6, Beryl, 10, Jerry, 11, Danny, 12, Paul, 15, Brian, 15, Adrian, 16, and Terry, 17, who helped with the driving.

"I was a bit worried once," said Mr. Warnes. "I couldn't see Peter and I thought we'd left him behind, but he was fast asleep in the back."

By Geo. H. Carver

"To settle a television-set wager," said the note, "did Tony Galento ever knock out Joe Louis? I say no."

You're right, sir. Tony fought Louis in Yankee Stadium June 28, 1939. For three rounds he cut loose with everything and staggered Joe. In the third he let go a swinging right and Louis went down. Just for a breath Tony was nine seconds from immortality.

Louis got up at the count of one and in the fourth he draped huge Tony over the ropes a bloody hulk, and the referee stopped it.

Galento was one of the most colorful hunks of humanity to fumigate a ring with alcoholic burps. He trained on beer, whisky and cigars but was still good enough to whip a bear, a kangaroo, an octopus and the best heavyweight of his day.

He had the appetite of an elephant. Once on a bet he ate 50 hot dogs—no rolls—on the afternoon of a fight. He couldn't move for three rounds and they had to split the waist of his trunks. He beat his foeman with one punch in the fourth.

He could eat six chickens with a heaping bowl of spaghetti as a side dish washed down with a half gallon of wine or a case of beer.

In his 14 years as a pro Galento had 112 fights. He won 81, lost 25, and drew in six. He never was a great heavyweinght but experts of the day shudder at the thought that if he'd knocked out Louis he would have set boxing back 100 years.

Tony wrestled the octopus in Seattle on a dare. He climbed into the tank but couldn't handle the slimy thing. Then it spat out its ink and Tony came flying out of the tank. Said he was poisoned but the customers coaxed him to go back. He did. Two days later the octopus died.

He boxed 52 shows with a 550-pound bear and a half dozen with a 190-kangaroo. He rode a bronco once in a rodeo but they gave him a "wild" horse. The nag went one way and Tony the other—over a fence. They didn't find him for two days.

They kicked him out of the sixth grade at school because he hit a pupil with a pick-handle. He put tacks and chewing gum on seats, soaked blotting paper with ink and dropped it down girls' necks.

He claims his "old man" had a temper too. He got two beatings a day regularly. He claims his dad hit him with chairs and baseball bats. If he was real mad he'd throw pots and pans at him.

He had so many street fights he was a natural to go into the ring. In his first amateur he was matched with a chap at 225 pounds. Tony weighed 159. Galento ko'd him in 30 seconds.

He turned pro and made $150 for flattening Babe Farmer in three rounds. His purse was fifty dollars, but he got 3-1 betting on himself between the second and third rounds.

Later he weighed 235 pounds, stood 5 - 9 and had a 38-inch waist. When he trained for his biggest fights he would punch the bag with a cigar in his mouth and cool out on a dozen bottles of beer. They called him "Two Ton", "The Beer Barrel Poker" and the "Water Buffalo."

The day before he fought Max Baer, Galento went into his own bar, ate meat balls and spaghetti and drank a half-case of beer. He got into a fight with his brother and a beer-bottle slashed him under the lip.

The fight with Baer went eight rounds and when the referee stopped it Tony looked like he'd been working a slaughter house.

They still talk about the fight Galento had with Lou Nova. It was called the bloodiest, goriest, wildest battle ever fought in a ring. Blood spurted from both of them as they let go with butts, gouges and knees. It was stopped in the 14th, the referee said, to keep Nova from going blind.

There are many stories about Galento. He has en called a beer-swilling phony, a barrel-chested m, and a heavyweight who had he left the extra food d liquor alone might have gone places.

As far as I know, Galento is now living in a neat ghborhood in Orange, New Jersey, with his wife and nily.

General manager John Quinn of Philadelphia said Robin Roberts did not fit into the Phillies' plans.

He was wrong.

The Phillies discovered just how wrong Monday night when Roberts, making his first National League appearance since 1961, shut out his old baseball team on four hits in Houston Astros 8-0 triumph.

Quinn made the comment about two weeks ago after learning that Roberts was interested in rejoining the team with which he spent his first 14 major league seasons. Baltimore Orioles had just released the determined right-hander at his own request.

Roberts finally made a deal last Thursday with the Astros, who had to pay the Orioles only the $1 waiver price.

The 38-year-old pitcher was superb in his first effort. He walked only one batter, allowed only one to reach third and threw a relatively low total of 98 pitches.

HAD LOST SEVEN

Roberts won four consecutive complete games at the start of this season, then dropped seven straight before leaving the Orioles with a 5-7 record.

While with the Phillies, he was a 20-game winner for six straight seasons, from 1950 through 1955. His victory over the Phillies was his first in the National League since June 5, 1961.

Houston, meanwhile, knocked out another veteran, Lou Burdette, in the third inning. Burdette, now 2-6, was battered for four runs in the first inning, two on a single by Joe Gaines. Bob Aspromonte also scored on the play as Gonzalez threw wildly to third.

In the only other game, Dean Chance pitched a two-hitter as Los Angeles Angels whipped Cleveland Indians 9-0 in the American League. Chance, evening his record at 8-8, allowed only one baserunner after Chuck Hinton singled in the third. That was Leon Wagner, who walked in the sixth.

Joe Koppe, Joe Adcock and Willie Smith homered off Lee Stange, but starter Sam McDowell was around long enough to suffer his eighth defeat against 12 victories.

Bob Dean Second At Kingston

KINGSTON (CP) — Wilson Patterson of Whitby fired a four-under-par 67 to take the $200 first prize in the eastern Ontario pro-amateur golf tournament here Monday.

Patterson carded an eagle three on the par-five first hole and never trailed. Bob Dean of Cornwall, winner of last week's Festival of Golf pro-amateur at Belleville, finished second, two strokes behind at 69.

Don Renaud of Peterborough Kawartha was third with a 70, one stroke ahead of Moe Norman of Golf Haven near Barrie, and Murray Tucker of the Toronto Board of Trade Golf Club.

Jim Neale, of Burlington, Ont., won the amateur section with a 72. Doug McLean of Kingston Cataraqui and Leon Young of the host Glen Lawrence Club were tied one stroke back at 73.

Sixty pros and 45 amateurs competed.

Americans Win Wightman Cup

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., won a singles tennis victory over her British opponent Monday and clinched the Wightman Cup for the United States for the fifth straight year.

It was the 31st time the U.S. has captured the silver cup, emblem of supremacy in women's tennis. Britain has won only six times since the series began in 1923. Its last triumph on U.S. soil was in 1925.

Lombanks, Juniors Tonight !

The Belleville Ellis Juniors will meet the Tweed Lombanks tonight at the Fairgrounds in the fifth and final game of the semi-final series between the two teams. This game, which was originally scheduled for Thursday, is being played tonight because of the O.A.S.A. playdowns that begin later this week.

The juniors, winners of the league title in regular season play, will be looking for a large crowd to backe them up in their bid for a crack at Bloomfield in the finals.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Keith Alexander of Calgary shot a 70 Monday to pace Alberta to an eight-stroke lead over defending champion Saskatchewan after 18 holes in the 36-hole Willingdon Cup inter-provincial team golf match.

His score, two under par over the 6,573-yard par 72 Pine Ridge course, was the best among 36 men on nine teams and helped Alberta compile a 296 total.

Saskatchewan, seeking to retain the title it won for the first time in 1964, was two strokes behind after nine holes, but stumbled when Ron Folk of Saskatoon ballooned to a 42 on the back nine after going out in 36.

Manitoba and Ontario shared third place with 308, one stroke ahead of British Columbia. Quebec was sixth with 317 followed by Nova Scotia with 321, New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island with 323. Newfoundland, making its first appearance, was at 354.

The first threesome for the competition's final 18 holes teed off today in conjunction with the final 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying round for the Canadian amateur championship.

ALBERTA CONSISTENT

Alberta's forte Monday was consistency. There wasn't a 40 nine-hole score among the four team members, a feat no other team could achieve.

Alexander, 1960 Canadian amateur champion, had a 36-34—70, Bob Wylie of Calgary 39-35—74, Doug Silverberg of Calgary 37-38 — 75 and Ray Rhoades of Edmonton, the team rookie, 39-38—77.

Alexander's 70 gave him a share of low medallist honors with Juan Estrada of Mexico after the first 18 holes of the amateur qualifying round.

Saskatoon ace Jim Scissons paced Saskatchewan, one of the youngest teams here with an average age of 24, with 73. Ed Ross of Saskatoon had 76 and Keith Rever of Regina 77.

Barrie McKenzie's 82 dragged down the Manitoba team, which was paced by Ted Homenuik's 71. Bill Pidlaski contributed 77 and Bob Dunbar, 78. The team's players are all from Winnipeg.

Nick Weslock of Toronto, defending Canadian amateur champion and a 15-year veteran of Willingdon Cup action, led Ontario with 73. Gary Cowan of Kitchener, 1961 amateur champion, had 76; Stu Hamilton of Brampton, 79, and Tom McAllister of Toronto, 80. Ontario has won the event a record 16 times.

B.C. was hurt by Bert Ticehurst's 83. Other scores were John Russell 74; John Johnston and Wayne Vollmer, 76. The B.C. golfers are all from Vancouver.

Charles Brace of Halifax chipped in a sparkling 73 for Nova Scotia, while Bryson Crowell of Halifax had 81, Jack Bryant of Halifax, 82 and John Estabrooks of New Glasgow, 85.

Doug MacAfee, 18 - year - old high school graduate from Sussux, hurt a good N.B.-P.E.I. effort with an 87. Pierre Rossignol of Bathurst had 78 and John Sears of Edmundston and David Irving of Woodstock shot 79s.

Leafs Move Up With 4-1 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs have been gradually moving toward the International Baseball League lead since Jack Lamabe joined the club five weeks ago.

Lamabe won his eighth game in as many starts Monday night and the second-place Leafs remained 2½ games behind league-leading Columbus Jets after a 4-1 victory over Buffalo Bisons.

In other action Syracuse Chiefs shut out Atlanta Crackers 3-0, Columbus outslugged Toledo Mud Hens 10-6 and the game between Jacksonville Suns and Rochester Red Wings was rained out.

WAIVE CRADDOCK

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference announced Monday night they have placed Nat (Crash) Craddock, a U.S. import fullback, on waivers. At the same time, a club spokesman said fullback Jim Vollenweider has been claimed from Toronto Argonauts, who had placed him on waivers previously. Vollenweider appeared in eight games for Toronto last season. He was a cut of the National Football League San Francisco '49ers.

Pine Ridge Wind, Par Defy Amateurs

Only Three Under

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

WINNIPEG (CP)—Only three sub-par rounds were registered Monday over wind-swept Pine Ridge golf course in the first 18 holes of a 36-hole qualifying round for the 61st Canadian amateur golf championship.

Meanwhile, 51 golfers failed to break 80 over the 6,573-yard par 37-35—72 layout northeast of here, and five stumbled home in the 90s.

The low 64 scorers after today's second half graduate to match play Wednesday which will culminate in a 36-hole final Saturday.

Former amateur champion Keith Alexander of Calgary and Juan Estrada of Torreon, Mexico, both came in with 70s Monday and Ted Homenuik of Winnipeg, twice runner-up for the amateur title, followed with a 71.

Defending champion Nick Weslock of Toronto, seeking his third consecutive title, carded a 73 after first labelling Pine Ridge a "rinky dinky course, not a champion course."

Only seven men could break par on the front nine, among them Alexander. Two did it with eagles—Glenn Gray of Edmonton on the 360-yard par-four sixth hole and Pierre Archambeault of Montreal on the 504-yard par five eighth.

With Weslock at 73 were Charles Brace of Halifax, Jim Scissons of Saskatoon, Bob Boldt of Oswego, Ore., and Ken Fulton of Winnipeg.

Four strokes off the pace for medallist honors were Bob Wylie of Calgary, John Russell of Vancouver, George Boutell of Phoenix, Ariz., and Gord Lenton of Winnipeg.

Another stroke back at 75 was a group that included Doug Silverberg of Calgary, Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., 1964 United States amateur champion. Mexican junior champion Ricardo Vega of Monterey, Bob Jamieson of Peterborough, and Paul Williams of Burlington, Ont.

Heavy Loss In Milwaukee

Braves Change Name

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Stockholders of the National League Braves were told Monday the club would lose at least $11,500,000 in Milwaukee this year where "the Braves continue to be attacked on all sides."

The stockholders voted to change the name of the team to the Atlanta Braves Inc., but in Wisconsin, they remain Milwaukee Braves. Everywhere else, they become Atlanta Braves.

Monday's action was taken primarily so that work could begin on plans to occupy Atlanta's new $18,000,000 stadium next season, particularly in connection with ticket printing.

The Braves were in third place behind San Francisco and Los Angeles, two games out, in games through Sunday.

The Braves have signed a 25-year contract with the Atlanta Stadium Authority beginning Jan. 1, 1966. The Braves had played in Milwaukee 12 years after moving from Boston.

Milwaukee County has filed an antitrust suit demanding that the National League either block the transfer to Georgia or grant Milwaukee a new franchise.

Riders Lose Jim Conroy

OTTAWA (CP) — Linebacker Jim Conroy, who suffered torn knee ligaments in Friday's opening game in Toronto, will be lost to Ottawa Rough Riders for six to eight weeks, club doctors said Monday.

They said Conroy, an Eastern Football Conference all-star for the last two seasons, will require surgery to repair the damage done his right knee when he was clipped early in Ottawa's 17-14 victory over the Argonuats.

Rider coach Frank Clair said two - year import Bill Quinter will take over Conroy's corner linebacking spot for Thursday night's home opener against Montreal Alouettes.

Quarterback Russ Jackson, the only other Ottawa casualty of the Toronto game, was reported ready for Thursday night's game. He bruised a calf against Argos, but Clair said he worked out Sunday "and looked real sharp."

INAUGURATES SESSION

ATHENS (Reuters) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, Monday night inaugurated the fifth session of the International Olympic Academy. The ceremony was held on a hill overlooking the Acropolis. Tiger-Cats Pick Up Walt Radzick

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats waited until waivers expired on Walt Radzick and then signed the former Toronto Argonaut defensive tackle Monday.

The defending Eastern Football Conference champions did not claim the 260-pounder because every other Canadian Football League club but British Columbia Lions had priority on the claiming list.

Now They Call Him "Egg Head"

TORONTO (CP)—E. D. Daigneau, 60, of Owen Sound stepped on the mat, brushed his feet and prepared to deliver his ball in the provincial lawn bowling tournament here Monday.

But his backswing was interrupted when a parakeet landed on his head.

"I thought it was a bat," said Mr. Daigneau.

Undaunted, he removed the bird and gave it to an official.

He then delivered his ball and won his game 21-10 against Bill Wakefield of Toronto. The parakeet has returned to its cage.

City Hotel Clobbers Cheesemen

City Hotel opened up a 15 hit barrage at Black Diamond Cheese to whip them 17-3 in a Commercial Softball League battle at Zwick's Island last night. The losers helped City out by committing 12 errors.

Stating they were unable to field a team RCAF Cosmos defaulted last night's game to Lightfoots 9-0.

Gerry Genereaux hurled the Hotelmen to victory with a seven-hit performance. He allowed four men free passes, and struck out two.

Sonny and Donny Holway combined on the losing mound. They were tagged for 15 hits, while striking out four and walking six.

Genereaux just missed having a perfect night at the plate, as he slammed a triple, double and single. With singles were Coolen and Ethier.

KEENE, N.H. (AP) — Four players were tied for the lead Monday night as rain again interrupted the U.S. national horseshoe pitching tournament after 22 games of the 35-game meet. Deadlocked with 21-1 records were defending champion Harold Reno of Sabina, Ohio, Canadian champion Elmer Hohl of Wellesley, Ont., Floyd Toole of Little Rock, Ark., and Jim Solomon of Uniontown, Pa.

Read Shades Foxboro 7-6

Pete Enright's clout in the fifth inning drove in the run that gave Read a 7-6 victory over Foxboro in South Hastings baseball last night.

Ted Abrams was the winners standout smashing out a two run homer and double and taking over the pitching duties late in the game to pull it out of the fire. Frank Farrell started.

Dickey went the route for Foxboro giving up seven hits, whiffing five and walking two.

Foxboro outhit Read 10-7.

Besides Abram's clouts, Carman Milligan had two singles for Read with Wayne Pascal, Gerry Brennan, Enright and Charlie Steele getting singles.

Warfield, Taylor Out

Injuries Hit U.S. Pros

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The two most spectacular rookies in the National Football League last year and one of this year's top American Football League prospects share first place on the hospital list today after the pros' first round of pre-season exhibition games.

Washington Redskins learned Monday that halfback Charley Taylor, NFL Rookie of the Year in 1964, may be sidelined for a month with an ankle fracture.

Meanwhile, Paul Warfield, pass-catching star of the NFL champion Cleveland Browns, was operated on for a shattered collarbone in Cleveland and Larry Elkins, rookie flanker for the AFL Houston Oilers, underwent knee surgery in Houston.

Taylor cracked his right ankle during the Redskins' 31-0 exhibition victory over Philadelphia Saturday. Warfield was injured in last Friday night's game against the college All-Stars.

Elkins, an all-America end at Baylor last season, ripped the cartilage in his knee the second time he handled the ball in the Oilers' exhibition against New York Jets Saturday night.

The Redskins hope Taylor mends in time for their Sept. 19 season opener against the Browns. Warfield and Elkins, however, are expected to be out for two months.

Canadian Tennis

U.S. Star Quits Tourney

By JIM CRERAR

TORONTO (CP)—A Montreal-born tennis star has Canadian lawn tennis tournament officials angry at him because he went home to the United States

Mike Belkin, who lived in Montreal for 11 years before moving to Miami, pulled out of the Canadian lawn tennis championships just before the opening matches of the week-long event Monday. He was seeded second to Ron Holmberg of Dallas, Tex., the sixth-ranking U.S. player.

It left tournament chairman Denis Kirsten of Toronto and other officials fuming and may cost him a chance to play in future tournaments.

He sent a telegram to Kirsten saying he would be unable to compete in the Canadian championships, which end here next Sunday, due to illness. He did not disclose the nature of the illness but said he was going home on doctor's orders.

Sunday, Belkin, the defending Ontario international tournament champion, was upset in the final of that event by second-seeded Bill Lenoir of Tucson, Ariz.

Lenoir, back for the Canadian championship, won his opening men's singles match Monday over Pierre Lamarche of Montreal 6-4, 6-2, 6-0.

It was rumored that Belkin had caught a cold in the Ontario tournament last week. But Kirsten got in touch with officials in the United States trying to check the authenticity of Belkin's illness.

Julie Heldman of New York City, fast-rising star who lost to top-ranked Nancy Ritchie of Dallas, Tex., in the U.S. national clay court championships last month, was scheduled to see her first action today along with Holmberg and third-seeded Bob Bedard of Lennoxville, Que.

The Trots

HULL, Que. (CP) — Danny Hal, owned by Alex Parsons of London, Ont., and driven by Claude Miville, won the featured $500 race at Connaught Park Raceway here Monday night.

The seven-year-old brown gelding paced the mile in 2:10, paying $13.70, $5.60 and $4.10. It was a nose-length victory over Peter Bomb of Iroquois, Ont., which paid $5.10 and $4.40.

Julian Joseph of Ottawa, third, paid $6.50.

How They're Hitting

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Oliva of Minnesota Twins, picking up the slack caused by an injury to slugger Harmon Killebrew, has also lifted himself to within striking distance of the American League batting lead.

Oliva is the defending AL batting champion. He won the title as a rookie with a .321 average last season. A month ago his chances of successfully defending his championship appeared slim. His average on July 9 was .275. Boston Red Sox's Carl Yastrzemski was the leader with .340.

Since then, Oliva has hit at a .385 pace, collecting 50 hits in 130 times at bat. He has raised his average 32 points to .307, climbed into a third place tie with teammate Jimmy Hall and Baltimore Orioles' Brooks Robinson, and is only 15 points behind Yastrzemski.

Yastrzemski slumped 16 points to .322 managing only three hits in 23 times at bat.

The figures do not include Monday's games.

Felix Mantilla of Boston is the runner-up in the AL batting competition with a .310 mark. He had five safeties in 17 tries last week, and his average did not change. The Orioles' Robinson gained nine points with 13 hits in 34 attempts.

MAYS PRODUCTIVE

San Francisco Giants' Willie Mays was the most productive batsman among National League leaders. He hit six homers, lifting his leading total to 30. In addition, he moved up from fourth place to second in batting on an over-all showing of 14 hits in 30 tries. A 467 pace, this enabled him to gain 12 points to .328.

Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh Pirates, the pace-setter, increased his average two points to .343 with 10 hits in 27 at bats. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee Braves dropped one notch to third at .323. He collected nine hits in 29 trips

Cincinnati Reds' Pete Rose advanced one place to fourth on a seven point pickup to .321 while Donn Clendenon, Pittsburgh, slipped two places to fifth at .317.

Deron Johnson of Cincinnati is the National League's runs batted in leader with 92. He drove in five runs last week.

Rocky Colavito of Cleveland Indians paces the AL in RBI with 78. Colavito, Killebrew and Detroit's Willie Horton share the home run lead with 22. Killebrew suffered a dislocated left elbow a week ago and is expected to be sidelined for another week.

Duck Breeding Very Low

Bad News For Hunters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government experts had bad news today for duck hunters.

The fall flights of ducks are expected to be no better than last year in the Atlantic, Mississippi and Central flyways and to show a small decrease in the Pacific flyway.

Director John S. Gottschalk of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife warned that the duck breeding population this year was at the lowest levels since reliable surveys were started in 1947. He said the population must be allowed to increase.

Walter F. Grissey, reporting on the 1965 status of waterfowl for the bureau, said statistics showed that the mallard breeding population was the lowest of record "and I think we must conclude that continental hunting regulations last fall were too liberal, at least for the mallard."

Crissey, an expert at the migratory bird populations station, has presented annual summaries of the status of ducks, geese, cott and brant for some years at the opening meeting of the Waterfowl Advisory Committee, which makes recommendations to the bureau.

For the central, Mississippi and Atlantic flyways, expected increases in production will offset decreases in the breeding population to the extent that there will be no change in the fall flights of ducks compared with 1964.

Similarly, for these flyways the outlook is for flights of geese about the same as those in 1964 and relatively little changed from 1963 except for decreases for white-fronts, snows and Canadas.

Gottschalk blamed the decrease in breeding population on drought in recent years and large kills in both Canada and the United States last year.

What's the use of advertising?

well, it's helping Jackie to walk again

Jackie will walk again because of the generosity of many people he's never met—people who have never met him. Yet these people knew of and answered the need for funds to teach Jackie and children like him to walk again. They knew because of advertising.

Advertising has so many faces, so many uses. There's the commercial face of advertising, that sells products, thus promoting economic growth, producing jobs, and raising the standard of living.

Then there's the humanitarian face of advertising. This advertising raises funds for medical aid and research. Teaches traffic safety. Finds homes for orphaned children. Fills blood banks. Does hundreds of widely diversified jobs that benefit all of society. This advertising can put a smile back in a child's eyes . . . can save a life . . . can comfort a lonely man.

Social service agencies, religious organizations, medical centres, all know of what great use advertising is. Because without advertising, these institutions would find it very difficult to function. To carry out their work, to benefit all of us, they need public support. And they get that support through advertising.

Think about it next time you pick up your daily newspaper. Think about the many faces of advertising. And if you ever wonder what the use of advertising is, think of Jackie. Advertising is helping him to walk again.

Rock Hudson Starring in New Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Over at Paramount, Rock Hudson is making a movie called Seconds, which deals with man's dream to live over again and make a fresh start capitalizing on past mistakes.

Dr. Maury L. Parkes, plastic surgeon and technical advisor on the film, says the premise of Seconds is more real than fiction.

Utilizing the fantastic medical discoveries of today, such as bone reconstruction, hair and tissue replants, removal of fatty tissue, skin grafts and all the other facets of modern plastic surgery, Dr. Parkes concedes that a man could easily start life anew—as a different person.

"Of course," says Dr. Parkes, "the medical profession would certainly not knowingly be a party to aiding an individual in escaping his present worldly responsibilities and embarking on a second life—but this does not change the facts.

"There actually are 'seconds' in our society today—and they may never be found out."

Ginger Rogers Again a Star In Hello Dolly

After a shaky first hour—understandable since this was her first performance before an audience following just three weeks of rehearsal—she flashed all the dazzle of her film-queen prime. From then on, it was fireworks all over the stage of the St. James Theatre.

Man With Medical Deadline To Be New TV Series Hero

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television series, spinning complete stories around the same characters week after week, must find a valid reason for the hero's constant motion and involvement in adventures.

Doctors and lawyers and detectives are easily motivated by their patients and clients. Lawmen have a steady flow of bad guys to catch.

Soon the TV screen will break out in a rash of "questing men," an epidemic started by The Fugitive, who is seeking proof of his innocence while fleeing the law.

We will see a man seeking his own identity (amnesia, of course) in one series. Another will keep riding, riding to redeem his reputation of cowardice. There are more. But by all yardsticks, the most unusual will be a hero with a medical deadline on his life, trying to crowd as much excitement as possible into his remaining days.

The series is NBC's Run For Your Life, and the star is Ben Gazzara, one of the few highly esteemed dramatic actors from the New York stage who has a warm attitude toward the medium—possibly helped by his ownership of a percentage of the show.

DISEASE UNNAMED

Just what is the matter with the hero?

"We don't say," replied Gazzara, with a firmness suggesting he has heard the question many times. "We don't want to upset all the hypochrondriacs who watch television, but I assure you there is a disease in which the patient has only a certain length of time to live but feels well until just before the end."

But will not a fatally ill hero have a depressing psychological effect on the audience?

"Quite the contrary," replied Gazzara. "Who has not asked himself, 'What would I do if I had only two years to live?' There's great audience identification in that—and in a man who has no family to think about, is free of material responsibilities and can travel. Actually, I think the title should be 'run toward life.'

"Besides," added Gazzara slyly, "two years, at the rate of one show a week, takes a long time—like 14 years."

AT THE PARK — Elvis proves he can swing in more than one direction in this scene from Allied Artists "Tickle Me," a romantic comedy in color and Panavision which stars Presley as a singing, swinging wrangler on a beauty spa dude ranch handily stocked with girls. Film was produced by Ben Schwalb and directed by Norman Taurog. "Tickle Me" continues until Saturday at the Park Theatre. Complete shows at 7.00 and 9.10 p.m.

BRITAIN'S PROTECTORS — The Hurricane and Spitfire fighters of the RAF were so thinly spread to protect all Britain's flanks that 12-plane squadrons single-handedly took on formations of more than 100 German aircraft during the Battle of Britain in August and September 1940. Of the 1,000 pilots who took part in the battle less than half survived — fewer than 100 survived the war. Here, Hurricane fighters fly in formation.

Battle of Britain Flyers Happiest Men Ever Angry

By DOUG MARSHALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"The Battle of Britain was fought by the gayest company who ever fired their guns in anger."

So says the RAF's official historian in his judgment on "the Few" immortalized by Winston Churchill — the Hurricane and Spitfire pilots whose shoulders held the sky suspended during that simmering dramatic summer of 25 years ago.

All told they numbered only about 1,000, a hard core of seasoned professionals buttressed by a band of happy-go-lucky amateur or weekend flyers barely out of their teens.

They had the buoyancy and adventurous spirit of youth, the incredible courage sustained by the conviction that "it won't happen to me." They wanted "a wizard show" out of life and they got it.

Less than half survived the battle; fewer than 100 survived the war.

By any standards of history the Battle of Britain was an epic despite the light-hearted refusal of the chief participants to take either their dangers or their achievements seriously. And like all epics it gave rise to a variety of myths and legends that have tended to minimize and exaggerate its true perspective.

PRELUDE TO INVASION

Named before it began by Churchill in his 'finest hour" speech after the debacle of Dunkerque, the battle was first and foremost a fight to the death. Had Goering's Luftwaffe succeeded in shooting the RAF out of the sky the curiously half hearted plans for the invasion of Britain, Operation Sea Lion, would almost certainly have been put into effect.

The unbeaten German armies that stood around the rim of Europe in the summer of 1940 formed the most powerful fighting force the world had ever seen. Had Britain fallen they might be there yet. But for Germany the road away from Calais after the Battle of Britain led directly to the defeats of Stalingrad, El Alamein and Normandy.

Secondly the battle was the first and virtually the last great trial of strength in the brief era of aerial conflict that had its tentative beginnings in the First World War dog-fights over Flanders and ended when the first V-2 rocket hit London.

In a sense the clash between RAF and Luftwaffe was a cavalry charge in the sky, a momentary flash of romance and old-fashioned ideals in a cold-blooded and brutal war.

SURPRISED WORLD

Finally, on a larger philosophical scale, Britain's victory surprised the world by proving that effete and fumbling democracies can, when their backs are to the wall, draw on reserves of technical initiative and moral strength that are more than a match for the much-lauded efficiency of totalitarian regimes.

One of the legends of the battle is that Britain, unprepared for war in the appeasing 1930s, initiated a crash program to catch up with Nazi Germany after the Munich crisis of 1938.

In fact development of the two mechanical factors that swung the victory — direction-finding radio or radar and the eight-gun high - speed monoplane—had been started as far back as 1934-35.

Another legend is that the Supermarine Spitfire, and to a lesser extent the Hawker Hurricane, were superior machines to the best fighters the Luftwaffe could muster at the time. The worried Heinkel pilot's call "Achtung, Achtung Schpifeur" helped build the legend.

The truth is the British planes, powered by Rolls-Royce Merlin engines, and the Messerschmitt 109E were almost perfectly matched. The 109E could out-dive and out-climb the Hurricane but the graceful Spitfire had the edge in manoeuvrability.

SAME TOP SPEEDS

The Spitfire had a top speed of 355 miles an hour at 19,000 feet and took 6.2 minutes to climb to its normal operational height of 15,000 feet.

The Messerschmitt, of which more than 1,000 were flung into the battle by the Germans, could do 355 m.p.h. at 18,000 feet, had the same rate of climb as the Spitfire but was superior in performance above 20,000 feet. Both fighters had service ceilings of about 35,000 feet.

Another misconception is that Britain nearly lost the battle because of a chronic shortage of fighters. In fact there were always more planes available than there were trained pilots to fly them.

Thanks to the tough tycoon-like tactics the late Lord Beaverbrook brought to the ministry of aircraft production, the number of serviceable fighters never fell below 700. There were always at least 200 fighters in reserve and except for one three-week period during the three-month battle new aircraft were being produced faster than they were being lost.

The machines could be replaced or repaired the pilots were dead, wounded or exhausted. It took 50 times as long to train a pilot as it did to build a Spitfire for him.

DEATH WAS QUICK

Weary and nerve - shattered pilots were rotated to quieter sectors as much as possible but all too frequently the new boys were killed on their first day out. The burden fell increasingly on the older hands and "the Few" were getting fewer all the time.

One of the greatest of the 1940 myths arose out of the wildly exaggerated claims issued by both sides. On the British side this was apparently caused by honest confusion in the heat of the battle. The Luftwaffe figures seem to have been based on poor intelligence plus a natural desire to feed Goering the information he wanted to hear.

As it was the RAF claimed a total of 2,698 enemy aircraft destroyed and actually shot down only 1,733. The Germans claimed 3,058 and actually destroyed only 915.

These figures must be balanced by the fact the Germans were losing four-man bomber crews as well as fighter pilots over enemy territory. So grave was the German view of this depletion that after Aug. 15 Goering ordered the German bombers never to carry more than one officer.

On the other hand the British figures only include the fighters taking part in the actual battle—not the other aircraft taking part in offensive raids. And the RAF counted everything that could still fly as a survivor. The large number of planes that were crippled and out of service for weeks are not incorporated in the final tally.

BEAT THE ODDS

Whatever the cause of the exaggeration, there is no doubt the alleged toll of five to one in the RAF's favor instead of the actual two to one played a decisive part in bolstering the morale of the whole nation at the time.

Good public relations, allied with Churchill's oratory, were one of the best weapons Britons had in the catastrophic summer of 1940.

What was not exaggerated was the unevenness of the numerical odds against the RAF.

When the battle opened Air Chief Marshal Sir Hugh Dowding, chief of Fighter Command, could loft a maximum of 720 fighters to meet the Luftwaffe's 3,500 aircraft—of which, 2,500 were serviceable at any given time.

The RAF fighters were so thinly spread to protect all Britain's flanks that 12 - plane squadrons single-handedly took on formations of more than 100 enemy aircraft. One historian estimates that in combat conditions the RAF was consistently out-numbered by as many as 20 to 1.

The defensive net of 20 radar stations around the North Sea and Channel coasts helped to even the odds.

The radar beams of the day could detect formations of invaders 100 miles away but were inaccurate about height and numbers. Worst of all radar was blind inland.

USED PHONES

The detection system that really beat the Germans was not just radar but the open telephone lines that linked radar and inland observer corps units with headquarters and sector command posts.

In the air there was constant air - to - ground communication between pilots and sector stations via radio.

The burden of the fighting fell on the 26 squadrons of No 11 Group, spread out over southeast England under the command of Air Vice-Marshal K R. Park. At the peak of the fighting some pilots of 11 Group were being "scrambled" three or four times a day.

Park's tactics in sending up single squadrons to meet large enemy formations was later criticized. He defended himself with the argument that there wasn't sufficient time to organize and co-ordinate three or four squadrons or wings before the interception.

In the hectic dog-fights the RAF pilots found themselves relearning most of the tricks discovered a generation before over Flanders: The surprise attack dive out of the sun; a constant watch on the rear-view mirror; deflection shooting and the maxim "Never fight alone."

All these tactics grew out of the grim fact that dog-fights are a form of warfare where the object is to catch your enemy unaware from behind and shoot him in the back. The rule was basic: "If you aren't going to win, don't get into the fight."

Many of the pilots who learned this the hard way quickly lost their earlier gaiety. The truth was there was nothing chivalrous about the actual fighting at all. It was just the hunters and the hunted and the devil take the hindmost.

THANK YOU . . .
FOR PAYING YOUR CARRIER PROMPTLY

Collections by your Ontario Intelligencer carrier are timed to provide you convenient service and best meet his school and study schedules. He may begin collections Thursday and complete his collections on Friday, so that he can pay for his papers on Saturday morning.

Your thoughtfulness in paying him the first time he calls to collect will encourage him in giving you prompt service. It will save him extra work for which he would receive no additional profit.

It will give him more time for school and other activities . . .

Lawyer Not Ready to Offer Defence

OTTAWA (CP) — Louis Assaly, lawyer for ex-ministerial aide Raymond Denis, said Monday he now has received a complete English transcript of the Dorion inquiry evidence and is reading it "just as quickly as I can."

He said, however, that he will not be ready to proceed Aug. 19, the date set for Denis' preliminary hearing on charges of attempted bribery and obstruction of justice in the Rivard case. He said in an interview he will not be ready to proceed until September."

Mr. Assaly said he received the first 21 volumes of the 8,500-page transcript last Friday. A week earlier the RCMP delivered him the final 21 volumes.

"I tried then reading it from Volume 22 on, but it was impossible because of the continuous references to previous testimony," Mr. Assaly said. "Now I'm starting over again from volume 1."

Mr. Assaly received a French transcript of the Dorion evidence some time ago. However, he said he was not fluent enough in the language to rely on it.

The justice department told him four English translations were available. Two were found in the hands of Crown Attorney John Cassells and RCMP Counsel Norman Matthews, but the other two apparently had disappeared.

Finally, the RCMP, which had kept its own transcript of the evidence, printed an English copy for Mr. Assaly.

TO VISIT ABROAD

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Violinist David Oistrakh will lead a group of top Soviet musicians on a three-month tour of Canada, Britain, the United States and Mexico with the Moscow Philharmonic Orchestra, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Monday.

Income Tax Explained

A column designed for the working taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax office.

By C. A. MILLER
Retired Supervising Assessor, Income Tax Department

DEPENDANT DECEASED IN TAX YEAR

When a dependant has become deceased in the taxation year, many taxpayers are at a loss as to what exemption claim applies. If the deceased person has been supported by the taxpayer up until the time of death, then he is allowed to claim full exemption for the year.

In the case of a child under 16 years of age the claim is for $550, regardless of the fact family allowance was received up until the time of the child's death. This is a common error made by a parent. They will either claim $300 or nothing at all. Some will just claim a prorata portion of the $300. Please remember the claim is always $550 for a deceased child regardless of its age. The taxpayer should show the childs name on the return followed by the word "Deceased 1964."

There never is any claim for still-born children. The child must have breathed. Where a child has died immediately after birth and was less than one day old, the taxpayer may claim the full $550 exemption but he should attach a note or certificate from the attending physician stating the child was alive at birth.

This brings up another question on which I receive many letters each year. It is "Are funeral expenses deductible?" The answer is a definite "No." There is no provision in the Income Tax Act or Regulations which permits this type of deduction. Remember you are allowed full exemption for the dependant in the year of death and this still applies if the dependant died on January 1st of the taxation year.

For a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed, five cent stamped envelope, plus 25 cents for each question.

Question 1: We had a stillborn child this year. Is there any claim allowable on my tax return?

Answer: No. The child must have breathed.

Question 2: My mother whom I have always supported and claimed for $1000 died on January 2, 1964. Do I have any claim this year?

Answer: Yes. You may claim her as usual in the year of death.

Mexican Painting Large Mural

MEXICO CITY (Reuters)— David Siqueiros, Mexico's leading mural painter, has been commissioned to paint the biggest mural in the world in the auditorium of a luxury hotel planned at Cuernavaca, 40 miles from the capital.

The mural, covering about 10,700 square yards, will have as its theme "the man of the future" and will probably take five years to complete. The 67-year-old artist was reported to have asked for a 2,000,000-pesos fee (about $167,000).

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP) — Western Deuterium Co. Ltd. has abandoned its proposal to build a $46,000,000 heavy water production plant at Estevan, Sask., but Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. is approaching another company that is willing to undertake the project at the same site.

AECL said in a statement Monday that Western Deuterium has withdrawn because it feels it cannot meet the November, 1967, production deadline specified by the Crown-owned agency, and because it fears its competitive position is in doubt because of the development of a even-newer heavy water process.

Dynamic Power Corp. of Calgary, which submitted the second lowest bid for the plant, is being approached, and President Frank Brown said in Calgary his company has told AECL it is ready to go ahead with the project.

Mr. Brown said he has not received the green light yet.

PROPOSALS DIFFER

Western Deuterium proposed a new process, using ordinary water as a source of deuterium with an ammonia-hydrogen exchange process. Dynamic Power proposed to use a hydrogen sulphide process.

Heavy water is used in Canadian-designed nuclear power stations as a catalyst within the atomic reactor.

Western Deuterium's bid called for production of 300 tons a year at $14.64 a pound, compared with the $20.25-a-pound cost for heavy water to be produced at the projected plant of Deuterium of Canada Ltd. near Glace Bay, N.S.

AECL said one factor causing the withdrawal was the growing increase in demand for fertilizers in Canada and abroad. Fertilizer plants are being planned that will produce large quantities of ammonia.

"It appears that heavy water could be produced in a combined fertilizer - heavy water production plant at a cost even less than from a single-purpose heavy water production plant."

STUDY PROCESS

AECL said it is sending a technical and economic study team next week to France, where the ammonia - hydrogen exchange process has been worked on for some time.

"The object is to ensure that the technology is available for future application in Canada."

AECL said the approach is being made to Dynamic Power Corp. because Canada still has a requirement for heavy water to meet known projects such as the Ontario Hydro's major nuclear power station at Pickering.

Says South Viet Nam Like Vast Cemetery

By HAL BOYLE

But no one could have dropped that many bombs or abandoned that many wells. What you are seeing are the tombs of some of Asia's unnumbered dead.

There are so many of them that after a time they stun the mind with an uneasy feeling of a presence haunted by so long a past.

The tombs cluster by the hundreds in every patch of sandy outworn soil. In smaller numbers, they also stud the fertile rice paddies, as if the clamorous dead were draining the sustenance of the living.

Some of the tombs are new and handsome in gold and blue colors. But most are grey and old and lichen-encrusted, and the dead within them as forgotten as the faded, fallen leaves of a flame tree.

The hardest thing for Americans to get used to here is Vietnamese money. It is by far the shabbiest paper currency on earth, particularly in small denominations.

The largest bill is the 500-piastre note. This is worth about $7, and is invariably clean and crisp and neat.

The average Vietnamese worker, who earns from less than 60 to 85 piastres a day, rarely gets his hands on one. The 100- and 200- piastre notes are usually in pretty good shape, too.

The five-, 10- and 20-piastre notes — and particularly the fives — are the financial language of the poor. The five-piastre note is so dirty, frayed, unsanitary and pawed over that you feel you may be contracting a nameless disease every time you accept one in change.

You also feel sorry for the poor guy who gets it last—in whose hands it finally crumbles apart before he can pass it on to someone else.

The situation in south Viet Nam is bewildering in many ways to thousands of the American military men stationed here. The customs of the people are so different, the conduct of the war itself is so different, from anything they have known before.

But there also is a great determination on the part of most to see this thing through.

I think the best expression of both this bewilderment and determination that I have heard was made by Capt. James W. Haerer, 33, a fighter pilot from Tampa, Fla.

During a flight we made together on a supply plane to a mountain fort, Capt. Haerer said:

"You don't always know what you're fighting over here—but you know it has to be fought."

Police Probe Report Man Shot on Beach

VICTORIA HARBOR, Ont. (CP) — Police are investigating a report that a youth or a man was shot on a beach near here during the weekend and his body taken away in a speeding car.

Raymond Carriere, 19, told police he heard shots late Sunday night and saw some men put what appeared to be a body of a man or youth into a dark-colored car and drive away.

Police say they had no reason to doubt Carriere's story and that other persons in the area had also reported hearing shots.

OPP set up roadblocks but did not find a car transporting a body.

A note to the prominent Canadians who insist that Bell should be owned by Canadians.

People who are uneasy about foreign control of Canadian companies needn't worry about Bell. For the fact is, the ownership of Bell is overwhelmingly Canadian. Of 208,000 shareholders, over 203,000 are Canadian residents, and they hold 93.6% of the total shares. The little tag line you see at the bottom of Bell advertisements means just what it says. And since it's important that people know the facts about one of Canada's most important public service companies, we'll go on putting it in. Here it is again.

Killer Says Ship's Captain Threatened To Turn Him Over To Cuban Exiles

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Seven Seas, a swaybacked old banana boat whose last cargo was murder, has been unburdened by one mystery.

But two others remain: Who has jurisdiction in the case, and what happened to the ship's cook?

Federal authorities said a man picked up Tuesday in the Gulf Stream in the Seven Seas' skiff told them he shot the captain and four shipmates after an argument with the skipper about Fidel Castro Saturday night.

Roberto Ramirez, 35, a former Cuban lobster man, told officials he had defended the Cuban leader and that Capt. Rogelio Diaz had threatened to turn him over to anti-Castro refugees when the Seven Seas reached Tampa, where it was headed for repairs.

It was either "me or them," officials quoted Ramirez.

Ramirez said he threw the body of the captain and another shipmate overboard and then left the ship in the 14-foot aluminum skiff.

If it is decided the Seven Seas, registered under the Panamanian flag, was within the three - mile U.S. continental limit, Florida probably will have jurisdiction. If the slayings occurred outside the limit, either Panama or the U.S. could prosecute, as the Seven Seas is American-owned.

Still missing is the ship's cook, Gerald Davison. Authorities said Ramirez told them he had not shot him.

A 17-year-old Honduran, Elvin Bunywaise, who said he had seen one of the shootings, was found after he had cowered 16 hours in the stifling darkness of the vessel's anchor chain locker.

Camp 'Relieved', Then Viet Cong Closes Road Out

SAIGON (AP)—A large Vietnamese relief force reached the besieged special forces camp at Duc Co tonight after fighting its way for three days through Viet Cong ambushes and road-blocks, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

But despite the arrival of the government relief force, the 67-day-old siege of the camp near the Cambodian border was still on.

The spokesman said the Viet Cong moved in behind the relief force and cut Route 19 in several places. It is the main east-west highway across the central highlands and the only land route from Duc Co to safe territory.

Both government forces and the Viet Cong have suffered heavy casualties in the fighting in and around Duc Co in the last eight days.

The airstrip at Duc Co was still judged unusable late today, U.S. sources said. There were hopes that by Thursday the relief forces would have cleared a sufficient area around the strip to permit supplies to be sent in.

UNDER HEAVY FIRE

Several hundred Vietnamese troops and mountain tribesmen along with 12 American advisers in the camp have been under heavy fire for more than two months.

Australian troops wound up a five-day search-and-destroy operation in a Communist - controlled zone north of Saigon and reported four Viet Cong killed. Destroyed were five Viet Cong villages, about seven tons of rice and 100 pounds of salt.

An announcement said Australian casualties were "very light."

Other ground actions reported today included:

—Twelve more Viet Cong killed in a search-and-destroy operation five miles west of Quang Ngai city, 325 miles northeast of Saigon. Fourteen other guerrillas had been reported killed previously in that action.

U.S. spokesmen said U.S. and Vietnamese planes destroyed more than 120 buildings in South Viet Nam during the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. and a "large number" of Viet Cong were believed to have been killed.

One U.S. Air Force F-105 was lost today in an air strike against North Viet Nam, but the pilot was reported picked up unharmed from the South China Sea off Vinh.

Strikes Plague Nation

By ROSEMARY SPIERS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Labor disputes that were making headlines last week settled into relative calm, but a rash of new strikes and threatened strikes have erupted across Canada.

Postal workers and grain handlers were on the job again this week in Montreal and negotiations with Vancouver's grain handlers took a positive turn.

Only Toronto was relieved of its construction problems when carpenters and plasterers returned to work Tuesday.

Concentrated - milk shippers threatened a province - wide strike in Ontario while tomato pickers at the H. J. Heinz plant in Leamington, Ont., finally agreed to arbitration.

Windsor, Ont. avoided labor troubles Tuesday when 650 office workers at the Chrysler Ltd. plant agreed to remain on the job after being offered salary increases.

TALKS BREAK OFF

In Quebec City, negotiations between representatives of 1,200 striking plumbers and electricians and employers broke off late Tuesday with both sides saying they would consider new proposals made by conciliator Noel Berube.

Real Labelle of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, representing the union, said he did not see an early settlement to the 23-day strike "because of the unacceptable position of the employers." The union seeks a 70-cent hourly increase to its present $2.65 wage.

Meanwhile, violence flared at St. Francois, Que., near Montreal, in a three-week strike of some 1,000 members of the provincial association of dump truck owners which is seeking higher rates. At Joliette, 40

Minister Cool To Request

OTTAWA (CP) — A 12-man delegation from the townsites in Banff and Jasper national parks received assurances from Resources Minister Laing Tuesday that his crackdown on land leases in the parks is not aimed at confiscating properties without compensation or driving out residents who work in the parks.

But the minister was cool to the group's request for a royal commission study of the problems of residents in the national parks of Western Canada.

Rev. Glen Ashford of Jasper's United Church said Jasper townsfolk are "seething with resentment" over the land lease policy which they fear will take their homes away from them when leases expire.

The aim of his policy is to gain better control over leases, Mr. Laing said. In a case where a homeowners' lease had to be taken back by the government after a lease expired, Ottawa would pay compensation based on the fair market value of the house and improvements.

BLAMED TORIES

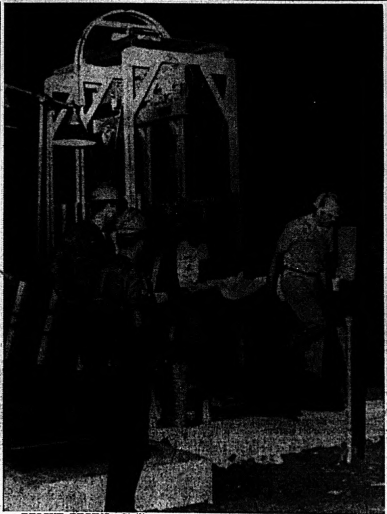
At one point Mr. Laing said the policy of refusing to issue new perpetual land leases began in 1958 under an order-in-council issued by the former Conservative government. He asked the delegation whether any of them had heard of that policy decision before, but none had.

Leases for residential purposes were for 42-year periods. On expiry, the government would take over the improvements after paying fair compensation.

Several of the delegates said they had heard nothing about possible compensation until just recently. Previously they had read newspaper reports that the land would be seized outright with all its improvements.

Citing examples of the way leases were abused; Mr. Laing said one property on which the government received about $10 a year under a perpetual lease traded hands for $100,000.

In total, millions of dollars were being made on leases by speculators. This would be curtailed by a sharp scrutiny of lease transfers, all of which require approval of the minister.



RESCUE BEGINS—Civilian and air force personnel bring out the body of one of 53 victims trapped in a Titan II missile silo at Searcy, Ark. Air Force Is Probing Failure Of Missile's Safety Devices

SEARCY, Ark. (AP) — Deep in an underground silo sheathing a Titan II missile something went awry with the safety devices.

Fire and explosion thundered through the gun barrel of the mightiest U.S. ballistic missile Monday, killing 53 civilian workers.

"These things are not supposed to happen," said Capt. Douglas Woodl, public information officer for Little Rock Air Force Base, headquarters for the 18 missile sites in this region.

"We have many safety features, but the fact that it did happen contradicts these safety factors," he said.

An air force investigation team continues its probe, begun Tuesday after about 100 rescue workers finished the task of removing bodies from the smoke-filled silo.

There were only two survivors of the explosion and flash fire which apparently erupted somewhere on or around the second or third levels of the nine-level complex where the workmen were involved in renovating the site.

The Titan missile, fueled but missing its nuclear warhead, was in the silo at the time of the fire. It did not burn.

U.S. Likely to Stand Firm On Payment of UN Costs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the UN, is finding strong opposition in Congress to any abandonment of efforts to try to force Russia to pay United Nations peace - keeping assessments.

Everett M. Dirksen, Senate Republican leader, said that as he interprets the sentiments of his colleagues they are "getting real tired" of temporizing with the Soviets on the issue.

France and 11 other nations also are in arrears on peace-keeping assessments, but congressional and other U.S. critics usually limit their fire to the Soviet Union.

Will Pay Cash In 187 Million Bushel Deal

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian wheat board today announced a cash sale of approximately 187,000,000 bushels of wheat to the Soviet Union. The deal was second only to the record sale of 1963.

The contract calls for delivery to start this month and be completed by the end of next July. Shipment will be entirely through St. Lawrence River and Atlantic ports.

The sale is in addition to a 27,000,000 - bushel deal announced last week.

Trade Minister Sharp said the combined value to Canada is about $450,000,000.

The announcement was made at a press conference attended by Mr. Sharp, Agriculture Minister Hays and W. C. McNamara, chief commissioner of the wheat board.

MARKET ASSURED

Mr. Sharp said the huge sale means an assured market for every bushel of wheat that can be moved through Canadian ports during the next 12 months.

He added "it means in effect a market for the coming crop almost regardless of its size."

"There could be an actual reduction in the carryover if the crop does not exceed 700,000,000 bushels," said the minister.

Mr. McNamara said final figures are not available but the carryover when the 1964-65 crop year ended July 31 is estimated at about 500,000 bushels.

Said Mr. Sharp:

"The target for exports of wheat and flour for the current crop year is 600,000,000 bushels, which is larger than the previous record (of 595,000,000) established in 1963-64.

"Adding 150,000,000 bushels for domestic consumption means total disappearance of 750,000,000 bushels."

PROMISE WHEAT

HALIFAX (CP)—The Canadian government has promised to give Ceylon $1,000,000 worth of wheat as part of an assistance program, R. Balasubranamiam, Ceylonese high commissioner to Canada, said Tuesday. He said Canada now is helping construct a $5,000,000 international airport in Ceylon that will be completed in 1967. It will be the country's first international airport.

The Weather

Synopsis— Warmer temperatures are expected for all of Ontario Thursday.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's spring wheat harvest will be well below 40,000,000 metric tons, a drop from the 1964 yield of 47,900,000, according to indications.

The winter wheat, now mostly harvested, looks good but there are signs that the spring wheat yield may sink as low as 30,000,000 tons.

The harvest is not expected to be as disastrous as the one in 1963.

Trade Exports Soaring

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's hard - pressed currency staged a brief upsurge Tuesday as the government announced record July export figures which reduced the country's trade deficit to £1,000,000 ($3,000,000 Canadian). The June figure was £33,000,000 ($99,000,000).

Within minutes of the news, the pound was hoisted to $2.7919 (U.S.) from $2.7913, and France, which lately has been a sterling seller, came into the market as a buyer.

An unexpected reversal followed within three hours. The United States and West Germany started selling sterling and the price dropped back to $2.7910 (U.S.), losing more than it had gained.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson said he is encouraged by the reports, but that his government would not ease up on its belt-tightening measures.

"The figures provide an encouraging sign that our balance - of - payments deficit for this year, as we estimated, will be well below half of last year's, and give every reason to think that the deficit will be eliminated entirely by the latter part of next year," he said.

"We intend to keep a firm grip on the squeeze until the balance of payments has been solved and we are moving into a surplus."

AVERAGE DOWN

The accumulated trade deficit for the first seven months of this year now is £157,000,000 ($471,000,000), a monthly average of about £23,000,000 ($69,000,000), compared with £46,- last year.

Amherstburg Negroes Protesting KKK Slogans

AMHERSTBURG, Ont. (CP) Negroes here planned to march today on a model car establishment, where they claim a week of racial antagonism began.

The decision was taken at an emergency meeting Tuesday night by the town's Negro community after Ku Klux Klan slogans were painted on walls and a gasoline-soaked wooden cross was burned Monday.

George McCurdy, Negro president of the predominantly-Negro South Essex (County) Citizens Advancement Society, said the racial incidents, which started last Friday when two Negro youths were charged by police with resisting arrest at an electrified model car raceway. He said the action stemmed from the raceway proprietor's "anti-Negro bias."

For that reason, Mr. McCurdy said, Negroes should march on the raceway tonight to test the proprietor's reaction.

Amherstburg, 14 miles south of Windsor, has about 300 Negroes in a total population of 4,400.

Some 50 Negroes at Tuesday night's meeting agreed to send a telegram to Ontario Attorney-General Arthur Wishart, with copies to Premier Robarts and area legislature members, asking for an investigation of recent racial disturbances in the town.

Mr. McCurdy's brother, Howard, a professor at the University of Windsor, warned the audience "not to react in a fashion out of proportion to what has happened. . . . Do not react in kind."

One woman said her two sons had a shot "fired over their heads" as they walked down a street.

Earlier Tuesday, Amherstburg Police Chief George Hanna said the burning of the cross was the work of "loitering youths."

"There have been no problems with Negroes here," he said.

About 100 years ago, Amherstburg was the main terminus for the "underground railway" smuggling American Negro slaves into Canada. Their descendants make up about seven per cent of the town's present population.

In Toronto, Deputy Attorney-General A. R. Dick said Tuesday night he doubted his department would take action "because anti - racial propaganda is not of itself an offence."

If existing statutes have been violated, he said, the department will provide the assistance of the provincial police if requested by the local police.

GOVERNMENT REBUILDING OLD FORT — At a cost of $1,000,000 put up by the Ontario government, the authentic reconstruction of the first European settlement in Ontario is taking shape on its original site half a mile south of Georgian Bay. Palisaded Village of Martyrs Rebuilt---at Cost of a Million

By JACK GRAY

STE. MARIE AMONG-THE-HURONS, Ont. (CP)—This tiny palisaded village of the martyrs, symbol of a shining moment in North American history, is springing to life after a sleep of three centuries.

Here, at a cost of $1,000,000 put up by the provincial government, the authentic reconstruction of the first European settlement in Ontario is taking shape on its original site half a mile south of Georgian Bay.

When the painstaking work is completed in 1967, Ste. Marie on the banks of the shallow Wye River will look as it did in the 1640s when it housed Huron Indians and 58 Frenchmen—Jesuit priests, soldiers and volunteer workers representing nearly a quarter of what was then the entire white population of New France.

Under the direction of Dr. Wilfrid W. Jury of the University of Western Ontario, an expert on pioneer life, chapels, dwellings and shops are being erected by 300-year-old construction methods.

Running into the heart of the village will be a canal system fed by an aqueduct, a reconstruction of what Dr. Jury calls "undoubtedly the first artificial waterway with locks to be built in the New World."

BUILT MISSIONS

Situated in the heart of Huronia, where the Jesuits operated a dozen missions before the Iroquois made it impossible for them to carry on, Ste. Marie will provide an accurate picture of bustling 17th-century life deep in the wilderness.

Two miles east of Midland and 85 miles northwest of Toronto, the fort is in an area where Europeans explored and lived five years before the Pilgrims set out in the Mayflower.

It stands in the shadow of the Jesuit Martyrs' Shrine, twin-spired St. Joseph Roman Catholic Church, which draws thousands of visitors every summer.

And it's not far from the spot where explorer Samuel de Champlain landed in 1615, at a time when Montreal consisted of only two huts and New York was a Dutch farming community of 30 or 40 huts.

The peace at Fort Ste. Marie today is in sharp contrast to the terror of more than 300 years ago when gentle Jesuits met torture and death with unflinching faith. But there are many reminders of those fear-filled last days of the first colonizers and missionaries.

The 16-foot palisade that surrounds this village is one. Another is an escape hatch into a tunnel to the outside, intended to be used in the event of a siege.

BURNED FORT

The hatch was never so used. The Jesuits themselves burned the community in 1649—10 years after it was built—as raiding Iroquois approached after virtually annihilating the proud Huron nation.

Already decimated by famine and disease, only a few Hurons remained of the more than 30,000 whose friendship was courted by Champlain 33 years earlier. These and the remaining French retreated to nearby Christian Island in Georgian Bay to build Fort Ste. Marie II.

There, after a winter of famine, torture and butchery by the Iroquois, the Jesuits abandoned Huronia, returning to Quebec with a handful of surviving Hurons in the spring of 1650.

This was the home of six of North America's eight French Jesuit martyrs. Five were martyred within a few miles of Ste. Marie, the others at Auriesville, N.Y., near Albany, where a sister shrine has been built.

Ste. Marie is the first stage of a multi-million-dollar historical program of the provincial government. Known as the Huronia Project, it will include reconstruction of the naval and military establishment of nearby Fort Penetanguishene, a focal point of the War of 1812.

Dr. Jury says officials were amazed that people around the world grasped so quickly the "unique significance" of the program.

APPEAL FOR FUNDS

"We had no thought that within a year Ste. Marie I would be recognized internationally by the public as one of the hallowed treasures in the heritage of Quebec and Ontario."

With the quickening of interest in the settlement has come a companion appeal for funds to improve accommodation for pilgrims. Also money is needed for a new outdoor chapel and shrine planned for nearby St. Ignace where St. Jean de Brebeuf and St. Gabriel Lalemant were tortured and martyred by the Iroquois in 1649.

"The need is real," said Rev. J. F. McCaffrey, shrine director. "We must not allow the religious significance of the martyrs to be overshadowed by the historical development of Ste. Marie."

Dr. Jury, a Baptist, is honorary curator of the Museum of Indian Archeology and Pioneer Life at the university in London, Ont. He never went beyond Grade 8 in school but his fantastic interest in Indian relics has made him one of Canada's top archeologists.

His only degree is an honorary one from the University of Montreal. Yet his interest in digging up relics, cultivated in his youth on his father's farm outside London, has made him not only a professor but a head of a department.

DONATED BUILDING

Ray Lawson, later to be lieutenant-governor of Ontario, used to join him on digs. Later, when Mr. Lawson gave a building to the university, he stipulated that part of it be set aside for Dr. Jury.

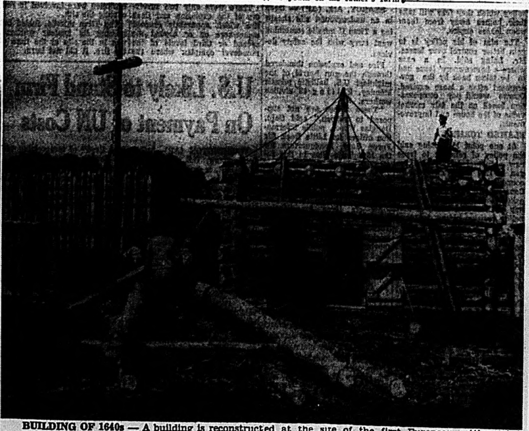
The archeologist's digging has resulted in major discoveries throughout Ontario. He has founded and stocked museums at Penetanguishene and Moraviantown and reconstructed an entire Indian village at Midland. For his work at St. Ignace and Ste. Marie, he received the thanks and blessing of Pope Pius XII.

Dr. Jury has also been received by the present Pope. Early this year he was accompanied to the Vatican by Jesuit leader Rev. Thomas L. Swain. During an audience with Pope Paul, Father Swain told of Dr. Jury's long association with Ste. Marie.

Father Swain, 57-year-old native of Kemptville, Ont., is one of four assistants to the new vicar-general of the Society of Jesus, Rev. Pedro Arrupe of Spain, and was active in earlier years in planning the first excavations and research which led eventually to the reconstruction of Ste. Marie.

NAZIS REMANDED

TORONTO (CP)—Seven self-styled Nazis arrested as they carried a swastika flag on a march through Allan Gardens here July 25, appeared in court Tuesday on charges of unlawful assembly and were remanded to Sept. 28. Among them is Will- [illegible] 23, leader of the local Nazi group.



BUILDING OF 1640s — A building is reconstructed at the site of the first European settlement in Ontario at Ste. Marie, half a mile south of Georgian Bay. When the painstaking work is completed in 1967 St. Marie on the Wye River will look as it did in the 1640s. The buildings are being erected using 300-year-old construction methods. Jesuit priests burned the fort in 1649 as raiding Iroquois approached. (CP Photo)

Holds Quints For First Time

By FRANK HODGE

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP)—The mother of New Zealand's quintuplets held two of her babies for the first time today and then went home from hospital.

It was the first time Shirley Ann Lawson was allowed to touch any of the five babies born July 27.

The 26-year-old mother said she was "overawed by the experience."

"The babies are so wobbly I felt nervous," she said, "but it's marvelous to hold them."

Mrs. Lawson telephoned her husband, Sam, and told him to come to the National Women's Hospital for her "as soon as possible."

Workshop Will Explore Newspaper as Teaching Aid

TORONTO (CP) — Forty-nine teachers from across Canada will meet with newspaper editors and publishers at the University of Waterloo Aug. 15-27 to explore the use of the newspaper as a teaching aid.

Sponsored by the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association, the workshop will teach effective use of the newspaper in the classroom.

Patterned after a project started by the American Newspaper Publishers Association in 1958, the workshop will be the third held in Canada. The last two years it has been at Carleton University, Ottawa.

The course, to be attended by teachers from all provinces except Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, will include discussion groups led by teachers who have attended previous workshops, editors and publishers and experts in several educational fields.

Topics will include "freedom of speech, responsibilities of the press and censorship" discussed by Basil Dean, publisher of the Edmonton Journal, and "the processes of learning" discussed by Prof. Ralph Dent of the department of extension education, University of Guelph.

Grace Mersereau, a teacher at Ross Sheppard Composite School in Edmonton, will direct a seminar on how to run a workshop.

A special address will be delivered by External Affairs Minister Martin and there will be talks by teachers and professors from the Kitchener - Waterloo area as well as such newspaper men as Rosss Munro, publisher of the Winnipeg Tribune, Sydney Katz, Toronto Star features editor, and Richard Graybiel, general manager of the Windsor Star.

USED AS TEXTBOOK

The local daily newspaper may be the most up-to-date textbook a teacher can find, says Jeanette Conway, director of information services for the CDNPA, an association of 108 dailies.

But children often seem to find that everything in the paper except the comics belongs to a confusing adult world unrelated to what they learn at school, she says.

Miss Conway, a member of the committee organizing the workshop, adds that teachers won't be the only ones to benefit from the course.

"A better - educated citizenry will benefit if youngsters get into the habit of reading a newspaper every day.

"Things are changing so fast in our technologically advanced world that textbooks just can't keep up with the latest developments.

"It's becoming terribly important to get children to read the newspapers and to get them to understand what they are reading."

Teachers are sponsored by their hometown newspapers, which pay their expenses. And during their stay here they will take side trips to the Stratford Festival and Niagara Falls, to the Canadian National Exhibition, the stock exchange and the new Telegram plant in Toronto, and to the Douglas Point nuclear power station on Lake Huron

Singapore Secedes

The withdrawal of the island state of Singapore from the Federation of Malaysia is a serious blow to the integrity of that region.

Geographically, Singapore, lying at the foot of the Malaya peninsula, is to all intents and purposes part of Malayasia. But politically, it is a different story. The split is the outcome of political rivalry between the Malaysian Chinese who dominate the economy of the federation, and the Malays who control the federal government in Kuala Lumpur.

This new development raises the question, how will it affect Malaysia's relations with a neighboring and hostile Indonesia? Premier Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore has stated he wants to be friends with Indonesia, which has sworn to crush Malaysia. He added, however, that co-operation with Indonesia would be impossible unless the Indonesians recognize Singapore as a sovereign, independent nation.

In Jakarta, Indonesia's Deputy Premier Subandrio said Indonesia was ready to recognize Singapore, but would continue its hostile policy toward the federation.

The Singapore leader also said his government would trade with all countries, including Communist China.

The outcome of all this is likely to be the opening up of a new beach-head for political infiltration on the part of both Indonesia and Red China. Trade and the exchange of diplomatic missions are two ways in which such a threat might be effected.

Singapore has agreed to continue close relations with Malaysia in certain spheres. The separation agreement included a pledge "not to undertake to enter into any treaty or agreement with a foreign country which may be detrimental to the independence and defence of the territory of the other party."

Nevertheless, the secession of Singapore from the Malaysian Federation cannot but give rise to grave misgivings. The rift that led to the separation may widen with the passage of time and events, and the promises of co-operation may prove as worthless as the paper on which they are set out.

Weather Picture

It has been hot and sticky in Belleville of ate and the sun has been a little wan. And his followed a period of unseasonably low temeratures which broke records for August.

As we write a fine drizzle is falling, the reets are wet and umbrellas add a little color an otherwise grey scene. The weather chart laces the blame on a disturbance over Lake uron giving cloudy skies, warm humid tempertures, scattered showers and thunderstorms to uthern and central sections of Ontario.

It has been a good summer thus far; and in is respect we are better off than the luckless ritons whose economic misfortunes have been mpounded by yet another of those wet, soggy mmers that turn the thoughts of many to nigration.

Still, there is no harm in a bit of variety the weather scene. If anything, our climate too stable, too lacking in surprises, whereas in ritain you may experience wind and rain and nshine and even a hail shower or two all in the ace of an afternoon. And there are few periences more exhilarating than to sit on a nely beach when the wind is brisk and watch e pounding surf. Yet there are many people this continent who have never even set eyes the ocean.

In France, whose climate is akin to our n, the Weatherman has been serving up some range offerings. An unseasonably cold wave unged temperatures to freezing in inland gions. In the town of Neoux for example the nperature went down to 32 and it was the ldest August 9 on record.

Columnist Sydney J. Harris has quoted some t words of John Ruskin on this subject. "Sunine is delicious," wrote Ruskin. "Rain is freshing, wind braces up, snow is exhilarating, ere is really no such thing as bad weather, ly different kinds of good weather."

There can be few things more relieving than absence of a mail service. No one has asked for money for a week, except by telephone d telegraph. I miss our friendly and efficient stman, but I wonder if we have not stumb- across the next major breakthrough in lization—a period each summer, two weeks so, when all means of communication between man beings are suspended.—Scott Young in e Globe and Mail.

Nursing Mothers Warned To Avoid Certain Drugs

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: After nursing my baby for three months I discontinued for a month because I was taking antibiotics for an infection. During this time I removed my milk with a breast pump.

Since I want to nurse the baby for at least nine or ten months, I have resumed, but my milk supply has decreased to about half. Can this be increased?

What foods and medicines should a nursing mother avoid? — Mrs. M. B.

It is not unusual for the milk supply to dwindle after four months despite stimulation from suckling, or, as in your case, use of a breast pump.

There's no way to increase the supply. Of course, a good many mothers continue nursing, but supplement the feedings

A nursing mother can eat all foods, but certain drugs should be avoided.

Among them are sedatives; narcotics; stimulants as are found in appetite-control pills, "pep pills," and the like; penicillin and other antibiotics.

An occasional aspirin, or something to overcome a mildly upset stomach, would be permissible.

Some drugs are excreted in the milk. Therefore avoid any of them that are taken continuously, unless you have specific instructions from your physician.

Dear Dr. Molner: My father has emphysema along with a very bad heart condition. I have heard of a respirator, which helped a friend who has emphysema. Would this instrument be beneficial to my father or would it overtax his heart? — Miss L.D.

A certain type of respirator is often helpful in emphysema. I see no reason why it would be harmful to the heart; the reverse, if anything, would be the case. However, the wise thing would be for your father to ask his doctor whether a respirator would be helpful.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I read an article about a hormone pill for older women to regain the appearance and feelings of youth. Is there such a thing? — Mrs. O. W.

Let's not exaggerate. Ponce de Leon went searching for a "fountain of youth" but that was back in the days when people still seriously believed in witchcraft, magic potions and alchemy.

Hormones can be very helpful, but they can be dangerous if used promiscuously. The amount and the proper type must be supervised and determined by your doctor, and medications with any substantial hormone content must be obtained on prescription.

There is some evidence that older women benefit from use of female hormones, even well past menopause.

This does not mean that wrinkles, greying hair and a slowing step will disappear. You may feel better but to say that you regain "the feelings of youth" is going too far.

Hormones should be taken only with a realistic understanding of what is possible and wise. So should over-enthusiastic articles.

'Home' Where The Heart Is

Guelph Mercury

While he may have over-emphasized the point there can be little doubt that a witness before the Bilingualism-Biculturalism board the other day was right. He said that many French-Canadians with larger executive potential refuse promotions which would transfer them outside Quebec. Their fear is that their wives would be unhappy in a non-French environment and that for lack of French-language schools their children would forget their native tongue, which is the key to the French-Canadian culture.

The testimony was all the more convincing because it was given by a non-Frenchman who works for an "English" company.

Ontario scoffers should not too loudly dispute the claim that Quebeckers will pass up promotions rather than leave their native province. A parallel is to be found in British Columbia. Once there, people who have moved from other parts of Canada become so enamored of the British Columbia scenery and climate, despite the interminable winter rains, that they cannot bear to leave. There is more than one instance of an executive transferred by his nation - wide firm to the Pacific begging off a transfer back east after a few years, even though that means forfeiting promotion and, in line with some companies' politics, being 'frozen' in his B.C. post for the remainder of his working years.

Strictly Personal

Soon to Be No Need For Want

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The world is ruled by energy, in one form or another. This is the meaning of much of what we call "history" — the wars, conquests, explorations, revolutions. Men were looking for newer and greater sources of energy that could be transmuted into wealth.

In the early days, slaves were energy, along with water and wind, coal and wood. There was never enough energy in the world, never enough production of goods, never enough wealth to do away with the gross inequalities among men and nations.

Today we stand on the threshhold of a new liberation of energy — an impending revolution that makes Marxian doctrine as obsolete as the dinosaur. Most of the reasons — the physical reasons — for conquest, war and revolution are simply out of date, or will be soon. It is our tragedy that we do not know it yet.

The first element in this liberation is the rise of automation. Rather than fearing the spectre of automation, we should welcome it, plan for it, adjust our social, political and economic theories to it. It can be damaging only if we arrive at it unprepared and unwilling to pay the price for it.

One of the most respected men in the field, Herbert A. Simon of the Carnegie Institute, has this week published a book, "The Shape of Automation," in which he makes the categorical statement:

"Acquiring the technical capacity to automate production as fully as we wish . . . means that our capacity per capita to produce will continue to increase far beyond the point where any lurking justification will remain for poverty or deprivation. We will have the means to rule out scarcity as mankind's first problem and to attend to other problems that are more serious."

Secondly, it is probably that this last third of the 20th century will see the Industrial Revolution enter its final phase — the liberation of thermonuclear energy, for use everywhere on the globe. This breakthrough would move us into an entirely new phase of human history, making obsolete the old concepts of work, of production, of economics.

But the great disaster of our century may be that we are hurtled into a catastrophic world conflict on the basis of ideologies that are outmoded, rivalries that are meaningless, and power struggles that have no rational goals — before we have time to demonstrate that the future need not be like the past. We desperately need a new set of attitudes a much broader perspective, to match the revolutionary aspects of our new technology.

Quebec Eskimo Controversy

Montreal Gazette

The long controversy between Ottawa and Quebec over who is to have administration over the Eskimos has been something more than an exhibition of obstinacy or annoyance. This is a different question than many of the others that have arisen in federal-provincial relations. It is not a matter of Quebec claiming unqualified rights that it possesses under the constitution, so much as a matter of what extent Ottawa and Quebec may agree to share a field in which both have interest, and where Ottawa's constitutional responsibility has been established by the decision of the courts.

The fact is that Ottawa has been conducting the administration of Eskimo affairs since the 1930's, not because it either chose or wished to do so. The responsibility was forced upon the federal Government by a decision of the Supreme Court of Canada. The Quebec Government of that time wished to have no responsibility in this field. It carried the case to the Supreme Court (and would, presumably, have carried it to the Privy Council) on the argument that this is a federal, and not a provincial responsibility under the constitution. The Supreme Court ruled that Eskimos are Indians, and therefore, under the meaning of the B.N.A. Act, are, like other Indians, under the responsibility of Ottawa.

It is not possible for Ottawa now simply to vacate the field, or to negotiate away what the constitution imposes upon it. This could be done only if the Supreme Court of Canada, in another judgment, were to reverse its decision of 1939, or if the British North America Act were to be amended. The negotiations, then, have been over the question of transfering the administration of the Eskimos from Ottawa to Quebec, so that Quebec would, in effect, be exercising delegated authority. But the final legislative authority would still rest in Ottawa.

The question has been raised in the House of Commons whether such an arrangement is itself constitutional, in view of a Supreme Court decision of 1951. This decision laid down the principle that no federal or provincial government could give away any of its responsibilities set out in the constitution.

But supposing that such a transfer of administration is constitutionally justified, it would still rest on a very different basis than other claims that Quebec has made in recent years to occupy fields hitherto occupied by the federal Government. In these other cases, Quebes was only asserting its rights under the constitution, for these were fields that had become occupied by Ottawa, largely because Quebec, like other provinces, had been prepared to assume these obligations directly, or had not sufficiently asserted its constitutional rights. But the case of the Eskimos is not quite of this kind. They are constitutionally a federal responsibility, in the same way the Indians are.

It is understandable that Quebec wishes to assert its full rights over all persons living within its boundaries, especially as it might wish to apply to the Eskimos its rights in such fields as education and health. But a sharing of authority between Ottawa and Quebec is unlikely to prove easy.

The federal Government has been conducting the administration of Eskimo affairs over a very considerable period, and has developed its own programs. It has said that one of the conditions for the transfer to Quebec will be that the administration must be carried on in accordance with the standards the federal Government has established.

But if administration over the Eskimos goes to Quebec, while the legislative authority over the Eskimos remains with Ottawa, what happens if the exercise of administrative and legislative powers conflict? Possibly the curiously differing statements about whether an agreement had been reached or not, as issued from Ottawa, may reflect the federal Government's inner conflicts as much as its outward confusions.

• • •

Nor can it be forgotten that what is involved most of all in this matter are the natural rights of the Eskimos as human beings. As human beings they must have their own wishes as to how they want to live in the years ahead. The agreement to "consult" them should not be so vague as to amount to little more than informing them of what is to happen, whether they wish it or not. This would be hard treatment.

To say that they are "wards" or "charges" only deepens the responsibility to them as human beings. It makes all the greater, rather than any the less, their right to have a voice in one of the greatest decisions that will ever affect their lives.

"No meat whatsoever may be served in any public eating place on Tuesdays or Fridays" said Prices and Supply Representative of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board today. The ban includes meat all the way from hot dogs to the choicest steaks and it includes any dishes containing meat such as stews, spaghetti, hamburgers and, in fact, any meat combinations. Neither canned pork and beans nor kitchen prepared dishes of pork and beans which contain strips of bacon, may be served.

It was pointed out that fish and poultry may be served. So too may milk products and eggs. Restaurants may serve soup of which meat is an ingredient. The purpose of meatless days is to cut down meat consumption on the part of persons eating out. It was estimated that 350,000 pounds of meat were saved each meatless day during the last meat rationing period.

The Old Boys' Reunion of 1925 has passed into history; it was a grand success. The last visible signs of the visit of thousands of former residents disappeared today when flags and bunting and other decorations which have been up for ten days, were taken down and the streets returned to normal appearance after the excitement of the home comings and the big doings.

Mr. Ned Ridley is home from Montreal to spend his vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cameron are spending two weeks at Metis Beach, Quebec.

The Trenton Electric Light and Power Company has advised the city officials that the company possesses a pulmotor, which is primarily for the use of its employees, but that the management will gladly place it at the disposal of Belleville should occasion make necessary its use.

From our file copy at this time in 1895: "Mr. John W. Butterfield has purchased the building at the southeast corner of Bridge and Front Streets in which Mr. D. M. Water's drug store is located. Mr. Butterfield intends to put the building in first class condition.

The excursion of the steamer Brockville to Napanee yesterday was largely patronized and the outing was most enjoyable. Captain Christie is in command of the boat and he arranged everything for the enjoyment of his passengers. The sail up the Napanee River is beautiful.

Farce

Fredericton Gleaner

Unfortunately for the country this is not a theatrical farce our $18,000-a-year actors are playing at Ottawa but the business of the nation which in disgust sees its legislators talking one way and voting another and setting an example of inattention, absenteeism and cynicism which is undermining all confidence in the elected branch of Parliament.

British Trust Short Position 25,000 Shares

TORONTO (CP)—The short position in trading of the Stratford - based British Mortgage and Trust Co. now is about 25,000 shares, Lt. Gen. Howard Graham, president of the Toronto Stock Exchange said Tuesday.

Gen. Graham said, however, that the effective short position is considerably below 25,000 shares because some brokers may not have delivered stock to cover their short positions although they are technically able to do so.

The 88-year-old British Mortgage lost $1,050,000 on the shares of Atlantic Acceptance Corp., which collapsed in mid-June after defaulting on several million dollars in short-term notes.

The exchange, the Investment Dealers Association of Canada, and the Broker-Dealers Association of Ontario had formed a committee to determine the short position in an effort to clear confusion resulting from heavy short-selling in British Mortgage shares.

Kiwanis Members Hear Talk On Space and Communications

The man on the moon may be part earthman.

Not really.

However, according to Doug Hinton, Supervisor of Engineering Training of the Bell Telephone Engineering School, there is evidence now available to support the old hypothesis that the moon was once part of the earth.

Speaking to Kiwanis members at their regular weekly meeting yesterday, Mr. Hinton said: "We know from measurements of earth stresses that there must have been a tremendous shock to the earth at one time. To produce the violent stress which is detectable in the earth's surface there is a revival of the notion that a portion of the earth broke away from a point in the Pacific Ocean where there is a very large depression."

Mr. Hinton addressed Kiwanis on the subject of "Space and Communications."

He told his audience that many long-standing scientific hypotheses are being either proved or disproved by the advances in scientific knowledge. "Never has there occurred such giant steps forward in the communications art," he said. "Paralleling and dependent on communications is the almost fantastic advance seen in the development of space science over the last decade.

"Data is pouring into earth from the various satellites at the rate of 50 miles ,or so, of magnetic computer tape per 24-hour day. This represents about five billion characters per day.

EARTH PEAR-SHAPED

"We have found the earth, to the accuracy of a few feet, to be somewhat pear-shaped, with a middle aged bulge just below the equator.

"From the measured shape and the measurements, from satellites, of the gravitation field we know that such uneven forces require the earth's structure to be much greater than previously supposed or the force driving the convection currents in the molten core to be equally greater. The classic theory of a plastic mantle over a molten core is in real doubt. The notion of continental drift forming the present continental configuration from several original large masses is highly unlikely. The mantle must have consistency approaching a solid to realize the structural strength.

"If we look on the surface of the earth," he said, "we could see a backbone of microwave radio systems now operating which could handle thousands of telephone channels and a few TV programs simultaneously. Europe and the USSR have, to a limited degree, similar facilities reaching to the northeast corner of Siberia. This leaves the possibility of spanning the Bering Strait. The end result is a network linking all of the Northern Hemisphere which, along with southern extensions, would feed Africa and South America.

"In view of the fact that this network, except for a few places, would be required for interconnection of relatively nearby cities, which could not justify the space route, we could almost have global facilities without space systems."

The speaker also told his audience of the great advances in the submarine cable routes and said they have almost reached the point where it will be possible to transmit video through these cables.

"If the use of communications increases on the present scale, with data transmission blooming, then goodness knows where the end of our requirements will be. The exciting years ahead will no doubt bring us a greater share of life, greater opportunities to understand our fellow man and an even better chance to improve the technology."

Two Women Swindle Widow Of $3,800

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Police are searching for two women who they say swindled a widow in her 70s of $3,800 after telling her they were going to split with her a large sum of money they had found.

Police said the widow, whose name was not released, met a woman in a store Monday who told her a friend had found a large sum of money and didn't know what to do with it. The friend said her employer, a lawyer, had advised her to keep the money and say nothing.

The woman said she would split the money with the other two, but would be best to have some extra money when the split took place so that if they were caught, the money in their possession would be more than the amount she had found.

Police said the widow agreed to furnish the extra money and cashed bonds against the advice of her bank manager. She gave $3,800 to the two women who said they would meet her in an hour. They never showed up.

Suits to End Poll Tax Filed In Three States

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Officials of Texas, Virginia and Alabama today were examining government suits to abolish the poll tax to determine what action to take.

In Texas, Attorney - General Waggoner Carr said he would file an answer after the necessary study and preparation.

Similar reactions were expressed in Virginia and Alabama where the justice department also sued to abolish the poll tax.

The suits were filed Tuesday, the same day federal examiners began registering Negroes to vote in nine southern counties and parishes in Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi.

A civil service spokesman said in Washington that 1,144 Negroes registered to vote on the first day of federally supervised registration under the 1965 voting rights law.

TO EASE VOTING

Both the registration and the suits to abolish the poll tax are designed to make it easier for Negroes to vote.

Judge Refuses Accused Bail

MONTREAL (CP) — Judge Armand Cloutier refused bail Tuesday for Andre Lariviere, 47, charged with conspiracy and performing an abortion on a young woman two months ago.

Judge Cloutier turned down a request for bail from defence lawyer Maurice Hebert, who said he needed his client's liberty to prepare his case for the cross - examination of prosecution witnesses.

Mr. Hebert suggested bail of $5,000 in cash, in addition to the sum of $15,000 deposited Monday when Lariviere was arraigned on 12 charges of inde- [illegible] women who had come to his office for [illegible] or related treatment.

Crown Prosecutor Jean-Guy Boilard objected to bail on grounds that the new charge was the more serious in that "the young woman in the case came within an inch of dying as a result of complications."

Man Objects To Pensions, Refuses Salary

TORONTO (CP) — An employee of the Toronto Transit Commission, who believes that a Christian should not be forced to join a pension plan, has not cashed a pay cheque since February although they've been piling up at the rate of two a month.

It's a low-key form of protest for John T. Ladyman of suburban Swansea, against the compulsory contributions taken out of his wages for the TTC pension plan.

Barring the unexpected, Mr. Ladyman will continue to go to work. "I haven't thought about the future," he said. "God will take care of everything."

Asked how he can afford to live without his pay cheques he said: "When you don't live up to your income, you have resources."

Strikes

Saskatoon's problems began when work halted Tuesday on at least 10 major construction projects as members of building trade unions refused to cross picket lines set up by 55 sheet-metal workers.

At Sault Ste. Marie, construction projects were halted for the second time in two weeks as 200 plumbers and pipe fitters went on strike Tuesday in contract disputes over wages, overtime and vacation pay.

The strikers, members of local 508, United Association of Plumbers and Pipe Fitters (CLC), are stopping more than $10,000,000 worth of construction in the city.

Ottawa's Mayor Donald Reid, announced he would ask provincial Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree to intervene in a strike that has been tying up building worth $32,000,000 since the first week in June.

Three different striking building unions are demanding they be allowed to honor other Ottawa picket lines.

But Toronto's construction problems seemed over as 500 plasterers and 4,500 carpenters reached back - to - work agreements Monday to end a seven-week strike.

While the series of unauthorized postal strikes is over, the issues are not dead. Strike vote ballots have gone out across the country and postal workers in most large centres continue to register dissatisfaction with a $510-to-$550 annual pay raise.

In Ontario, price cuts in the amount shippers receive for milk used by powdered and concentrated milk manufacturers brought a threatened province - wide strike — a threat one creamery manager Tuesday called "a lot of hot air."

But about 600 shippers in Grey and Bruce counties in Western Ontario voted last week to go on strike Sept. 15 and then set out to raise support from all of the 15,000 farmers who ship milk in the province.

In the H. J. Heinz dispute, union and company officials met Tuesday night in Toronto with Labor Minister Rowntree and were to meet again today in an attempt to end a strike by 1,100 Leamington employees.

Members of local 459, United Packinghouse, Food and Allied Workers Union (CLC), have been on strike against the Heinz company since July 27 concerning overtime pay during the busy picking season.

Elsewhere the American Motors (Canada) Ltd. plant at Brampton faced a strike threat. James Peters, president of local 1285, United Automobile Workers (CLC), said Tuesday that unless a new contract is signed by the weekend, 1,250 members of the union will walk out.

at a press conference Tuesday if the administration was retreating from its position that the Russians must pay up or lose their vote in the UN General Assembly.

He replied that so far as he was concerned he was thinking in terms of retaliation rather than retreat.

Dirksen went on to say that he thinks the United States should put its cards on the table and call for a showdown in the United Nations.

Goldberg described as "not accurate" a published report that he would agree to shelve article 19 of the UN charter which says countries two years in arrears in payments shall have no vote in the General Assembly. The report said that after the Soviets were allowed to vote they would make a voluntary contribution to the peace keeping fund.

"This matter is still under discussion and our position will be explained fully and clearly when the committee of 33 convenes Aug. 16", Goldberg said. The 33-nation committee was set up to study the "no dues-no vote" situation.

SERVICE HELD

TORONTO (CP) — Funeral service was held Tuesday for Alfred Floyd Potter, 65, central region forestry superintendent for the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, who died Sunday. Mr. Potter was a prominent athlete who played senior baseball and softball in the United States and hockey, basketball, golf, football, track and field, bowling and curling in Hamilton, Niagara Falls, Ont., and Toronto.

Parry Island Indian Girl Finds Good Reason to Give Up Home Comforts

By ROSEMARY SPEIRS

TORONTO (CP)—"I haven't slept in a bed for a month," sighed 17 - year - old Lenora Miller.

But she wasn't complaining. The Parry Island Indian girl had found good reason to give up the comforts of home.

Lenora had spent four weeks learning leadership skills and helping run day camps for children.

She was one of six Indian girls from Parry Island and Cape Croker reserves who took part in an integrated YWCA work camp for Indian and white girls.

The 13 teenagers spent their first week in leadership training at Parry Sound on Georgian Bay, then moved seven miles to the Parry Island reserve where they ran a morning camp for children.

"It was uncomfortable but it was worth it," says Marjorie Smith of Toronto, the camp's director. "We learned a lot from each other."

The girls spent afternoons and evenings learning to run meetings and planning projects for the winter months on the reserve.

WORKED AT CAMP

"We made it a work camp because we thought the girls could learn to know one another best if they were kept busy on some worthwhile project," says Glenna Graham of Toronto, the Y's national program director.

The fourth and final week was spent in Galt where the teen-agers helped in a YWCA camp for children 10 and 11.

Giving the girls experience in both ways of life was one of the most important aspects of the experiment, Miss Graham says.

"We wanted to show there are needs to be served in both communities and that there are problems and advantages to both ways of life."

The work camp was the result of more than a year's planning by the Y executive and members of the Parry Island band council.

"It can be a big mistake to go barging in assuming you know best how to help people," Miss Graham says. "We worked for many months with the Parry Island band to make sure we were not doing something that would just irritate them."

The result was eager participation in the project by the band council and an equal-partners atmosphere at the camp.

Financial support came from the community programs branch of the Ontario department of education, from several schools and clubs and from the Indian council. The reserve supplied the girls' food and a cook.

FREE HAIRDOS

Galt brought some firsts for the Indian girls—free hairdos at two city beauty parlors and a chance to play miniature golf.

The learning was not all one-sided, however.

"The Indian girls taught us how to dye porcupine quills and make designs with them on birch-bark jewel boxes," said Marilyn Fair of Hamilton. "Then they showed us how to griod the edges with sweet grass."

Miss Graham says part of the reason for the camp was to prove teen-agers can do this kind of job. Now that it has proved its point, it will not be repeated. She is hopeful both groups of girls will go to other camps as leaders next year.

"We've shown the kind of approach we think should be taken in helping Indians and we've set up a model which other groups can use in planning their own camps.

"Even if no one chooses to follow our example, we've accomplished one thing—two little groups of girls have learned mutual understanding and respect."

EXTRAS IMPROVE SALAD

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Somehow there's something unusually appealing about a baby playing with his feet or just kicking up his heels at random. But your baby's foot-play is more than a joy to behold. It's an important part of foot and muscle development. The curling and uncurling of tiny toes . . . the stretching, pushing and pulling, all play a strengthening role in preparing those exquisite extremities for future activities: creeping, standing, walking. Great self-developers, babies.

•

Another developing idea. One of the great helps to baby's growth and muscle development is protein. Gerber Protein Cereal Food provides your baby with an excellent source of protein, in a delightfully palatable form. It has a 35% protein content and a tasty, toasty, nut-like flavour. Like all Gerber Cereals, it has added iron and important vitamins—thiamine (B1), riboflavin (B2), and niacin. And, like the other Gerber Cereals, it stirs to smooth perfection—in seconds.

Occupational hazards. Once your baby gets to be the least bit mobile, assorted bumps, falls and bruises are unavoidable. Certainly you'll want to comfort your cherub when minor mishaps occur but it isn't wise to over-sympathize. Being too protective may actually instill a fear of trying new educational adventures.

•

Good eating habits start early... and what better way to begin than by introducing your little one to the enticing variety of Gerber Strained or Junior Vegetables. Each is "custom-cooked" according to its own requirements . . . to help preserve garden-fresh colours, garden-good flavours, and important nutritional values. 8 strained, 3 junior varieties.

•

Travel tip. Gerber Teething Biscuits make good "traveling companions" when you and baby go visiting. They're individually wrapped in sparkling cellophane so you can put them in pocket or purse with purity preserved. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD VERNON BURTT

Burtt – Leland

On Saturday, August 7th, in St. George's Anglican Church, Trenton, Canon Kenneth F. Blachford officiated at the ceremony when Nancy Anne Leland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Leland, Trenton, was united in marriage to Edward Vernon Burtt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon A. Burtt, Belleville. The organist, Mr. Bruce Johnston, played traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie in Empire style enhanced with long lily-point sleeves. The waist and hemline were outlined with a pearl border design and the back of the skirt was highlighted with a flowing train. Her headdress was a full length Chantilly lace mantilla with train and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Edna Kenny as matron of honor and the bridesmaids, Miss Gail Margetson, Miss Judi Watson and junior bridesmaid, Miss Donna-Lee Hastie, all wore floor length aqua peau de soie dresses featuring scooped necklines and satin chiffon sleeves. Each carried a bouquet of white carnations tinted aqua to match their dresses.

Mr. Roger Camp of Trenton attended the bridegroom, while Mr. William Powell of Belleville and Mr. Robert Leland, brother of the bride, were the ushers.

The reception followed in the Canterbury Hall at Trenton, where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a pink brocaded dress of peau de soie with matching pink accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who wore a turquoise Chantilly lace over taffeta dress with satin trim at waist, white accessories and a corsage of turquoise tinted 'mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Burtt will reside at 30A Meyers Street, Belleville.

Woman Not Silent Partner In Company

CALGARY (CP)—Jean Murdoch, partner in a Calgary construction firm, never had any real trouble dealing with men.

"You don't have to boss them around too much. You can be nice and get the same reaction. It's always worked for me."

A soft-spoken, dark - haired woman, Miss Murdoch has no engineering degree or special training in the construction business. She learned by experience.

Raised on a farm near Crossfield, Alta., 22 miles north of Calgary, she gained "a pretty good working knowledge of the fundamentals of buildings."

Later, after attending high school, she took a business course in Calgary and during the war years worked in a bank.

Just after the war, she explains, the professions "were wide open." Today a woman might need more formal training to crack the construction business.

NO SILENT PARTNER

In 1953, she joined Edward Walden in partnership in Walden Construction Ltd., a general construction firm dealing mainly in school, office building and bank work.

She is no silent partner. She estimates the removal of dirt for excavation; the amount of concrete required for a foundation; the amount of brick or masonry needed. She handles estimates from electricians, carpenters and plasterers to help her firm make a bid on a job.

The granddaughter of George Murdoch, the first mayor of Calgary, she says she is still learning her trade and loves her work.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS JAMES REDPATH

Redpath – Wilbur

Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, was the scene of a lovely summer wedding on Saturday, August 7, 1965 at 3.30 p.m. when Elizabeth Eleanore Wilbur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton C. Wilbur of Belleville was united in marriage to Thomas James Redpath of St. Catharines, son of Mrs. Martha Redpath. Rev. H. M. Davis was the officiating minister and the organist was Mr. A. Gordon. Mr. K. Graham sang two selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of organza over taffeta, featuring an A-line skirt banded by two rows of imported Venetian lace and sprinkled with small appliques of the same lace. The sleeveless top was offset by a short jacket appliqued with Venetian lace on the edges. A watteau train was caught by a bow at the back of the shoulders. Her veil of imported fine illusion was held by a wedding ring headpiece made of the same lace as the trim on the gown. She carried a cascade of white orchids, stephanotis and ivy.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Donald Rea of Niagara Falls, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Kenneth Graham of Belleville and Miss Barbara Bennett of Kingston, wore identical street length dresses of white silk crepe in a semi-fitted, sleeveless, sheath design with shoe string straps and hip-length over-blouses of white Chantilly lace with rounded necklines and bouffant wrist length sleeves. Their headresses were circlets of matching material with narrow lace-covered bows holding shoulder length veils of white tulle. They carried cascade bouquets of English ivy and stephanotis interspersed with large white mums.

Mr. Stanley Holomego of St. Catharines attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Mr. Kenneth Fraser of Toronto, Mr. Jack Scantlebury of Cobourg and Mr. Frank Weaver of Toronto.

The reception was held at the Sun Valley Motor Inn where the bride's table was attractively appointed and centred with a four-tier wedding cake topped with bells and encircled at the base with tulle and inserts of tiny rosebuds. The bride's mother received the guests wearing a pink linen sheath dress with full length lace coat, pink accessories and a purse corsage of tiny white roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a pastel blue dress enhanced with lace bodice and tiered skirt, and pink rosebud corsage.

For the wedding trip to Washington and Cape Cod the bride chose a two-piece knit suit in camel shade and styled with a lace yoke insert at front and a pencil slim skirt. To compliment her ensemble she wore green accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Redpath will reside at 9 Alberta Street, St. Catharines.

CRICKET WORMS TURN

ABBOTSBURY, England (CP) The cricket team of this Dorsetshire village was jubilant when it put out the whole visiting team of a nearby atomic energy establishment for just 14 runs. Their mood changed when the scientists bowled them out for 13.

WEDDING

TRIMBLE — LUCK

Pink and white gladioli formed the background setting in St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Anglican Church, Belleville, on Saturday, August 7, 1965, when Mary Louise Luck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Luck, Belleville, was united in marriage to Samuel Carleton Trimble, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Carleton Trimble of Orange, Texas, U.S.A. Rev. J. A. Dunlop, minister of the church, officiated and Mr. Scott Bradford presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of white peau de soie enhanced with fitted bodice and slim skirt and highlighted with a fitted white lace jacket with elbow-length sleeves. A finger-tip veil of French Maline flowed from a circlet headdress of organza rosebuds. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli.

Miss Catherine McDougall of Toronto, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor wore an A-line styled street length dress of sky blue peau de soie with matching shoes and headdress. She carried a spray of pink carnations and white 'mums. The bridesmaid, Miss Christina Luck, sister of the bride, was similarly attired but in shell pink with matching shoes and headdress. She carried a spray of pink carnations and white 'mums.

Mr. Philip Ayling of Peterborough, uncle of the bride, was groomsman and Mr. John Luck, brother of the bride, and Mr. Frank Mallory, cousin of the bride from Toronto, were the ushers.

For the reception at the Sun Valley Motor Inn the bride's mother received the guests, wearing an aqua sheath of Italian brocade featuring a rounded neckline, tiny sleeves and softly draped bodice, with matching turban and a corsage of pink roses.

The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a lime green lace over crepe suit dress with a white velvet pillbox hat, other white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to Montreal, New York and Texas, the bride chose a geranium pink light wool suit, black straw picture hat trimmed with flowers, other black accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Trimble will reside in Houston, Texas, U.S.A.

Pop the Question Now, Not When It's Too Late

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS: I have been going out with a girl 20. I am 21. We both go out with others, but when we are together we really have a ball.

Doris, I want to tell this girl I love her. Should I? This is the girl I want for my wife. The problem is I have committed myself for three years of study in Europe before I will be making money and able to think of getting married.

The worst part is that I don't know where I stand. Maybe she doesn't love me. Maybe she is just out for the fun. She has lots of dates, but she gives me the royal treatment when we date.

Should we sit down and talk it over or should I keep quiet and keep batting for three years? I would hate to love somebody all that time and then find she married someone else. — FRANTIC FREDDIE.

DEAR FRANTIC: Pop the question, Freddie. Remember, this charmer of yours may want to know where she stands, too! You are both ready to do some serious thinking.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I am 40 but have always been taken for ten years younger than my years. In recent months, however, I notice that the skin on my face is beginning to "droop" in the area from the nose to the mouth, causing lines.

I recently dieted to lose five pounds in a very short period. Could this quick loss of weight cause the sag in the face? I have been applying cream to my face, then massaging with upward (to the eyes) then outward (to the ears) strokes. Is there danger of stretching the skin and do you have more effective methods of eliminating this terrible sagginess? — SAD SAG.

DEAR S.S. — Weight comes off all over when we diet; and when the drop is sudden it may show in sagging skin anywhere. The massaging will help tone up the muscles under the skin. Using a cream, to prevent pulling on skin, is essential. I'm sending you a leaflet "Complexion Care After 50," produced for me by a beauty expert, which describes exercises designed to delay the lines and wrinkles. You'll see that diet counts; also that proper skill in make-up can do much for you.

("Complexion Care After 50," may be had by anyone writing in for it enclosing ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

U.C.W. Discuss Bible Study Methods

Miss Vina Neal, president of the Lindsay Presbyterial United Church Women, led the morning devotions for the second day of the Bay of Quinte Conference United Church Women school being held at Albert College, Belleville.

Mrs. Kenneth Tedford, music director, was assisted by Mrs. A. E. DeNure at the piano, when more than 150 delegates from the seven presbyterials learned new songs and hymns.

Following Bible study in groups, Miss Marion Thompson, travelling secretary of the Board of Women presented the theme for the day. She stated that when Jesus was baptized, it was a "mountain top" experience and He, as we who have high experiences, found Himself in the valley of temptation.

Miss Thompson closed by saying "The truth of Christian proclamation is always a personal one. Jesus' theology of God was somewhat the same as His contemporaries but the inner content was fresh and novel. But it was only His ressurection which brought His disciples to this faith, not His teachings when He was with them."

AFTERNOON SESSION

At the afternoon session, Mrs. R. C. Walker, of Kingston, conference literature secretary, told that public libraries were always anxious to help with good literature and suplementary reading. She included in the list a number of fiction novels with a religious theme.

More discussion groups were followed by a question and answer period where it was noted that every local organization needed a leadership development chairman.

Mrs. Claude Ives, dean of the school introduced the overseas student, Miss Rebecca Wong, student at Covenant College and daughter of the secretary of the Council of Churches of Christ in China, with headquarters in Hong Kong. Miss Wong kept her listeners enthralled with her masterly rendition at the piano of Chopin's "Fantasia Impromptu".

STUDY METHODS

Mrs. Ben Garrett, wife of the Rev. Ben Garrett, pastor of Queen Street United Church, Lindsay, presented a number of Bible study methods that work. In her introduction, she stated that many groups did not wish to have study and in her answer to queries as to why they should, she said that no parent would hand a child a list of behavior rules to follow and then tell the child not to read them; or no one would start on a trip to a definite destination and then throw away the road map.

The presentation included "Name guessing" assignments. In this each person was given the assignment of writing a biography of a Biblical person and presenting the material, without mentioning the name. The name was to be supplied by the listeners. Another assignment was to trace how the Bible came to be in its present state. A third method was to study a Bible story then have several persons presume that they had been present and write the story from differing points of view. Another method was to take a new look at a familiar story and try to discover something which had not been observed before. Yet another method was to take a theme word, for example "bread" and trace it through the Bible.

The Lindsay group had spent several months preparing for this presentation and had discussed at some length the questions "What do you know about Jesus" and "What would you like to know about Him."

The conclusions of the group were: I know that Jesus is Love; that He offers complete forgiveness; that He is a human expression of what God is like; that there is a plan for my death as there was a plan for my birth.

RELIGIOUS PLAY

The final presentation was the third act of a deeply moving religious play entitled "Bitter Heart," which pointed up the power of Jesus after His resurrection. Taking part in the presentations were: Mrs. Peter Milner, Mrs. John Davie, Mrs. Robert Mark, Mrs. Skelta Brandsma, Mrs. Kenneth Bailey and Mrs. Carl Saville, all of Lindsay.

Mrs. Carl Down of Oshawa, conference corresponding secretary, led the vesper service. By special requests, Miss Rebecca Wong brought the evening to a close with a beautifully executed piano solo "Waltz in A Major" by Chopin.

Family Reunions

KELLER CLAN

The annual Keller reunion was held at Col. Roscoe Vanderwater Park at Thomasburg on Sunday with about 70 relatives present.

All sat down to a tasty dinner, after which Herb Keller as chairman and Bessie Tebworth as president welcomed all. Two minutes silence was held in memory of the late Frank Keller of West Huntingdon and Mrs. Mary Keller of Crookston. Minutes of the last reunion were read by the secretary Linda Keller.

The officers were elected as follows: president, Frances Keller or Benson Keller; vice-president, Sheila Switzer; secretary-treasurer, Sadie Keller; committee, Irene Osbourne, and Evelyn Keller.

It wass decided that flowers would be sent to Mrs. Joe Keller who was ill and unable to attend the reunion.

Prizes were presented as follows: biggest shoe among men John Tebworth; biggest shoe among women, Sheila Switzer; married longest, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Keller; youngest baby, John Wayne son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tebworth; coming the shortest distance, Harry Keller; coming the farthest, Fred Alderton, Niagara Falls; youngest married couple Mr. and Mrs. Taylor; largest family was a tie between Mr. and Mrs. Percy Keller and Mr. and Mrs. John Tebworth.

The reunion was interrupted by heavy showers so the children's games were continued at Harry Keller's cottage on Moira Lake at Thomasburg.

The reunion will be held at the same place next year.

Unearned Money Can Be Curse, Breed Resentment

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why are wealthy parents so stingy with their money? I have friends whose parents are loaded yet they don't give their kids a dime just because they are over 21. They seem to think just because they raised their kids and put them through college that's enough.

ANN LANDERS

The children are not bums or loafers. They are respectable hardworking citizens. They make a decent living but they work like slaves to do it. In the meantime their parents live like royalty. They'll never be able to spend all their money if they live to be 150.

Why don't rich parents give their kids money NOW — when they can use it, instead of waiting till they die and then pay the government a big chunk in inheritance taxes?

Please publish your answer. Maybe it will loosen up some tight-fisted old fogies. — K. C. M.

DEAR K. C. M.: Wealthy parents don't owe their children fistfuls of money. You say your friends are respectable and making a decent living. If they are self-respecting as well they would refuse to be subsidized by their parents.

Unearned money can be a curse — a crippling influence that robs individuals of initiative and fills them with guilt. Each of us knows a bright and capable man who was denied the satisfaction of making it on his own because his father handed him a bundle. This "robbing by giving" technique often results in bitter resentment on both sides — and I am foursquare against it.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Five months ago our neighbors were having marital problems. I made the mistake of taking sides. The day they separated the wife came over and called me a meddlesome old witch and suggested that I had my eye on her husband. She ended her tirade by sceraming, "If you had kept your big nose out of our business we could have worked things out."

Now the husband is pestering me to death and I can't get rid of him. He drops over here when he knows my husband is not at home which must look bad to the neighbors. When he telephones me just to chat I have to pretend it is my brother calling and this makes me very uncomfortable.

How can I get him to leave me alone? — CANADIAN CATASTROPHE.

DEAR CANADIAN: If you really want to be left alone, two sentences delivered with conviction will do it. Sample: "I don't want to see you or hear from you again. Consider htis good-bye permanent."

Awkward and self-conscious? Unsure of yourself? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key To Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

F.U. Local 171 Holds Annual Lawn Social

BONARLAW — The Farmers' Union, Local 171, held their second annual lawn social on Wednesday evening at Springbrook Recreation Centre. The evening was off to a big start as Springbrook and Stirling peewee ball teams battled out a score of 8 to 6 in favor of the visitors.

Strawberries and ice cream were served as well as pie and coffee.

For the children the main attraction was the fish pond which was continually surrounded until it closed.

There were about 200 in attendance.

The July meeting of the Ontario Farmers' Union was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harper Bateman. It was decided to send a letter to Agriculture Minister W. Stewart in support of Hastings County Cheese Producers.

Jeanne William was appointed to write a letter to Mr. Stewart. A letter was read by Bob Cosbey from head office regarding the drought area.

The next meeting is to be held on August 12th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McInroy.

The ladies provided lunch.

HOMEMADE LIVER PATE

Believe this or not but my sister Doris declares it to be the truth.

Recently she was on a five-day cruise of the Rhine and at one of the stopovers was served genuine Strassburg pate de fois gras. It was delicious. Later in London when passing Fortnum and Mason's specialty shop on Piccadilly she saw a glass container of it on display in the window. On impulse she went in and asked the price. A gentleman in a frock coat and striped trousers grandly announced "£5." Doris beat a crestfallen retreat—sans liver pate.

But when she came home and described this abortive attempt I said she could make it herself. So I promptly made some, let her taste it and she was happy with the results. So am I.

This Liver Pate is wonderful for a party where you need spreads for canapes and it made dandy sandwiches for us for lunch today.

HOMEMADE LIVER PATE

1 lb. chicken livers (or sliced baby beef liver), 1 tablespoon (1 envelope) plain gelatine, 1¼ cups cold water, 2 chicken bouillon cubes, ½ small onion, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice, 1½ teaspoons salt; 1½ teaspoons Angostura bitters.

Cover livers with water, bring to boil, cover, reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes or until livers are just cooked through. Drain and discard liquid. Put livers through fine knife of food chopper along with the onion. In a small saucepan soak the gelatine in 1 cup of water 5 minutes. Add bouillon cubes and stir over low heat until gelatine and cubes are dissolved. Stir in remaining water, lemon juice and salt. Stir in ground liver and onion and bitters. Beat with rotary beater to blend. Now force through sieve and make it velvet smooth. (I had only about 2 tablespoons of waste sediment left in sieve.) Pour into lightly oiled mould. I used a small rectangular loaf pan 7½ x 3½ x 2½" but a small round bowl would be just as good. Chill until firm.

To unmould, lower mould in to hot water and count up to 10. Invert on serving plate and garnish with curly endive or parsley. Cut into slices and serve as an item on a cold salad plate or better still, cut into cubes or slices and serve on crackers or canapes as hors d'oeuvres.

12 Charges Of Indecent Assault Laid

MONTREAL (CP) — Andre Lariviere, 47, was arraigned in criminal court Monday on 12 charges of indecent assault, and was released on $10,000 property bail for a preliminary hearing Aug. 12.

Police said Lariviere described himself as a psychoanalyst and included among his patients a number of women and girls.

The charges result from an investigation of his methods of treatment and consultation. Lariviere was arrested Saturday.

The investigation followed the suicide of a Canadian girl in Paris earlier this year. Some of the charges date back 13 years.

The French authorities said the suicide involved a young French-Canadian girl who had been receiving some kind of psychiatric treatment for a considerable time.

Upon receiving the report, Mr. Wagner ordered the investigation that led to Lariviere's arrest.

Up to 50 officers took part in the arrest and accompanying raids. Lariviere has offices in suburban Notre Dame de Grace and lives in the neighboring suburb of Westmount.

SEIZE DOCUMENTS

Bundles of case histories and other documents were taken to police headquarters.

The officers went through Lariviere's residence and office, his summer cottage near Ste. Adele, Que., a printing plant he owns at Bethierville, Que., and other facilities.

Police said they have obtained statements in the case from a dozen patients and 15 persons said to have worked for him in various capacities.

Lariviere was described by police as having taken university courses here and other courses in Paris.

But police said they did not know whether he was qualified in medicine, psychology or as a practitioner of psychoanalysis.

He was said to have written several books on psychology. His printing business is called Editions Psychologiques Enrg.

The Canadian Psychoanalysts Society and the Corporation of Psychologists of Quebec said he is not among their members.

At the hearing Monday, Lariviere heard the clerk of the court read out the dozen charges which contained the initials only of the victims of the alleged assaults.

"We offer a substantial bail and the accused himself wants to go ahead as quickly as possible with the preliminary hearing in order to clear himself," defence lawyer Maurice Hebert said.

He said the offence charged is punishable by a maximum of five years in penitentiary.

CROWN OBJECTS

Permanent Crown Prosecutor Jean-Guy Boillard said he objected to bail and that he was ready to proceed with the preliminary hearing immehiately.

Mr. Boillard said he felt that if the accused received bail there would be danger of witnesses being influenced.

"This system existed far too long, until it was broken Saturday," he said.

Judge Blain said the offence was a bailable one but said the accused was not to see or get in touch in any way with any witnesses.

Police have said that members of several prominent Montreal families were "patients" of Lariviere.

Montreal policemen and policewomen and plainclothesmen took part in the investigation by posing as patients.

Lack of Rain Is Affecting Late Berries

PICTON (Staff) — With no rain to speak about during the last three weeks, lack of moisture is even getting to be a problem for can crop growers who have their own irrigation system. Bill Greer of Greer's Canning Company at Wellington, said "I wish we had two or three irrigation outfits".

The factory's one system, which pumps water from Lake Ontario, has been hard put to cover the company's 15 acres of tomatoes. The berry pack is two-thirds complete at Greer's now that most acreages in the area have been gone over for the third time. Greer's seventy pickers finished their third picking on Friday. Five pickings usually take place during a season.

Lack of rain is affecting the late berries. "They need moisture to size up," said Evans Estabrooke. Evans is Fruit and Vegetable specialist with the Ontario Department of Agriculture at Picton.

The Columbia blue raspberry is a crop special only to Prince Edward County. It is not grown commercially anywhere else in Canada or the U.S. according to local canners of the product. Hyatt's and East Lake Canners also process the berries in addition to Greer's Wellington. The berry crop is somewhat less than normal.

Processing of the berry crop will be followed by processing of tomatoes which should start the last week of August.

"We're picking a few right now," said Mr. Greer. Asked if he was getting any requests to process tomatoes from strike-bound Heinz plant in Leamington, Mr. Greer said, "We couldn't handle them if we did". The tomatoes in the Leamington area are only seven to 10 days ahead of the ones in Prince Edward, Mr. Greer estimated and in that period few could be processed here. He felt that the Western Ontario growers would exert enough pressure on the 2,000-man union at Heinz to get them back to work in time to handle their crop.

"We're relying solely on current production now," said dock superintendent Carl Johnston. Scheduled to dock at the High Shore this week is the S.S. Lemoyne, a 16,000-ton capacity ore carrier.

38½ Pounder Hooked Near Glen Island

PICTON (Staff) — The muskie sare biting, report Harry Young of Toronto, former Pictonian, and George Albright of Shelburne. On Monday, they displayed a 38½ pounder, which they took from the Bay of Quinte near Glen Island. It measured 48 inches in length with girth of 24½ inches.

Previously, they had landed two muskies weighing 14 and 22 pounds in Baggott's Bay.

The Rural Scene

PICTON — (Staff) — It has recently been announced that the time for making application for transportation subsidy on hay purchased prior to May 15th, 1965, has been extended to August 31st. It was originally decided to close out this policy on July 31st, however this extension had been granted to enable farmers who failed to get their applications in on time to qualify for the assistance. Through this policy the Ontario Department of Agriculture under the Federal-Provincial agreement has been paying 75% of the total transportation costs on hay up to a maximum of $10 per ton for hay purchased after July 1st, 1964.

CENTENNIAL COMPETITION

Prince Edward County farmers are reminded that applications for the Farmstead Improvement Centennial project should be forwarded to the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Box 470, Picton, before September 1st, 1965. This is an opportunity for all farm people to take part in a project to help beautify Prince Edward County. Any work such as improvement to the approach to the farm, the yard around the house and barn, painting of buildings, fences, removing old fences, buildings and dead trees will qualify under the regulations for this competition. It has hoped that all townships will be well represented.

MUST BE AUTHORIZED

Section 28A of the Ontario Water Resources Commission Act requires that most takings of water in excess of 10,000 gallons in a day be authorized by permit. Individual takings for custom water suppliers during the drought period in Eastern Ontario the following requirements have been established. With respect to short-term or one-time takings, the taker shall report the following data to the Agricultural Representative for submission to the commission. Source, (stream, lake, well, etc.); location (lot, concession, township); rate of taking; amounts of taking by days; purpose; location of use. With respect to repetitive takings, regular application should be made but the applicant need not wait to receive a permit before taking water. In no instance should stream flows be stopped. Sufficient flow should be maintained in the stream to meet downstream uses and the natural functions of the stream.

WILL ATTEND FAIR

Rural young people are reminded of the Livestock and Crops Judging Day to be held Wednesday, August 18th, in conjunction with the Belleville Junior Fair. Registration is at 9.00 a.m. and the entry fee of 50 cents per contestant includes admission to all activities of Junior Day. Contestants will compete in one of three divisions and there will be three areas of competition. Reasons are not required for novices. Car Hits Pole, Parked Autos

DESERONTO — Sunday morning at approximately 1.30 a.m a car driven by Leonard Gartland went out of control, broke off a Hydro brace. pole and cable, careened across Mr. D. Kimmett's yard on Dundas St., smashed a bicycle, and hit a parked car owned by Mr. C. Kimmett, which in turn rammed into two other parked cars. The Gartland's car finally came to rest just in front of the veranda of the Kimmett house where C. Kimmett was sleeping.

The Gartland car, a 1955 Pontiac, was considered a write-off; the other cars were damaged to the extent of about $700.

Knocked Off Bike

DESERONTO — Monday afternoon at about 4.15 p.m. two children riding double on a bicycle down the hill on Centre St., crossed the path of a car driven by Mrs. E. Lindsay which knocked Patsy Blewette from the crossbar of the bike. Apparently the brakes on the bicycle failed, so the children were unable to stop when they approached Thomas St. The Blewette girl was taken to the hospital for observation and was released shortly, suffering only with bruises.

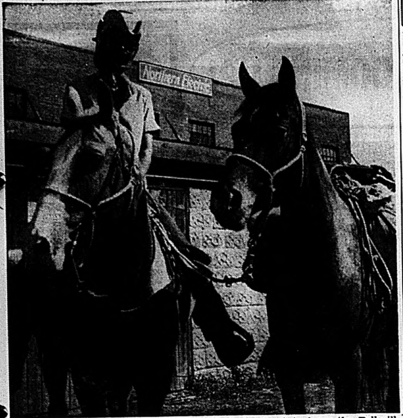
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 11, 1965



Jane Smith, 24, of Columbia, Connecticut, is all set to leave the Belleville Fairgrounds where she spent last night. Miss Smith, along with her two horses, Sam and Kim, is headed for California.

Girl on Long Trip On Horseback Bunks Out at Fair Grounds

And off she road into the sunlight, taking her pack horse with her.

Jane Smith, 24, spent last night bunked out in a sleeping bag in a stall at the Belleville Fairgrounds. Tonight she'll be bunked out under the stars somewhere near Brighton.

Jane left her home in Columbia, Connecticut, six weeks ago, on horseback. She has two horses, a pack horse, Sam, and a riding horse, Kim. Kim is a palomino pinto and Sam is a three year-old appalosa mare.

Clad in blue denim jeans and a checked blue shirt, her long auburn hair hanging straight down, Miss Smith prepared her horses for travel early this morning.

"I always wanted to go on a trip like this," she said. "So I told myself that when I graduated from College I'd do what I wanted to for a change. So off I went."

Jane graduated earlier this year with her B.A. in English from the University of Connecticut. She's on her way to San Luis Obispo, where she will attend polytech then go to San Francisco State for her Master of Arts degree.

She said her horse bolted once in the trip when a truck blew its horn. "I ended up in the ditch," she said. "But other than that there wasn't any harm done."

Except for a short jaunt along the 401 between Brockville and Gananoque, she has been travelling along the shoulder of the road on Highway 2.

She has been averaging about 25 miles a day and plans to reach her destination sometime after Christmas.

Gerald Vance, manager of the Fairgrounds, said, "This is a pretty spooky place at night, but she wasn't afraid at all. She went out to the laundromat last night and didn't return until after midnight.

"She has been sleeping a lot at farm houses and said everyone was real good to her. I gave her some feed for her horses and then off she went."

Circus Animals Said Not Fed For Three Days

WOODSTOCK (CP)—A number of circus animals, including six lions which officials said had not been fed for nearly three days, were seized by the Ontario Humane Society Tuesday from a stranded caravan near here.

Besides the animals — which included seven ponies, two monkeys, and rabbits—a number of doves also were seized. All were taken to the Woodstock fairgrounds.

P. M. Young, president of the Oxford Branch of the society, said their conditions were "deplorable."

The caravan, owned by Debord Circus Limited of Toronto, was stranded when one of the trucks broke down en route to the Kingston area from Leamington.

Singapore Will Try to Persuade Indonesia to Accept Malaysia

From AP-Reuters

SINGAPORE (CP) — Singapore will try to convince Indonesia it should live in peace and friendship with its arch foe, Malaysia, the new island nation's foreign minister, S. Rajaratnam, said today.

"But there is no question of Singapore playing the role of mediator between the two countries," Rajaratnam said in an interview reviewing Singapore's prospective foreign policy.

"As we now are out of Malaysia, perhaps Indonesia may be prepared to listen t[illegible] in regard to the necessity for living in peace and friendliness with Malaysia."

In Jakarta, however, Indonesian President Sukarno was reported as determined as ever to crush the Malaysian Federation.

Meanwhile, official Radio Singapore reported Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew as saying the newly-independent island would become a republic.

The radio, quoting Lee's comments at a press conference for local Malay - language newspapers, said the prime minister did not state when Singapore would be declared a republic.

British officials said in London Tuesday that Singapore has asked to remain in the Commonwealth as an independent nation and that Britain would support this.

Lee had said he expected all countries except the Communists to recognize Singapore as an independent state.

If Indonesia publicly declares it recognizes Singapore and the right of its people to run their own affairs, Singapore would be prepared to be friends with Indonesia, Lee said. Singapore would take care that it did not jeopardize Malaysia's interests, he said.

King Ready To Accept Coalition Govt.

ATHENS (AP) — King Constantine today was reported ready to accept a coalition government to try to ease the Greek political crisis.

The young king's second effort at getting a government formed was thwarted when Stephanos Stephanopoulos, bowing to the wishes of his and ex-premier George Papandreou's Centre Union party, rejected his mandate Tuesday.

Political advisers to the 25-year-old king were said to be encouraged by the fact that, at the Centre Union party caucus Monday, 26 deputies had voted willingness for Stephanopoulos to try forming a government. Another 116 voted against, and Stephanopoulos went along with the majority and turned down the king's request.

Informed sources said the king's advisers thought it possible that the 26 could be won over to the idea of a coalition, aligning themselves with the 21 deputies who made up the short - lived government of George Athanasiadis Novas, the 99 deputies of the rightist National Radical Union and the eight Progressive party deputies.

That would amount to 154 of parliament's 300 seats, a majority that would loosen Papandreou's strong hand on parliament. But the sources noted that such a coalition could come about only if the Centre Union deputies broke with the majority of their party.

The crisis began July 15 when Constantine fired Papandreou as premier in a dispute over control of the armed forces.

Fund Raisers Are Opposed By Alderman

TORONTO (CP)—A city alderman has demanded a special session of city council to find out why professional fund raisers have been hired to help raise public funds for the proposed St. Lawrence Centre for the Performing Arts.

Alderman Frederick Beavis said that council should have been told that the Toronto Arts Foundation had hired the company. He also said all donations should go to the $4,200,000 fund to provide an arts building, festival hall and restoration of St. Lawrence Hall.

Mayor Philip Givens, who has expressed concern about what he calls carping criticism of the project, asked council if the foundation has to report back every decision it takes.

He defended the hiring of Brakeley and Co., which will use one man and a secretary to provide the apparatus to conduct the public campaign.

"You just don't pick up a telephone book and start calling people," he said.

Income Tax Appeal Board Refuses to Let Haig Deduct Court Costs From Income

OTTAWA (CP)—The income tax appeal board has dismissed the appeal of a former mayor of Belleville against a tax assessment on the money he spent defending himself in court.

Alexander McLean Haig was assessed an income tax of $3,895 for 1963. He claimed that he had expenses amounting to $1,629.45 in defending himself against an attempt under the Ontario Municipal Act to unseat him as mayor. The action was dismissed and the ruling upheld by the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Mr. Haig's appeal to the income tax appeal board was based on an argument that the legal expenses should be deducted from his taxable income because, if he had not been able to defend himself successfully in the attempt to unseat him, he would have been dismissed from the firm employing him, Moira-Schuster Ltd.

Board member Roland St. Onge said in the appeal board's judgment that no corroborative evidence was introduced by Mr. Haig from the company to support the argument.

Moreover, Mr. St. Onge said in the reasons for judgment, "nothing had been expended by the appellant to earn his income."

"On the contrary, the expenses incurred served to save a source of income and therefore they were personal expenses. Nowhere in the Income Tax Act are such personal expenses allowed."

Canadians May Be Drifting From TV Sets

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC says Canadians may be drifting away from their television sets.

Watching the cathode tube, however, remains second only to sleeping as the nation's most popular activity.

A recent study by the CBC's research department disclosed that during the first three months of 1965, the average Canadian had his TV set on for fewer hours than in the comparable period of 1964 and 1963.

The study interpreted the figures as "a slight indication that a trend to less TV viewing may be under way." It hastened to add, however, that this will "require more basic data for confirmation."

The study completed in July, based solely on the average time-per-week in which Canaoian TV sets are turned on, showed that in January the figure stood at 40 hours and 24 minutes. In March the national average was 39 hours, six minutes.

The 1964 comparable figures were 42 hours and 39 hours, 48 minutes respectively. In 1963, the January average was 41 hours, 54 minutes and the March figure 39 hours, 54 minutes.

The study showed that, during the fall, winter and spring months, the average Canadian home has its TV set on about 40 hours a week. The popular working estimate is that the average Canadian sleeps about 56 hours a week.

During the summer, the average Canadian set is on only 22 hours a week, reflecting both the usual away-from-the-living-room summer drift and shorter TV schedules.

The survey says that weekends account for 30 per cent of weekly TV viewing.

Men Given Outside Help In Escape

ARNPRIOR (CP) — Police Chief William Parsons said Tuesday two Ottawa men charged with breaking and entering after a short manhunt in dense bush near here last month, were given outside help in their escape Monday night from the town detention cells.

A general alarm was out for the two men, Eugene Tanguay, 21, and Roland Cleland, 22, the chief said.

The two and Alagis Zadori, 26, of Ottawa, who was released on $500 bail on the same charge, were charged after a supermarket in this community 40 miles northwest of Ottawa was robbed of a quantity of cigarettes.

"Somebody broke into the police station and released the men," Chief Parsons said.

"The keys (to the cells) are kept in the office in case there's an emergency. The man on duty was only away for three - quarters of an hour and when he came back the men were gone."

Tanguay and Zadori both had pleaded not guilty to breaking and entering and remanded to Aug. 23. Cleland pleaded guilty.

TORONTO (CP) — Grade 13 examination results will be released to Ontario secondary schools next Monday, five days later than last year.

A. W. Bishop, registrar of the department of education, said schools are expected to begin notifying students by mail next Tuesday.

Practical Way to Desalt Ocean Water Gets Attention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Water problems—a present crisis in the U.S. northeast and a long-term source of American anxiety—get White House attention today.

President Johnson signs a $185,000,000 bill to continue and extend the interior department's program to develop practical means of desalting ocean water as a supplement to the overtaxed rivers, lakes and springs.

Later, Johnson meets with the governors, congressional delegations and mayors from four largely urban states that draw on the Dalaware River Basin on the Delaware River Basin for water—and may have critical shortages next month because of the four-year drought now afflicting the area. The states are New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware.

The saline water conversion bill, extending the program through 1972, has been pushed hard by Johnson. He told his science adviser to bear down on desalting programs "as if you knew you were going to run out of drinking water in the next six months."

The Delaware Basin water conference was called after Interior Secretary Stewart Udall reported to Johnson that the cities of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey face a "water impasse" by early September.

The gathering is intended to organize "appropriate action to meet the immediate problems, to lay plans against the possibility of another year of drought, and to consider longer-range attacks on the broblem of water supply and conservation."

Johnson has suggested desalinization as a possibility for easing the long-term water problems of the northeast.

Although rains in the last few days slightly eased the immediate crisis—New York City's reservoirs had a net gain for the first time in 67 days—there was no prospect of a natural solution to the problem. Udall has said only a prolonged series of rains or a hurricane could do this.

Residents of New York City have been cautioned not to relax in their conservation efforts, even though an estimated 2,400,000,000 gallons of water—a little more than a two-day supply for the city—was added to the reservoirs by weekend rains.

William Houle 'Too Busy' to Seek Office

MONTREAL (CP) — William Houle, Montreal president of the Canadian Postal Employees' Association (CLC), said Tuesday he is "too busy" to stand for federal president at the association's convention scheduled for Sept. 22-24 in Toronto.

Asked in an interview if he will seek the seat now held by Les Hood, Mr. Houle said:

"I've got a lot of work to do in Quebec before I would make up my mind for that job. The only circumstances that would bring me into that fight would be a crisis in leadership. But if they get a good man to replace Hood, then I only want to stay on the executive.

"I think—and others have said the same thing—that I can be of more use to the civil service movement if I stay in Montreal for another year or two."

During the 17-day strike of Montreal postal workers led by Mr. Houle and Roger Decarie, Montreal president of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers, Mr. Houle called Mr. Hood a "strikebreaker" for opposing the continuation of the strike in the country's largest city.

Tuesday he said ballots sent out by the Postal Workers Brotherhood asking members if they accept the government increase in annual salary and if they want to strike are simply "a joke."

"We thought it was very funny. The strike is all over—we have our settlement and have accepted it."

Mr. Houle said the distribution of ballots by the brotherhood "further underlines the bankruptcy of their leadership—they just don't seem to know what's going on.

"To us the battle is all over. Next year we'll start new negotiations but I don't think this country will ever see a postal workers strike again."

Sir Stamford Raffles Saw Singapore as Trading Site 145 Years Ago

By KEN PRITCHARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sir Stamford Raffles, an officer of the British East India Company, looked at the site of Singapore 145 years ago and decided to build there a trading centre.

Raffles, governor of Java before Britain returned that island to the Dutch, was a student of the Malay language and history and knew that this almost-uninhabited, swampy island off the foot of the Malay Peninsula had once been a cross-road of trade.

Monday, the state of Singapore, with a population of 2,000,000 people who enjoy a standard of living among the highest in Asia, announced its secession from the painfully-built Malaysian Federation. The secession action had two basic causes—an economic pinch arising from disruption of Singapore's traditional trade and inability of widely-contrasting racial groups to agree.

It is believed Singapore may have been an important trade centre between China and Indonesia—the big islands south of Singapore —as early as the seventh century AD.

In 1819 came Raffles with his vision and by 1860 Singapore was a city of 80,000—the majority Chinese but with numbers of Malays, Indians, Pakistanis, Eurasians and Europeans. Seven years later it was taken over from the East India Company as a British Crown colony. Rubber rose to prominence, then faded, but trade continued to be important.

Between 1821 and 1938, Britain built on Singapore Island a first-class naval base. The base did not figure prominently in the First World War. In the second it was overwhelmed by the Japanese, who occupied it from Feb. 12, 1942, until Sept. 5, 1945.

PRESTIGE GONE

Britain administered the area again but could not regain prestige with people who had learned to shift for themselves during the Japanese occupation. By 1959, Singapore had internal self-government and talks had begun towards federation with Malaya.

The negotiations were difficult, but on Sept. 16, 1963, a federal union of Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and Sabah (North Borneo) came into being.

President Sukarno of Indonesia, who saw the federation as a plot to prolong British influence in the area, suspended all relations with it, crippling Singapore's trade-based economy.

Communist countries, sympathetic to the West-baiting Sukarno, also proved reluctant to trade, although for Red China Singapore had ranked second only to Hong Kong as a market and earner of foreign exchange.

One of Singapore's first acts after announcing its secession Monday was to revoke a federation order closing the Bank of China branch, Pekin's official banking institution in Singapore.

Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew said Singapore would seek new trade ties with Communist countries and try to re-establish consular relations with Indonesia. Singapore also asked to remain in the Commonwealth as an independent country and pledged to continue Britain's right to military bases on the 217-square-mile island.

Whether Sukarno will resume full trade relations while Singapore retains these British ties remains to be seen, but he is said to be jubilant about developments to date.

Three-quarters of Singapore's 2,000,000 people are ethnic Chinese and business-oriented. The Malays, not so concerned with trade, are dominant in the rest of the federation.

Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman has been under Malay pressure to block Lee's efforts to expand his political influence outside Singapore—efforts that the Malays see as a Chinese challenge. Lee reported that Rahman told him secession of Singapore was the only way to prevent a fresh explosion of racial strife such as resulted in the killing and wounding of hundreds in 1964.

Decide Corvair Design Not Cause of Crash

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—General Motors was acquitted Tuesday of responsibility for the performance of a 1960 rear-engine Corvair involved three years ago in a double highway fatality.

A jury in Santa Clara County Superior Court returned an 11-to-1 verdict in favor of the world's largest car manufacturer at the end of a 10-week trial.

The ruling went against Mrs. Doreen Collins of San Jose, Calif., who sought $400,000 on the contention that a faulty 1960 Corvair caused an accident that resulted in the deaths of her daughter, Lorraine, seven, and her fiance, John H. Taylor, 38, also of San Jose.

The plaintiff's lawyer said the case represented the first of 500 lawsuits in the United States, involving $150,000,000 in claims, to be decided on Corvairs manufactured between 1960 and 1964.

Mrs. Collins, 39, charged that the accident was caused by the alleged "defective design" of the Corvair's rear-swing axle.

EXPERTS DISAGREED

Child Locked In Trunk Of Motor Car

THE PAS, Man. (CP) — A man was arrested in Regina Tuesday night and is to be returned to this northern Manitoba town today for questioning in the case of a nine-year-old girl who was found, cut and bruised, locked in a steel trunk.

The girl, Katherine Hilsenteger, was found about 20 minutes after being dumped in the trunk at the home of friends. Her mother said she would have suffocated if she had been in the trunk another 10 minutes.

Katherine was reported in fairly good condition in hospital Tuesday night.

Mrs. Daniel Hilsenteger said her daughter went to visit the children of Mrs. Paul Coutu Sunday.

"She knocked on the door but there was no one home," the mother said.

"A man jumped out and grabbed her by the throat. She was unconscious when he hit her over the head with a bottle. She doesn't remember it, but he must have dragged her all over the house because there was blood everywhere."

Mrs. Coutu arrived shortly after and when her son Timothy, 9, said he heard rustling in the trunk she unlocked it and found Katherine.

Ousted After 33 Years Of Power Over Musicians

TORONTO (CP)—It once was said of Walter Mackenzie Murdoch that "he would stop Santa Claus from ringing sleigh bells unless he had a union card."

But Mr. Murdoch no longer calls the tune for Canadian musicians.

His 33 years of power over music in Canada ended with his overthrow as Canadian representative on the international executive board of the American Federation of Musicians (CLC).

His successor is J. Alan Wood, president of the Toronto Musicians' Association, a post Mr. Murdoch also held for 25 years before suffering his first defeat and losing the presidency in 1957.

Mr. Murdoch, now 77, sat on the international board for 28 years.

A former lithographer and railway - clerk - turned - trumpet player, he has been called at various times a dictator, cza and the James Caesar Petrillo of Canadian music.

He began his fight for musicians' rights by negotiating the first union scale raise, two weeks before he even joined the union in 1917.

Soon after joining the union he proved his bargaining strength and business ability by selling the union building for $75,000. The musicians had expected to get $15,000 for it.

He became president of the local in 1932.

ALLOWED NO SHIRKING

During the next 25 years his power was absolute. He earned the reputation of enforcing the rule book to its literal limits, honoring all contracts and disciplining members who were late for rehearsals or took less than union scale on engagements.

He wouldn't allow musicians to play free for charities or appear on radio programs where recordings were used. He threatened to blacklist Queen's University because students danced to records and placed Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens on the "unfair" list because it gave away free passes to troops.

On one occasion when he not only sanctioned, but requested, a benefit performance for the Winnipeg flood relief fund in 1950, he obtained the services of top Canadian performers all over the continent, with the exception of Guy Lombardo.

The showplace employing the Lombardo band refused to release them although Mr. Murdoch offered to replace them for the one night with any name band in the United States.

Mr. Murdoch then informed the showplace "they are the last musicians you'll ever have."

It was as he said.

At a banquet honoring him on his 25th anniversary as union president, Mr. Murdoch said:

"I try not to start fights, but there are more organized chiselers in this world than you can imagine."

Next Big World Crisis May Be Over Rhodesia

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—A good many officials here think the world's next big crisis—if the world is allowed another—will be Rhodesia.

The African country is ruled by a small white minority and is threatening to declare its independence from Britain rather than submit to pressure to amend its constitution to giv its black majority adequate representation in government.

In the view of many in Ottawa, relations between whites and non-whites will become even more dangerous in the years ahead than the Cold War between East and West has been.

It is in this situation and atmosphere that six-footer Arnold Smith, 50 - year - old Canadian diplomat, is taking over as the first secretary-general of the Commonwealth. He leaves for London in mid-August and will set up shop in Marlborough House in September.

In a speech in March—about the time Prime Minister Pearson persuaded him to let his name stand for the new job—Mr. Smith said:

"The division of humanity between the white and other races, which coincides not completely, but too closely for comfort, with the division between the affluent industrialized peoples and the poor underdeveloped peoples is, I think, the most difficult and potentially dangerous problem in the world."

He said at another point in the same speech:

"There is danger that a vicious circle of reciprocally increasing fear, frustration and extremism on both sides could lead to tragedy, in this interracial problem in southern Africa, of significance far beyond that region, affecting the attitudes of whole races and continents."

Establishment of a small Commonwealth secretariat — his staff will number 30 or so—could, he said, "mark the beginning of a new stage in he evolution of our multi-racial association." It would be important to proceed cautiously, pragmatically, gradually—but with vision.

President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana first proposed a Commonwealth secretariat and was strongly supported by Ceylon and other Asian and African members of the 21-nation Commonwealth.

Canada at first had fairly serious reservations about a secretariat on the basis of its former resistance to moves toward an imperial cabinet and that kind of thing.

But now a secretariat is seen as a means of improving consultation among Commonwealth members, of helping to establish knowledgeable diplomatic services in new member countries and of bettering methods of economic aid.

The Africans see the Commonwealth as a means of persuading the West to put pressure on Rhodesia, South Africa and Portugal to modify their political and racist policies.

The new African states see white-dominated Africa south of the Zambesi River not only as a social affront to them but as a military threat as well.

That is why it is felt here there must be progress in the Rhodesia situation in the next few years or the Africans will consider themselves betrayed by the West. This, naturally, could lead to the breakup of the Commonwealth.

Mr. Smith, a multilingual native of Toronto, used to talk bluntly to Nikita Khrushchev when he was ambassador to Moscow during the Cuban missile crisis. There's no doubt he will talk just as bluntly to his 21 Commonwealth bosses, including Prime Minister Pearson on whose staff he used to serve.

The Manchester Guardian has described Mr. Smith as "a North American in the Kennedy mould—tough, dedicated, cultivated and bursting with energy."

Mr. Smith has been assistant undersecretary for external affairs since 1963. He joined the department in 1942.

Druick, Angel, Direct Movie On Student Life at McGill

By LISA BORENSTEIN

MONTREAL (CP)—Two 20-year-old McGill University students are embarking on a project that will help hem gain an insight into the cinema from the film-maker's point of view.

Don Druick and Leonard Angel are co-directing a 30-minute documentary on student life at McGill. Financial support is coming from the university's Students' Executive Council.

The idea for the film arose out of a decision this year by the McGill Film Society to form a production unit that allows promising directors to make films under its patronage.

The film is an all-student affair. The directors are filling in as actors and editors. The cameraman is Peter Svatek, who has had experience with the National Film Board, and music student Stephen Freygood has produced an original musical score.

The actual shooting of the film is already well under way. Sequences have been filmed of students rehearsing the medieval morality play Everyman in which Don, arrayed in flowing black cape, plumed hat, sword and sun glasses portrays Death. It is expected to be finished by October.

BELIEVE ESSENTIAL

Don and Leonard became involved in the project because they believe films today are an essential part of everyone's upbringing.

"The best way to obtain an understanding of this highly important medium is to discover exactly what constitutes cinematic technique," Don said. "The most effective way of doing this is to make the form one's own—to personally attempt to make a film."

Leonard, a philosophy student, places Jean Renoir, creator of La Regle du Jeu and La Grande Illusion at the op of his list of favorite directors. Then come the Japanese directors Kobayashi and Kurosawa. Don, a mathematics major, says the controversial Swedish director Ingmar Bergman heads his preferred list.

Asked what led to the choice of McGill University as the topic of this film venture, they said they wished to portray a subject they were familiar with.

"Having spent three years so far at McGill University, I believe we are well qualified to deal with this topic," says Leonard.

The technique the youths have decided on is a free style semi-documentary. Various aspects of McGill will be filmed and then a sound track will be added in which students elaborate on such topics as free education and free love.

UNIVERSITY MOVIE-MAKERS — With the support of the McGill University Students' Executive Council, Leonard Angel (left) and Don Druick, both 20, will co-direct a semi-documentary film project which will attempt to capture the atmosphere of their university. The project, the first of its kind to be undertaken by actual McGill University sponsorship, will permit potential movie makers to produce films under its patronage. (CP Photo)

Group Studying Bias In Canadian Schools

By R. J. ANDERSON

TORONTO (CP)—"Today the United States is the greatest of all the world's countries. With its gigantic military power it has rescued other, older nations in time of war. With its abounding wealth and generosity it has saved them from poverty and collapse in time of peace."

That statement is flagrant bias, says the teaching problems sub-committee of the Society of Friends (Quakers) in Canada.

It is taken from a book published in the United States in 1961 and recommended as suitable history to a Toronto junior high school girl by her teacher.

That, too, is an example of bias as it is taught in the schools says the committee.

Mrs. Stanley Gardiner, chairman of the sub-committee which has set out to eliminate what it considers bias in teaching in the Ontario educational system, fondled a string of white beads about her neck as she told in an interview what the group hopes to accomplish.

CHILDREN 'BIT QUEER'

She was smartly dressed. She has a TV set in her home. She and her husband, a chartered accountant, have a car. Neither smokes—they just don't like it.

In the beginning, three years ago, Eileen Gardiner, a 44-year-old housewife, was concerned only with what she considered was a biased attitude towards her three children on the part of some suburban North York school teachers. She felt the children were looked upon as being "a little bit queer."

Then she ran into other things, such as the slanted book about the U.S. being the greatest power in the world. A committee of four Quakers and one non-Quaker looked at what is being taught in the schools. Now it is an interdenominational group of 12, only four of them Quakers. Most are school teachers.

With the blessing of Dr. Z. S. Phimester, now deputy minister of education in Ontario, study sessions with teachers were held. What could be done about bias and prejudice against minority groups, particularly in the field of history?

First a few teachers attended out of curiosity. Then more came to other study sessions and seminars out of what Mrs. Gardiner feels is a realization among many in the profession that something was lacking in their methods.

SOURCE VITAL

The committee's third annual seminar will be held on Grindstone Island in Lake Rideau, in eastern Ontario, Aug. 14-21. Educationists and social workers will be there. Attendance is limited to 40.

"The value of the seminars is in looking into ourselves and our prejudice," says Mrs. Gardiner.

"We feel that the schools are unconsciously indoctrinating propaganda into the minds of children, which is all right in itself, but the children should be left with an open mind. The source of every statement should be given.

"A teacher may say that such-and-such is black but there may be shades of white in it.

"The teacher may say that God exists. Some one in the class may not believe in God. The teacher should say that the Christian or the Jew or the Mohammedan says there is God.

"Education is trying to develop in children a searching mind and growing mind. If a teacher makes a flat statement, and says that this is it, the children are inclined to accept this word and not look further."

She said that if a teacher has Jewish children in his class, or perhaps a Buddhist, those children should be given an opportunity to tell other children at their own interest and age level something about their background. "Children thus could learn and understand and live with each other with a feeling of consideration."

Mrs. Gardiner has a 20-year-old son, a daughter of 18 and one aged 13. She and her husband are Quakers by "convincement", having changed from the United Church seven years ago.

The full-throated roar of the mighty unlimited hydroplanes which used to echo off the timber-fringed slopes of the Long "Hayward" Reach near Picton are no more.

But the torch they threw is still burning and fanned by sportsmen who are carrying on the traditions of the "rooster-tail" giants whose path to oblivion was paved with tragedy.

Somewhere in the archives of Canadian hydroplane racing there should be a red-letter page under the heading of "Picton" and the Prince Edward Yacht Club.

It should record the names and feats of some of the most famous names, men and boats, in international hydroplane racing history.

From that day over three decades ago when Wellington's Frank Harris drove his orange-colored "Flame" in opening competition; the birth of the Prince Edward Gold Cup until the early sixties when Bobby Hayward brought Canada its first Harmsworth Trophy world championship, the page carries an honorable and proud record of success.

Death threw its shadow twice over Picton's Bay of Quinte waters. Directly when the late "Pops" Cooper was thrown from the cockpit of his boat in a harbor course, and indirectly in 1962, when Hayward was killed while racing on the Detroit River.

Hayward's demise and the retirement of the undefeated world champion, "Miss Supertest III" brought to an end unlimited hydroplane racing in Canada.

The Long Reach, Picton's nautical amphitheatre, will forever be a rippling monument to the great sportsmen and racing craft that brought world honors to the town and Canada.

But, as was noted, the torch has been caught by a group of racing enthusiasts throughout the district. The Picton Outboard Club has kept the popular sport alive and is officially recognized by the Canadian Boating Federation.

The summer highlight of the club is the annual regatta which this year is being held on Consecon Lake's North Bay next Sunday, August 15th, starting one p.m.

Sanctioned by the CBF and American Power Boat Association, the regatta has attracted the cream of divisional craft of Canada and the United States. Over 100 boats of all classes will participate in the wave-splitting events.

The classes include 36 Utilities, A, B, C and D stock hydroplanes as well as three classes of A, B, and C racing hydroplanes with the D Utilities in the final class.

Crack drivers and boats which won top honors in American and Canadian racing circles last year will be at the regatta, a Picton Outboard Club spokesman says.

And they'll meet tough opposition from drivers from this part of the racing world.

These boys have been meeting with more than ordinary success in Canadian and American regattas and they will be a force to be reckoned with.

The Quinte Hydroplane Racing Club will be represented by several drivers rated among the tops.

In the "A" Class Len Vigodda who defeated crack American drivers at the recent Caledonia regatta, will be out to repeat his victory. So will Tom Boulter, who won the "B" class title at the same regatta. David Storey is also racing in "B" class.

30 Not Impossible * * * * * * * * * * Giants Keep Pace

Koufax Beats Mets; First To Win 20

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax doesn't want any relief, but he thinks he'll need some to win 30 baseball games.

The inimitable Koufax discussed that elisive plateau after becoming the majors' first 20-game winner in Los Angeles' Dodgers 4-3 triumph over New York Mets Tuesday night. He also talked about his physical condition.

"I feel a li'tle tired," he admitted. "But after a couple of nights sleep I'm always ready again. I still want to pitch every fourth day.

"I have a chance to win 30, but I would have to win every start. I really don't think I'll get 30 because you have to pick up some in relief, and I doubt that I'll be doing that."

If Koufax continues pitching every fourth day, he will have 12 more starts, enough to lose a couple and still become the first to win 30 since Dizzy Dean did it in 193.4

RELIEF ROLE?

It's even possible that manager Walt Alston will call upon the left-handed ace for relief duty if the National League pennant race remains as close as it is now. The Dodgers lead San Francisco Giants by only one game and Milwaukee Braves and Cincinnati Reds by two each.

Koufax, who has lost four games, isn't concerned that his arthritic left elbow suddenly might act up after leaving him alone for 28 starts, 19 of which he has completed.

Koufax leaves the worrying to the other teams. In striking out 14 Mets, he raised his major league-leading total to 267, just 81 away from Bob Feller's season record. He also extended his career mark with the Mets to 13-0 and became the earliest 20-game winner since teammate Don Drysdale won his 20th on August 3, 1962.

In other NL games, San Francisco edged Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3, Milwaukee downed St. Louis Cardinals 5-3, Cincinnati trimmed Chicago Cubs 6-2 and Philadelphia Phillies defeated Houston Astros 2-0.

MARICHAL WINS 18TH

Juan Marichal won his 18th game against eight defeats by limiting Pittsburgh to four hits, one of them Bill Virdon's two-run homer in the ninth.

Ed Mathews drove in three runs, two with his 25th homer that snapped a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning, as the Braves beat St. Louis.

Frank Robinson and Vada Pinson led a Cincinnati attack that carried Sammy Ellis to his 15th victory against seven defeats. Robinson highlighted the Reds' three-run first inning with a two-run double while Pinson doubled and socked his 18th home run.

Jim Bunning set Houston down on five hits and figured in both of the Phillies' runs. The pitcher sacrificed Bobby Wine to second from where he scored on John Briggs' single in the fifth. Bunning also singled in the eighth and scored as John Callison singled.

Daubers Shade Belvedere

Ter-Haar Daubers scored two runs in the fifth inning to edge Belvedere Hotel 10-9 in a Commercial softball league contest last night. A bases-loaded double by J. Donaldson proved to be the winning blow for the Daubers, as two runs scored.

The victory was the third of the year for the loop's tail-enders.

Hamlin and Pringle shared the chore on the Dauber's mound. They gave up seven hits while striking out three and walking nine.

Osbourne took the loss for Belvedere. He was pounded for 11 hits, whiffed five and walked six.

Donaidson added another double and a single to go with his game winning two-base hit. B. Gardner and L. Hamlin slammed a pair of base-hits each, and P. Glancey, R. Pointer A. Ruttan and B. Pringle stroked one each.

J. Hughes smashed a triple and two doubles for the losers. Ken Osbourne hit a pair of safeties and J. Lucas added one.

Belvedere:	230	400	0	9-7-5

Batteries: Hamlin, Pringle (4) and Madill; Osbourne and J. Lucas, J. Hughes.

Lombanks, Juniors Play Tonight

Wet grounds, the aftermath of yesterday afternoon rains, forced postponement of the Ellis Juniors, Tweed Lombanks Belleville and District Softball League semi-finals game last night.

The game will be played tonight starting at 8.30 at the Fair Grounds, convenor Cliff Belch Jr. announced today.

The game is the fifth and deciding tussle for the second finals berth, Bloomfield having ousted Trudeaus in the other bracket.

No dates have been set for the league best-of-seven finals series due to OASA commitments.

SEEKS 6,000TH WIN

VANCOUVER (CP) — When Johnny Longden rides home his 6,000th winner as expected shortly, a Vancouver civic recognition medal will await at the finish line. City council voted Tuesday to extend civic recognition to Longden, the world's winningest jockey ever. He is four wins short of the 6,000 mark, and will try to reach it starting Wednesday at Vancouver's Exhibition Park. Longden, born in England and raised in Canada, began racing in Alberta in 1927.

Ontario Finishes Second

Alberta Takes Willingdon Cup

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

WINNIPEG (CP) — Alberta, powered by three veterans from Calgary, won the Willingdon Cup inter provincial team golf matches Tuesday for the third time in six years.

The four-man Alberta team turned in a steady 600 strokes for the 36-hole test over the wind - battered par-72 Pine Ridge course to leave Ontario nine strokes behind.

Manitoba, which has never won the cup, finished third with 611 and defending champion Saskatchewan fourth with 612.

Order of finish for the remainder of the nine-team field was: British Columbia, 620; Quebec and Nova Scotia, 625; New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island, 643; Newfoundland, making its first appearance since the event began in 1927, 703.

Keith Alexander of Calgary, Canadian amateur champion in 1960, led the way to Alberta's third triumph. A veteran of 10 teams, he turned in a 145, best individual score among 36 team members.

Bob Wylie of Calgary contributed 74-73—147, Doug Sulverberg of Calgary, on his 11th team, 75 - 75 — 150 and Ray Rhodes of Edmonton, a team, rookie, 77-81—158.

For three nine-hole laps, the tournament was a two-way fight between Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Alexander and company were 151 for nine holes, two up on Saskatchewan; 296 after 18, eight up; and 444 after 27, still eight up.

The defending champions faded on the final nine, due primarily to a big 81 turned in by Keith Rever of Regina. Saskatchewan's individual scores were Rever, 77-81—158; Ed Ross, Saskatoon, 76 - 78 — 154; Ron Rolk, Saskatoon, 78-73—151; Jim Scissons, Saskatoon, 73-76—149.

The old man of Willingdon Cup action, Nick Weslock of Toronto, and team-mate Gary Cowan of Kitchener, carved final-round 73s to pace Ontario which has won the event a record 16 times.

Weslock, on his 15th team, had a net 145. Cowan's net was 149. Other Ontario scorers were 79-78—157 for Stu Hamilton of Brampton and 80-77—157 for Tom McAllister of Toronto.

Fleming Tops In Seven

REGINA (CP)—Willie Fleming, veteran British Columbia Lions import halfback, holds the lead in seven individual departments in Western Football Conference statistics released today.

After two games for each of the five WFC teams, Fleming is the leading ground gainer with 169 yards, has the best average gain at 12 yards a carry and the longest gain from scrimmage at 50 yards.

In the pass receiving department Fleming has picked up a league-leading 195 yards, has the best average yardage at 24.3 a completion, has the lowest gain at 57 yards, and scored the most touchdowns from passes with three.

Tommy-Joe Coffey of Edmonton has caught the most passes with 16.

Quarterback Joe Kapp of the Lions has completed 30 of 58 passes for a leading 483 yards.

Als, Ottawa Game Not Televised

TORONTO (CP) — Thursday night's Eastern Football Conference game between Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders in Ottawa will not be televised, Gordon Keeble, vice - president of CTV, said Tuesday night.

He said that for coverage to be available a firm arrangement with a sponsor would have had to have been made by noon Tuesday.

"Negotiations are continuing and we will meet again Thursday morning, but there will be no telecast of the game in Ottawa," said Keeble.

Jets Edge Mud Hens, Suns Split

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The seventh - place Toledo Mud Hens, who have a habit of making life miserable for first-division opponents in the International League, gave Columbus Jets the treatment Tuesday night.

The Mud Hens kept the league leaders on the field for four hours and 13 minutes before fielding lapses betrayed them and the Jets staggered off with a 4-2 victory in 15 innings.

Jacksonville Suns split with Rochester Red Wings, winning 4-2 and losing 7-2, and Atlanta Crackers shaded Syracuse Chiefs 4-3 in the only other games scheduled.

Dick Tiger, Giardello On Oct. 21

NEW YORK (AP)—Middleweight champion Joey Giardello made it official Tuesday and signed for a return title bout with Nigeria's Dick Tiger at Madison Square Garden Oct. 21.

Harry Markson, the garden's boxing director, said he is negotiating for either closed circuit or home television of the Giardello-Tiger fight.

The 35-year-old Giardello, a New Yorker living in Cherry Hills, N.J., received his licence from the New York State Athletic Commission last week. He hasn't fought in his native city in nine years.

Giardello will receive a guarantee of $50,000 or 40 per cent of the total receipts, whichever is greater. Tiger, 35, will collect $15,000 or 20 per cent of the net.

Giardello dethroned Tiger with a masterful boxing exhibition in winning a 15-rounder at Atlantic City, N.J., in December 1963. In his only defence since, Giardello outpointed Rubin Carter of Paterson, N.J., in a close 15-rounder at Philadelphia Dec. 14, 1964.

COWN SOLD

LOS ANGELES (AP)—New York Mets announced Tuesday that outfielder Billy Cown, sold outright to the Mets' Buffalo farm club of the International League, has been sold by Buffalo to Milwaukee Braves. In exchange, the Mets are to receive an undesignated player within the next week and another player at the end of the National League session.

Canadian Tennis

Bedard Seeks 4th Title

By JIM CRERAR

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian tennis championships, beset by the dropout of a top-seeded player and a lack of leading amateur talent, won't have to worry about Bob Bedard.

Bedard, a 33-year-old high school French teacher in Lennoxville, Que., and Canada's top - ranked player, is going after a record - breaking fourth Canadian title at the week-long event here.

He isn't letting physical problems come between him and his goal.

Bedard, seeded second in the tournament, won two matches Monday despite an inflamed eye, infected tooth and the remnants of a sprained ankle. Between matches he had to see a doctor.

Before the tournament began Monday Mike Belkin of Miami told officials he was pulling out due to illness. Belkin was seeded second at the time and his departure left Bedard second in seeding to Ron Holmberg of Dallas, Tex., the seventh - ranked player in the United States.

REPORTED FOR MATCH

Bedard reported for his first-round men's singles match with his right eye inflamed and took the full five sets to eliminate Jim Merrick of Toronto 6-4, 6-1, 3-6, 2-6, 6-4.

Between matches he saw a doctor, had his mouth frozen because of his tooth and returned to defeat Jim Rogers of Vancouver 6-3, 6-3, 6-0 in the second round.

His eye appeared better after the match.

"The eye infection isn't serious," he said. "It didn't affect my play at all. I went five sets this morning because I was lazy, not because of any injuries."

He plans to see doctors again today.

FOOTBALLER RETIRES

FAIRFIELD, Me. (AP) — Veteran footballer R. C. Owens, originator of the famous alley-Oop play, announced Tuesday his retirement as an active player with New York Giants. Ownes, 30, said he is leaving to become a public relations man. In their heyday with the San Francisco '49ers a decade ago, Owens and quarterback Y. A. Tittle introduced the alley-oop play—a high, floating pass on which Owens would simply outleap the defenders and grab the football.

Canadian Amateur

64 Survive Tough Test

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian amateur golf championship moved to match play today with George Boutell of Phoenix, Ariz., holding medallist laurels.

Boutell toured windswept 6,573-yard par 37-35—72 Pine Ridge golf course in 69 strokes Tuesday, good for a net 143 that paced 64 players to survival from a tough 36-hole qualifying test.

It was the best round turned in by a 120-man field and allowed the American to shade Juan Estrada of Torreon, Mexico, by a stroke. Estrada, Mexico's 1964 amateur champion, fired 70-74—144.

Keith Alexander of Calgary, amateur champion in 1960, was top Canadian. His rounds of 70 and 75 were good for third place and an 11 a.m. EDT tee-off with Bob Stimpson of Ottawa in today's first match.

Stimpson, twice a member of Quebec's Willingdon Cup interprovincial team and winner of the Ottawa and district tournament in 1963, qualified with 157.

Nick Weslock of Toronto, seeking to become the first golfer in 53 years to win three Canadian amateur crowns in succession, emerged from the preliminary competition with 73-73—146.

George S. Lyon of Montreal is the only man to win the Canadian title three successive times—in 1905-06-07.

Weslock, who also took the national amateur honors in 1957, drew Dick Haegele of Springfield, Ill., for a first-round opponent. Haegele qualified with 157.

Gary Cowan of Kitchener, who lost one-up to Weslock in the 1964 amateur final, teed off with Ted Adams of Phoenix. Cowan, winner of the amateur crown in 1961, had a medal score of 149, eight strokes lower than Adams' net.

John Johnston of Vancouver was the only other former champion still in action. He fired 76-76—152 as he sought a second success to go with his 1959 amateur triumph. Johnson drew Terry Campbell of Vancouver, British Columbia junior champion in 1961, as a first-round rival.

Oshawa Wins Gold Cup

By DAVE MILLER

TORONTO (CP) — Gordon MacMillan's rink from Oshawa won the team finals in the Ontario lawn bowling tournament Tuesday by defeating Dick Edneys Kingston rink 18-17.

MacMillan, runner-up in the 1964 Gold Cup final, fought an uphill battle most of the way in his match against Edney, but built a perfect house in the final end to gain the victory.

His rink of father Sam, 73, Jack Hunter, 66 and Clarence Oke, 52, was trailing 5-1 at the end of four ends but slowly fought its way back until they were one point back in the 17th end of the 18-end final.

Vice - skip Sam MacMillan drew two perfect balls to the jack in the 18th end and Edney was a shade wide on his take-out attempt. Gord plugged the hole with his last ball and Edney hit his own counter with his final take-out shot.

The 32-year-old skip was presented with the Gold Cup, emblematic of Ontario lawn bowling supremacy. His rink represented the Oshawa Lawn Bowling Club, but lead Oke is from Bowmanville, Ont.

Sneddon built up an early lead and never looked back. He counted three in the fourth end, four in the sixth and finished the game with five points in the ninth end.

The final outcome of the game was never in doubt as Salkeld led 11-0 after four ends. The teams exchanged singles in the later ends and Inglis closed with a rush, but Salkeld was too far ahead for the Waterloo foursome to catch.

The tournament continues today with 132 bowlers in the doubles matches. The final event of the five - day tournament is a singles competition scheduled for Friday.

Has Lost 27 Pounds

Petra On Strict Diet

TORONTO (CP) — Petra Burka, world figure skating champion who is planning trips to Europe this summer and fall, is getting into shape—in more ways than one.

Not only is the black-haired dazzler spending her usual six hours on the ice practising, she's also dieting strictly while doing it.

The 18-year-old Dutch-born champion who lives in Toronto has lost 27 pounds in the last 5½ weeks on a diet that restricted her to only 600 calories a day at the beginning and now has increased to a maximum 1,000 daily.

The blue-eyed Petra who is five feet ½ inches tall wouldn't say what she weighs but statistics at the time of the 1964 winter Olympic Games at Innsbruck, Austria, had her at 118 pounds. She won a bronze medal for a third-place finish at Innsbruck and went on to win the Canadian, North American and world championships this year.

Those performances earned her recognition as Canada's outstanding female athlete of 1964 in the annual Canadian Press year-end poll and she is planning to compete for Canada again in the 1968 Olympics.

Petra's free skating was tops before the diet but the drop in weight seems to have improved her school figures.

"They're perfect now," said Mrs. Helen Burka, who supports her two daughters and herself by teaching figure skating.

Leonard Seeks 9th Title

MONTREAL (CP) — When Stan Leonard of Vancouver, who long was considered Canada's No. 1 golfer, quit cigarettes 3½ years ago his game all but went up in smoke.

Leonard is in Montreal hoping to again win the Canadian Professional Golfers Association championship he has held eight times. He just might do it.

The West Coast veteran isn't preaching the gospel of tobacco. He is still off it. But he does wonder why the decline of his game coincided with his giving up smoking.

The only answer he can come up with is that the whole thing is psychological; maybe "just nerves."

Leonard today takes a crack at Royal Montreal's tough layout among 76 professionals who join 216 amateurs in teams of four each as a prelude to the CPGA 54 - hole championship tournament starting Thursday.

There are 193 professionals entered altogether in the championship tournament. Those not in the pro-am show—there are 117 of them—play a morning "bonus tournament" on Royal Montreal's second course.

The course for the CPGA title hunt—6,740 yards with a par of 35 on each nine—is playing long, and even if rainy weather clears, as expected, par-breaking won't be easy.

Exclusive of the pro-am and bonus tournaments, prize money is $15,500, of which $2,000 is for seniors—those over 50.

The CPGA winner will collect $2,000, the runner-up $1,500. Thereafter prizes scale down to $100. Top prize for the senior winner is $400.

Soaring Twins Beat Yanks; Up Lead

Orioles Split

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Minnesota Twins, who started their baseball season with a dugout auction, are well on the way to ending it with a World Series ticket sale.

The American League leaders stamped New York Yankees 7-3 Tuesday night, extending their winning streak to six games and inspiring manager Sam Mele to offer a cautiously optimistic view from the top.

"We've got a pretty good lead," Mele conceded after the Twins' 13th victory in their last 16 starts opened an 8½-length bulge over second-place Baltimore Orioles. "They've got to catch us now."

Mele's mood has changed since spring training, when the Twins reported to camp still smarting from last season's sixth-place finish and shortstop Zoilo Versalles outbid the manager in a dugout dispute.

Mele yanked Versalles from an exhibition game against New York Mets after the Cuban speedster failed to come up with a routine ground ball. Versalles objected and Mele fined him $100.

"Make it $200," Versalles snapped. "All right, it's $200," said Mele. "Why not $300?" persisted Zoilo. He got no argument from Mele and the bidding closed.

"Versalles has played tremendous ball ever since, said Mele.

The Orioles fell another half-game behind when they divided a twi-night doubleheader at Boston. The Red Sox won the opener 15-5 with a 12-run explosion in the fifth inning. The Orioles rebounded 12-5 in the nightcap behind Bob Johnson and Brooks Robinson.

Los Angeles Angels defeated Cleveland Indians 5-2, Chicago White Sox whipped Washington Senators 6-0 and Detroit Tigers blanked Kansas City Athletics 3-0 in other AL night games.

The Twins shook the Yankees with five unearned runs in the eighth inning, Versalles starting the rally by stretching a hit into a double and scoring the lead run on pitcher Pete Mikkelsen's two-out throwing error.

The Orioles gained a split against the Red Sox as Johnson collected four hits, driving in four runs. Robinson knocked in five runs with a homer, triple, single and sacrifice fly.

Felix Mantilla and Dalton Jones rapped two hits and drove in three runs apiece in Boston's fifth - inning uprising that decided the opener.

Joe Adcock led the Angels with a two-run homer and run-scoring single while Marcelino Lopez picked up his 12th victory. The Indians' first run, in the sixth, ended their string of 4 scoreless innings against Los Angeles pitching.

Tommy John blanked the Senators on four hits for his 10th victory and Danny Cater paced the White Sox' attack with three hits, including a two-run homer.

Crucial For Bombers

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers find out tonight when they meet Calgary Stampeders in a Western Football Conference game whether it pays to get up early in the morning.

Coach Bud Grant has been putting the players through their paces at 7:30 a.m. this week in preparation for the game but says he'll revert to afternoon and evening sessions if the Bombers lose.

The game is crucial to the Bombers, who have a two-game winning streak in the young 1965 season. A win could give them a four-point bulge over the rest of the conference .

Rookie head coach Jerry Williams of the Stampeders learned something about the Bombers from their first two games. Referring to the Bombers' 23-21 victory over Grey Cup champion British Columbia Lions, he said:

"They don't fool anyone. They just went after B.C. and whipped them physically."

When they move onto the field tonight, they'll be trying to erase the memory of the lapses that cost them their last game, he said.

They may be without the help of flashy quarterback Eagle Day who flew home to Jackson, Miss., Sunday when his mother became ill. Williams is hoping, however, he'll be back in time for the game.

Minor Softball Results

In the first game of the B.M.S.A. Peewee playdowns, Cosy Grill Phillies outlasted Barretts Yankees 18-13. The series is a best-of-three affair.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Bright Object, a three-year-old owned by Gardiner Farms, won the featured Propeller Club Purse by three-quarters of a length over Solar Glass at Fort Erie Race Track Tuesday. River Party was third.

Bright Object, ridden by Avelino Gomez, completed the 6½ furlongs in 1:20 1-5 over a muddy track to return $3.90, $5.30 and $2.80.

Solar Glass, ridden by Pat Remillard, paid $7.10 and $4.90 to place and River Party was $3.70 to show.

Sweet Bully, who survived a claim of foul to win the first race, and Redoubtable, who won the second, combined for a $73.90 daily double.

DROPS THREE

KEENE, N.H. (AP)—Defending champion Harold Reno of Sabina, Ohio, dropped his last three matches Tuesday night in the U.S. horseshoe championships, losing his chance for a repeat victory.

British Swimming

Canadians Doing Well

BLACKPOOL, England (CP) Sandy Gilchrist, 19, of Ocean Falls, B.C., and clubmate Ralph Hutton, 17, came up with a pair of sparkling performances Tuesday as a Canadian team continued to show well in the British amateur swimming championships at this Irish Sea resort.

Gilchrist paced six qualifiers for the final in the 440-yard individual medley with a time of five minutes, 2.1 seconds and Hutton had the fourth best time of 5:16.4.

Earlier they had placed second and third respectively behind South African champion Geoff Grylls, 20, in the final of the 440-yard freestyle event.

Gilchrist's time in that competition was 4:22.5, beating the Canadian record for the distance by 1.3 seconds. Hutton was timed in 4:28.7. Gilchrist lost to Grylls in the last five strokes.

He beat out Ron De Villiers of South Africa by more than 10 seconds in posting the best qualifying time for the medley.

Fourteen - year - old Elaine Tanner of Vancouver also established a Canadian record when she finished third in the final of the women's 40-yard freestyle. Her time of 4:53.6 knocked 1.9 seconds from the previous Canadian mark.

The event was won by Elizabeth Long of Britain in 4:48.9, with Diane Luderf of South Africa second.

The last three spots in the event were held by Canadians. Jane Hughes, 17, of Vancouver was fourth in 4:54.8, Patty Thompson, 19, of Hamilton was fifth in 5:00.9 and Barbara Hounsell of Toronto sixth in 5:02.0.

Batting — Carl Yastrzemski, Boston, collected six hits and drove in six runs, raising his American League - leading batting average to .334 as the Red Sox divided a doubleheader with Baltimore Orioles.

Pitching — Dave Wickersham, Detroit, pitched a four-hitter for his fifth victory in 22 days after winning only once before that as the Tigers blanked Kansas City Athletics 3-0.

White Sox Decline

Owner Blames Players

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago White Sox' swoon after being drummed up as an American League pennant contender has owner Art Allyn putting the blame on the players themselves.

"We have the players who are better than the record shows," says the Chicago financier.

"But I want to make it absolutely clear that when a team goes bad, it isn't because of the manager or the general manager or the groundskeeper or the janitors or the concessionaires. It's because the ball players aren't playing well. You can't alibi their mistakes. They are the ones who have to get jelled and correct this thing."

Last winter, Allyn thought the Sox would win the pennant by 10 games. Entering Tuesday night's series opener with Washington Senators, the Sox had a 13-14 record since the all-star break and were 11½ games off the pace.

Manager Al Lopez, who has one year remaining on a two-year contract, is extremely disappointed with the team but has no intention of throwing in the towel.

Beginning this spring, he has been playing with an unsettled team, typified by present plans to use a utility infielder, Al Weis, in centre field.

Ottawa Signs Thompson

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders Tuesday announced the signing of defensive end Peter Thompson, a Queen's University grad cut previously by Toronto Argonauts.

Thompson, a six-foot-one 225-pounder, will fill the spot on the Rider roster created by the injury to linebacker Jim Conroy.

Conroy, who suffered torn knee ligaments in Friday's Eastern Football Conference opener in Toronto, underwent successful surgery Tuesday. He has been placed on the Riders' injury reserved list and is expected to be sidelined for six to eight weeks.

Red O'Quinn, Ottawa general manager, said Thompson, 24, left the Argos after encountering "difficulties" with Toronto coach Bob Shaw. He had been highly recommended to the Riders by the Queen's coaching staff.

A native of Port Arthur, Thompson was an Ontario-Quebec senior intercollegiate all-star in each of the last three years.

U.K.'s Dwindling Influence East of Suez Receives Jolt

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's dwindling influence east of Suez has received a one-two jolt with the secession of Singapore from Malaysia and the collapse of independence talks between Britain and Aden.

Singapore and Aden are traditional bastions of British military and commercial power on opposite sides of the Indian Ocean. The separate weekend developments have created uncertainty about the prospects of continuing Western influence in both places.

The Malaysian Federation has been a pro-Western political entity that counter-balanced the often-erratic influence in that area of Sukarno's Indonesia.

Deadlock between Britain and Aden in negotiations on an independence program opens the prospect of increased violence in the Red Sea colony by the Aden National Liberation Front.

The Malaysian Federation has been an uneasy union from its beginning 23 months ago.

RACE-RIOT SCENE

The dominant Chinese of Singapore became a minority among the Malays of the federation. Singapore was the scene of bloody race riots last summer.

Lee Kuan Yew, premier of Singapore, is a socialist who had friendly relations with such non-aligned governments as Yugoslavia, Egypt, Algeria and — before formation of the federation provoked Indonesia's armed hostility—with Indonesia.

Federal Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman, on the other hand, is an urbane conservative with strong Western sympathies. He considered Malaysia's defence against Indonesian raids and subversion as one frontline battle against Asian communism, with the United States war in Viet Nam another.

With Indonesia welcoming Singapore's move and offering recognition to Lee's regime, the viability of the Borneo section of Malaysia is doubtful.

Singapore is the main operational base for British warships and more than 50,000 troops combatting Indonesian incursions across the Borneo border. Should an independent Singapore wish to reestablish relations with Indonesia, it would be difficult for the city-state to continue as a base of operations for the Borneo battle.

INDEPENDENCE BY 1968

Aden, base for about 22,000 British troops, is scheduled to receive independence by 1968 along with the adjacent protectorates in the South Arabian Federation.

But London talks designed to set up a full constitutional conference in December broke down after a week, with Aden leaders demanding British commitment to "early withdrawal" of the military base, an end to a state of emergency and release of political prisoners.

Britain considers the future of the military base a matter for negotiation with Aden after independence. It declined to ease the state of emergency. Attacks on British personnel and an attempt to blow up a British oil refinery pipeline took place even as the Aden leaders were in London.

Revolutionary pressure on the British to quit their last important Middle Eastern base is likely to increase.

RAIDS FROM ALL SIDES — During August and September of 1940, a small band of British fighter pilots faced hundreds of raids by the German Luftwaffe in the Second World War's Battle of Britain. Map shows how the German bombers raided England from all sides on Aug. 15, the heaviest attack of the battle, with air fleets from Norway, Denmark, northern France and Brittany.

DOGFIGHT OVER BRITAIN — This painting gives an artist's view of Hurricane fighter planes in battle with German bombers over London at the height of the Battle of Britain during the Second World War. At one time during the battle, in August and September of 1940, the RAF had every available fighter plane in action against the Luftwaffe. However, the heavily outnumbered British planes continually caused severe losses to the Germans.

Nazi High Command Errors Big Part of RAF Successes

By DOUG MARSHALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"On the 8th of August, 1940, the RAF Fighter Command took off to save everything and between then and the end of September they saved it all."

This judgment by H. H. Arnold, an American air force general, is generous but not strictly true. The brave young fighter pilots didn't save everything all by themselves.

They were helped by such tangibles as superb equipment, a radar - directed interception system and heroic maintenance crews plus such intangibles as Churchillian oratory and the united spirit of an embattled nation.

But most of all they were helped by a spectacular series of errors and miscalculations by the German high command.

There are dozens of reasons given for the German mistakes but the three most important appear to be the poor or nonexistent intelligence reports on which the decisions were taken, a tendency to believe their own highly exaggerated combat claims and a fundamental inability to understand the British character.

The first error was to give the RAF a five - week respite after the fall of France. During this period the Luftwaffe restricted its operations to relatively small attacks against coastal and shipping targets.

TIME TO TEST

This gave the RAF time to brace itself and a heaven-sent opportunity to test and perfect its radar interception system before the full fury of the enemy was hurled against it.

The second stage of the battle, aimed at the systematic destruction of the RAF itself under Hitler's famous War Directive No. 16, was originally scheduled to begin in early August but was postponed until Aug. 13 by bad weather.

Goering assured his leader that the RAF would be beaten "within two or three weeks" of "Adler Tag"—Eagle Day—and the invasion fleet gathering in the channel ports could then put to sea.

In fact the German raids became increasingly heavy after Aug. 8. Two days later several 11 Group bases in southeast England were hit and the radar station on the Isle of Wight was knocked out.

In the next few days other radar stations were hit but none seriously damaged. Then, for reasons that remain a mystery, Goering abandoned his attacks on the vulnerable but vital radar network.

One possible explanation is that German scientists had experimented with radar in 1938 and decided it was impractical. Hence the Luftwaffe never fully appreciated the effectiveness of the British detection system until it was too late.

HEAVIEST ATTACK

August 15 saw the heaviest fighting of the whole battle. In an attempt to find a weak spot Goering ordered a concerted attack by elements of all three of the great German air fleets poised to strike at Britain—Luftflotten 3 in Brittany, Luftflotten 2 in northern France and the Lowlands and Luftflotten 5 based in Denmark and Norway.

Beginning at 11:30 a.m. five major assaults — a total of nearly 1,800 aircraft — were hurled at British targets as far apart as Southampton and Yorkshire. All day long the tiers of German bombers droned in over the coasts like moving staircases of death and time and again the "vics" of Spitfires and Hurricanes clawed their way up to meet them.

In the north the Norway-based aircraft, believing the bulk of the British fighters had been shifted south, were jumped by four fresh squadrons of Spitfires and slaughtered. Only a handful of bombers reached their Tyneside targets. It was the first and last time Goering used Luftflotten 5 on daylight raids.

In the south the Germans damaged eight RAF stations and hit two aircraft factories but the successes were paltry in relation to the size of the operation mounted. The Germans lost 76 aircraft; the RAF lost 34.

CHANGED TACTICS

With varying intensity the German attacks on RAF installations continued throughout August and into September. There was only one day between Aug. 24 and Sept. 6 on which the Luftwaffe launched fewer than 600 sorties.

The RAF's stubborn refusal to fold up its wings forced the Germans to change tactics. Escorting fighters were tied even closer to bomber formations. The Junkers 87 — the dreaded Stuka dive - bombers that had blazed trails of destruction through Poland and France—were withdrawn from the fray entirely because of their heavy losses.

But the toll was telling on the RAF too. Men and machines were being worn down by the steady attrition. Although Fighter Command was inflicting losses of two or three to one on the Germans, simple arithmetic showed the RAF would reach the end of its resources before the Luftwaffe did.

Continuous attacks on RAF sector stations such as Biggin Hill, North Weald and Tangmere nearly wrecked the British communications system, particularly since many of the control rooms were above ground. At one point the defence of Britain hung precariously on a single telephone line.

ATTACKED LONDON

By Sept. 1 the RAF was within a few days of a planned withdrawal to air bases north of London and out of range of escorting Messerschmitts.

Then Hitler came to the rescue again. Apparently galled by an RAF bomber attack on Berlin, he ordered the Luftwaffe attacks to be switched from the battered RAF bases to London.

Hitler was probably motivated by something more than pure spite. The vast, inviting and vulnerable bulk of London was a military target and the RAF had to defend it. Hitler, believing the RAF beaten, may have decided that a final hammer blow on the British capita. would be enough to make Winston Churchill sue for peace.

Whatever the reason behind the decision, the switch to London was the fateful, fatal cobbler's nail that cost Hitler the battle and eventually the war.

The attack on London opened in the late afternoon of Saturday, Sept. 7 with a heavy and successful attack on the East End. The docks and riverside dwellings were badly damaged and warehouses set ablaze from Greenwich to London Bridge.

PALACE BOMBED

In the next few days single aircraft scored hits on the Admiralty, the War Office and Buckingham Palace. Meanwhile, guided by flames left from the day attacks, Luftwaffe bombers began lumbering in under cover of darkness and relative safety from interceptors.

The Blitz had started and Londoners were already beginning to show they could "take it." It was no longer a battle against the British air force but against the British people.

Now convinced the RAF was on the run, the Germans mounted a classic "set-piece" operation on Sunday, Sept. 15—Battle of Britain day. The Luftwaffe flew more than 1,000 sorties but by this time the RAF had realized the change in German tactics and was organized to meet the challenge. Few bombers got through and the Germans lost 56 planes to the RAF's 26.

The result stunned the Luftwaffe commanders. The RAF not only continued to exist but was fighting with growing strength. With the pressure off their home bases, Hurricane and Spitfire squadrons now were operating in perfect harmony—the Hurricane breaking up the bomber formations and the speedier Spitfires holding off the escorting fighters.

SHORT OF FIGHTERS

Already Goering was finding it impossible to use all his available bombers because he didn't have enough fighters to protect them. Never again was a man daylight raid of any size able to penetrate the London defences and although the fighting continued into October, the battle was won on Sept. 15.

The crisis had not passed without an eloquent observer. At the peak of the fighting on the 15th, Churchill was standing in 11 Group headquarters—a grave and silent figure until he noticed that all available fighters were either in the air or being refuelled.

"What other reserves have we?" he asked the group's commander, Air Vice-Marshal K. R. Park.

"There are none," Park replied.

But the defence stood firm and it was on his way back to Chequers in his car that Churchill mulled over a phrase at once so simple and so proud that Britons have never found it necessary to erect any other monument:

"Never before in the history of human conflict has so much been owed by so many to so few."

UNMATCHED SPIRIT

When Goering's veterans of Spain, Poland and France took off against England they encountered for the first time an air force that was strong, organized and, above all, not afraid of it.

The young victors of the Battle of Britain had an esprit-de-corps that their Luftwaffe counterparts, although equally courageous, could not match.

Without having to be told, the Spitfire and Hurricane pilots sensed their cause was just and the issues great. They were fighting over their home ground.

There were many acts of individual heroism. Fighter Command's first Victoria Cross was won by young Flt.-Lt. J. B. Nicolson. Although badly wounded and with his Hurricane on fire, he pushed home his attack on a Messerschmitt and shot it down. After he finally bailed out, his courage was rewarded by a shot in the buttocks from an over-zealous Home Guardsman.

There were many famous names—Johnny Johnson; A. G. (Sailor) Malan; Montreal-born Max Aitken; the legless, indescructible Douglas Bader; the introspective Richard Hillary and dozens of others. But RAF tradition has always been to play down the "aces" and parcel out the glory.

'WILD CANADIANS'

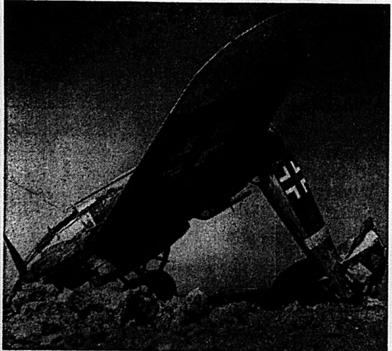
Pilots came from the three corners of the earth to fight for Britain — Americans in the famous "Eagle" squadron, the free French, the free Poles, Australians, New Zealanders, South Africans and Rhodesians.

The RCAF's No. 1 Fighter Squadron, later renamed 401 Squadron, joined the fray in June. What Bader described as "a bunch of wild Canadians" when he took command of 242 Squadron had been fighting as an RAF unit since the German invasion of France.

But it was essentially an English victory and its nearest equivalent was the defeat of the Spanish Armada 350 years before.

The famous battle stations are museums, playgrounds and civilian airfields now. The "Few" who survive are in their late 40s or early 50s—staid businessmen and bowler-hatted politicians tending the way of life they helped to preserve.

The official history concludes: "When the details of the fighting grow dim and the names of its heroes are forgotten, men will still remember that in the summer of 1940 civilization was saved by 1,000 British boys."



SYMBOL OR LUFTWAFFE DEFEAT — This Heinkel bomber, shot down by RAF fighter planes during the Battle of Britain in the Second World War, symbolizes the heavy losses inflicted on the German air force. Time and again, German raiders were turned back by the outnumbered RAF during August and September of 1940.

Dean Martin Shows Fans He Is Not a 'Lazy Guy'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "And they call me lazy!" Dean Martin contemplated the charge with a scornful sneer.

The allegedly lazy singer-actor was breezing through his third film this year before continuing his string of television shows, which will total 30 in the coming season.

"Not bad for a lazy guy," he muttered.

He happened on a thought that seemed to give him pleasure. "You know," he said, "when Jerry Lewis and I broke up, he said I wouldn't last two years in show business. Now what happens? He gets dropped by Paramount!"

It should be added that his ex-partner was quickly picked up by Columbia, which signed him for a new movie, Three on a Couch.

When Martin and Lewis split nine years ago, the wise crowd figured Dean would suffer from the breach. They figured without the resourcefulness of the former Steubenville Ohio, welterweight boxer. He has proven fast on his feet.

SPOOFS JAMES BOND

He demonstrates that in his new film, The Silencers, in which he plays undercover agent Matt Helm. It's reported that Dean has enough dolls in the spy spoof to make James Bond seem like a monk.

Clad in his usual work suit, a tuxedo, Dean talked of career matters. Why is he undertaking a full season of television when he obviously is prospering in films?

"Why not?" he countered. "You know how long it takes me to do an hour television show? Four hours. Yeah, I mean it: Four hours! That's actual working time.

Dean has no concern about the weekly exposure cutting into his movie draw. He reasoned:

"People who watch the television show will see me singing and telling jokes. Since I don't do musicals any more and I don't tell jokes on the screen, they're seeing an entirely different Martin from what they get in theatres."

One thing is certain: Martin's way of life becomes him.

"Yeah, I don't look bad for a guy who's 48," he declared. "Tell you what does it: It's that young whisky. Some guys drink that old whisky. Not me."

Sponsors Particular About Props Used in TV Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A worried-looking aide hurried into the office of his executive producer Tuesday, clutching a cigarette case.

The case was a prop to be used in one of several spy series, currently in production, and was really a concealed gun.

"I just don't know about this piece of business," said the aide. "He's supposed to flip the case open, but instead of getting a cigarette, he shoots the heavy."

"So?" urged the producer calmly.

"So, won't we get a scream from the cigarette sponsor? They yell every time we don't handle a cigarette reverently."

"Hm-m-m," mused the producer—and when the episode reaches the TV screens, that cigarette case will probably be a wallet or a cigarette lighter.

SPONSORS INFLUENCE

An insurance company liked one show this season but would not sponsor it. The hero was a penniless orphan who could not afford a higher education—the insurance salesman's horrible example.

Automobile sponsors deplore stories involving traffic accidents. Aspirin bottlers want headaches avoided and, presumably, a manufacturer of wash-day products would avoid association with a series laid in a Chinese laundry.

On the other hand, pet food companies like to have animals, particularly those who eat the product, in the shows they underwrite. The breakfast food people think kids in the cast of their shows are just fine.

The feminine star of a series recently bought an expensive, sporty foreign car. It stands idle and hidden under sheets in her garage while she drives a low - priced American stock model. The auto manufacturer became a sponsor of her series and part of the deal was her use of the sponsor's product.

There is a story that may even be true about one show that lost its underwriter when it was discovered that the star smoked brand X—concealed in the program sponsor's distinctive package.

San Paolo Has Films On Bible

ROME (Reuters)—A Roman Catholic religious society, San Paolo, is making a bid to enter the world film market with a series of movies covering the entire Old Testament of the Bible.

One, a color production of Saul and David, has already been released.

Don Emolio Cordero, a short, bespectacled priest with salt-and-pepper hair who is director of the society, described Saul and David as an attempt "to break the ice of the world market."

The film received formidable reviews when shown recently at a large cinema in Rome.

Shot mainly in Spain, its international cast includes the British actor Norman Wooland, as Saul, Gianni Garko, a fair-haired young Italian, as David, and the Spanish actress Luz Marques. It was directed by the Italian director, Marcello Baldi.

Any profits will go towards making more films after a percentage has been deducted for the society's charitable activities.

BEGAN AS ELEPHANT

The first acting role of Ray Brooks, who plays the man with the knack in the movie "The Knack," was playing an elephant in a Noah's Ark children's show.

AT THE PARK — Jean Ingram appears to have the upper hand with Elvis Presley while Jocelyn Lane is the curious bystander in this scene from Allied Artists "Tickle Me," a romantic comedy in color and Panavision, which stars Elvis as a singing, swinging wrangler on a beauty spa dude ranch handily stocked with girls. Campbellford News

Mrs. Pearl Rutherford, 38 Ranney St.—Tel. 653-3822

Council Briefs

CAMPBELLFORD — A letter was received from Mrs. H. T. Scott stating that shrubs and flowers on her property had been destroyed by municipal spraying and asked that some compensation be made. The matter was referred to the legal committee and the corporation insurance company.

NO ACTION TAKEN

A resolution was received from the Municipal Council of Owen Sound asking for support to prohibit the selling of soft drinks in the glass bottles on which there is no refund. Such bottles are discarded on beaches and other public places and present a hazard to children frequenting beaches, parks, etc. No action was taken.

Mrs. Lyla Seabrook asked that a large tree on her property be removed as the size and condition of the tree presented a hazard to the public passing and to nearby properties. Councillor Sharp was delegated to investigate.

Mr. W. A. Skinner of Campbellford had previously addressed a letter to Ontario Water Resources outlining the inadequacy of sewer on Market St. and the lack of storm sewers. A photostatic copy of Mr Skinner's letter and the reply by O.W.R. was read to Council. Mr. Skinner said he considered the sewage disposal problem had been solved by using his basement and others. The O.W.R. and O.M.B. informed him this was not their problem.

WILL MAKE REPORT

A communication was read from the office of the Attorney General stating that recent legislation made it mandatory at County level to ensure the continued functioning of government in the event of an emergency of any nature. Reeve Brown said this matter was being presently discussed by Counties Council and when available a report would be received by the local Council. The Ontario government offered to advise and assist in planning for such emergencies.

BOAT RAFFLED

The boat purchased last year for use by the Campbellford Fire Department proved inadequate and was replaced this year by a more suitable boat for their particular use. Council donated the boat last year to the Fire Department on which to sell tickets.

The draw was made by Chief Charles Cork at the Council meeting and holder of the winning ticket was Dr. T. A. Cunningham of Campbellford. The sizable amount of $381 was realized from the sale of tickets and was turned over by Chief Cork and the members of the Fire Department to the Community Centre fund.

Reeve Brown, chairman of the Fire Water and Light Committee expressed his appreciation to the Department for the fine amount realized.

WILL TAKE VOTE

In response to a request by Campbellford Chamber of Commerce for Council to ask permission from O.L.B. to hold a vote in Campbellford on Dining lounge licence with meals or sale of liquor under lounge licence the O.L.B. replied that the vote may be taken on October 25, 1965.

Clerk E. M. Ibey was delegated to contact municipal employees regarding membership in the new pension plan.

The fee for nursing homes was established in the town at $10.00 per year.

Reeve Brown reported for lighting of Ireton and First Streets. It was approved to service Ireton St. with underground wiring at a cost of $1,525, and pole and overhead wiring on First Street at a cost of $1,126.

CO EXISTENCE?

BERLIN (AP) — East and West Germans have co-operated in erecting a foot-bridge that will make life easier for the 184 residents of Steinstuecken, a West Berlin suburb inside East German territory. The bridge spans the East German railway line that bisects Steinstuecken. It is forbidden for the villagers to cross the tracks on foot and they have had to make a 700-yard detour.

Communication Systems Under Discussion

CAMPBELLFORD — Reeve Brown, reporting for his committee of Fire, Water and Light to the council outlined plans for updating communication systems in Campbellford.

Under the new system, instituted by the Bell Telephone Company, represented at council meeting by Mr. Cameron of Oshawa, for a cost of $85 per month every fireman would have a private telephone. The proposed system would install equipment such that when one phone rings all phones of firemen ring simultaneously, lights flash on so answering service will know how many firemen answer the call and if sufficient men do so. This will be in co-operation with the Mutual Aid in Seymour township.

WILL RING SIREN

Mr. Weaver, who has offered his services to the answering system will also ring the siren. Mr. Brown stated the present system of ringing the siren only is outdated, particularly in winter with closed doors and television it is sometimes not heard. Mr. Weaver's salary of $125 per month plus the $85 rental of Bell Telephone would make a total of $210. As it is already costing $75 per month for siren service the increase would only be $135 per month, split between Campbellford and Seymour township on a percentage basis.

Councillor Dunk of the police department said the new system was not as feasible for the police and Mr. Cameron suggested a two-way radio system or walkie-talkie might be more satisfactory.

Reeve Brown stated as the matter had already been under discussion for a series of council meetings he would like to see it brought to a conclusion. It was laid over for the present time.

Centre Tenders Said Too High For Acceptance

CAMPBELLFORD — Community Centre plans came under fire at Monday night's council meeting. Tenders opened at the former meeting were too high for acceptance, two tenders were later than the deadline and were not opened.

Mayor Tanner intimated that council was not in a financial position to issue any debentures toward the cost of the centre to take up the difference between the centre fund available and the cost of the tenders.

Councillor Hughes said when council was told what to do in regard to debentures for schools or other projects the funds were passed without even a comment but when asked to do anything on their own the council did not act.

Mr. Dante Pace of the Community Centre committee stated when industry approached the town they did not ask if there was a sewage disposal, they asked what recreational facilities were available.

It was decided by motion to not accept any tender already received and to advertise in the local paper for new tenders for all phases of construction for the centre, tenders to close at noon on August 20th and a special council meeting to be held in the same evening. Councillors voted to serve without pay for the meeting.

Fire Pumper Purchased by Town Council

CAMPBELLFORD — At the council meeting on Monday night, Reeve Brown presented a recommendation from the Fire, Water and Light committee re the purchase of a new fire pumper. The chassis and cab will be purchased from Trent Motor Sales at a price of $5,195 for a 1956 Dodge. Only one other tender was presented ,one from C. H. Davidson and Son for a GMC truck at a price of $5,330.

The pumper body will be purchased from King Seagrave Company of Woodstock at a cost of $14,167, making a total cost of $19,362.

The E.M.O. gives a grant for the purchase of this pumper and there is sufficient money in reserve to make up the difference, so no debentures will have to be issued or no money will have to be taken out of current funds.

Sub-divider Wants to Get Plan Approved

CAMPBELLFORD — Municipal Council met in the Council Chambers on Monday evening for the regular meeting with all members present.

The only deputation heard was from E. Steele in regard to plans for a sub-division. Mr. Steele has a plan and has been trying for some time to get the plan approved. He was told by municipal officials in Toronto there would be no approval granted until some decision had been reached by the municipality concerning sewage disposal. This Mr. Steele said he could not understand as he wanted only to have the plan registered so he could sell lots. He also stated he had lots which he could do nothing with until the boundary between Campbellford and Seymour township was determined. Clerk E. M. Ibey said he had been advised that the Corporation would have to absorb the cost of determining the boundary and felt it was not in the interest of the corporation to do so.

SMELL IS CHEMICAL

Fish oil with a strong smell contains about 200 times as much nitrogen as blander-smelling oil.

U OF T GETS $25,000

TORONTO (CP) — The University of Toronto will receive $25,000 for the research work of its blood and vascular disease unit during the 67th annual convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles here this week. The grant will be presented at a dinner Thursday night during which a total of $100,000 will be donated for medical research.

ANNULS HONOR

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen Tuesday annulled an honor that her father conferred on Harold Philby, former British diplomat and agent who was given asylum in Russia. King George VI made Philby a member of the Order of the British Empire in January, 1946. The Queen's annulment was published by the official London Gazette.

Over Billion Outstanding on Consumer Goods

OTTAWA (CP)—Sales finance companies reported $1,004,000,000 outstanding on consumer goods purchases at the end of May, topping the billion-dollar mark for the first time, the bureau of statistics reported Tuesday.

The same companies also reported an outstanding balance of $612,000,000 owing on purchases of commercial goods.

Personal unsecured loans by the banks stood at $1,960,000,000 at the end of May, up 22 per cent in a year. Fully secured loans were up 20 per cent at $502,000,000.

Small loans companies reported $895,000,000 outstanding on cash loans, up 15 per cent from May of 1964, and $61,000,000 outstanding on instalment credit, up 24 per cent.

Puzzling War in Viet Nam Shows No Signs of Ending

Associated Press writer Hal Boyle has returned from an assignment to Viet Nam. This is his sign-off column from the war zone.

By HAL BOYLE

SAIGON (AP) — There is a time to stay and a time to go, and my time to leave South Viet Nam has come.

At least for now. The way the war is going, however, none can say how many who have served here for a while may be summoned to come again.

For this is the war nobody really knows. Most of us see only fragments of it—even those in high places on both sides—and can only guess what final pattern will emerge.

But it is clear that many more American tears and much more American blood will be shed before the situation is ended by a political agreement or a battlefield conclusion.

We are no longer a referee or an umpire in a foreign civil struggle. We are no longer merely advisers. We are no longer simply pocketbook supporters of the side we favor. We are military participants and will become so in fuller measure.

It is easier to be an authority on the war in Viet Nam if you have never been here, or if you have been here 50 hours, than if you have been here 50 days or, probably, 50 months. It is easier to have hard and clear views as to how it can be settled.

The longer you stay here the more difficult it is to be sure you understand what really is going on, or whether any solution offered is the right and satisfactory one.

Here are a few of the confusing things you run into in this most bewildering of wars;

The land is lovely, but it is studded with millions of hidden bamboo and steel spike traps that will rip an unwary foot through the bone.

The people seem, on the whole, friendly to the American outsider. But a cousin of the smiling little boy you pat on the head this morning may blow up your billet tonight.

There are no fixed lines as in previous wars. The enemy is before you, beside you, and behind you. There is no absolute test to tell friend from foe.

Our side holds the big cities; their side holds most of the countryside. But they have fifth columns in every city, and we are trying to infiltrate the land areas they run.

Our side has all the necessary big weapons to win an orthodox war—fro maircraft carriers to eight-inch self - propelled guns. But they know better how and where and when to ambush us than we seem to know how, where and when to ambush them.

The more Viet Cong we kill, the more of them come into the fight.

Their morale is still unquestioned by most U.S. intelligence officers. Those same officers, however, worry about how deeply the attrition of innumerable ambushes has affected the fighting spirit of the South Vietnamese.

The Viet Cong have had no change of government since the conflict began. The South Vietnamese have had many.

This, in summary, is the present state of the war nobody knows the outcome of.

Los Angeles Negro District Rocked By Flames And Bullets; Comedian Among 100 Wounded

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Rioters fought police on the streets of south-side Los Angeles today with guns, rocks and fire. Negro comedian Dick Gregory, hit by a bullet, was among 100 persons wounded.

Police jailed 72 rioters in the second night of violence along Central Avenue in the city's Negro district. More than 700 officers enforced a brief calm at midnight. Then, before dawn, mobs filled the streets again in an outburst of burning, shooting and looting.

Gunfire erupted just after Gregory, 32, had urged a throng of 500 Negroes to return to their homes.

"I stepped behind a barricade of police cars and the shots started," he said. "I felt a pain in my leg. I didn't fall.

"I walked out past the barricade to a man standing there with a rifle in his hands. I told him:

"'You shot me once. Now get off the G-- d- street.'

"The crowd dispersed. There was no more shooting."

Gregory said the shooting was directed at the police, not at him. Doctors at Central Receiving Hospital termed his injury minor.

Police said rioters set a liquor store, a drive-in restaurant and a clinic afire at the corner of Central Avenue and Imperial Highway, turned back firemen with a barrage of rocks when they sought to fight the fires, then watched the structures burn to the ground.

Later a lumber yard nearby was set afire.

The scene of the rioting is a normally quiet area deep in the heart of what civil rights leaders have referred to as Los Angeles' "black ghetto."

And police and Negro leaders say the end is not in sight. New violence is expected tonight — unless unruly young gang leaders can somehow be brought under control.

An outburst Wednesday night, when a white officer arrested a Negro on a drunken driving charge, led to an eight - hour demonstration with heavy damage and more than a score of injuries.

After day-long calm, knots of youths and young men formed on street corners at sundown Thursday. Two shoeshine boys began chucking pebbles at passing cars.

In no time, crowds poured out of homes, apartments and shops and were joined by others from outside the area. They jammed sidewalks and overflowed into the street, blocking traffic.

Rocks grew larger and more numerous with dusk. The target: Anything that moved, including other Negroes on foot and in passing cars.

LID BLEW OFF

With darkness, the lid blew off and for 4½ hours—from 7:30 p.m. to midnight when police proclaimed the situatin controlled—an estimated 6,000 persons milled, ran, shouted, cursed and fought virtually uncontrolled.

Police, who hoped to get through the evening with a skeleton force after day-long efforts by civic leaders and social workers to head off a new outburst, steadily beefed up forces. Finally there were 200 police, 195 sheriff's deputies, 283 sheriff's reserves and 40 California highway patrolmen in the melee.

The night's statistics: 17 arrests, 10 peace officers and a fireman injured, 73 civilians injured, a heavy toll of damage. None of the injuries was reported as serious.

Officers sealed off a six-block area, permitting people 'o leave but not enter, hoping tempers would cool quickly. They didn't.

At least a score of vehicles were overturned, several were burned and countless windshields shattered. Two stores were looted and burned, then the mob marched down a street looting others.

Just before midnight as the mob began to thin, a flying wedge of 75 policemen marched up the throughfare that was headquarters for the ringleaders and dispersed them. A few minutes later, the riot was pronounced controlled.

It was bedlam while it lasted.

Airline Business Booming

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—Airline business is booming this year. Summer bookings are swamping domestic and overseas services. But the prosperity of it all may spell trouble for Air Canada.

Publicly the Crown-owned airline says it's happy with all the business and is looking forward to a 1965 profit well above the $1,400,000 it earned last year.

But in private some of its top people are worried about how the high level of traffic will influence a special inquiry that is to look into an increase of competition on the Canadian mainline route.

Stephen Wheatcroft, a British consultant who did the 1958 study that led to the ending of Air Canada's monopoly in the transcontinental market, has been hired by the government to take another look at the situation.

Mr. Wheatcroft is expected here late next month to begin work. He has been specifically assigned to find out if domestic mainline business warrants an increase in competition.

In 1959 Canadian Pacific Airlines won authority from the former Conservative government to operate two cross-country flights daily, one in each direction. The privately-owned carrier has long been pressing for permission to expand this service.

In announcing the new Wheatcroft study last month, Transport Minister Pickersgill emphasized the government's stand that no added CPA competition will be allowed without a clear indication that it would not force Air Canada into the red.

CPA, naturally, intends to argue that there is plenty of business on the rich Vancouver-Edmonton - Winnipeg-Toronto-Montreal line to keep both carriers in the black. It only has to point to the rising volume that has left Air Canada hard pressed to fill the demand.

Indian Band Will Be Aided

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario is prepared to do what it can to help an Indian band save their furniture factory if it can be proven the operation is a sound business proposition.

The promise was made Thursday night by Stanley Randall, economics and development minister for Ontario. He said he has ordered the Ontario development agency, which comes under his ministry, to prepare a report on the furniture factory, operated by 16 Ojibway Indians on the Cape Croker reservation on Georgian Bay, about 30 miles northwest of Owen Sound.

Amherstburg Officials Discuss Charges of Inept Police Work

AMHERSTBURG, Ont. (CP) Mayor H. Murray Smith of this Detroit River town is to meet with town council and the Amherstburg police commission tonight to discuss charges of "inept" policing of teen-age delinquency and possible anti-Negro disturbances.

Speculation here by a town official was that the meeting would discuss the town council's failure to follow a recommendation of the Ontario Police Commission a year ago when it was suggested that another policeman be hired and another police cruiser be added to the facilities of the five-man force.

Mayor Smith said Thursday that contrary to a statement by police Chief George Nannah earlier, the provincial police would not now be called to the town to investigate possible breaches of the civil rights code.

"Nothing serious has happened here," he said. "It's been blown all out of proportion by the press."

The incidents to which he referred were the burning of a gasoline - soaked wooden cross at a main intersection of the town Monday night, and the marking of various town signs and a Negro church with such phrases as "Nigger beware. The Klan is here" and "Home of the K.K.K."

After this a number of Negro residents of this town of 4,400 population received racially antagonistic telephone calls.

A group of Negros from among the town's total population of 300, were called upon to relate their experiences to Dr. Daniel G. Hill, director of the Ontario human rights commission.

Dr. Hill said later he was preparing a report on the incidents for the Ontario attorney-general's department and for the commission.

Thursday night he announced the appointment of a human rights officer for the area, stationed in Windsor, who would report back to him on any further disturbances.

A $100 reward was also offered by an anonymous donor through the community's weekly newspaper Thursday for any information leading to the conviction of those responsible for the burning of the cross, the profane telephone calls and scrawled signs on walls and town markers.

Heinz Co. Strike Is Settled

TORONTO (CP) — Agreement was reached here early today between representatives of the H. J. Heinz Co. Ltd. plant of Leamington, Ont., and striking packinghouse workers.

However, the agreement, announced by Ontario Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree, has still to be ratified by the 1,100-strikers, members of Local 459 of the United Packinghouse, Food and Allied Workers (CLC).

The announcement did not disclose the terms of the settlement or when a membership meeting would be held to ratify the agreement.

But Mr. Rowntree said he is pleased with the settlement.

The talks, supervised by William McGuire of the conciliation board staff of the department of labor, began Tuesday after the labor minister sent a telegram Monday to company and union officials asking them to meet.

The telegram was sent after union officials had reversed an earlier decision to submit their demands to arbitration.

RELIEF TO GROWERS

If the bid to end the strike is successful, it will bring welcome relief to 600 tomato growers in the Leamington area, 25 miles southwest of Windsor, who are faced with the possibility of $4,300,000 worth of tomatoes rotting in the fields.

The growers are contracted to deliver their entire crop to the Heinz plant. But the contract does not bind Heinz to compensate them if the plant is unable to accept the product.

About 400 growers met Thursday morning and voted overwhelmingly in favor of refusing to grow for the company again unless they receive compensation for any losses incurred through the strike.

The strike started July 27 when the men walked off the job to back contract demands,

Claim 250 Viet Cong Killed In Mekong Delta Fighting

SAIGON (AP) — Vietnamese government forces today claimed a toll of about 250 Viet Cong dead after pinning down a Viet Cong concentration in the Mekong Delta 90 miles southwest of Saigon.

U.S. military sources said they considered the Vietnamese figures "pretty good" estimates, although there apparently was no complete body count.

The major fighting came Thursday afternoon during a government operation. Taking part in the sweep through the canal-laced, rice paddy area were army, ranger, armored and regional force personnel accompanied by U.S. advisers.

U.S. spokesmen said the force pinned the Viet Cong down on a wide front. Helicopters lifted in ranger units to cut off the guerrillas.

A fleet of helicopters landed a company of U.S. marines shortly after midnight to comb two villages 12 miles northwest of the Da Nang air base. As many as 500 hard-core Viet Cong sometimes operate in the area, and by dawn one dead guerrilla had been found and 20 prisoners had been taken.

The marines said it was the first large-scale night helicopter assault in history. The operation was planned after capture of an enemy document warning Viet Cong fighters to clear out of villages before dawn because "the marines always attack after first light."

The Viet Cong continued its nightly mortar attack on the special forces camp at Duc Co, where large U.S. and Vietnamese ground forces lifted a 70-day siege Thursday.

In Seoul, the South Korean national assembly approved the government's plans to send 15,000 combat troops to South Viet Nam. Military sources in the Korean capital said the first contingent of the force would leave this month.

Hamilton Firm to Build $7 Million Hospital Here

Mr. A. McLean Haig, Chairman of the Board, Belleville General Hospital, issued the following statement following a special meeting of the Board last night:

"At a special meeting of the Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital, held Thursday evening, August 12, seven tenders were opened for the new hospital construction. The lowest tender was submitted by Robertson Yates Corporation Ltd. of Hamilton at $7,137,000.

"The architect has been directed to analyze the tender and return to the Board of Governors a net figure, which can be submitted to the municipal councils for their aproval.

"Included in the main bid were the mechanical subcontractor, Harold R. Stark Ltd. of Oshawa and the electrical subcontractor, Industrial Electric Contractors Ltd. Peterborough and Toronto.

"The Board was very pleased with the quality and the amount of the tender."

Economy Pushing Forward

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)E—If there's a pause in the forward march of the economy, the Canadian consumer does not appear to have paid much attention to it.

Latest economic indicators made public by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics suggest that in the consumer sector, even higher prices have failed to dampen sales and other business activity.

Some other indicators of the health of business, however, have shown restriction—higher interest rates and more costly raw materials, for instance.

But it may be business pressures themselves which have created these tendencies, some economists here say.

DBS reported Thursday that department store sales ran 5.6 per cent higher in the week ended July 24 than they were in the same week last year. This report followed successive weekly increases of 7.7 and 8.1 per cent.

The level of department store sales—a quickly-available and representative indication of retail sales generally — usually slumps in June and July, recovering with the back-to-school impetus in August and September and then marching on to year-end highs as Christmas approaches.

SUGGEST TREND

The weekly statistics on department store sales are "raw" —that is, they are not refined for seasonal trend adjustment or correction for the number of shopping days in a month and the price level. Nevertheless, they suggest that this year the mid-summer slump may not be as intense as it was last year, and certainly not as deep as it was two years ago.

There are two other important indicators of relative consumer affluence, as judged by important sectors of industry.

1. Work began in June on nearly 16,000 new urban houses and apartments, a 26-per-cent gain from June last year.

2. Shipments of automobiles and trucks from Canadian plants held high and steady from March through June this year, reversing a four-year trend of gradual build-up and decline before the mid-summer plant closings to prepare for new models.

Chicago Crowd Riots at Fire After Truck Kills Negro Woman

CHICAGO (AP) —A jeering, rock-throwing crowd of several hundred people staged a noisy demonstration in front of a fire station in a west-side Negro neighborhood Thursday night and early today.

The crowd gathered shortly after an unidentified Negro woman who was standing on a street corner was killed in an accident involving a fire truck.

Scores of youths were in the crowd and many had thrown themselves in front of cars. Police, after a couple of hours, managed to disperse most of the crowd and arrest 16 persons on charges of disorderly conduct.

One policeman suffered minor injuries when he was hit by a flying object. He was treated at hospital and released. A motorist suffered facial cuts after a rock was hurled through a car window.

Greek Ex-premier Pledges Unrelenting Battle With King

ATHENS (Reuters) — Former prime minister George Papandrou today threatened "an unrelenting struggle to restore democracy" following King Constantine's rejection of his plans to end Greece's month-old political crisis.

His strongly - worded statement came after a 90-minute palace audience Thursday night in which he demanded the king either reappoint him prime minister or call new elections.

But the king, who forced Papandreou out of office last month in a dispute over defence forces policy, rejected both demands. He said Papandreou no longer had a working majority in parliament and elections were excluded while present tensions persisted.

Political observers considered the new turn of events extremely serious. They said Constantine was against new elections at this stage because they could involve a dispute over the throne.

The party already is split, with 25 of its parliamentary deputies adhering to George Athanasiadis Novas, who leads the present caretaker government.

Now about 26 other deputies on the conservative wing of the party were reported to be disturbed at developments and may decide to come out against Papandreou.

But a spokesman for the outgoing government replied:

"Neither parliament nor the people will allow Mr. Papandreou to implement his foolish and criminal plans. . .

"Mr. Papandreou is aware that even with the votes of the United Democratic Left party he cannot secure a working majority to support a government under him."

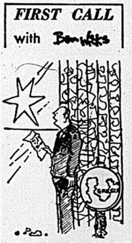
The 25-year-old king was said to be against elections because they would develop into a nation-wide battle between monarchists and anti-monarchists.

The king appointed former speaker George Athanasiadis Novas, a member of Papandreou's Centre Union party, prime minister the same night Papandreou resigned.

But parliament refused to give him a vote of confidence, and Athanasiadis Novas and his cabinet now are administering the country as a caretaker government.

Some 2,000 students massed outside the university Thursday night and 3,000 left-wing building workers rallied and yelled slogans against the king and in support of Papandreou.



'It's for you, your Majesty."

Kennedy, Rusk, McNamara All Offered to Go to Saigon

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — President Johnson disclosed publicly Thursday that some of his top officials had offered to give up their cabinet posts a year ago to become U.S. ambassador in Saigon and direct the American effort in support of South Viet Nam.

They included Robert Kennedy, then attorney - general and now a U.S. senator from New York, State Secretary Rusk and Defence Secretary McNamara.

The president related this chapter of history at the swearing-in of Henry Cabot Lodge, who is returning to Saigon as U.S. ambassador.

It was when Lodge resigned just over a year ago that the cabinet members and McGeorge Bundy, Johnson's chief adviser on international affairs, offered to replace him.

By this disclosure, Johnson obviously wanted to illustrate to the U.S. the sense of duty which grips his entire administration in the prosecution of the war effort in Viet Nam.

It was, in the view of observers, another way of saying that Johnson remains pledged to do whatever is necessary to fulfil the U.S. commitment to South Viet Nam, and that his cabinet is solidly behind him.

Handlers' Strike Settlement On Unfavorable Terms Says Manager of Alberta Wheat Pool

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pressure to get grain moving again forced elevator companies to accept unfavorable terms for settlement of the Vancouver grain handlers' strike, the general manager of the Alberta Wheat Pool said today.

The contract, ratified unanimously by union members Tuesday, "cannot be justified by any economic criteria," A. T. Baker said in a statement.

But he said the five companies, with a harvest imminent and the federal government urging acceptance, had no alternative but to submit.

The two sides are expected to sign the new contract today or Saturday, and put the first grain spouts into the holds of ocean freighters Monday.

The 72-day strike in its last stages shut off the movement of Prairie grain through Vancouver except for token shipments from one terminal.

The stoppage has backed-up rail shipments and left country elevators still full with last season's deliveries. This week's announcement of a 187,000,000-bushel sale to Russia made certain a market for a wheat crop potentially larger than any in Prairie history.

The new contract terms are basically those recommended last weekend by federal mediator Dr. G. Neil Perry. They provide the 450 men with a 48-cent-an-hour wage increase on the present $2.48 base rate in three stages over three years, plus a $100 lump sum payment to each man.

But one key term was reached independently by the union and the Alberta Pool, original target of the strike June 2 by 120 members of the International Union of Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers (CLC).

This involved an out-of-court settlement of the pool's lawsuit against the union for what the company claimed was an illegal strike last year.

Mr. Baker early today was awaiting from the union a copy of a document settling the suit.

Separate contracts will be signed with the Alberta Pool, the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, United Grain Growers and the Federal Grain Company, which ships through its Pacific elevators and Burrard Terminals here.

Professional Diver Works On Bottom of Lake Ontario

Their jobs consist mainly of inspecting underwater construction and making routine checks on inflow and outflow pipes of waterfront sewage or water-treatment installations.

Does Davidson see any fish, shipwrecks or mysterious bodies?

"Nothing," he says. "The odd fish, that's all. Generally it's quite clear and you don't have too much trouble seeing but there's nothing to see except the job you're on."

The divers put on massive steel helmets fastened to steel-studded collars and heavy rubber canvas suits. The suits are equipped with a lead-weighted belt with knife attached and lead - soled shoes. The whole suit, without the diver, weighs nearly 200 pounds.

BEWARE OF BENDS

Each man is connected to an air pump above the surface by a heavy rubber hose about 150 feet long. The hose is attached to the top of the diver's helmet and also carries a telephone line so the diver can maintain contact with the surface.

At present Davidson is working a few hundred yards off New Toronto where a construction company is laying underwater pipe for a new $14,000,000 water treatment plant.

Sections of pipe six feet in diameter are laid under water from a crane on a barge. Then giant scoops of gravel are dumped on top. A contractor's diver supervises the work. Davidson goes down afterwards to inspect.

He considers his job a routine one.

"My boy who is 14 wants to be a diver," he says. "I tell him there's lots of much better jobs around than this one."

Davidson and his mates say their biggest worry while working underwater is the failure of the air pump above. If this happened, the divers would probably have enough air in their helmets to reach the surface. But if the ascent was made from deep water, 30 feet or more, a fast trip could cause a case of the bends.

"I had it once in the old country," says Davidson, who comes from near Aberdeen, Scotland "It gets you in the joints of the arms and legs—it's so painful I couldn't even begin to describe it to you."

8,000 Chinese Held in Camps In Sarawak

SERIAN, Malaysian Borneo (AP)—Ong Kee stopped at an opening in the barbed wire and showed her identity card to two Malaysian guards.

After a few questions, the young girl—one of 8,000 Chinese held in five camps along the Serian road in Sarawak—walked into nearby fields to work.

It was 6:15 a.m. The gates had opened 15 minutes earlier. Chinese in dribs and drabs left camp either for the fields or homes they are not allowed to live in.

All had to return before 6 p.m.

Since July 6, these 8,000 have lived in these camps, set up after an attack June 27 by Indonesians and local Chinese Communists on a police post along the Serian road. Nine persons were killed.

The Malaysian government accused the Chinese in the area, who are mostly farmers, of helping the attackers. They claimed many knew that the Indonesians and Chinese Communists were planning to attack but did not inform the authorities.

CONTAIN SHOPS

The camps have been established around five bazaars which were hacked years ago from the surrounding jungle. The buildings in the bazaars are mostly two-storey wooden structures with living quarters above and shops below.

Bulldozers tore down the jungle around the bazaars and men strung up barbed wire around the entire area. Lights were placed every few yards along the top strand of wire.

Rough, wooden, thatched shacks have been quickly erected. The Chinese inside have plenty of water, supplied daily by trucks and electricity.

The Malaysian government claims the camps provide adequate accommodation facilities and denies they are "concentration camps," as oppositionists charge.

Malaysian officials say the camps are temporary and that the Chinese will soon by resettled at permanent sites away from the road. The road leads from the interior jungle to the capital, Kuching.

Victims of multiple sclerosis in the Belleville area may benefit by $1,000 before this weekend is over.

However, it all depends on t o citizenry – and their desire to donate.

The Hastings - Prince Edward Multiple Sclerosis Association is staging tag days in the city tonight and Saturday morning. However, the association apparently believes in giving the donors their money's worth.

During the tagging the Belleville Clown Band has been hired to make music for Front Street shoppers.

N.Y. Times Runs Series On Water Conservation

By BORIS MISKEW

NEW YORK (CP)—When it comes to conserving water in the drought-stricken New York metropolitan area, every drop counts.

This is the thinking behind a series of urgent messages calling for the conservation of water that have appeared daily in the New York Times since mid-June.

The newspaper decided at that time, as a public service, to impress upon its readers the urgency of the water shortage by inserting two-line and three-line suggestions in its pages on how to save water.

Assistant Managing Editor Theodore M. Bernstein said the newspaper wanted to do what it could to help conserve water and got in touch with Armand d'Angelo, commissioner of water supply, gas and electricity.

D'Angelo's department came up with a series of suggestions that the newspaper condense into such slogans as: "Take a shower (8 to 10 gallons) instead of a bath (20 to 40 gallons)" and "Don't let water run to get it cold. Keep a bottle in the refrigerator."

The paper has eight such slogans and tries each day to place at least one on every two pages—except in the classified ad section — with the suggestions appearing in 20 or more places in a single edition.

MASSIVE EFFORT

The campaign by The Times is only part of the massive effort under way in the New York area by the city water department and various newspapers and radio and television stations. Some papers carry a water table indicating the amount of water in the reservoirs while others use drawings of leaky faucets as reminders.

D'Angelo said the water conservation campaign has had "tremendous results," adding that daily consumption dropped by 230,000,000 gallons since April. The average daily consumption normally is about 1,250,000,000 gallons.

But the New York water supply has fallen to 46.5 per cent of capacity—it was 77.2 per cent of capacity at this time last year—and the shortage continues.

Meanwhile, The Times, trying to make each drop go farther, continues to remind its readers:

"Fix leaking faucets. Officials say one leaking faucet can waste 15,000 to 100,000 gallons a year."

"Don't empty ash trays into the toilet. Every flush uses five to eight gallons."

"Obey the regulations on watering of lawns and washing of cars."

To Plant 1,400 Rose Bushes In Redesigned Corby Park

Corby Park, currently undergoing reconstruction, promises to be one of the city's beauty spots if a plan drawn up by the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board and the Board of Parks Management achieves reality.

The plan, which will take at least two years to complete, foresees a system of pathways, rose gardens, shade trees, and shrubs located around a new fountain in the centre of the park. The design of the new fountain has not yet been chosen but the main feature of the park will be the 1,400 rose bushes in the gardens. Climbing, hybrid, tea, miniature, specie, shrub, and floribunda varieties will be used, along with such shade trees as American elms, hard and Norway maples, and Northern Catalphas.

Parks Superintendent Lloyd Syer said that great pains have been taken to locate shrubbery in the shade areas and the roses in the sun. "Ideal grade and ideal turf are basic necessities," he added. In the near future the park will be completely plowed up, regraded, covered with topsoil, and seeded. The paths will be laid out and no further work will be done until the turf is in excellent condition.

This year's efforts are expected to cost about $2,000, while the total price of the project will be $12,000 to $14,000, depending on the lighting chosen.

Four Accused Obtain Bail, Are Released

A Peterborough scrap-metal dealer yesterday, surrendered himself to authorities in Belleville on a conspiracy charge in the looting of the federal cobalt stockpile at Deloro.

Irving Moldaver, 50, gave himself up to Crown Attorney John Pringle and was later released on $10,000 bail.

Meantime, three other men charged along with Moldaver in the alleged conspiracy have obtained bail and been released from Hastings County jail.

Samuel Vigodda, 50, and his son Leonard 27, operators of Markel Metals and Minerals scrapyard in Belleville, each obtained the $10,000, plus $5,000 surety set by Magistrate T. Y. Wills yesterday. They were released last evening along with William Regan, 70-year-old gate watchman at the stockpile site in Deloro. Mr. Regan, a former reeve of Deloro village, was freed on $5,000 bail.

Still in the county jail this morning were two employees at Markel Metal. Herbert Maracle, 40, and Bernard Boulter, 25, both laborers, had bail set at $5,000.

BLF & E Asking for Right To Bargain for Engineers

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen has asked the Canada Labor Relations Board to certify it as collective bargaining agent for locomotive engineers on Canadian National Railways.

A. R. Gibbons, Vice President-Canadian Legislative Representative, said, "a substantial majority of CNR engineers are members of the BLF&E and desire representation by the Brotherhood."

Gibbons estimated that of approximately 2,800 engineers working on the CNR, more than 1,700 belong to the BLF&E, representing more than 60 per cent of the engineer work force.

The BLF&E now represents engineers on the Newfoundland District of the CNR as well as other smaller carriers in Canada. Locomotive helpers (firemen) on the CNR are also under BLF&E representation.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers currently holds the contract for CNR engineers.

Gibbons said the BLF&E decided to seek certification as bargaining agent for CNR engineers after a heavy influx of engineers into the BLF&E membership ranks since mid-June. He said membership gains of the BLF&E reflected the interest of Canadian enginemen in having one union for engineers and helpers (firemen).

"We are not at war with the BLE.

But it is apparent that enginemen want one organization in Canada. BLE leaders turned down every overture at unity and it was left to the BLF&E to give CNR engineers the opportunity of having one union," Gibbons stated.

John Graham, BLF&E vice president from Lethbridge, Alberta, said the certification move was "directed by the men on the locomotives.

"The men know the value of one voice. They want unity and they want to reinforce their bargaining power. One organization will accomplish both goals and offer the men better representation at less cost," Graham said.

Gibbons added that one organization for enginemen would also provide the basis for intelligent discussion of autonomy of the Canadian segment of the international union.

The Canadian officer said President H. E. Gilbert has made it clear that he would support the will of the majority of Canadian members on the subject of autonomy.

Procedures of Canada Labor Relations Board provide for a verification of B.L.F. & E. membership prior to the taking of a vote.

Gibbons said he did not know when the vote would take place but hoped it would be in the early fall.

chief of which was a demand for a 40-hour work-week during the packing season.

The union demanded overtime pay of time-and-a-quarter for hours worked in excess of 40 hours a week instead of the present 60. Company officials said they would not lower the number of hours below 55.

[illegible] offer would have given the workers a new two-year contract with a 16-cent-an-hour raise, plus a job-rating program estimated to cost the company six to seven cents an hour.

Later, Heinz announced that on the date of acceptance of the new contract, the workers would receive an eight-cents-an-hour increase and a further increase of eight cents in February, 1966.

Under the last contract, which expired in February, a minimum rate of $1.25 an hour and a maximum of $2.40 was set for workers.

Turkish Citizens of Greek Ancestry Subjected to Pressures to Emigrate

ISTANBUL (AP)—The threatening note was stealthily slipped under his door at night. It warned that unless George paid 25,000 lira ($2,666), his wife and children would be killed.

Frightened, George told the police.

Detectives staked out the rendezvous where George was to pay the extortion money. No one appeared.

George decided to apply to emigrate to Canada.

"I have had enough," he told friends.

George is a Turkish citizen of Greek ancestry, one of about 40,000 still remaining in Turkey.

The extortion incident is not typical, of course. But it indicates the pressures on Greek citizens and Greek-Turks like George.

Expulsion of Greek nationals and voluntary departures by Turks of Greek descent began more than a year ago when Cyprus communal strife flamed.

EXPELLED GREEKS

Since then, the Turks have expelled more than 4,500 Greek nationals from Istanbul, either terming them undesirable or because of failure to renew visas.

Reliable Greek sources claim 15 to 20 Greek nationals leave Turkey each week on expiration of their visas. Turks have renewed some visas, mainly for those past 65.

About 7,500 Greek nationals still remain in Istanbul. Of these, about 1,500 are Moslems from Greek Thrace.

In April, the Turkish interior minister said all Greek nationals would be expelled, without exception. Few believed he meant Moslem Greeks, however.

The departure of Turkish citizens of Greek descent has received less publicity. Since the Cyprus trouble erupted, 5,000 to 8,000 have closed their shops and apartments and departed—most of them to Greece.

In May, Greece put a halt to this immigration, however, by suspending the Turkish - Greek visa agreement, which the Turks had broken more than a year ago.

"What can we do now?" asked one Turk of Greek ancestry. "My family is in Athens and I can't join them."

SOME EXCEPTIONS

The Greek government has permitted entry in some hardship cases, however.

The Greek national must pay all income taxes before he leaves. His bank accounts and property are seized, in effect by the government. He is not permitted to take any money or household possessions or his car with him. Greek sources claim property valued at about $1,000,000 has been taken over by the government.

Why do the Greeks remain?

For many, Turkey is the only home they have known. Many have lived all their lives here, never even seeing Greece. Also the Greeks, like other Turkish minorities, have done extremely well in business.

And for Greece and the Greeks, Istanbul—the old Constantinople — has a deeper meaning. For 1,000 years it was the centre of the Byzantine Empire and the Eastern Orthodox Church.

Experiment In Burlington Church Centre

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—The small, glass-fronted store in the heart of a Burlington shopping centre never advertises.

The clerks never consciously "sell" anything.

The only merchandise is religion, rest and a chance to talk. It's free to anyone who wants it.

The Church Centre is an exploratory project, one of a very few in the U.S. "Maybe this won't work," said Rev. John Stone, an Episcopal (Anglican) minister. "But it's a stab—if it doesn't work, we'll try another stab."

Stone, a slight young man with a quick smile, sat in a drug store near his shopping centre church and described the religious experiment.

He told of an elderly lady who came to the shopping centre chapel every day for a month. Her husband had died and she was living with her mother-in-law, her only surviving relative.

"All she ever did was come in and talk," the minister said.

"I used what little knowledge I have and after a little while she had learned to live with her mother-in-law. All she needed was somebody to talk it out with. It's important.

"A man may come in and sit down for a few minutes, but the stories that come out. This sort of thing is very intangible, but it's the kind of thing we're set up for."

The minister feels the chapel should constantly be ready with a sympathetic ear, a place "where people can leave some of their burdens."

The chapel is open six days a week at the same hours the stores are open. The number of persons who come in during the week fluctuates between 20 and 100. A full day may go by without visitors.

Lionesses Fight Cats-as-cats-can

By RUKMINI DEVI
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP) — Naturalists and animal psychologists all over India are discussing love and jealousy among lions.

The sudden interest in the subject is due to a recent tragic incident in the New Delhi zoo.

Two lionesses craved the heart of a single lion. And when matters reached a critical stage, with both in doubt about the outcome of their quest, the lionesses fought it out with claw and tooth.

One of the lionesses, Mimtiwab of Ethiopia, died. She has been buried in a special grave by the zoo authorities.

Rupa, her Indian-born rival, now is undergoing treatment in the zoo hospital. It will be several weeks before she is allowed to return to the lions' enclosure.

Will Mohan the lion accept Rupa without much fuss? This is the question troubling zoo authorities.

They say that Mohan had a soft corner for Mimtiwab. Knowledge of this probably provoked Rupa to murder.

UNIQUE CASE

A leading member of the Bombay Natural History Society said: "Bickering among lions over matters of the heart is not rare. But they have always struck me as liberal - minded lovers, generous to a fault."

The Bombay naturalist admitted that "perhaps we have yet to study this subject more thoroughly." He proposes to visit the Gir forest, 400 miles from here, to gather more data on the romantic life of lions. There are some 500 lions in Gir, the only remaining lion sanctuary in the Indo-Pakistani sub-continent.

Add-can Helps Drug Addicts Beat Problems

EDMONTON (CP)—An organization called Add-Can is trying to ensure that reform-minded drug addicts leaving prison are met at the gate with a helping hand, not another fix.

Add-Can was set up here by a group of former addicts and operates much like Alcoholics Anonymous, relying on fellowship and discussion to help members overcome their addiction.

The organization, which takes its name from the phrase "Addicts of Canada" and also is known as Narcotics Anonymous, operates in a number of prisons, but the Edmonton group is believed the first one on the outside in this country.

Add-Can has a course of 12 sessions or "steps," taking about three months to complete, followed by group therapy sessions. The first course here graduated half of its 12 participants. The other six dropped out.

After graduation, former addicts may continue the therapy sessions as long as they wish.

Willy, an Add - Can member who left Prince Albert penitentiary in March and is married to a former addict, is one of the group's founders and has gone through the "cold turkey" withdrawal six times.

He'd like to see a "half-way house" established, where former addicts who have graduated from a prison Add-Can course can find accommodation upon leaving prison and get help and comfort when the temptation to return to narcotics arises.

"We need a doctor," he says. "We have difficulty getting assistance and treatment at city hospital's where we are suspected of just wanting a fix."

No one was safe. While many just stood by, or strolled down, a hard core of several hundred gave peace officers more than they could handle for a time.

Several patrolmen said taunting, cursing demonstrators tried to pull them from squad cars. Others complained that they were lured into the riot area by false reports of trouble, then ambushed. Firemen responding to small blazes were set upon.

Shots were exchanged several times during the evening, and California highway patrolman Robert Mitchell was shot in the leg. Police returned gunfire from the darkness in one incident.

Several gasoline fire bombs—Molotov cocktails—started minor blazes; bus benches and trash cans were tossed into streets; a white motorcyclist was knocked off his machine and had his nose bloodied by a missile; several reporters were struck by rocks.

In the middle of the affair a delegation of Negro ministers appeared at precinct headquarters and beseeched officers to remove police from the area.

The theme of some Negro leaders was that it is the sight of policemen, and the opportunity to taunt them, that evokes violence among hot - headed youths.

Pond to Cost More Than First Estimated

TRENTON — Clifford A. Baker, chairman of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission, said yesterday there was little doubt that the local commission would go ahead with plans to build a water storage pond in Murray Township, in spite of the fact that the work was now estimated to be more costly than at first thought.

At the last meeting of the local body, the commissioners were told by county engineer George Totten that costs of building the pond and a retaining dam would be around $600,000, of which the provincial government might pay 75 per cent. This is roughly three times the original estimate.

However, Mr. Baker said that the commission had taken a second look at the estimates and now thought a pump house could be built by utility workmen, at a considerable savings.

Mayor James MacDonald, a member of the commission, has been conferring with the Ontario department of energy and resources to see if the offer of a 75 per cent grant still holds good in view of the additional cost estimates.

External Aid Program

Canadian aid to Asian countries under the Colombo Plan was reviewed on this page last week. Such aid is only a fraction. however, of Canada's overall program of external aid.

In 1961-62 and in each of the two subsequent iscal years, for example, Canada appropriated 3.5 for the Special Commonwealth Aid Program. ourteen African countries, of which nine are ndependent, have participated in this program.

Priority has been given to educational projects and a growing number of Canadian eachers are serving in Africa. In 1963-64 here were 189 Canadian teachers in Africa. Now there are almost 300. At the same time early 400 African students are receiving training in Canada.

Here, briefly, is a summary of the aid being xtended to independent African countries: Gambia, four trainees undergoing training in anada; Ghana, construction of a Technical raining Centre and agricultural assistance; Kenya, forest inventory and associated training rogram; Malawi, study being made of possibility of establishing a pulp industry; Nigeria, aerial mapping and geological project and investiga- on of natural gas resources; Sierra Leone, stablishment of a secondary school for boys; anzania, aerial mapping survey, educational, oad building and medical assistance; Uganda, eological survey; Zambia, four students re- iving training in Canada and assistance with gricultural mechanization project.

In nearly all the foregoing countries Cana- an teachers and doctors, nurses, agricultural d other technical experts are assisting the fricans to improve their standard of living.

Canada is also helping a number of depend- t territories; that is, regions which have not t attained full independence from Britain. ney include Basutoland, Bechuanaland, Maur- us, Rhodesia and Swaziland.

French-speaking countries in Africa are also nefiting from Canadian assistance, including meroun, Central African Republic, Chad, the o Congos, Dahomey, Guinea, Ivory Coast, alagasy, Mali, Morocco, Rwanda, Senegal, Togo, nisia and Upper Volta.

The islands of the Caribbean complete this midable program of aid to developing nations d territories. It is a program in which Can- a can take pride, being yet another indication this country's interest in the outside world, d particularly in the welfare of countries less ll-endowed than our own.

Fatalistic Public

The public's attitude to pollution (of the , water, etc.) is akin to its attitude toward ghway accidents—one of almost complete in- ference. It is the fatalistic attitude of the avy smoker toward the risk of getting lung ncer.

People can hardly be blamed for adopting s approach to life, what with the bomb, Viet- n, cancer, heart disease, pollution, fallout, hway accidents and so on.

However, it is good to hear University of lifornia meteorologist Morris Neiberger say t the world will not end in a nuclear holo- ust No . . . nothing like that. Humanity, he dicts, will smother in smog first.

"All civilization," he said in an interview Los Angeles, "will pass away, not from a den cataclysm like a nuclear war, but from dual suffocation in its own wastes."

Neiberger fears that as the living standards he rest of the world rise, the Chinese, Indians Africans will demand and get the same free- n of movement that Americans and Europeans e.

If mankind continues to fill the atmosphere h the poisonous fumes from automobiles, he l, the planet will become uninhabitable hin 100 years.

Not a very cheerful thought. However, by t time it may be possible to travel to the moon to Mars and thereby escape the suffocating nise Mr. Neiberger feels is in store for long- fering humanity.

My taxi-driver turned out to be an Austrian, insisted that Toronto was peopled with erent spirits than the ones I knew back in ope. "Canadians love money first; then comes or, then TV, then food," he said. "Sex is y down on the list. When you'd grab a a Canadian grabs another drink. The place ll of fat men and unhappy women." —Quote he Globe and Mail.

Tuberculin Test and X-ray Uses Explained in Detail

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Some months ago my boy had a tuberculin skin test at school and the doctor told him he had contacted the TB germ. Then he had a chest X-ray and it was negative. I don't know which is more reliable. Now I want the rest of the family to take a test, but should it be X-ray or tuberculin? — L. M.

Both tests are reliable, but in different ways.

The tuberculin skin test shows just one thing: That the person has come in contact with the germ. That's all.

Now if a person has not come in contact with the germ, then he can't have tuberculosis.

But if he has come in contact, then it is possible, although by no means certain, that he may develop an active case of TB. So that is why the X-ray test was given. And, as it turned out, he doesn't have an active case of TB.

Yes, it would be wise for the rest of the family to be tested. The skin test should be first. Any who have negative results can then forget about the matter until it is time for another test — and since TB is so widespread, being free of the disease this year does not guarantee that you will be free of it next year.

Anyone who shows a positive skin test (i.e., has encountered the germ) should have a chest X-ray. This is because an actual case of TB may be developing. Prompt confirmation not only protects him but prevents him from scattering germs to others, and thus creating more positive skin tests.

Once someone has a positive skin test, as in the case of your son, all future skin tests will be positive. Hence there is no point in taking any more of them. But there is a point in having a chest X-ray once a year, to make sure that active tuberculosis does not develop.

To put it another way, once the TB germ invades the body, the blood develops small particles or antibodies to fight that particular germ. The skin test shows whether those antibodies are present.

The test does not show whether the antibodies were successful in subduing the TB germs. Sometimes they do. Again, if there has been massive exposure to the germs, the antibodies may not have succeeded in destroying the germs and then active tuberculosis can begin.

Dear Dr. Molner: May I add a suggestion to Debbie, who was concerned about hairy arms? Having this trouble myself, I have found that complete removal of all hair is as conspicuous as having too much. Therefore, I use a clipper with comb attachment. This leaves the hair about one-quarter inch long. It looks natural and can be kept at this length with infrequent clippings. — Mrs. D. W.

This is a very sensible and practical solution.

Dear Dr. Molner: My 15-month-old daughter was born with ingrown toenails. If the nails are taken off, will new ones grow back normal? My doctor thinks he should operate, but said the baby might get over the problem as she grows older. — Mrs. F. B.

It is most unusual to have such a nail defect from birth.

Conservative treatment usually is tried first. Sometimes bits of sterile cotton can be wedged under the nails until they have grown beyond the point at which the edges can dig into the flesh.

I presume that you have been warned against using snug socks or booties, which aggravate the problem.

If the deformed nails are painful or are the site of infection, surgical correction may be the only sensible course. Unless you soon see some progress in training the nails in the right direction, I would go along with your doctor's suggestion.

Block Laws To Control Sale of Guns

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

As I drove to the city on Sunday night, I heard the car radio announce that one teen-ager had died and four were in the hospital with injuries from shootings.

Two of the incidents were juvenile gang fights. One was an altercation at a church carnival in the suburbs. The dead boy was shot twice in the chest and once in the back. One of the injured boys was not expected to live; another, shot in the spine, might never walk again.

The gun lobby in Washington has spent a great deal of money and energy in trying to blast firearm legislation out of Congress. I have read its propaganda most carefully — also most of the testimony before a Senate subcommittee and nearly all of it is hogwash.

The dismaying fact is that more than 1,000,000 firearms a year are sold by mail throughout the United States. A fourth of these find their way into criminal hands. How many get into the hands of adolescents is not known — and it won't be, unless we get legislation.

One of the arguments used by the gun lobby is that the federal government should stay out of the field and let the states handle the matter. This is a plausible position, but only on the surface.

My own state of Illinois is a depressing case in point. This summer, a bill to register handguns was killed in the Illinois House. It was a sensible, moderate bill requiring owners of certain guns to register their weapons with local law agencies. It infringed on no rights of sportsmen or legitimate owners of weapons.

The bill failed by a margin of 10 votes, largely because of a massive campaign mounted by the National Rifle Assn. When many citizens are unaware of what is going on, and when state legislators are easily influenced, one effective lobby can control the fate of such a bill.

The same would happen in state after state, if federal legislation is not forthcoming. It is manifestly easier for any lobby to manipulate the peanut politicians in state legislatures than to bring real pressure on the U.S. Congress. The gun lobby would like nothing better than to kill firearms registration in state after state, as it did in Illinois.

Polls taken earlier this summer indicated that 70 percent of Illinois citizens were in favor of the bill. But they are not organized, not financed, not articulate, not sufficiently motivated to flood their representatives with letters and telegrams. As a result, my state now has no specific bar against the sale of handguns to minors, to addicts, or even to convicted felons.

And this is precisely how the federal government obtains more and more power — when the state and local governments fail to do the job they should and must do. Ironically, it is those who most oppose federal controls who most often assure that no other way is left open for public action.

Belleville Merchants Reply To Newspaper's Criticism

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

"Business Bombs or Booms," according to Hoy, appeared in your paper August 6. It criticized downtown businesses and was typical in the use of close-outs, parking, service, appearance and store hours as subject matter. Whether intended or not, it failed to be constructive.

We ask where the writer of that article got some of his information. Where? We consider it to be a personal opinion. Should it not have been based on a proper survey of customers and merchants? Opinions are one thing, cold facts another.

"Several well-known, downtown businessmen have closed." Why? Practically none of the closings was due to sales decline or inefficiency as inferred. Retirement, moving elsewhere downtown, expansion into manufacturing and fire loss are the reasons accounting for most of them. What about the burned-out section? Certain building by-laws are causing delay in rebuilding this area, but city officials are now in process of correcting these. Several important new businesses have opened downtown recently; these were not mentioned in the article. Also, average sales of downtown stores are comparable or up this year over tast.

Downtown parking facilities are better than most cities of the same size. We agree with Mr. Hoy that some store fronts need to be improved. However, downtown's appearance compares very favorably with other cities and in some cases, even better.

As for the remarks regarding sales personnel, if customers do not receive the expected attention, management should be told, at the time, for it to be quickly corrected. Constructive criticism is appreciated.

"As of July 16, Belleville stores could stay open six days and two nights." Why then has downtown been slow to respond? Aside from the fact that Kingston, Peterborough and other cities larger than Belleville have found six days and two nights to be not needed and unsuccessful, except in the grocery trade, there are more important reasons for downtown taking a moderate path and making changes gradually. Customer service, employee welfare, price and store hour operations are all inter-related.

Excessive store-hour operations are opposed by the vast majority of permanent retail employees and occupiers of shops, not just for their own welfare and the retention of fringe benefits, but to promote more efficient service to the shopping public. Surveys have disclosed that extended hours do not serve to improve the quality of merchandising and result in some sales increases but at higher costs of doing business. Long store hours do not allow the customer to make purchases efficiently and knowledeably because a merchant has to make use of temporary or untrained staff on staggered work periods: nor does the customer buy at the best price, on the average, because those increased costs of operation have to be included, somewhere, eventually.

The majority of employees of retail shops are married women and surveys have shown that extended or irregular hours, "generally do not serve to enhance the health, economic and social well-being of the staff of retail shops." Labor unions in other trades have been opposed, for many years, to long hours and have been striving to improve working conditions to a standard that is becoming to the dignity of a human being. Are retail personnel not entitled to the same consideration?

This association supported the recently enacted store hours in Belleville because it is felt that they are broad enough to serve this community, as a whole, for some years to come but should be adopted gradually for the common good of all. Our main concern stems from the desire to want to give the best of personal service by knowledgeable, permanent personnel on a decent work-week; also to see that the welfare of Belleville is best served by maintaining the high standard of Community Service accomplished by downtown business people.

French Has Its Pitfalls

Peterborough Examiner

There have been few better demonstrations of the practical value of bilingualism than an incident in Edmonton last Thursday. A housewife telephoned the police in a panic in the firm belief that she had been poisoned by eating a package of fish and chips. But a bilingual constable put her at rest by explaining that the word on the carton was not poison but poisson, the French for fish.

But if bilingualism has its advantages, a limited knowledge of the language has its dangers too. An acquaintance of ours, who recently spent some time amongst French-speaking people, made two natural but dangerous errors which could have seriously compromised her. First, wanting to draw attention to the heat, she said literally 'Je suis chaude,' which means to a Frenchman that she is 'aflame with love.' On another occasion, again translating literally and meaning to suggest that she was full after a large meal, she exclaimed 'Je suis pleine.' She had, in fact, said 'I am drunk.'

Obviously a fluent command of both languages is preferable. But even a limited ability in the second tongue is better than nothing. Any girl would rather give the impression that she was burning with passion than jump to the conclusion that she had been poisoned.

U.K. Railmen Irk Public

Brantford Expositor

Too often a long suffering public is the real victim of a strike or lock out. In retaliation at the latest inconvenience to which they have been subjected by a train slowdown, mild-mannered British commuters have been staging their own strike. They have been "having a go" at London railways, which operates the train schedule, to plead with commuters not to intimidate their employees.

Generally, the boot is on the other foot. The picket line frightens off the public which, though it is in the middle of labor - management disputes, doesn't want to become involved, puts up with temporary interruptions of services and demands that the government do something. The London commuter, however, has become a mouse that roared. Not content with sticking posters on train windows reading, "It is Quicker by Snail" and "Put A Tiger in the Cab", he has decided to intervene personally by taking it out on the hired help.

Cause of the present dispute, just one of many that have plagued British Railways for years and made the commuter's life a misery, is the railwaymen's demand for a productivity bonus. The claim has its merits, but wildcat strikes and work-to-rule procedures have provoked the travelling public into taking action of its own. The strike weapon has been turned against the unions.

Job Places

Sudbury Star

There is no doubt in the minds of some people that earlier retirement will be advocated as the answer to finding employment for the young people moving up into the labor market. Earlier retirement could impose an additional burden on government treasuries unless tax relief is granted so that savings and earned income from "retirement jobs" can be observed and used, instead of being drained away under the present "highest average tax per individual" system.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Indicative of the fact that railroading has a definite appeal for returned veterans of the present war, a total of more than 60 former service personnel have now been rehabilitated by becoming employees of the Transportation and Motive Power departments of the Canadian National Railways at Belleville.

Announcement of this fact was made at the regular summer smoker and entertainment of the C.N.R. War Veterans' Association which was held at the Quinte Hotel Friday night taking the form of Ladies' Night. Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, which has contributed financially to the cigarette fund, were present at the meeting.

Low Wages

Globe and Mail

Throughout the civil service, it is unhappily safe to assume, exist other examples of low wages for necessary and important work.

The postal strike has prompted speculation that the Government will not proceed with some speed to produce a bill that would establish bargaining rights for federal civil servants which would outlaw strikes by substituting arbitration binding upon both parties. The Government must act with speed indeed, or some other of its servants may catch the postal contagion. It could begin by accepting as binding the recommendation to be prepared by Judge J. C. Anderson.

What is involved is not only the convenience and security and prosperity of a country which increasingly depends for many vital services upon its army of civil servants, but the justic available to those servants. We will be a poor lot if we countenance a Government that continues to insist that they subsidize your convenience, security and prosperity.

Parliamentary Notebook

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—The plan of an enterprising junior MP to improve the functioning of the Commons committee system will get its first test when Parliament next meets.

The plan was devised by Maurice Moreau, a mining engineer and Liberal MP for the Toronto - area constituency of York-Scarborough. He has been given special responsibilities by Prime Minister Pearson to organize committee work for the government.

Mr. Moreau hopes the result will be to eliminate some of the conflicting demands on the time of MPs and the occasional embarrassment of not getting out enough MPs to make up a quorum for a committee meeting.

The Commons approved a sweeping revision of the Commons committee structure during the first part of the parliamentary session which adjourned June 30. First use of the new structure will come after Sept. 27 when Parliament is scheduled to reconvene.

Mr. Moreau's first task was to draw up a tentative schedule for times and days of the week to be allocated to the 15 Commons committees.

Then he had to juggle this schedule against Liberal membership on the committees to reduce conflicting times to a minimum so that as far as possible an MP wouldn't find himself on two committees scheduled to meet on the same day and at the same time.

His problem was complicated by the fact that the committee membership had been established before he went to work on his plan. He would have preferred canvassing Liberal MPs to get their first, second and third preferences for the committees.

In the past, committee meetings have generally been fixed by the committee chairmen, sometimes without any consultation to determine whether the time and day conflicted with meetings of other committees.

Mr. Moreau will be the central co-ordinator for scheduling meetings and providing the necessary committee staff, including simultaneous interpretation in English and French and, when necessary, stenographic reports of proceedings.

By TIM PETERS

NEW YORK (CP)—The new president of Canadian Javelin Ltd. is a self-made mining executive with immense confidence in the future of Canada—and he's about to celebrate his 80th birthday.

James F. McNamara, a vigorous, powerfully - built man whose youth potion has been "an active mind," has accepted the top job in a company with extensive mineral and timber holdings principally in Newfoundland and Labrador.

Why assume at his age such responsibility made all the more burdensome by the legal troubles of his predecessor?

"Because it's fun," replies McNamara, whose sparkling eyes and brown hair streaked with grey belie his advancing years.

American-born of "poor but Irish parents," McNamara brings to his new job lifelong selling experience and knowledge in depth of the vast metals industry.

HUNTED IN CANADA

He has been associated with Canadian mining since 1911 and has come to know and enjoy regions north of Canada's population belt through trips to mine sites and numerous hunting vacations in search of "anything that walked."

"I have always had a great regard for the future of Canada," he says. "It is a country of tremendous potential."

But most important in his own view, McNamara brings to Javelin "imagineering" in the tradition of the company's founder and former president, John Doyle. McNamara uses the word to describe the combination of knowledge and imagination needed to guide a company linked closely with discovery and natural resource development.

McNamara, who in five years as a company director witnessed legal battles involving Doyle and Javelin, hopes to erase public suspicions about the company, especially in the U.S. where recent court actions made headlines.

PROMISES FACTS

"We will try to bring out and inform shareholders of the facts of the case, not make defensive denials."

Company news has centred around Doyle, who resigned as president July 20 under pressure of a three - month U.S. prison sentence imposed in Hartford, Conn., after his conviction Feb. 3 of illegally sending unregistered stock through the U.S. mails.

The sentence to the 50-year-old American-born Doyle, who skipped bail and returned to Ottawa, is the latest in a seven-year series of legal hassles involving Javelin and most often the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.

He joined the infant International Nickel Company Inc., a subsidiary of the International Nickel Company of Canada, in 1911 after 14 years in a number of sales and mechanical jobs.

BECAME HEAD

Although hired as a salesman, he soon was placed in charge of the Bayonne, N.J., plant where he gained more firt - hand mechanical experience.

Several moves later, he came to New York in 1921 as U.S. sales manager, and in this position played an important part in the development and distribution of stainless steel, a product which helped make the company an industrial giant.

He retired in 1957 as vice-president at the age of 72, characteristically having worked seven years beyond the firm's required retirement age of 65.

McNamara, like his predecessor, is a personal friend and admirer of Newfoundland Premier Joey Smallwood. Smallwood had supported Doyle publicly at various times during Javelin's court fights.

Twice married, McNamara now makes his home in Rumson, N.J., and commutes to the comfortable 22nd - floor Javelin offices on New York's stylish Fifth Avenue.

He plans to continue to operate from the New York office, set up to facilitate company financing, making trips to Canada at least twice a month.

Triskaidekaphobiacs, et al

Hokum-pokum, Kalamazoo,
Put more broth in the witches' brew.

Black cats, ladders, mystic, salt,
Your bad luck is the witches' fault.

Horseshoes, rabbits' feet — they won't do.
Friday the 13th has got a hex on you.

If you're reading this column right now, at least your luck has held so far. Or maybe you don't suffer from Triskaidekaphobia or dread of the figure 13. Maybe you don't even have any superstitions, but don't bet on it.

Superstitions are usually associated with past history. The fear of Friday the 13th is believed to have originated from the Crucifixion and the Last Supper.

However, a story in The Globe and Mail estimated that in the United States, employers and other businessmen lose $25,000,000 on Friday the 13th as a result of superstitious people staying home instead of braving the possible perils of this unlucky day.

Superstitions are very strong today. Many hotels and apartment buildings try to skip the 13th storey of their buildings by merely jumping the numbering of the floors from 12 to 14.

How many times have you, sometime unconsciously, knocked on wood, thrown salt over your shoulder, nailed up a horseshoe or carried a rabbit's foot?

In the 17th century, Samuel Pepys, an English government official, declared he didn't know what kept him so healthy — his rabbit's foot or the turpentine pill he took daily. "Frankly," he said, "I'd be more inclined to vouch for the rabbit's foot." Thus, the belief grew that a rabbit's foot will bring good health.

Superstitions have their advantages even though most grow out of fear. The man who walked into his boss' office and asked for a raise was given added confidence by knocking on wood and keeping his fingers crossed.

Keeping fingers crossed arose from the belief that making the sign of the cross will prevent bad luck and when you knock on wood for luck you are actually seeking the protection of your ancestors' tree spirits.

Salt was long believed to be a magical ingredient. In some native societies today, salt is held almost as sacred. Thus, when you throw salt over your shoulder, you're throwing it into the Devil's eye.

The superstition about horseshoes is a throwback of the old belief that metal is something magic that can ward off evil spirits.

If you have ever walked under a ladder and the man over you spilled his paint can, then it is your own fault. If you had studied Mithraic teachings you would have realized that it was an ill omen to walk under the mystic ladder to heaven.

Mirrors were once though of as a reflection of the soul, hence to smash a looking glass was bad luck. Certain African tribes to this day refuse to be photographed because to take a man's picture is to take his soul away according to their beliefs.

The rather common abhorrence of black cats stems from Europe where black cats were traditionally supposed to be companions of witches. Also, it was believed that witches could change forms and a black cat may not be simply the witch's companion, but may be the witch herself.

How about three on a match? Some authorities believe it originated during World War I when three men in a trench were lighting cigarettes and when the match was put in front of the third man, an enemy sniper spotted him and shot him through the head.

Dr. Judd Marmor of the University of Calofirnia says there are 80,000 superstitions now believed in.

Many of them are believed fervently by athletes. Hockey players won't wear Number 13 on their sweaters; the starting team always taps the goalie's pads before the start of the game, football players walk around, not under, goal posts; it would be unthinkable for baseball players to mention during a game that the pitcher has a no-hitter going for him, and hockey players observe a like taboo when a goalkeeper seems destined for a shut-out; in golf, the early leader who has finished his round, refuses to be photographed until the remainder of the field is in; and many track stars insist on wearing old racing shorts for luck just as many golfers use old "lucky" putters all through their career.

Fishermen are also laden with superstitions. They won't mention the church or clergy at sea for fear of annoying the sea-gods; in the distant past they would even refuse to rescue drowning men so as not to cheat Neptune; the traditional launching of ships by shapely females goes back to the days when newly constructed barques sailed off in the blood of human sacrifice — today we susbstitute champagne; and to whistle on a ship's bridge brought bad weather.

Even professional burglars have superstitions. They believe it's bad business to steal a deck of cards and burgling a church is so unlucky it will automatically summon the gendarmes.

Our word lunatic comes from a superstition that held that anyone staring at the moon for a long time would become "moonstruck." Lunatic comes from the Latin word "Luna," meaning moon.

Many actors feel less shaky on the stage when there are no peacocks on the curtains and no — absolutely no — whistling in the dressing room. And for some unknown reason, every actor is terrified of putting a hat on a bed. They also refuse to open an umbrella inside.

There are thousands more, and all have one thing in common. They are illogical. But even though they grow out of fear, they do create confidence and the feeling that life is less insecure.

Really though, the whole thing is pretty silly. I mean what could possibly happen to you just because it's Friday the 13th? (Knock on wood.)

MAY HAVE JAMMED

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eugene M. Zuckert, secretary of the U.S. Air Force, told President Johnson Thursday that some of the 53 victims of the Titan II missile silo disaster at Searcy, Ark., may have died because an escape ladder was blocked when two men were jammed together in a desperate effort to pass simultaneously through a narrow opening.

Resource Council to Study Canada's Water Potential

By MICHAEL BLAIR

MONTREAL (CP)—A study of Canada's water resources will be the first major task undertaken by the Canadian Council of Resource Ministers, created two years ago with the support of the federal and provincial governments.

The council, which receives $150,000 a year from the 11 governments to operate a secretariat and research branch, was instructed to undertake the study at a recent meeting of resource ministers in Victoria.

For its first two years the council drifted along with no specific task other than a few preliminary studies on varied resources and in the words of Rene Levesque, Quebec minister of natural resources, to act as a "clearing house" for resources information.

The study of water resources will include examination of the posibility of diverting northern Canadian rivers into water-short areas, such as the Great Lakes.

Christian de Laet, Belgian-born secretary-general of the council's secretariat, feels the study of water resources is a good start.

He said Canadians must look into this because "covetous eyes" are turning northward, referring to elaborate U.S. plans calling for diversion of the northern rivers flowing into James and Hudson bays and the Arctic Ocean, into the Great Lakes and parts of the U.S. to help that country's water shortage.

PROVINCES MUST LEAD

"The Victoria meeting was the first step in the consideration of the future development and use of Canada's water resources," he said, "a step which hopefully could lead to the establishment of national and regional water policies for Canada."

Walter Gray, information and education director on the four-man secretariat, said in an interview: "This is the first attempt by all governments to look at the status of natural resources.

"The council is unique in that the federal government has an equal say with the provinces and recognizes that resources belong to the provinces and they must be the ones to initiate planning."

The secretariat was established following Resources of Tomorrow conferences held in Montreal and Toronto in 1961 and 1962, with a primary function to maintain communication both with the resource departments of the governments, and non - governmental organizations concerned with resource development.

"We are trying to co-ordinate this development on a regional and national basis," said Mr. Gray.

He said each of the governments involved had shown interest in the council and its secretariat, including Mr. Levesque, a leader in the Quebec drive for economic independence.

TACKLED POLLUTION

The Quebec resources minister was absent from the last two council meetings but said that didn't mean he wasn't interested in its work. He expresed his opinion of it in this way:

"The secretariat is no more than a clearing house . . . and on that score it is useful. However, I don't see a way, with the current jurisdictional problems (between federal and provincial rights) that the council can make up for the lack of policy in the field."

In addition to water resources, the Victoria conference dealt with water, soil and air pollution and a national wildlife program.

Regarding pollution, the council would like to co-ordinate the multiplicity of agencies working in the field, which raise jurisdictional and administrative problems. This will be discussed during a conference on Pollution and Our Environment here next year.

The wildlife program, under which the federal government proposed to spend $5,100,000 a year for 10 years on preservation of waterfowl habitat on the prairies, was proposed by Arthur Laing, northern affairs and national resources minister.

"The atmosphere of the council is unique," said Mr. Gray. "We don't make policy, just suggestions, and this way none of the governments feel we are trying to override their authority."

Incidents Not Work of Klan Says Chief

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (CP)—Robert Shelton, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, said Thursday that recent racial incidents in Amherstburg, Ont., are not the work of the Klan.

He said in an interview the Klan knew nothing about the incidents and it was not a Klan activity.

Negroes in Amherstburg, 14 miles south of Windsor, have reported insulting telephone calls and a cross-burning incident at the main intersection of the town, the main terminus for the "underground railway" that smuggled Negro slaves into Canada about 100 years ago.

Shelton said the incidents were "probably the work of teen-agers with the avowed purpose of creating turmoil, or possibly Negroes themselves, to create an incident which would help them collect money."

"We (the Klan) are in constant correspondence with individuals in Canada about organizing up there," he said. "However, we are just in the early stages. There is great interest in the Klan throughout Canada."

Iroquois Falls Suffers Loss Of $750,000

IROQUOIS FALLS, Ont. (CP) A $750,000 fire, the worst in the history of this community 40 miles east of Timmins, destroyed 10 businesses housed in one block Thursday.

Burned were the community centre, library, post office, legion hall, fire department, a tailor shop, shoe store, restaurant, insurance office and hairdressing studio.

All businesses were in a building owned by Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Ltd. Fire officials said they believe the blaze started in a furnace at one end of the block. They said almost the entire population of about 3,000 came out to watch the fire. No injuries were reported.

Low water pressure forced firemen to pump water from the Abitibi River. Pressure was so low at one point that they had to use a shotgun to break windows in the post office to spray water inside.

The heat was so intense that it shattered the plate glass windows in a store across the street.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

What happens when a property owner pays a contractor in full and the latter does not pay his bills? The answer is that often the property owner is called upon to pay again, especially if he naively neglects having protection against "mechanics liens."

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I am being asked to pay twice for the same house. How can it be?

I signed a contract for $21,000 with a builder. After much trouble he completed the house. We paid our money and received a receipt marked "paid in full."

When we were in the house for less than a month, we started getting bills from lumber yards, mechanics, tradesmen and supply houses. It seems our builder has gone out of business and has never paid these people. Now they are demanding that we pay again or they will take legal action. I don't understand what is happening. Why am I being hounded and threatened? — Harassed Owner.

ANSWER: Your problem is common and one that traps many property owners. When the prime contractor does not pay his sub-contractors, demands can be made on the property owner even though he has already paid the prime contractor in full.

You are being asked to pay for a series of mechanics liens that have been recorded against your property. Since these various people either worked on your house or supplied material they are demanding payment

Your predicament should be an object lesson for others. One should never make final payment to a contractor, be it a new house or an alteration, without securing from him a release of liens signed by all mechanics and material suppliers.

It is preferable that the form used to obtain these releases be prepared by one's attorney rather than the contractor. Mechanic lien laws are complex and vary widely. One should never undertake a construction job without legal advice providing for protection against mechanics liens.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I signed an exclusive 90-day listing agreement with a real estate broker. It states that I must give him 30 days notice to terminate.

Two months have now gone by and he hasn't even brought one person to see the property. I want to get rid of him as soon as possible. Do I wait until the 90 days are up or do I notify him now? — Cautious but Angry

ANSWER: You will not be rid of your listing agreement until 30 days after notification to the broker. If you wait the whole 90-day period, you will then be bound for another 30 days. If you notify the broker now, the notification period will expire at about the same time as the listing period and you will then be free to employ another real estate broker. A word of caution — make your notification to the broker in writing and keep a copy for your records.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I am buying a new house and will be paying cash. I want to make sure that everything will be all right. The real estate company with whom I am dealing tells me that they can handle the settlement for me without cost. Do you think that under these circumstances I should have my own lawyer? What is a reasonable fee for legal services? Where do I find a good lawyer? — A Future Property Owner

ANSWER: Let us get our concepts straight. The real estate broker from whom you are buying the property is not your agent — he is representing the seller and owes the loyalty of an agent to his principal.

Since, as noted above, you are really on your own, I strongly recommend that you have a lawyer represent you in this transaction, not only at settlement but also to pass on the agreement of sale before you sign.

Each lawyer sets his own fee on the value of his services, but if no unusual difficulties are encountered it normally runs between $100 and $200. If you have no personal attorney and friends cannot help you, one of the best ways to locate an attorney experienced in real estate law and practice is to ask the mortgage officer in your local bank.

Wall Anniversary Is Observed

BERLIN (Reuters) — Officials on both sides of the Berlin Wall issued statements to mark the fourth anniversary today of the hardening of the line between Communist-and Western-controlled Berlin.

On the Western side, where it is known as the "Wall of Shame," the West German government declared the German people and their government would "never become reconciled to the Wall."

In the East, where it is the "Anti-Fascist Defence Wall," the East German news agency ADN emphasizes its role in stopping Western provocations, espionage and economic sabotage.

No ceremonies were planned in the East. But West Berliners planned to place wreaths at spots where refugees have been killed in escape attempts. A silent march was scheduled for tonight in West Berlin.

The West German statement said 61 persons were killed trying to cross the Wall, that some 23,000 people escaped across the whole East-West German border since 1961 and more than 3,400 across the wall itself.

The Wall itself, primitive and makeshift at first, is constantly being strengthened. The Communists have even begun to landscape it to make it less obtrusive and prison-like when seen from the West.

Would - be escapers face 24 miles of 10-foot-high barriers made of rough concrete blocks, up to five rows of barbed wire fence, steel anti-tank girders, trip wires, watchtowers, bloodhounds, searchlights and flares —all watched over by 11,000 border guards.

Vancouver to Build Museum As Part of Centennial Project

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's third largest city has accepted an invitation to put on its cultural long pants and grow up.

With surprising speed city council has adopted a new museum—the first stage of a proposed $5,000,000 multi-building cultural centre—as its centennial project.

The museum, which could be built with $1,200,000 in available federal and provincial grants, is part of an ambitious proposal by Theodore Allen Heinrich, world authority on museums.

Dr. Heinrich, creator of the department of fine arts at the University of Saskatchewan and former director of the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto, proposed that the city create its centre on five acres of available land in the suburb of Kitsilano.

Dr. Heinrich would create a centre with a museum, art gallery, lecture theatre and "casino" for civic entertainments, plus subsidiary buildings.

He was hired by the Community Arts Council, a group dedicated to the cultural advancement of the city, which obtained an $8,000 grant for his survey.

TIME TO GROW UP

"Vancouver hasn't put on its long pants yet," said the 41-page report. "It still behaves as a small young town which isn't ready for something like this.

"It has the chance of a complex in the incomparable setting of Kitsilano with a stupendous landscape across the water."

It said the city is in a favored situation with its physical setting, high growth rate, colorful history and position as one of the world's principal commercial and cultural crossroads.

But it was intellectually lazy if not downright slothful.

Dr. Heinrich used colorful language to describe the "forbidding stone edifice" of the present desperately overcrowded museum.

"To reach it by traversing the length of skid road is one of Vancouver's most illuminating if disheartening experiences . . . and to spend half an hour on its small porch is an eye-opener for the student of sociology.

"To descend its circular and slightly skewed staircase from the top floor is the nearest urban equivalent to skiing . . . and is clearly one of the museum's principal attractions to the Grade 4 children who are herded through the museum in large numbers."

The art gallery, elsewhere downtown, was the main one in Western Canada and had outgrown its present building.

City council accepted the Heinrich plan less than a month after it was proposed.

Indian Mountain Climbers Come of Age at Everest

DARJEELING, India (Reuters)—The resounding triumph of Indian climbers on Mount Everest this year marks the coming-of-age of Indian mountaineering.

Nine men, all graduates of the Himalayan Mountaineering Institute in Darjeeling, have stood on the summit. One of them, Nawang Gombu, who is one of the institute's instructors, became the first man to make two successful ascents of the world's highest peak.

Just 12 years ago India, indifferent to the successes and trials of Himalayan climbers who were mostly foreigners, was electrified by the news that Sherpa Tenzing Norkay had made the first ascent of Everest with Sir Edmund Hillary of New Zealand.

Tenzing came from Nepal and because of this, his nationality was a matter of dispute, but he had settled in Darjeeling and to Indians he was one of them. Overnight he became a hero and the inspirer of Indian youth.

In those 12 years Indian climbers have stood on the summits of 20 Himalayan peaks of more than 20,000 feet. Apart from 29,028 - foot Everest they have climbed Cho Ouy (26,750 feet), Nanda Devi (25,645 feet) and Kamet (25,447 feet).

PRESS ALERT

Newspapers which never paid attention to mountaineering news now regularly display pictures of shaggy, bleary-eyed climbers against backgrounds of snow and ice, together with detailed accounts of their expeditions.

Indian girls, often thought of as living cloistered lives, have also won their share of honors.

Last autumn a girl guide expedition climbed the 22,420-foot peak of Mrigtuni. Girls have joined other expeditions and the mountaineering institute now is running special courses for them.

More than 1,000 young men and women have graduated from the institute, 7,000 feet up in the Himalayas.

With Tenzing as director of training, the Sherpas, tough mountain folk from the Everest region, have provided most of the instructors.

Although they have become proficient in high - altitude climbing on snow and ice, Indian mountaineers lack the experience of rock-climbing which forms the basis of the skill of American, European and Japanese climbers.

To remedy this a second mountaineering institute at Manali, in the Kulu Valley of the western Himalayas, will concentrate on teaching rock work.

Mexico-U.S. Crack Down On Smugglers

MEXICO CITY (Reuters) — Mexico and the United States will co-operate more closely to intensify the drive against illegal drug smuggling across their joint border.

Recent informal talks here between high - ranking jurists and police officers of both countries resulted in positive proposals for checking the flow of marijuana and opium from Mexico into the U.S.

Marijuana sells for only about 200 pesos ($16) a kilogram (2.2 lbs.) in Mexico. But the same quantity in the United States brings some $250. This alone is sufficient to account for the persistence of the traffic.

Mexican police claim that between 1960 and 1965 they destroyed 437,000 square metres under cultivation of marijuana and nearly 9,000,000 square metres of poppies.

They also rounded up and destroyed 182,000 kilograms of prepared marijuana and 55,000 kilograms of opium, distilled from the poppies. There were smaller hauls of morphine, heroine, cocaine and other narcotics.

WANTS INDEPENDENCE

BARBADOS (Reuters)—Barbados is to seek full independence from Britain, it was announced here Thursday. Barbados, now an internally self-governing colony, is the most easterly of the West Indies group and has a population of about 235,000.

Replacement Village Causing Difficulties For Ghanian Leaders

AKOSOMBO, Ghana (AP) — Six hundred villages have been inundated by a lake backed up behind the completed Volta River dam, and 80,000 Ghanaians had to move.

The Volta River Authority made elaborate plans but found the two-year resettlement program a delicate matter for small farmers long rooted to tiny jungle plots near obscure hamlets.

Some 12,500 "nucleus type" houses were built in 52 replacement villages. They are concrete-wood-aluminum structures with a single completed room per family. Inhabitants were expected to add two other rooms themselves with materials supplied by the government.

The self-help involved in completing the home has required more government assistance than originally planned, says Frank J. Dobson of Toronto, a Canadian who has headed the Volta River Authority since 1961. Dobson formerly was construction manager of Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission's Lakeview thermal generating station near Toronto.

Populations of new townships vary greatly to suit the tribal and other affiliations of the people.

New Ajena, 13 miles from the original Ajena, absorbed 12 villages and will have more than 400 houses with 2,200 residents. It smells of new lumber and fresh paint but it already has the atmosphere of a community. A sign at the Volta saloon invites one to "slip in for iced beer."

CONTROL FLOODS

The $196,000,000 Volta River hydro-electric scheme aims to control flooding on the Volta River, provide enough electricity for all southern Ghana with enough left over to power an aluminum smelter, attract new industry and provide thousands of jobs.

The man-made lake of 3,275 square miles covers four per cent of Ghana's surface.

President Kwame Nkrumah has counted on private industry to take advantage of the plentiful electric power but one foreign businessman says:

"There is a real danger that the Volta dam could become something of a white elephant unless the government sees fit to change its attitude toward private business."

Nkrumah's statements such as "the surest road to the welfare and happiness of the people lies in socialism" have discouraged private investment.

World's Most Wicked City Going Straight

MACAO (Reuters) — If Macao's notoriety as one of the world's most wicked cities was ever deserved, it certainly does not seem to be so today.

For five days out of seven, the tiny Portuguese possession dozes in the shadow of its giant neighbor, China.

On the sixth and seventh days of the week, Saturday and Sunday, it shrugs off some of its inertia as gamblers from Hong Kong, 40 miles to the west, scramble ashore from ferries and hydrofoils, and head hopefully for the two casinos and the Greyhound race track.

By Monday morning, however, Macao has slipped back into its torpor.

It was not always thus. Once, not so long ago, there were far more than two casinos. And long before that, Macao was what Hong Kong is today—a bustling trading port settled more than four centuries ago by the Portuguese.

Standing at the tip of a peninsula jutting into the South China Sea and close by the mouth of the Pearl River, it had a natural harbor from which traders travelled inland to do business with the Chinese.

A "SPY" IN THE WORKS — Some2,700 workers at the Toronto plant of Massey-Ferguson Industries Ltd., feel the days of 'big brother' and the all-seeing mechanical eye are upon them. For the workers staged a wildcat strike Wednesday because the company began using an electronic device (top left) to measure each man's work output. Unique Canning Firm For Sale Near Toronto

By STEPHEN SCOTT

VANCOUVER (CP) — For sale: One canning company.

Unusual? No. Except that the only thing it cans is tap water.

Its markets are scattered around the world and while it's not making a lot of money, it isn't losing, its owners say.

He says he wants out because he'd like to devote his time to his wholesale flower business.

But he insists that canning water isn't as silly as it sounds.

He has sold it in Hong Kong, Pakistan and Switzerland and now is trying the Toronto market.

Mr. Chin says it's real soft water with an additive that prevents rusting and allows it to be stored forever. It's great for mixed drinks and steam irons, he maintains.

His explanation is that the canned water contains less air than the ordinary tap water and that it therefore tastes better when mixed with an alcoholic beverage.

40 CENTS A TIN

He first sent canned water to Hong Kong during a serious water shortage there and continued it afterward to meet the cocktail-hour demands of the carriage trade in the British crown colony.

The water sells in Hong Kong for at least 40 cents a 48-ounce tin.

The Pakistani importer sells the water to diplomats, Mr. Chin says. But he can't think why the Swiss company bought one trial shipment.

Mr. Chin says the sales in Pakistan and Switzerland followed the publication of the firm's name in a bulletin on Canadian products issued by Canadian trade commissioners abroad.

A company set up in Bolton, just north of Toronto, now is canning water for China and will attempt to peddle it to Toronto chain stores.

Asked why he thinks Canadians should be interested, Mr. Chin mentioned its qualities as a mix and uses in machinery and appliances that don't like hard water, also for survival kits for aircraft, boats and civil defence.

SHIPWRIGHT SAVES GULL

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Crystal is an eight - month - old seagull saved from death by the foreman of Halifax Shipyards' marine slip here. Harry Griswold has been doctoring sick gulls for most of his 26 years at the slip's paint shop. After being found on the end of a wharf, Crystal was nursed back to good health by patching up a broken leg and smashed ribs. "She's doing fine," says Mr. Griswold.

THOMASBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Ross Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morton spent Friday last in Smiths Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne H. Thompson of Ottawa were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Thompson recently.

Mr. and Mrs. David Calvert spent Monday of this week in Toronto.

Morton and family of Thomasburg in honor of Mrs. Morton's grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Slush of Tweed, who celebrated her 91st birthday on August 10. She is the last living member of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Adams, one of the pioneer families of the Tweed district. She is a former resident of Thomasburg village, as she and her husband, the late Mr. Thomas Slush, owned for many years the store and post office, now owned by Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Brough.

Present at the gathering were her daughter, Mrs. Gladys Bateman of Tweed, and her grandchildren and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bateman and family of Embro, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Richardson and family of Lakefield, Mr and Mrs. Ralph Johnson and family of Stirling and Mr. John Reid of Halloway.

One That Won't Run Down

Ottawa Research Seeks A Perpetual Battery!

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Would you like a battery that doesn't need recharging or replacement?

Some government agencies and industries are thinking of you.

The device is called a fuel cell battery and its feasibility has been established. The problem now is to get the cost down.

A fuel cell is an electro-chemical device like a battery which can continually produce electrical energy from the chemical reaction of a fuel, such as gasoline, with oxygen from the air.

Dr. E. J. Casey, formerly of Milltown, N.B., and now of Almonte, Ont., head of the Defence Research Board's interdepartmental study group on fuel cells, said in an interview there are relatively cheap fuels available but that an inexpensive catalyst is needed if these fuels are to be used efficiently and economically.

He foresees the first commercial use in Canada of fuel cells in small, portable types which could be used in trailers, summer cottages or ground navigational beacons where electricity is not available. The fuel could be carried in cans and merely poured into the cell, or converter, when power is needed.

Dr. Casey said the chief advantages of the first commercial fuel cells will be silence and continuous feed.

INDUSTRY ENLISTED

Dr. Harry Sheffer, chief superintendent of the Defence Chemical, Biological and Radiation Laboratories at nearby Shirley Bay, Ont., in January appealed to Canadian industry to conduct research and development in the fuel cell field.

His appeal is believed to b taking effect.

Dr. Sheffer told represent tives of industry and gover ment: "This new area of scie tific investigations is more th promising and unless Canad acts now, we will be left b hind in developing fuel ce technology."

Government assistance pr grams are available to indust to help it build up a fuel ce capability.

Government agencies looki at the problem include the d fence, transport and indust departments, National Energ Board and the National R search Council.

Several industrial firms hav joined in this study of applic tions of fuel batteries of vario sizes for government and co mercial use. A government u would be in army portable fie radios and radars. A comme cial use for very large fuel ba teries would be in electric d livery trucks.

Dr. Casey said commerci use of fuel cells does not a pear far off. But a slow sta rather than a sudden mass l troduction could be expected.

First purchases may be ma by fairly well-to-do persons w want fuel batteries as a co venience in such things as su mer cottages, golf carts a motor boats. As costs con down, fuel batteries can be e pected to come into fairly wid spread use.

Women's Institutes

UNIONDALE W. I.
Hastings West

5th SIDNEY — The August meeting of Uniondale (Hastings West) Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. M. Sine, 6th Concession of Sidney.

Mrs. George Burkitt, the convener of the meeting, gave a paper on "Water Pollution in Ontario" and read in part: "Ontario is undergoing rapid population growth and urban and industrial expansion. A key factor in this growth is the availability of water of adequate quality, although as much as 12 per cent of the surface area of Ontario is water. The amount which meets the requirements is limited and is if anything diminishing partly due to inadequately controlled polluting wastes.

"These wastes from the growing use of atomic energy and the discharge of large quantities of hot water from thermal electric power plants may cause difficulty unless great care is exercised in the control of these wastes. Agricultural chemicals also are a threat, with well over 12,500 brand name compounds. These, while fulfilling their function on land, may enter the water supply by direct application to the water surface from treated fields or by seeping from the watershed."

This offers death to fish, to birds, to aquatic animals and it may be danger to man. More than four billion pounds of synthetic detergents are said to be used annually for washing clothes, dishes and automobiles. Virtually all of this material finds its way into either open streams or underground water supplies.

The business discussed at the meeting dealt with the naming of leaders for the 4-H Club to be held on September 14 to 15 for the project "The Club Girl Entertains. Mrs. Milton Grills and Mrs. Mary Sine will be the leaders. Arrangements were also made for serving at the Belleville Fair on Monday with the Bethel-Zion group, the Uniondale W.I., and the Wallbridge W.I. also to serve meals.

The C.A.C. Bulletin will be renewed and the fee for the adopted child's education will be forwarded. The visit to the Hastings Manor was reported and stated that 25 residents had been visited by the Uniondale W.I. members.

Monica Sine gave a travelogue of her exchange visit to the Rimouski vicinity of Quebec. Mrs. H. Bleecker, Mrs. R. Burkitt and Mrs. M. Grills favored with piano solo, readings and a sing-song. Members were asked to give a household hint and to repeat this at each meeting. Thanks was expressed to Mrs. Sine for opening her home, after which lunch was served.

The September hostess will be Mrs. J. Janca who has recently returned from a visit to her homeland, Czechoslovakia and at this time will display a number of articles from this country.

U.C.W. Theme Speaker Gives Summation

The final day of the Bay of Quinte Conference United Church Women fourth annual school began with music directed by Mrs. Kenneth Tedford of Norwood, assisted at the piano by Mrs. A. E. DeNure. By special request, Mrs. Tedford and Miss Hyacinth Booth, Covenant College student from Jamaica, sang a duet, "Unto the Hills."

Morning devotions were led by Mrs. Henry Gray, of the Belleville Presbyterial UCW. Miss Rebecca Wong played a beautiful piano solo of Chinese music.

GIVES SUMMATION

Miss Marion Thomson, theme speaker for the school, in her summation of the conference study, spoke of the events of the transfiguration of Jesus and subsequent happenings.

She said in part, "When Jesus was trying to learn who the people thought He was, He seemed for the moment to be rejecting the title of 'Messiah' because of what it meant to them. It seems clear that the account of what Jesus said to Peter about being the head of His church was colored by later events, when Peter became the acknowledged head of the church. That Jesus was alone after the transfiguration was a symbol of Jesus going forward to the messianic age."

Miss Thomson continued, "The resurrection put things in focus for Peter. He then knew that Jesus' message was for all people. He knew that the church had to lose 'self' and accept the gift of servanthood. What would it mean today if the Church would lose 'self'? As it is, there is in the church, too much harness and not enough horse.

She closed by saying: "In the case of the rich young ruler, Jesus did not run after him, but He also did not turn His back on Him. The Lord hath more truth and light than yet hath come forth."

ATTENDANCE REPORT

Mrs. J. E. Marsh, Belleville, conference treasurer and registrar for the school, reported that there had been 147 women in full-time attendance and 118 on Wednesday when one-day visitors were welcome.

Courtesies were given by Mrs. Stephen Saywell, Oshawa.

Mrs. Clare Telford, Norwood, dean for the 1966 school, conducted the afternoon and closing session.

CLOSING ADDRESS

Mrs. L. F. Richardson, conference president, gave the closing address "A Responsible Church in a Changing World," and said in part: "The whole church is all the members of the church, it is us. In the rapidly changing world, we must remember that social change is rooted in history. We must have the courage to bring our faith into this dangerous, confusing yet exciting life of the world which exists outside our church buildings. Too often the church appears to exist for the sake of its members. We must take it outside. Our concern must be aimed at man. Direct involvement in mission is necessary for the integrity of the believer and the church. The church is the place from which we go to carry out its mission, when we do something constructive about such things as race relations minority groups, poverty, disturbed and rebellious youth, the spread of automation, retirement at an earlier age, the Indian situation and wherever there is work to be done."

She closed by saying "let us be prepared to let God guide us into creative and effective work in the community and the world."

Closing devotions were led by Mrs. Seigel, Renfrew Presbyterial United Church Women.

THE QUESTION ISN'T:
what will you serve?
THE QUESTION IS:
how will you serve it?

Whether you're having dinner for two or twelve, the knack involved is to serve the food in such a way as to make an "ordinary" dinner a memorable dinner.

You might take special care with the canapes. With your settings. Candle light. And wine. Especially wine. Sherry before dinner, sauterne or claret with dinner, port and sparkling wine with dessert—that's what makes a dinner. That is precisely what this Brights cellar of fine Canadian wines will do for you.

74 Sherry. An appetizer wine, most popular in Canada. Serve with hors d'ouevres, and the soup course.

Manor St. Davids Sauterne. Chilled, it does wonders for white meat of any kind—fish, fowl, or pork—and salads!

Manor St. Davids Claret. Canada's most distinctive "wine of the country". Ideal with steaks, hamburgers, red meat of any kind.

DuBarry Sparkling Vin Rosé. An "anytime" that's light and tingling on the tongue. Serve before, during or after any meal at all.

Pleasant gift idea!
What more pleasant or welcome gift than a cellar of Brights fine Canadian wines? You'll be embarrassed at the effusive thanks!

Worried About Introduction Without Looking Forward

DEAR DORIS: When I first came to this city I met this girl who was a waitress in a restaurant, and she became quite friendly with me, which I appreciated very much.

DORIS CLARK

When she quit that job she told me and now I haven't seen her too much, although when I have seen her she still says hello even though she is working at another job. I feel that she would still like to talk to me but something always seems to happen.

What I would like to know is, what is the right way of keeping this kind of friendship and not make this just look like a pickup in front of other people and her boss.—WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING: Etiquette books call for introductions. But there are other ways. If two people work for the same boss at adjoining desks one would consider them anti-social if they didn't get to know each other. Neighbors across the fence become close friends—without benefit of formal introductions.

I'd say your friendly chats over the months have acquainted you with your helpful waitress. But you are both different. Next time you meet her invite her to have a cup of tea or a coke with you; then suggest that you introduce yourselves to each other, supplying details about marital status, address, occupation.

If you find no encumbrances, and both want to be friends, I would thereby pronounce you Man and Waitress-friend.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: Today in your column a 15-year-old girl asked for somebody to write in about pierced ears.

Well I've had mine pierced at 14. I don't always wear wires in them. When I dress and want to use clip-on earrings I take my earrings out and wear them.

DEAR MRS. L. L.: Thank you.

* * *

TO WHITE SPOT: Somewhat belatedly, I have the information that one may use a cloth dampened with turpentine or spirits of camphor, to remove whitened spots from furniture surfaces. As I recall it, yours was caused by a hot iron.

Let's know if it works.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — This is for WORRIED AND DOUBTFUL: When we pray, we must have faith to believe that what we have asked for, God will grant to us in accordance with His will. Remember this, the answer can't always be "Yes." Sometimes the answer is "no," sometimes "Wait a while." Why? Because He knows what is best for us. What we want isn't always best for us.

I feel you worry about people and what they will say because you don't understand them, don't associate enough, lack self-confidence. Friends are jewels.

* * *

You doubt your children because you expect too much of them. More love, encouragement and trust can make both a happier parent and child. Try confiding in them, making it easier for them to confide in you.

In this way I am sure you will not only be a better parent, but also a happier one. Thank you, Doris. — A FRIEND.

DEAR FRIEND — In other words, you'd suggest a change of name and attitude from "Worried and Doubtful" to "Serene and Believing." It can be done!

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO NOT WANTED: You were the middle child; neither first nor last. So you feel you have no spotlight at all. Your mother opens your mail and adds to your feeling of just amounting to nothing.

Then you make a new friend, and try to hang on so hard the friend pulls away. No one wants to be completely possessed—to be your pal to the exclusion of everyone else.

You are making progress. Nursing training is no child's play and you will gain confidence. Keep reaching out in friendliness and one of these days you'll begin feeling like a person.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — I am 17, male and already starting to lose my hair. This worries me a great deal because my father became bald at a fairly early age. I can't stand to be bald so soon.

What I'd like to know is if anything can be done to check hair loss? — WORRIED.

DEAR WORRIED — A tendency to baldness does seem to run in families; but hair health and growth certainly go with good general health.

I'm sending you a leaflet on hair care, since the section "Getting Into Condition" applies to both men and women. But if actual bald spots are appearing, better consult a physician.

* * *

DEAR DORIS — May God bless you for passing on the letters from readers wanting to help. Truly these people are very nice people and are friends I needed. I am writing to them.

You said I needed to talk, and you were right. I found an elderly woman who understands and we do like one another a lot. So I did pour out my troubles to her and feel I unloaded a ton of rocks off my chest. As a matter of fact we both cried and felt a whole lot better.

I am not so discouraged any more since I have been employed part time which helps out financially, for the children. I no longer feel so lonely though I am still — ALONE.

DEAR ALONE — Good. Perhaps now you'll be standing up for your rights with those thoughtless tenants!

* * *

DEAR DORIS — Sorry I have taken so long to thank you for your most helpful advice concerning our son. We did acquire an excellent tutor for him. Bless her! She has since died.

We also had our son changed to another school and the teachers there seemed to understand and help him. At any rate, he was an entirely different boy. He has passed with a good average and will be entering grade eight. — THANKFUL MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER — Good! Sometimes a dedicated tutor can give a lagging student the lift he needs in a short time.

When the light dawns, it's exciting for everybody — student, tutor, and anxious parents. There are times when the schoolteacher just can't devote the needed time to one confused student.

* * *

(Doris can help you with that puzzling decision. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

MIXED MUSTARD PICKLES

QUESTION:

Do you have a recipe for Russian Dressing? The dressing I was served was a mayonnaise base with stuffed olives, pimiento, etc., but I have never been able to find a recipe just like it . . . it is not 1000 Island dressing. Can you help me? . . . Mrs. M. W. S.

ANSWER:

Yes I can. There are three types of Russian Dressing.

RUSSIAN DRESSING NO. 1:

To 1 cup mayonnaise add 3 tablespoons thick chili sauce, 1 teaspoon chopped pimiento, well-drained, 1 teaspoon finely chopped chives, 1 teaspoon finely chopped green pepper, 1 tablespoon caviar, 1 tablespoon finely minced cooked red beets, 1 teaspoon finely chopped parsley.

RUSSIAN DRESSING NO. 2:

To 6 tablespoons mayonnaise add 1 tablespoon each finely chopped red pepper and green pepper and thick chili sauce and imported caviar. Chopped olives are optional.

RUSSIAN DRESSING NO. 3:

Omit beets and parsley from Russian Dressing No. 1.

QUESTION:

I'm an "old" bride (39!) and want to make Blueberry Pie for my new husband. Would you please give me detailed recipe? I would be so grateful . . . Anna K.

ANSWER:

Blueberry Pie is a favorite with new and old husbands.

BLUEBERRY PIE:

Pastry for 9" pie: 2¼ cups unsifted pastry, or all-purpose flour, 2/3 cup shortening, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 or 5 tablespoons ice cold water.

Cut shortening and butter into flour and salt until size of peas. Drizzle in water, mixing with a fork just until all flour is dampened. Press into ball. Divide into 2 pieces. Roll out one on floured board to fit and line a 9" pie plate. Roll out second piece of dough. Gash at centre. Pour filling (below) into pastry-lined pan. Seal on top crust. Glaze top with mixture of 1 tablespoon each sugar and milk. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. about 35 minutes, or until juice bubbles through gashes.

Filling: 4 cups fresh cleaned, dried blueberries, ¾ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons minute tapioca, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Gently mix all ingredients together and proceed as above.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lane Will Don Wig in High Court

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Lane, a jurist with a record of firsts, will become Mr. Justice Lane when she dons her wig as the first woman on Britain's High Court.

"There simply isn't any precedent for calling a woman anything different," said a spokesman for the lord chancellor, the head of the British judiciary. "We've taken what seems to be the least absurd decision."

Mrs. Lane was appointed to Britain's second highest tribunal Thursday night, one week after her 60th birthday. The appointment ends a 25-year legal career which began after the death of her only son.

Lawyers appearing before Mrs. Lane will have to address her as "My Lord" when she takes her seat in October in the high court's admiralty division, which deals mainly with divorce cases.

But that will be no novelty. She handled such cases as Britain's first woman divorce court commissioner, an acting judgeship that also required lawyers to address her as "His Lordship."

WILL WEAR WIG

In the high court, Mrs. Lane will wear a wig like the other jurists. Most British judges wear a black jacket and striped pants, but Mrs. Lane favors dark grey suits.

Normally a knighthood goes with the $30,000 - a - year high court post. But it is believed Queen Elizabeth will grant Mrs. Lane the equivalent title of Dame.

Mrs. Lane likes cooking and needlework in her spare time.

In 1946, she was the first woman lawyer to argue a murder appeal before the House of Lords, the top tribunal. Three years ago she became the first woman judge of county courts.

Mrs. Lane is married to Henry Randall Lane, a lawyer.

TORONTO (CP)—Alexis Joseph Lawrence, 27, of Vancouver was sentenced Thursday to 12 years in prison for stealing $1,133 from 23 apartments in Toronto and Hamilton. Police dubbed him the "cat burghler" because of his agility in swinging from one balcony to another.

Plenty—if he's ever been a newspaperboy. Through route experience he's already a lap ahead of his classmates. While they both mastered ideas, the boy with a newspaper route was able to put them to practical use. Business? He's learned the basic principles from the first day he started delivering newspapers. He bought at wholesale, sold at retail. Made collections. Kept his own books. Dealt with people face to face. Quickly found out that "profit" and "loss" are more than textbook terms.

The benefits of managing a newspaper route are an equation for a future successful citizen. A great number of today's prominent men started their public careers as newspaperboys. And they all vouch that a newspaper route gives a boy a head start on the future.

If you'd like more information for your son or any other interested youngster, get in touch with our Circulation Department. Although only about one boy in ten ever gets a chance to manage a newspaper route, we'll be glad to talk it over.

Ann Defends Column as Suitable Reading to All

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter who will soon be 11 years old reads your column every day. I have no objection, in fact I think it is good for her because you have backed me up many times. My husband doesn't agree with me. He says Enid will discover soon enough that life can be sordid and terribly cruel. He doesn't think she should find out through your column.

Last night we talked about this again after he heard Enid discussing your column on the telephone with a girl friend. My husband said kids are exposed to so much that is undesirable and so little that is good that they are bound to become confused. He insists childhood should be just plain fun, free of anxieties and worries.

My husband is well-educated (which I am not) and I must admit he is seldom wrong. Please print this letter and your reply.—MRS. DON'T KNOW.

DEAR MRS.: Your husband may be well-educated but he has a poor memory. Nobody's childhood is "just plain fun, free of anxieties and worries" — not even your husband's.

I believe my column is fit reading for anyone who is old enough to read. If some of the material is beyond a youngster, it will have no meaning. If pre-teens DO understand it, all the better. My advice is based on sound moral principles, and correct information—and this can't hurt anybody.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several months ago you wrote a wonderful column on parents who fight in front of their children. Now I wish you'd say something about parents who get drunk in front of their children.

I am a boy 15 years old who would like to take a hammer and bust every bottle of liquor in this house. My mother inherited quite a lot of money so nobody in the family works. Anyone who thinks a life of leisure is a great way to live should come to our house and they'd learn something.

By dinner time my mother and dad are both smashed. All they do is fight. My brother and sister and I eat in the kitchen with the help because we can't stand the name-calling and plate-throwing.

Liquor has robbed my mother of her looks and her health. It has robbed my father of his ambition and his dignity. It has robbed them both of the respect of their children. But it has done ONE thing that is good. It has helped me make a decision that some teen-agers struggle with for a long time. I'll never touch liquor as long as I live.—MADE THE SCENE.

DEAR M.T.S.: Your decision is a wise one. You'll never have to worry about whether or not you're in shape to drive or wrack your brain to remember what you said or did the night before. And you won't be bothered with hang-overs or the shakes.

Recent figures by the experts tell us that every day approximately 1,000 Americans cross the line that divides the social drinker and the alcoholics. It's nice to know you won't be among them, son.

Playground Activities

AVONDALE

On Wednesday August 11 at Avondale Playground was held a Bicycle Rodeo. It started at 1 p.m. with the children decorating their bicycles. At 2.30 the judging began and the children lined their bicycles in a row for the judges to look at. It was a hard decision but the judges finally agreed upon the following winners: tricycles - 1st Bruce Suelzle and 2nd Tina Cornellier. The afternoon came to an end with the children playing various games.

The judges were: Haig Chalmers, Marilyn Brown, Gabrielle Cornellier and Brenda Tweedy.

The supervisor, Karen Terry, would like to thank those who made the afternoon an enjoyable one.

Druids, Poodles, Spain 'Out' Mormons and Labradors 'In'

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — Druids are "out" in fashionable circles here this summer. So are poodles, whisky-and-soda, vacationing in Spain, owning an electric toothbrush or having a Mayfair telephone number.

Definitely "in," on the other hand, are Mormons, labradors, neat whisky, vacationing in Tripoli, owning a two-phone Rolls-Royce or having a Lords telephone number (near the cricket ground).

Tatting, a sort of crocheting, is in as a pastime. Knitting is out.

Prince Philip is in among princes. Prince Rainier of Monaco is out.

Holiday-camp king Sir William Butlin is in among millionaires. Canadian-born publisher Lord Thomson is out.

This incongruous assortment of social ratings is just a sample of a half-serious, half-spoof list if what's in and out on the London scene, compiled for Queen magazine by a young American journalist named John Bradshaw. He calls it The Index and it has fairly set the town by the ears.

Covering such a magpie collection of catergories as gynaecologists, bus routes, hotels, bookstores, churches to be married in and even graveyards to be buried in, Bradshaw's list immediately became a hot topic of cocktail-party chatter. Smart girls giggled over it in Mayfair hairdressers. It also infuriated a large number of people and establishments who received the thumbs-down.

SUITS THREATENED

Virginia - born Bradshaw, 27, arrived back from holiday to find a mound of abusive mail awaiting him and no fewer than eight writs threatening legal action.

"One of the letters suggested I should go and be an agricultural correspondent in China, since I probably know more about Chinese agriculture than I do about London society," said Bradshaw in an interview.

"It was a good thing none of the British papers found out I was an American—that would really have done it."

Neither did they discover that Bradshaw rates low on The Index himself, in his own estimation. His phone number, for instance, is among the "out" people—"that's why I put it there." He vacationed in . . . Spain. "But it was mostly work," he explained hastily.

Among the funniest touches in The Index is a list of "in" comedians culminating with the name of George Brown, Prime Minister Wilson's exuberant No. 2 and economics minister with a gift for a gaffe.

Fashionable "affectations" include nail biting and stammering, but not "voting Labor." Fashionable complexes are "oedipus" and "megalomania." Aliens to be seen with include East Coast Americans and Vietnamese, but not Chinese, Australians or South Africans.

Words and phrases that have had their day include "fab," "gear" and "with it." New ones are "groovy," "hi, pussycat" and "pacey."

MBE OUT

Among decorations the MBE is out—no prizes for guessing why—and the Order of Merit in. Earl Mountbatten is the latest recipient of that exclusive honor.

A recommended assignation spot is the Spitfire Room at the Imperial War Museum. Why? "Well, there's this Spitfire in the middle, see, and it has a cockpit just big enough to hold two people. . . ."

Bradshaw, who came to London from New York two years ago, spent about three weeks researching the project, partly through his wide network of friends, partly through legwork and personal choice.

The exclusion of Lord Thomson, he confessed, was something of a "pet peeve." He once worked for Thomson newspapers.

How would he classify Canadians on The Index? A faintly embarrassed chuckle came over the telephone.

"You may as well make them 'in'—I have a lot of Canadian friends and two living right next door. I don't want to offend them."

Wide Aisles, Many Mops Spell Bazaar Successes

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP)—Wide aisles and plenty of mops and brooms will help make a bazaar successful.

Aisles should be at least six feet wide or, if possible, eight feet.

"One thing that will annoy the public," says Mrs. Ronald Maskell, "is crowding and pushing. The aisles might seem a great waste of space, but people will leave if they are too crowded."

Barbara Maskell is sales co-ordinator for the women's division, Canadian National Exhibition. She sells the space and helps to organize and plan it, right down to a booth color, in the women's building at the Ex.

She says the time spent in planning the layout of the whole bazaar, each booth and jobs for the people can pay dividends. She suggests you might even want a floor plan to help you decide what goes where, if you have someone who knows how to draw one up.

KEEP TEA HOT

Mrs. Maskell says there are few rules about where is the best place for various kinds of booths. One exception is the food table.

"If you have a tea booth, put it by the kitchen. There may be a more attractive area, but near the kitchen is best. Keep the dirty dishes and the garbage cleared away and have plenty of mops and brooms and pails. People do spill things and children do get sick. We find sawdust and a shovel useful."

The other booths might be organized like a department store, in related groups.

"For instance, we group handicrafts, knitting and sewing. Group things to do with children, the fish ponds and things like that, and a booth of small items which children buy for their mothers. Put a cooking show in a section with preserves and baking."

She says she believes four-sided booths are most efficient if you have enough space for them, but other things are more important.

"There should be enough staff and their working material should be convenient. Have paper bags and change right there. It cuts down on sales if they have to take time to go get them, and here at the Ex, that's when things disappear from booths."

Mrs. Maskell suggests using a framework of posts and a cross bar over your booth as a place to put items on display and tell people which booth is which.

SHOW EVERYTHING

"It won't always be practical. Usually you'll want to sell everything you have, and if you put up a baby's sweater, it would have to come down. Bu. there is a lot of talent in these shows. Have someone draw a baby's sweater or letter a colorful sign saying baby's knitwear here. It adds color to the show."

You should put all of your sale items out where they can be seen, and in some cases a display of samples might cut down the wear and tear on the items.

"Women are going to go through things at bazaars as they do at stores. It's best to have everything out and nothing under the .able. Someone will always think what's under the table will be better.

"If you have aprons in eight basic colors, display all eight and minimize the pawing through your stock."

She has two small tips for the people who work in the booths.

"It doesn't matter if you wear high heels or flats, but take extra shoes. Walking on concrete floors, I change my shoes three times a day. If your feet hurt you've had it.

"And if you're setting up in the morning or are going to work a long time, you're wise to have makeup with you and take time to clean up before the customers arrive. If you've worked hard and you're a mess, you're going to go on feeling a mess unless you do freshen up."

Two Sides of Religion

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

A man missed his train because his watch was slow. "I can't understand it," he remarked to a friend, "I had all the faith in the world in that watch." "What you evidently need," the friend replied, "is good works."

James, the author of the book of James in the New Testament, would have liked that story He would not say men can save themselves by their good works. God's love is not a slot machine into which a person can put so many good works and get back an equal amount of love. But James would say that a faith that does not result in good works is not much of a faith. (James 2:17)

Religion, like a coin, has two sides — a believing side and a behaving side, and they cannot be separated. The believing side is illustrated by the incident of a woman who went to Dr. W. A. Smart and told him religious beliefs always confused her. Therefore she was going to forget all about Christian doctrines and just try to live like Jesus lived.

Dr. Smart complimented her on wanting to live like Jesus lived. "That means," he said, "God is the most real thing in your life." "No," replied the woman, "I didn't mean that." "I didn't think you did," commented Dr. Smart, "but you cannot live like Jesus did till you do."

TWO KINDS OF LEADERSHIP

The behaving side of Christianity is illustrated by what Dr. Walter Rauschenbusch once wrote. He said there are two kinds of leadership in the world — leadership that exploits and leadership that serves. The first is the leadership of the Caesars. The second is the leadership of a teacher.

Jesus condemned the first kind, and recommended the second. "You know," He said, "that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and their great men exercise lordship over them." Then to His disciples He added, "It shall not be so among you; but whosever would be great among you must be your servant, and whoever would be first among you must be your slave." The He pointed to His own life as an example, "Even as the Son of man came not to be served but to serve." (Matthew 20:25-27 RSV)

> The Uniform Sunday School lesson for August 15: "Christians Grow Through Service," Romans 12; James :14-26.

In an article written for the Y.W.C.A. shortly before his death, Dr. Edward Lindeman asked what would happen if all who give volunteer service in he world went on strike. What would happen if all college trustees, all who serve on school boards, all church officers, all volunteer solicitors for communty chest funds, all volunteer firefighters, all Sunday School eachers, all committee mempers, all who serve without pay were to quit? Not only would society be disrupted, but these individuals would cease to grow. For one of the best ways to grow is to serve others.

IED UP TO BELIEVING

The Apostle Paul never forgot he behaving side of religion. In omans 1-11, he stresses the beeving side. In chapter 12-15, e stresses the behaving side. He does not present his statement of doctrine, and then say, "Now let's all sing the Doxology nd go home." He ties up his octrine to life by saying, "I ppeal to you therefore brethen, by the mercies of God to resent your bodies as a living acrifice." (Romans 12:1 RSV) the rest of the letter, he spells ut what he means by this statement.

Among other things, Paul recgnized the uniqueness of each erson's life and gifts. Some are quipped to teach, some to reach, some to serve in other ays, but each should remember that his life is a part of the rger group to which he belongs, just as the hand is a part the whole body. (Romans 12:3) Each person should develop s own gifts, but try to use em in the service of others.

But Christian service is more an just doing something for meone else. It is trying to share experiences with them. It is rejoicing with those who rejoice, and weeping with those who weep. (Romans 12:15) It is trying by love and service to bring about greater harmony in the world.

Christians must live their lives in an evil world. They must try, says Paul, not to add to that evil by a spirit of revenge. Only God knows how to punish with justice. Insofar as it depends on them, Christains should seek to live peaceably with all men. (Romans 12:20 They should seek to overcome evil with good. Every time this is done it adds to one's spiritual maturity, and demonstrates the behaving side of his faith.

Small Offices' Postmasters Get Pay Boost

OTTAWA (CP)—Some 11,500 revenue postmasters and assistant revenue postmasters will receive salary increases proportionate to the $510 to $550 granted postal workers.

A post office department official said in an interview the increases will carry the same retroactivity dates as those granted other employees.

Revenue postmasters and their assistants, who man small suburban and rural post offices, are paid out of departmental revenues. Their pay is scaled to their individual workloads. They are not civil servants.

Postmasters, in charge of all large urban post offices, are civil servants and have their pay reviewed every two years with others in the Group B pay cycle.

'I Just Bounce' Says CNE Manager Describing How He Works to Sell 'Ex'

By IAN MacLAINE

TORONTO (CP) — Lambert (Bert) Powell, general manager of the Canadian National Exhibition since last fall, puts in a solid 365 days a year organizing his 15-day annual extravaganza.

"I just bounce," he says of his nine-hour-day office schedule plus the hundreds of social and business engagements that come on top of that.

"I can't sit still. I have to sell the Ex."

Since he left a $25,000-a-year job to join the CNE staff as publicity director in 1950, Mr. Powell has done quite a bit of selling. He's also been the "ideas" man behind most of the exhibition's innovations.

It was Mr. Powell's brainstorm, for instance, that led to the revival of marathon swims in Lake Ontario during the CNE. And that idea, as everybody knows, gave the exhibition some of the best publicity it has ever had when Marilyn Bell, a 16-year-old Toronto schoolgirl, plowed through the treacherous waters from the New York state shore to Toronto's waterfront in 1954—the first ever to conquer the lake.

Mr. Powell also conceived the Sports Hall of Fame building—as might be expected from a man who once won a Golden Gloves featherweight boxing crown in Winnipeg and was a top-notch lacrosse player with Brampton Excelsiors in the 1930s.

His other contributions include the Vetescope and Mediscope displays, the fair's hobby show, antique car show, closed-circuit color television and the annual Dairy Princess show.

A sprite of a man with a devil-may-care glint in his eye, Mr. Powell hauled his way to success from Toronto's tough Cabbagetown district mainly by dint of his own vivid imagination and his personality—as colorful as the sporty clothes he wears.

He was tabbed as a natural CNE general manager in 1950 but the job went instead to former Toronto mayor, Hiram McCallum. Mr. Powell waited out the next 14 years, until Mr. McCallum retired last fall, without bitterness—but now he is in the driving seat he is obviously happier.

His main aim these days is to make the CNE a truly national exhibition where Canadians and foreign visitors can obtain a truly national picture of what Canada is producing and has to offer.

"We have seven federal government departments displaying this year," he said in an interview. "The most we've had in the past is three or four."

After a tour of other fairs and expositions last winter, he persuaded Ottawa's National Research Council to come to the CNE and offer the world's first public showing of an industrial Laser beam—a beam of concentrated light powerful enough to cut through steel.

More recently Mr. Powell announced a $108,000 expansion study that will help CNE officials determine whether to expropriate surrounding property or expand by extending the CNE waterfront land farther out into the lake.

The study, covering prospects for the next 20 years, will also consider what types of new buildings should be erected and which should be demolished as obsolete.

RUNS CNE -- Lambert (Bert) Powell works a hard 365 days a year for the 15 - day payoff that is the Canadian National Exhibition. Mr. Powell, general manager of the CNE, "bounces" through a nine - hour office day, then attends social and business engagements, selling "the Ex." He's been publicity director since 1950 when he left a $25,000-a-year job to join the CNE. Last fall he moved into the top job when former general manager Hiram Walker retired. (CP Photo)

Mr. Powell doesn't believe the Ex will be much affected by Expo '67 in Montreal during the 1967 centennial celebrations.

"They are interested in Man and Space and other countries," he said. "We're interested only in Canada."

Now calling himself a gentleman rancher, Mr. Powell lives on a 100-acre farm at King, 30 miles north of Toronto, and rises at 6 a.m. every day to tend his horses.

He's usually in his CNE office by 7:40 a.m. and stays there until 4:30 p.m. if he's lucky. If he's not, he may be up until midnight attending evening meetings with CNE directors or selling the virtues of the CNE to a group of exhibitors.

"We depend on so many groups to make the exhibition successful that I feel that each and every one of these is as important as the next," he said.

MILLIONS GO UP IN SMOKE — Dense black smoke rises from an 11-alarm fire that swept through a Brooklyn lumberyard and destroyed several buildings in a four block industrial area. Three hundred firemen and 56 fire trucks were unable to prevent the flames from consuming the lumberyard and gutting factories and warehouses nearby. Damage is expected to run into several million dollars. (AP Wirephoto)

Believe Russia Will Purchase More Wheat From Other Lands

MOSCOW (CP) — Observers believe the latest massive purchase of Canadian wheat by the Soviet Union may be the forerunner of still larger Soviet purchases in the world market during the coming crop year.

This view has been strengthened by the big deal announced in Winnipeg Wednesday and by an official Soviet admission Thursday that this year's Russian crop is poor.

Two years ago, when Russia had a poor harvest, it made a big deal for Canadian wheat and then followed this up with other large purchases from countries like France, the United States and Australia.

The same pattern may well be repeated this year. France, especially, is probably in a good position to land a contract since Russia has been intensively promoting trade and political relations between the two countries.

TURNS DOWN

Australia was offered a 600,000-ton sale by Russia three months ago but had to turn it down because it lacked the necessary supplies.

Meanwhile, a Soviet source said the weather has been too wet in the central European area of the Soviet Union around Moscow and too dry in other regions for wheat growing. In the "virgin lands" where dryness is most extreme, the crop was called very poor.

This was the first official admission of the fact made obvious by the purchases—that Soviet agriculture is still failing to feed Russians adequately.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. restrictions on shipping probably will prevent any large scale sales of U.S. wheat to Russia, government and industry sources said Thursday.

The administration has considered modification of a regulation which requires that 50 per cent of any surplus grain shipped from the U.S. to Russia must be carried in American ships. There is strong opposition to any change from maritime unions and shipowners.

The cost of shipping in U.S. vessels is considerably higher than in vessels of other flags. The Soviet Union can hold down its outlay substantially by purchasing the grain in other countries.

The United States may benefit indirectly from Russian purchases in Canada and Argentina. Russia presumably will be forced to sell large amounts of gold in order to finance the purchases. This should ease pressure on world gold markets. Some of the metal eventually may wind up in the United States.

Hayato Ikeda, Former Premier Of Japan, Dies

TOKYO (AP)—Former prime minister Hayato Ikeda, who put Japan firmly on the road to economic recovery following the Second World War, died today of pneumonia. He was 65.

A career government official whose specialty was economics, Ikeda assumed the reins of power in July 1960 when massive demonstrations against the revised U.S. - Japan security treaty brought down the government of Nobusuke Kishi.

The strongly pro - Western leader was considered the architect of Japan's crash program to double the nation's national income in 10 years.

His continuing policy was one of reason and compromise aimed at restoring order to the nation and allowing it to resume economic expansion which became the wonder of the post-war period.

Women Picket Blue Water Bridge at Sarnia

SARNIA (CP) — Striking women employees from the Twilight Haven Home for the Aged at nearby Petrolia Thursday joined striking Lambton County workers in picketing the Bluewater Bridge linking Ontario and Michigan.

Another picket line was maintained by eight women employees in front of city hall after they were banned by a court order from picketing within the property lines of the home.

Picketing at the bridge, near the provincial tourist information centre, was directed at cutting into the county's $15,000,000-a-year tourist business.

Pickets carried placards reading: "Union man, don't stop in Lambton County, unfair to labor."

The strikers are seeking recognition of the United Mine-workers of America (Ind.) as their union by the county council, which has refused to rescind a county bylaw which allows the municipality to not recgnize union status.

Doctor Fails To Save Dream, Loses Control

TORONTO (CP)—A 61-year-old Toronto doctor tried to save a dream Thursday—but failed.

Dr. W. W. Priddle made an impassioned plea to the suburban North York board of control to let him keep his 57-acre fruit farm, a dream project he began 25 years ago. The board has expropriated the property for a garbage incinerator to be built within two years.

The doctor told the board of buying the farm 25 years ago when the area was rural.

"Many of the trees I budded and grafted myself. The farm has the best limbs, the best trees, and the best fruit in Ontario. It also has the reputation of producing the best cider."

Dr. Priddle is a physician and consultant for the Ontario welfare department.

He said the farm produces an average of 5,000 bushels of apples annually. It also produces pears, apricots, grapes, berries and vegetables.

Reeve James Service said that while he is sympathetic with Dr. Priddle, the land is the only site suitable for the incinerator. He said the farm had been caught up in fast-developing urbanization of the area.

Western News On Kashmir Questioned

VANCOUVER (CP)—The accuracy of western news reporting on the Kashmir dispute was questioned here Wednesday by Akhtar Saeed, Pakistan's acting high commissioner to Canada.

Mr. Saeed said most reporters seem to get their information about Kashmir through Indian sources.

"I don't think this lends to very accurate reporting. I don't think the Pakistan position in this dispute is widely enough known."

Conflict between India and Pakistan over ownership of Kashmir has been going on since 1948.

Senior Officials Launch Major 'Sell-the-CF-5' Effort Within the Services

OTTAWA (CP) — Senior defence department officials, their ire aroused by criticism of Canada's new tactical aircraft, are launching a major "sell-the-CF-5" effort within the services, informants said Thursday.

The campaign includes a special preview of the aircraft at air force bases across the country and an intensive propaganda - briefing drive among military personnel.

The previews will begin later this month when a group of CF-5s, to be shown the public at Toronto's Canadian National Exhibition, will first be diverted to RCAF bases for a series of special demonstrations.

The accent, informants said, will be on selling the CF-5 to the "comers" at the squadron leader-flight lieutenant level at which recent publicly-expressed doubts about the plane appear to have had some impact.

The semi-unofficial campaign —defence department spokesmen are reluctant to confirm any special bid is being made—is a direct attempt by Defence Minister Hellyer and other top CF-5 boosters to counter the unexpectedly-biting flow of criticism which followed official selection of the Northrop plane as Canada's new tactical aircraft.

Sources close to Mr. Hellyer said some of the criticism was considered inevitable. But they admitted displeasure with the tone of much of it and the relatively wide hearing given anti-CF-5 spokesmen.

The CF-5 supporters maintain that the main criticism of the plane comes from "a handful of 'big war' exponents" opposed to Canadian purchase of any aircraft which does not have a nuclear bombing capability.

"These are the guys who had their hey-day dropping bombs over Germany during the Second World War," said one official. "Now they just won't accept any role for us that doesn't include the possibility of dropping nuclear bombs on Moscow."

Official government policy for the CF-5, to be built in Canada during the next five years at a cost of $215,000,000, is to use it as tactical air support for the new mobile command. The role is based on the theory the massive deterrent is best left to the United States and its missiles and that Canada's main effort should be directed to developing forces for world - wide "brush fire" duty.

$245 Million Pumped Into Money Supply

OTTAWA (CP) — Another $245,000,000 was pumped into Canada's money supply last week and government of Canada three-month treasury bills were bid down this week for the third week in a row, sending the yield up to 4.09 per cent.

The fact that the 91-day treasury bill interest rate again established a new high point since Canada came out of its 1962 foreign exchange difficulties was taken as signalling a period of relatively high interest rates.

But the growing money supply, reported at $18,910,000,000 for Aug. 4, not including government deposits amounting to $781,000,000, appeared to take the edge off any suggestion that the higher interest rates would make money tight in supply.

Net effect appeared to observers to be a move by the government and the central bank to let interest rates go higher as a warning particularly to industry against over-expansion, while keeping the money supply high and growing to encourage spending out of current revenues rather than through debt formation.

The treasury bill yield rate was 4.08 per cent last week and 4.05 per cent two weeks ago.

It is established as the result of bids accepted in a weekly auction of new treasury bills to replace those falling due each week.

Bids this week ranged from a low of $989.83 to a high of $989.91 per $1,000 on $100,000,000 worth of the short-term and easily-cashable government securities. The average bid was $989.91, which would yield the rate of 4.09 per cent.

The weekly treasury bill auction Thursday also saw $30,000,000 worth of 182-day bills sold at an average $979.04, for an average yield of 4.29 per cent.

The auctions are conducted every Thursday for the finance department by the Bank of Canada. The

Shelled Day and Night Says Viet Cong Letter

PLEIKU, Viet Nam (AP)—"It is terrible and miserable," wrote Nguyen Chanh Ngoc.

"Enemy mortars shell us day and night. Airplanes bomb and strafe and we can do nothing about it. The fighting situation is tough, too serious and difficult."

Ngoc was a political officer with a Viet Cong company operating near the special forces camp at Duc Co. He was writing to his "comrades" Lam, Thrung and Dinh.

"We have been taught to win, to meet every difficulty and emergency in waging warfare," he wrote. "We are ready to continue the fight, but we are all a little low in spirit because of the difficulties and the terrible conditions of hunger.

"Half of our strength is sick, some of them with bad illnesses. Sometimes we can muster only one platoon for military operations.

"I am sick almost every day with stomach pains and go for weeks without food. Yet I still have to move back and forth from the front every day because we have dead and wounded and other problems, and I need to deal with other friendly units in the area.

"Drugs are low. We are so far away that if a comrade gets sick and lapses into unconsciousness, we have no pill to refresh him and we cannot move him.

"Our activities continue, and we work without sleeping or washing our hands and faces or taking a bath because there is no water. All our clothes, blankets and hammocks are the same color as the red ground. We cannot evade the red earth because we are constantly digging our foxholes and trenches.

"The rice we are being supplied is so bad that it gets sour after it is brought to us."

Ngoc never sent his letter. It was found on his body Thursday by government troops searching outside the Duc Co camp.

Canoeists Held Up Briefly by Bad Weather

TORONTO (CP)—Eight canoes taking part in a 600-mile canoe trip from North Bay to Gananoque on the St. Lawrence River were reported heading south along the coast of Georgian Bay Thursday after being held up briefly at the mouth of the French River, 40 miles south of here, by bad weather.

It was reported here they are expected to arrive in Orillia sometime Tuesday, where the first of 3 sprints will be held among the eight canoes representing Ontario, Alberta, the Northwest Territories, the Yukon and New Brunswick.

Other sprints will be held at Peterborough and Kingston, with the winner of the three being awarded the Ontario Trial Trophy.

The party left North Bay Monday and is expected to reach Gananoque Aug. 29.

Minister Denies Statement by Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Sharp challenged Opposition Leader Diefenbaker Thursday to produce definite information to back up his statement that Communist countries have been re-selling Canadian wheat.

If Mr. Diefenbaker can't supply definite information, Mr. Sharp said in a statement released by his office here, "he's talking through his hat."

The minister's statement was based on one issued by Mr. Diefenbaker Wednesday after the announcement of a big new sale of wheat to Russia. The Diefenbaker statement said:

"On recent sales to Communist countries, the price was so favorable to the purchaser that the purchaser was able to resell elsewhere at a considerable profit."

Mr. Sharp's statement said: "At what prices has Russia been reselling Canadian wheat? If Mr. Diefenbaker has this information he should let us all know.

"If not, he's talking through his hat. . . ."

Unemployment Insurance Fund Now in Black

OTTAWA (CP)—After seven years of rapid decline, the unemployment insurance fund has reversed direction.

For the first time since 1956 the fund's monthly balance is showing regular improvement over year-earlier levels. At the end of June—latest available figure—it held $38,006,000 compared to a deficit of $15,723,000 at the same date last year.

The buoyant job conditions of last winter and spring started the reversal.

Normally the fund hits bottom at the end of May, drained by spring unemployment. In 1963 and 1964 it ended up with deficits of more than $30,000,000 and had to get loans from the government to bail it out until the summer job pickup allowed a recovery.

At the close of business last May the fund still was $22,721,000 to the good, more than $50,000,000 ahead of May, 1964. The pace of the current buildup of revenues over expenditures indicates the fund will soar past the $100,000,000 mark before the end of the year.

It has a long way to go, however, before returning to its all-time peak of more than $900,000,000 set in 1956.

ConsumerPrices Up in Nine Of Ten Cities

OTTAWA (CP)—Nine of 10 cities and city groupings in Canada—all but Winnipeg—experienced higher consumer prices during July, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

It said the regional consumer price indexes rose by amounts ranging from one-tenth of one per cent in Saskatoon-Regina, Edmonton-Calgary and Vancouver, to six-tenths of one per cent in Ottawa.

Food indexes rose in seven of the cities, declining in Winnipeg, Edmonton, Calgary, and Vancouver.

The indexes, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, are designed to show changes in retail prices of goods and services in each city. They do not, however, indicate whether it costs more or less to live in one city than another.

The new July indexes, with June indexes in brackets, are: St. John's, Nfld. (based on June 1951 prices equalling 100) 123.5 (123.2); Halifax 135.4 (135.1); Saint John, N.B. 138.0 (137.6); Montreal 139.0 (138.4); Ottawa 139.3 (138.5); Toronto 141.1 (140.8); Winnipeg 135.4 (135.9); Saskatoon-Regina 132.3 (132.2); Edmonton - Calgary 130.6 (130.5); Vancouver 135.3 (135.2).

Singapore's Departure From Federation Spells Trouble in Commonwealth

By KEN KELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Singapore's departure from the Malaysian Federation spells new problems, big and small, for fellow members of the Commonwealth.

Although none seriously affects Canada, the situation is being closely watched in Ottawa. This is partly because many Canadians are on technical assistance missions in the area and partly because Indonesia's aim of shattering the Malaysian Federation is a potential international danger.

From a Commonwealth standpoint, the greatest question mark raised by the split is in the military field. Britain, Australia and New Zealand all have military forces in and around Singapore, which remains a strategic spot.

DEFENCE PROBLEM

Britain has been beefing up its air forces at Singapore in recent months because of the pressure of Indonesia on Sarawak and Sabah, the two parts of Malaysian Federation on Borneo.

The hastily - framed agreement separating Singapore and Malaysia—it was drawn up in about 24 hours—appears to provide that these defence arrangements continue. Officials detect what seems to be a note of uncertainty on this score from the statements of political leaders of Malaysia and Singapore.

The separation itself is seen in Ottawa as explusion of Singapore rather than its secession from the federation.

This is said to be partly the result of a political invasion of of the Malaysian mainland by Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman's ruling alliance—the United Malay National Organization and the Malaya-Chinese Association.

Lee's Singapore party was to have confined itself to the island-port and the Tunku's alliance was to have operated on the mainland and in Sarawak and Sabah. But Lee put up candidates on the mainland in the spring elections, even getting one elected, and the split with the Tunku became irreversible.

A big question arising from the separation is whether the rest of the federation will remain in being. Sarawak and Sabah are in the firing line in the dispute with Indonesia. They are sadly lacking in public, welfare and social services which the big tax revenues from Singapore might have helped to finance.

With Singapore gone, and Indonesia maintaining pressure on them, Sarawak and Sabah may throw up their hands and try to leave the federation. Officials say there already are rumblings to this effect from them.

These are problems of much wider significance than those which immediately concern Canada.

At the moment, Canada's concern appears to be in deciding whether to send a high commissioner and, if one is sent, who is Singapore's head of state. It's now apparently a republic but without a republican constitution or head of state.

Beatles Fly To N.Y. for 2-weeks Tour

LONDON (AP)—The screams of teen-agers almost drowned out the roar of a transatlantic airliner today as the Beatles flew to New York for a two-week North American tour. They appear in Toronto next Tuesday.

Four girls jumped 12 feet from an airport roof to a passengers' ramp, trying to get at their pop-singing idols. Two of the four knocked themselves out.

Eight others, back on the roof, fainted.

In front of the Beatle fans, about 40 photographers and policemen engaged in a shoving contest.

As the Beatles' plane roared off, the photographers lodged a mass complaint with the minister of aviation.

Closed Session Of Court Sends Man to Trial

MONTREAL (CP) — E. B. Williams, 46, a Montreal chiropractor, Thursday was sent to an Aug. 26 voluntary statement on charges of conspiring to procure an abortion and of performing the alleged illegal operation.

The action followed a closed preliminary hearing for Williams. Scheduled to undergo closed hearing after Williams' was Andre La Riviere, who describes himself as a psychoanalyst.

La Riviere, 47, of suburban Westmount, is charged with conspiring with Williams between June 9 and June 15 to procure an abortion and with having performed the alleged illegal operation about June 10.

La Riviere is the alleged co-conspirator in Williams' case, which involves the same dates of conspiracy and an alleged operation also dated June 10.

La Riviere's hearing also was to cover 12 charges of indecent assault brought against him after his arrest last weekend.

REFERS TO PUBLICITY

As soon as sessions Judge Omer Cote appeared on the bench before a crowded courtroom Thursday, Crown Prosecutor Jean-Guy Boilard made reference to publicity he said had been given the case and to "fears" felt in certain quarters.

He said the public has a right to be kept informed of court proceedings but that the innocent and witnesses all must be protected.

"There are women who would be hesitant about coming before a courtroom to testify in the presence of many journalists, and thus the cause of justice would be seriously compromised.

"In sum, we ask a completely closed hearing so that our task will be easier and so we can avoid the divulging of names."

The defence did not object and the courtroom was cleared, with a warning from Judge Omer that reporters writing or transmitting information on the closed proceedings would be held in contempt.

Judge Cote said his warning concerning the closed nature of the subsequent proceedings applied not only to publication of information in Quebec but also in the transmission of unauthorized stories or pictures outside the province.

Mayor Givens Defends Action Of Fund Raisers

TORONTO (CP) — A city council meeting ended Thursday with a sudden half-hour tirade from Mayor Philip Givens on the future of the St. Lawrence Centre for the Performing Arts.

The outburst from Mr. Givens came after Alderman Frederick Beavis questioned the hiring of professional fund-raisers G. A. Brakeley and Co. by the Toronto Arts Foundation to raise the needed $2,300,000 from the public for the centennial project.

The mayor said: "This guts-searing goings - on gets you down. Any more publicity like that of the last two days and you will kill the whole thing."

Mr. Givens said there is nothing secret about Brakeley's involvement.

"These people are not slick con artists who put half the money in their pockets. They do not canvass at all. They know the firms and individuals who give, how much they give and what they give for."

Mr. Givens said pledges totalling $1,100,000 and assurances of another $400,000 have already been received from major firms.

He said he also expects to travel to Montreal and New York with local businessmen to ask for money.

Brush With Lightning * * * * * * * * * * Tied With Hillebrecht

Gord Brydson Shares CPGA Lead

By AL McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP)—It takes more than a bolt of lightning to jar an old pro.

This fact was obvious Thursday, when veteran golfer Gordon Brydson of Toronto survived a brush with lightning and came in with a par 70 and a tie for first place in the opening round of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship at the Royal Montreal Golf Club.

Brydson, a pro for 40 of his 58 years, is seeking his third title in the event, having previously scored victories in 1944 and 1948.

George Hillebrecht of Peterborough—playing in the CPGA event for the first time—also came up with an even par to share the lead with Brydson.

The 186 pros who finished the opening round were hampered throughout the day by adverse winds, wet greens and fairways.

Brydson was playing with another veteran, Bill Kerr of Montreal, when the evening storm struck as they paced the fairway of the 18th hole.

Both players had their umbrellas ripped by lightning and torn from their grasp by accompanying winds. In addition, Kerr suffered seared knuckles on his right hand from the lightning bolt. Brydson escaped with only a fright.

The storm, the second of the day, halted play for 45 minutes.

"I didn't even have to move the ball when we resumed play," Brydson said. "As for the lightning . . . it jus' hit us. I never experienced this before and I got out of that golf cart in a hurry."

Brydson lost his chance to come in one under par when he shot a five on the par-four 18th hole.

Phil Giroux, a 28-year-old Montrealer, and Frank Whibley of Kitchener, tied at 71.

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg and Moe Norman of Barrie were in with 72s, and were followed by two CPGA veterans—Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Pat Fletcher of the host club—at 73.

Vic Whibley of Guelph—brother of Frank—Al Balding of Toronto, Vancouver's Len Collett, Nick Melvin of Edmonton, Don Renaud of Peterborough, Toronto's Ken Duggan, Henri Chatelaine of St. Monique, Que., and Montrealer Norm Hunt were all bunched at 74.

Following today's second round the field will be cut to the 100 top scorers—including ties.

SPORTS SLICES

"Aw shucks, you mean we gotta play them girls?" The young baseballer kicked the dirt in disgust.

Nine innings later he was still kicking the ground in disgust—for four of "them girls" had beaten his little league baseball team 20-2.

"Them girls' 'are the Queen and her Maids, a team of California youngsters aged 9 to 13 years. They will be seen here at the CNR Park on Sunday where they will play two softball games against boys' bantam softball and baseball teams.

The Queen and Her Maids' team is comprised of Karen Beaird, Rosie (The Queen) Beaird, Vickie Lawson, Marvin Beaird, (called Lotta Chatta) and Eileen Beaird.

The Queen, as was noted, is Rosie Beaird, a 13-year-old pitching wizard. She is a blue-eyed blonde youngster who is a shortstop turned pitcher.

That was three years ago. Her record to date is 670 strikeouts, won 60 out of 71 games. Pitched 14 shutouts and 11 no-hitters.

Rosie will spice up the games here with variations of her 14 deliveries including between her legs, behind her back, blindfolded, kneeling, and from second base.

At the end of each game she will challenge members of the audience to hit one of three of her pitches for a five-dollar bill.

The Queen and Her Maid will play Roy Paynes all-star bantam softballers in the first game, starting 2.30 and will meet a bantam baseball team playing softball in the 6.30 tussle.

The proceeds will go to the Belleville Minor Softball Association.

Remember, this is only a four-member team, consisting of a pitcher, catcher, first base and shortstop. As was noted they range in age from 9 to 13 years. They do a lot of clowning, tricks, stunts, etc., but they seldom ever lose a game.

Originally the team started with three players until someone pointed out that if they loaded the bases they would have no hitter. So the fourth player was added.

Girls' softball teams have been more or less a rarity hereabouts the past few years, but this is the first time in the sports history of the city that a team of youngsters of the ages of the Queen and her Maids has ever played here.

The team's publicity blurbs state that the kids are "out of this world" as softball players while their clowning and other diamond histrionics have made them a star diamond attraction.

They play the game for keeps and for wins. They only clown when the proper time comes. It should be highly interesting and amusing to see how the male baseballers and softballers of the city stack up against these charming youngsters.

The Belleville Minor Softball Association is sponsoring the exhibition, and as was noted, all net proceeds will go to the association exchequer.

Llewellyn Wins Pairs

TORONTO (CP)—Alf Llewellyn of Toronto posted a 19-12 victory over Garry O'Sullivan of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and won the pairs competition of the provincial lawn bowling tournament here Thursday.

Llewellyn, bowling with Jack Warnett, 53, of Toronto, started the match by counting three bowls in the first end. He lengthened his lead to 9-1 after six ends, but O'Sullivan counted nine bowls to take the lead 10-9 after 12 ends of the 18-end final.

The teams exchanged bowls in the 13th and 14th ends, but Llewellyn scored four bowls in the 15th end to put the match away. O'Sullivan counted one in the 17th end and Llewellyn finished the match with a deuce in the final end.

In the consolation rounds, Reg Cheney of Ottawa won the first event by posting a 21-14 victory over Joe Dorsch of Waterloo. Dorsch took the lead early in the game, but Cheney counted four in the 17th end to win the match.

In another consolation event, John Wheler of Toronto downed Robert Gillette of Kitchener 19-12. The game was close in the early ends, but Wheler counted three enders in the 14th and 15th frames to win the match.

'Clubhouse Boy' Wins It

Twins Take Rubber From Yanks

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Strange are the ways of baseball. In 1961, Jimmy Merritt was a 17-year-old clubhouse boy for Los Angeles Dodgers. Next October, he may be pitching against the Dodgers in the World Series.

The youngster moved a step in that direction Thursday night when he pitched Minnesota Twins to an 8-2 triumph over New York Yankees in the rubber game of their series.

The victory, Minnesota's eighth in its last 10 games, enabled the American League leaders to retain their 8½ game margin over second-place Baltimore Orioles.

It was Merritt's second victory and first complete game since he was brought up by the Twins from Denver Bears of the Pacific Coast League as a replacement for the ailing Camilo Pascual.

In other American League games, the Orioles downed Boston Red Sox 5-3, Los Angeles Angels tripped Cleveland Indians 5-1 and Detroit Tigers battered Kansas City Athletics 11-1.

The story of how Merritt became the property of the Twins reads like a cloak-and-dagger mystery.

The Dodgers signed him for a modest bonus after his graduation from high school in June, 1961. Unwilling to risk him in the first-year draft, the Dodger brass stashed him away with an obscure semi-pro team.

But an eagle-eyed Minnesota scout spotted the boy and reported back to the Twins. A claim was put in with Ford Frick's office and the commissioner ruled that Merritt was eligible for selection in the draft that winter as a first-year player.

Minnesota grabbed him for the $8,000 draft price. He may be the biggest bargain since Pascual.

Minnesota had a 4-0 lead before Merritt gave up his first run, a seventh-inning home run by Hector Lopez. The Yankees did not score again until the ninth when Clete Boyer homered.

Baltimore came from behind with four runs in the seventh inning to beat Boston. John Orsino's pinch single, good for two runs, was the key blow.

Don Demeter drove in seven runs, four of them on a grand-slam homer, and Hank Aguirre pitched a four-hitter for Detroit's victory.

Cleveland right-hander Jack Kralick was the author of his own undoing, uncorking two wild throws while fielding sacrifice bunts in the ninth inning to help the Angels to a four-run rally.

Pirates Defeat Giants

Cards Nip Braves; Widen Dodger Gap

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mike Shannon hits better wearing a catcher's mitt.

Since he was yanked out of the St. Louis outfield last Sunday and pressed into emergency duty as a receiver, the Cardinals' 26-year-old right-handed swinger has given every indication of breaking a season-long batting slump.

Shannon started his first game as a catcher in an eight-year career Thursday and rapped a seventh-inning homer and then singled in the winning run in the 13th inning as the Cardinals edged Milwaukee Braves 5-4.

Shannon, who played himself out of a starting job in the outfield because of a .193 batting average, now has four hits in eight trips to the plate as a receiver. And, oddly, the four hits have given him the cycle—a single, double, triple and homer.

He also handled four Cardinals pitchers flawlessly.

The Braves' loss dropped them 2½ games behind National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, who were not scheduled. Second-place San Francisco Giants remained 1½ back, losing to Pittsburgh Pirates 5-2 after winning the opener of a double-header 4-3.

Philadelphia Phillies climbed within 5½ of the top by downing Houston Astros 7-3 in the only other game scheduled.

HOMERS GALORE

Bill White and Lou Brock joined Shannon as homer hitters for the Cardinals while Joe Torre and Mack Jones connected for the Braves.

The Giants extended their winning streak to eight games in the opener when Matty Alou, a replacement for his injured brother Jesus, homered in the eighth inning. Jesus, who tore a hamstring muscle in his right leg chasing Manny Mota's game-tying triple in the seventh, and Willie Mays also homered.

Vern Law snapped the Giants' streak in the nightcap despite surrendering Mays' 32nd homer and another solo shot by Len Gabrielso. The Pirates got Law, now 13-9, the runs he needed in a three-run fifth inning uprising capped by Willie Stargell's 24th homer.

Chris Short, 14-8, allowed only six hits but needed Ed Roebuck's one-out relief help in the ninth before subduing the Astros. Cookie Rojas drove in three runs with a pair of singles for the Phillies while Rich Allen collected his 14th homer.

PGA Championship

Aaron Leads Pack

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP)—Tommy Aaron led the charge as today's second round of the Professional Golfers' Association championship held a distinct southern flavor.

But while the drawling Georgian and fellow southerners Mason Rudolph, Gardnar Dickinson, Sam Snead and Ray Floyd spearheaded the invasion, a large measure of attention focused on the controversial mishap that stunned the ill-starred hometown idol, Arnold Palmer.

The 28-year-old Aaron scrambled over the Laurel Valley Club's rolling 7,090 yards in 66 Thursday, a five-under-par opening round that included eight birdies and three over-par holes.

Rudolph and Dickinson stormed in among the late finishers one stroke off the pace at 67.

Meanwhile, Palmer's promising round was shot down by a belated ruling that cost the slumping Pennsylvania strongboy a two-stroke penalty. His second shot on the first hole wound up near a bridge and a railing prevented a follow-through of his swing. He called for an official ruling, but before it came two marshals tore off the railing and Palmer played on.

After a par on one, a birdie on No. 2, and three more pars Palmer was notified on the sixth tee of the penalty. He finished the day one over at 72.

"It was my responsibility," Palmer explained. "Under the rules it was up to me to keep them from taking down that railing. But I didn't. It made a difference in how I played from then on, there's no doubt about that."

Defending PGA champion Bobby Nichols and U.S. open champion Gary Player both were well back at 74, a stroke ahead of George Knudson of Toronto.

The field will be cut to the low 70 and ties after today's round, with survivors eligible for the concluding 18-hole tests Saturday and Sunday.

Would Prohibit Hunting

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Senator A. Willis Robertson of Virginia Thursday urged the United States and Canada to prohibit duck shooting this year in an effort to check the rapidly declining duck population.

The U.S. fish and wildlife service announced recently that the duck breeding population has reached a new low.

Robertson urged in a telegram to Stewart L. Udall, secretary of the interior, "that you close the season in the United States for this year and ask our Canadian friends to take similiar action. . . .

"If we wait one or two more years before taking drastic action to save remnants of brood stock and then close the season, it would probably never be opened again because the brood stock would have gone beyond the point of recall."

Crackers' Pitcher Nips Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Right-hander Arnie Umbach kept Atlanta Crackers' pennant hopes alive with a strong two-way performance against the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs in International League baseball action Thursday night.

Umbach drove in the deciding runs in Atlanta's 6-4 victory with a three-run homer in the sixth inning. It was his first round-tripper of the season and he also managed another hit.

On the mound Umbach limited the Leafs to six hits as he won his 10th game in 19 decisions and moved the third-place Crackers within five games of the league-leading Columbus Jets.

Elsewhere in the league Syracuse Chiefs nipped Toledo Mud Hens 3-2 in 14 innings, Rochester Red Wings stopped the Jets 5-1 and Buffalo Bisons eclipsed Jacksonville Suns 6-4.

The 907 fans at Maple Leaf Stadium saw a loosley-played contest with seven errors being committed by the two teams. Leaf catcher Mike Ryan made three of the miscues.

Jackson, Watkins Shoot Down Larks

Score Was 23-2

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders found a big chink in Montreal Alouettes' armor Thursday night and exploited it for three touchdown passes to end Ted Watkins and a 23-2 Eastern Football Conference victory.

The Riders had a tough time mounting sustained drives against a tough Montreal defence that showed only one major weakness.

But quarterback Russ Jackson made the most of openings on the right side of Montreal's pass defence as he sent the speedy Watkins against slower veterans Clare Exelby and Ralph Goldston.

Watkins responded with four receptions and three majors. Tackle Moe Racine supplied the other five points on three converts and two singles on field goal attempts that went wide.

The Montreal points came on a first-quarter safety touch after Jim Reynolds blocked a kick in the Ottawa end zone.

HEAD THE LEAGUE

It was the second win in two starts for the Riders and put them alone at the top of the Eastern Conference. Ottawa edged Toronto Argonauts 17-14 in Toronto last Friday in their league opener.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats, 18-9 winners over the Als in Hamilton last Saturday, could move into a first-place tie if they defeat the Argos in Toronto tonight.

Aside from yielding some running gains on rain-drenched turf late in the game, the Alouette defence more than held their own, putting a steady rush on Jackson and stopping the Riders' outside running threat.

The Montreal attack was another story. Quarterback Bernie Faloney took the Als deep into Ottawa territory early in the first quarter but the drive stalled on the Ottawa 21-yard line and Bill Bewley was wide on a field goal attempt. The Montreal offence seemed to collapse after that.

Als' only points were scored by the defensive unit when Reynolds blocked Bill Cline's punt from the end zone. Cline beat Reynolds in a race for the ball to prevent a Montreal touchdown but the Als picked up two points with a safety touch.

RUNS FOR SCORE

Then Watkins took over and 90 seconds after the Montreal score he cut between Exelby and Goldston to grab a pass for a 50-yard touchdown play.

In the second quarter Watkins grabbed a 19-yard pass in front of Exelby to bring the Riders to the Montreal 20.

Three plays later, with the Riders on the Montreal seven, Jackson managed to elude a Montreal rush that pushed him back to the 20-yard line and hit Watkins deep in the end zone.

The script was unchanged in the third quarter, when Watkins took a pass on the sidelines, and ran five yards for a 19-yard scoring play.

Most of the 18,595 fans stayed until the dying minutes despite rain.

Ottawa coach Frank Clair had a scare when all-star halfback Ronnie Stewart was carried off the field in the second half. Stewart recovered but did not play again. He had been dazed in a pileup.

Juniors Take Opener

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

Bob Ethier hurled eight and two-thirds innings of no-hit ball before succumbing to Ken Panko's single in the ninth inning to lead Belleville Ellis Juniors to a 7-0 drubbing of Trenton in the first O.A.S.A. contest between the two teams. Only three men got on base for the losers in the entire contest, as Ethier baffled them with a variety of pitches that gave him 23 strikeouts for the night.

The next game in the best-of-three Junior "A" series will be at Trenton Bay Shore Park on Saturday evening.

The Juniors pounded out 11 hits, and were helped by six Trenton errors, to secure the win.

In the second inning, a couple of miscues and three base-hits were put together in the form of four runs by elleville.

Ken Panko rapped the sole hit for Trenton.

What makes Ethier's performance even more creditable is that only two balls left the infield in the entire contest.

Lenoir Leads Favorites

TORONTO (CP) — Lack of name players has reduced attendance at the Canadian Tennis championships, but tournament officials don't expect to lose money.

Officials said crowds during the first four days totalled about 500.

Denis Kirsten of Toronto, tournament chairman, said the total cost of the tournament will be about $6,000 and $4,800 of that has been raised already.

Officials said another 500 to 550 fans by Sunday would assure officials of reaching the break-even point.

Bill Lenoir of Tucson, Ariz., led the favorites Thursday by winning twice on blistered feet. He defeated unseeded Jack Jackson of Knoxville, Tenn., 7-5, 6-1, 4-6, 8-6 in a second-round men's singles match.

TOO TIRED TO WORRY

He said he was too tired in the fourth set to worry about losing, but mustered enough energy to team with Willie Hernandez of the Philippines for a 6-4, 6-0 second-round men's doubles victory over Fred Berli of Switzerland and Gary Kesl of Evansville, Ind.

Top-seeded Ron Holmberg of Dallas, Tex., gained the men's singles semi-finals by defeating John Powless of Flora, Ill., 6-1, 6-4, 6-1; fourth-seeded Lester Sack of Clarksdale, Miss., reached the semi-finals by downing Bob Puddicombe of Vancouver 2-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1, and fifth-seeded Bill Tym of Montville, N.J., turned back unseeded Don Fontana of Toronto 6-4, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3 in a third-round match.

Top-seeded Julie Heldmand, 19, of New York City won her third-round women's singles match 6-3, 6-0 over Vivienne Strong of Toronto and second-seeded Pat Cody of Los Angeles defeated Louise Brown of Toronto by the same scores in their third-round battle.

Vicki Berner of Vancouver and Della Lubin of Toronto scored a major victory over Miss Cody and Sara-Mae Turber of Evansville, Ind., winning 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 in the second round of the women's doubles.

BREAKS SWIM RECORD

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Patti Caretto, 14, of Commerce, Calif., bettered her own world record in the 1,500-metre freestyle Thursday at the United States AAU men's and women's swimming and diving championships, stroking the metric mile in 18:23.7. Runner-up Sharon Finneran of Santa Clara, Calif., also bettered the world mark of 18:30.5, set by Miss Caretto in last year's AAU outdoor, turning the distance in 18:29.2.

Canadian Swimmer Sets World Record

BLACKPOOL, England (CP) A 19-year-old business machine salesman knocked apart a world swimming record here Thursday night and 15 minutes later set a Canadian record in another event.

Then he announced that he wants to quit the swim circuit.

Dan Sherry, a muscular six-footer from Hamilton, Ont., won the 110-yard butterfly final at the British national swimming championships in the world-record time of 58.1 seconds, nine-tenths of a second faster than the previous mark held by Australian Kevin Berry.

Then Sherry won his qualifying heat in the men's 110-yard freestyle event in 55.5 seconds, three-tenths of a second better than the Canadian record set by Richard Pound of Montreal at the Rome Olympics in 1960.

Sherry, leading a one-two-three sweep by Canadians in the butterfly, did the first 55-yard lap in a crackling 26.8 seconds.

"I knew I had to sprint to the split (turn) in less than 27 seconds and then just hope I could hang on," Sherry said later. "But I didn't expect to get this much under the world record."

"I've mastered swimming," Sherry exulted. "Now I'm going to master my work."

SEES FLAG

His Canadian teammates—20 swimmers are in Europe for a three-match tour—were given permission to wave a Canadian flag from the top of the 10-metre diving tower at the turning end of the pool. Sherry saw it as he made his turn.

As his hands touched the pool edge at the end, he leaped up and asked the waiting officials if he had broken the record. When they nodded, he let out a whoop and fell back into the pool while his teammates went wild.

Now, said Sherry, he wants to make a stab at the 100-metre world title when the Canadians go to Holland next week. Luis Nicola of the Argentine holds that record.

The grinning Canadian told reporters: "I am thinking seriously of retiring now that I have broken the world record. It might be an idea to go out with a bang."

Sherry is engaged to Linda Nornabell of Toronto, and wants to begin concentration on his new career with a Toronto duplicating machine firm.

His world record highlighted one of the Canadians' best days of the meet.

Ron Jacks, 17, of Vancouver finished second to Sherry in the butterfly in 61.3. Tom Arusoo, 17, of Montreal, was third.

Sandy Gilchrist, 19, of Ocean Falls, B.C., had a field day. He led the qualifiers for the 1,650-yard freestyle event with a time of 18:12.2 and won the 440-yard individual medley final in 4:55.3. He also finished second behind Sherry in 55.6 among 110-yard freestyle qualifiers.

Seventeen-year-old Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls placed second in the 440 medley in 4:58.9.

Three Canadian girls gained the finals of the women's 110-yard backstroke. They were Joey Weir, a 19-year-old high school student from Toronto, 14-year-old Elaine Tanner of Vancouver and Louise Kennedy, 15, of London, Ont.

Canadian Amateur Golf

Weslock Heads For Title

WINNIPEG (CP)—The amateur champions of Canada and the United States were among eight survivors when the Canadian amateur golf championship moved to the quarter-final stage today.

Nick Weslock, 48-year-old veteran from Burlington, Ont., defending the national laurels he won in 1963 and 1964, pressed on in search of his fourth crown with two match victories Thursday.

Weslock, who lists his home club as Toronto Mississaugua, needed 18 holes to dispose of stubborn Charles Brace of Halifax in the morning but got hot—like the 90-degree temperature at Pine Ridge Golf Club—to erase Dave Eichelberger of Waco, Texas, 4 and 3 in the afternoon.

If Nick goes all the way he will be the first man in 58 years to win the championship three consecutive times. George Lyon of Montreal did it in 1905, 1906 and 1907.

Meanwhile, on the other side of the draw, U.S. champion Bill Campbell of Huntington, W.Va., kept pace with a 6 and 4 win over Bob Boldt of Oswego, Ore., and a 5 and 4 verdict over 19-year-old Randy Brekke of Winnipeg, who a few hours earlier had recorded the tournament's first major upset.

COWAN LOSES

Brekke, who had never won anything more than a club junior award, eliminated Gary Cowan of Kitchener, 2 and 1. Cowan was Canadian champion in 1961 and a finalist in 1959, 1960 and 1964.

Weslock's opponent in the quarter-finals, which teed off this morning, was Bunky Henry of Valdosta, Ga. Campbell faced Ted Homenuik of Winnipeg. Both champions were favored to advance to the 18-hole semi-finals this afternoon.

Other quarter-final matches paired Bob Jamieson of Peterborough against Ed Ross of Saskatoon and Tom Draper of Royal Oak, Mich., against medallist George Boutell of Phoenix, Ariz.

Henry, 21-year-old Georgia Tech university senior, Thursday defeated Bill Pidlaski of Winnipeg, a member of Canada's champion 1965 Americas Cup team, 6 and 5, and erased John Johnston of Vancouver, champion in 1959, 4 and 3.

Homenuik, defeated in the Canadian final in 1957 by Weslock and in 1961 by Cowan, stayed in contention for a third appearance with a 3 and 2 win over Ricardo Vega, junior champion of Mexico, and a one-up decision over veteran Bob Wylie of Calgary.

CHANGES GUILTY PLEA

WIMBLEDON, England (CP) A 16-year-old youth changed his plea from guilty to not guilty at a Surrey court during the second hearing of his theft case. Charged with stealing a slice of bread, value one penny, the lad was cleared.

Castro Sneers At Chess

NEW YORK (AP) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro said Thursday he is above trying to make international political hay out of a dispute over whether the U.S. chess champion should go to Havana for a tournament.

"Our country has no need for such fleeting propaganda," Castro said in a cablegram to Bobby Fischer, 22, U.S. chess king.

Instead, the Cuban prime minister suggested that perhaps Fischer feared losing and had fabricated an excuse to avoid the competition.

The international squabble began last month when the U.S. state department refused permission for Fischer to enter Cuba for the Capablanca memorial chess tournament in Havana on the grounds he did not meet the qualifications set by the department for travel to Cuba.

Fischer then agreed to play long distance, with his, and his opponents moves, relayed to and from Havana by telephone.

Last week, however, reliable sources in Havana were quoted as saying the Cuban prime minister viewed the state department refusal as "a propagandistic victory for Cuba."

On hearing of the reports, Fischer sent Castro a cablegram Wednesday withdrawing from the competition, saying he objected to statements attributed to Castro.

Former Firebrand Howie Young

'Winning Toughest Battle Of My Life'

CHICAGO (AP) — Howie Young, the Toronto kid who battled in and out of hockey rinks, said Thursday that he is winning the toughest battle of his life—the restoration of his self-confidence.

"I got serenity, man, serenity—peace of mind," he said at the Chicago automobile agency where he works as an assistant car service man.

"That's another fringe benefit. Now I can do something for myself, now that I got the Big Man upstairs going for me."

A former star defenceman for Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, Young played last season with Los Angeles Blades of the Western Hockey League.

Young's hockey career fell flat as a sheet of ice because his cantankerous attitude turned friends away from him.

"I discovered I was an alcoholic," he said forthrightly. "And alcholics die or go crazy. That's the only thing they have going for them.

THOUGHT HIM DIFFERENT

"All through my career I couldn't figure out why everybody thought I was so different.

" 'Why aren't you like other guys who have a few beers, eat and go home?' they would ask.

"It's like the fellow who discovered his drinking was interfering with his job and quit. That's about what I was doing and what I did."

Young, 28, who tipped the scales at around 230 pounds during his major league career, now weighs 185 to 190.

Young, who arrives at his job at 7:30 a.m. and says he enjoys his work, talks about when he'll return to major-league hockey with the Black Hawks. He's committed to Los Angeles Blades to play next season.

TO MARRY SEPT 4

Much of the credit for the change in him, he says, belongs to the girl he will marry Sept. 4. She is Raellyn Pauson of Chicago, the girl he had lost because of his way of life a few months ago.

They met while he was with the Hawks. It will be his second marriage.

He has had discussions with Tommy Ivan, the Hawk's general manager, and Young says Ivan appeared impressed with the change in him.

Young's reputation as hockey's bad boy billed him as a wild man with an all-time record of 273 minutes in the penalty box in a National Hockey League season.

His brawls off the ice made him one of the most notorious of athletes.

BROKE JAW

He broke the jaw of Kenny Wharram and one arm of Murray Balfour before he became their teammate on the Hawks. He joined Gil Mains, a Detroit Lion football lineman, in a stand against four or five assailants in a bar.

He fought an unsuccessful fight with a Detroit policeman after spearing a sausage off his place in a restaurant.

He was an idol of fans in Chicago Stadium and Detroit's Olympia, not only for his violent ways but for being one of his league's best defencemen.

Last season, the Los Angeles fans aroused the madcap in him. When the season ended he woke up one morning in a Los Angeles jail on a drunk and disorderly charge.

"I thought I was going to die a couple of times," he said. "I was scared as hell of dying drunk. I said: 'God, don't take me—I don't want to die drunk'. I was killing myself.

"I didn't think I was going to live past 30."

JOINED AA

Young joined Alcoholics anonymous after an inmate in jail told him how to make contact with the organization that aids alcoholics.

"That was when I was reborn," he said happily.

Young came to Chicago when Herb Nortell, owner of an automobile agency, found him in Las Vegas and offered him a job. A hockey fan, Nortell now has taken a personal interest in Young's life and career.

But Young says "the man upstairs" is his manager.

"In 12 years, I made a mess of it, and I gave it up as my own manager," he said. "He's done more for me in three months than I did in 12 years."

Ti-Cats, Argos Tonight

In recent games, the Eastern Football Conference's perennial cellar team hasn't looked too bad. They won a squeaker against Hamilton Tiger-Cats in a pre-season exhibition game, and lost a close one to Ottawa Rough Riders in the conference opener here last week.

Argonauts face another tough one tonight when they play host to the Ticats at the CNE Stadium in the second league game for both teams.

There will be several lineup changes.

Hamilton coach Ralph Sazio has indicated he'll start quarterback Joe Zuger. But Frank Cosentino will be waiting in the wings if Zuger falters.

Fullback Gerry McDougall and offensive end Lee Sampson, both released by the Argos, will be in the Hamilton lineup.

Argo coach Bob Shaw put 155-pound halfback Sherman Lewis on waivers Thursday night to make room for lineman Bob Dugan, a 225-pounder from the champion Buffalo Bills of the American Football League, who will play either defensive end or tackle.

Junior Favorites Advance

Barry Shakespeare of Halifax, top-ranked in the 18-and-under class, made quick work of Louis Giguere of Montreal, 6-1, 6-2.

'Just Got Out Of Touch'

Boxing 'Disgusts' Baer

TORONTO (CP) — Buddy Baer, a heavyweight contender during the 30s and brother of former heavyweight champion Max Baer, said he has become so disgusted with the state of boxing as it is today that he "just got out of touch."

The six-foot-six, 340-pound Baer was interviewed at the annual convention of the Eagles, a fraternal organization. He discussed the proposed three-man federal boxing commission now before the United States Congress.

He said he would like to nominate Rocky Marciano to head the commission with Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney as his advisers. All three are former heavyweight champions.

"These three guys just couldn't be got at," he said. "This federal set-up is something I've wanted to see for 20 years. The WBA (World Boxing Association) is weak and useless."

FOLLOWED BROTHER

Baer, 50, who has always followed what his brother "has done about six years behind," said he fears he might be taking one more step in the footsteps of Max.

"He boxed, I boxed; he went into films, I went into films. Always the same, six years apart.

"Now I'm getting a bit worried because the 1959 Toronto gathering was the last Eagle convention that my brother attended. Four months later he was dead of a heart attack."

Baer revealed he had been bothered again by heart trouble. He had one attack in 1962.

A $1,000,000 Eagles heart fund has been named for Max Baer.

The Trots

TORONTO (CP) — Doc Fin, owned by Dr. A. J. Finlayson of Paris, Ont., took the featured $1,500 Invitation Trot at Greenwood Raceway Thursday night to register his second consecutive stakes win.

Doc Fin held off Vera E. Scot's challenge in the stretch to win by a length. The victory was worth $750 to the three-year-old and boosted his season's earnings to $6,554.

The combination of Doc Fin and Vera E. Scott provided a $30 quinella.

Armbro Electra from the Armstrong Brothers' Brampton barn captured the eighth race with Harold McKinley driving. It was the first season victory in 11 starts for the four-year-old.

Joseph Kara's Elmora from Oshawa took top prize in the second race paying $4.50 and combining with Jerry Farong for a $13.40 daily double.

BOUT POSTPONED

Federal Government Plans To Cut Organizational Waste By Decentralized Managing

By WILLIAM NEVILLE

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is taking steps to eliminate some of the "organizational nonsense" a royal commission found in the operation of the public service.

When in full swing, the efficiency - stimulating program should save the government—and taxpayers—millions of dollars a year.

Key to the program, based on the first report in September, 1962, of the Glassco royal commission on government organization, is the modern management concept of decentralization.

In brief, it means shifting detailed day-to-day responsibility for finances and personnel away from central bodies such as the Treasury Board and Civil Service Commission and giving it to individual departments or, even further, to individual section heads in the field.

The former system of centralized control, said the Glassco report, led to a "dilemma of controls" producing duplication, waste and frustration.

It is hoped the new system will replace this with a modern, streamlined organization less costly to the government and more attractive for its employees.

CONSULTANTS HIRED

The general concept of the Glassco report was formally accepted by the Pearson administration in November, 1963. Since then, it has been a case of finding the best method to implement the idea and putting it into effect.

The starting point, in most cases, has been the hiring of a private management consultant's team to tackle individual departments. The objective of each team has been to lay out a detailed program by which each department can adjust to the new concept.

The first four such surveys began in the fall of 1963 and were completed in June, 1964. They covered the agriculture, veterans affairs, transport and northern affairs departments.

Three more surveys by management consultants now are under way in citizenship and immigration, public works, and health and welfare.

More are in the offing. Government planners hope, however, that as the department-by-department program progresses there will be less reliance on outside consultants and more emphasis on a do-it-yourself approach taking advantage of the experience of other departments and studies.

THEORY APPLIED

In some cases, the studies already are bearing fruit.

The transport department, for example, put the new theory of financial management into effect April 1 in both its air services and marine divisions in the Atlantic provinces.

Since then, the department and Treasury Board have limited themselves to over-all or "true" budgetary control over these divisions with on-the-spot section managers wielding the day-to-day authority over detailed spending within their specific areas.

"We're very pleased with the results," said a department spokesman "We're in the midst now of applying the same principle to other areas."

He added that, while no precise dollar figure has been set, the reorganization will produce "substantial economies" along with much-improved efficiency.

In northern affairs and national resources, a special personnel adviser has been appointed and a computer program set up to record and evaluate employees.

"The over-all theme in the personnel area is to give our people more responsibility and encourage them to use it," the spokesman said. "Instead of automatons responding to orders from the top, we want self-starters."

The personnel reorganization will result in some staff reductions, but the important savings will be in holding down the number of new employees needed to handle expanding assignments.

While government officials generally are pleased with the program so far, they admit it has raised some problems.

The first is finding the correct "points of responsibility"—the right rung along the ladder of department command at which to place the decentralized responsibility.

Another problem is to find the right personnel to exercise the in-field responsibility and to train them accordingly.

In general, however, responsible officials are more than pleased with the results to date.

"You know," said one of them, "this government now employs 200,000 persons and spends $7,500,000,000 a year. That requires a different kind of organization from 20 years ago. With this program it looks as if we may finally get it."

Singapore Recognized by Canadian Govt.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has recognized Singapore, which has withdrawn from the Malaysian federation, as an independent and sovereign state, Prime Minister Pearson disclosed Thursday night.

No Foolproof Way to Tell If New Series Will Be Hit

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Everybody in show business has his private crystal ball and the television division, in particular, is full of prophets.

But nobody has yet invented a foolproof way to tell in advance whether a series will be a hit.

In the world of television, a hit show is one which the Nielsen ratings declare is chosen by the largest number of viewers at a given time period.

Last season, pre-season scuttlebutt was that ABC had a real "sleeper" in a fantasy show called Bewitched, and it turned out to be right. But few of the experts really believed that a night-time soap opera, even one named Peyton Place would really make the Nielsen grade.

This observer, who shrewdly picked The Rogues and something called Valentine's Day in advance last year (both quietly disappeared at season's end) this year will try picking winners on form.

Thus The FBI on ABC has to be chosen, if for no other reason than the ABC series is being produced by Quinn Martin who has made a string of hit shows ranging from The Untouchables to The Fugutive.

I Spy, on NBC figures to be a winner on the track record of its producer, Sheldon Leonard, Danny Thomas' partner in the comedian's long-running series, Andy Griffith's and Dick Van Dyke's shows. The odds are slightly reduced because the new series is action-adventure, not comedy which is Leonard's forte.

Paul Henning who created Beverly Hillbillies and Petticoat Junction — both hits — has his third CBS series in three years, Green Acres. He hasn't missed yet, so he has to be a contender.

The enormous increase in university enrolment in recent years has posed many problems. One has been how to provide accommodation for out-of-town students as the proportion of these and other young people seeking a university education continues to rise. The university crisis induced Parliament, in December 1960, to introduce a program of university housing loans. A new section was added to the National Housing Act so that loans could be obtained for new construction or for the acquisition of existing buildings and their conversion into a university housing project for resident students. The Act was broadened in 1964. Loans are now available to co-operative associations and charitable organizations, as well as universities and colleges, to build either dormitories for resident students or self-contained accommodation for married couples and their families. Since the inception of the university housing legislation, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, as the federal housing agency, has approved a total of 98 loans totalling $112 million to house over 23,000 students in all parts of the country.

Trade Paper Publisher Wields Power in Industry

By DORIS KLEIN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Her name is Tichi and she's a power in Hollywood. But you'd never know it by looking at her.

Slim, brunette, beautiful Tichi Wilkerson appears more fragile than most of the movie stars she encounters, and she wields her power with a delicate air.

She publishes the Hollywood Reporter, one of the town's two daily trade papers.

While many such journals are dull recitals of the nuts and bolts of an industry, Hollywood's pair are lively "must" reading in the movie industry.

Movie stars check the Reporter and its rival, Daily Variety, for news of upcoming films—and phone their agents to go after a leading role. Producers scan them for box office grosses.

Tichi inherited the paper in 1962 from her husband, Billy Wilkerson, who founded it in 1930.

"He suffered from emphysema for seeral years and knew his time was limited," says Tichi. "So he brought me into the business, taught it to me from the ground up."

Still in her early 30s, Tichi also found herself left with the responsibilities of a little boy and girl and a French colonial mansion in Bel-Air.

Tichi started quickly to inject her own ideas into the paper. Wilkerson had avoided printing much news of the television industry.

"But I could see how important television was and would become," she says. "Now we devote almost half the Reporter to television."

Tichi streamlined business operations and hired correspondents in Europe, Asia, New York, Las Vegas and San Francisco. Circulation increased 10 per cent in the first six months of her regime.

Tichi spends the morning conferring with the editor and business department officials.

"Then I start to make the rounds of the studios," she says.

She devotes considerable time to charities and spends her evenings going to the movies or on the endless round of the Hollywood social circuit.

"It's still one of the best places to pick up stories," she says.

This year, she toured the European film festivals, sending dispatches to the Reporter. Her conclusion: "There are too many of them."

In one important respect, she differs from many publishers.

"I always have the editor edit my copy," she says. "I respect his judgment, or I would not have him."

Tourists Flock to Dawson But the Gold's All Gone

By ATHOL RETALLACK

DAWSON CITY, Y.T. (CP)—Three years after the much-touted Gold Rush festival, visitors are flocking to Dawson City to relive the days of '98 through informal, summer-long activities.

Tourists, mainly Americans, began arriving in June and will probably keep coming into September. The town's permanent population of 850 was swollen by nearly 50 per cent during the July 4 weekend.

Every available bed in town was taken, and the campgrounds overflowed with cars bearing licence plates from six provinces and 25 states of the U.S.

Through the summer campers jog along Bonanza and Eldorado creeks, where gold was first panned, stopping at every gravelly bend to try their luck.

Small mining operations through the ravines and gulches have muddied the water. But a $1,000,000 gold dredge sits silent in a silty pool, idle after 20 seasons of digging out more than 26,000,000 cubic yards of gravel from the Bonanza bedrock, scouring for gold.

WHERE IT ALL STARTED

Visitors invariably pause at a rugged rock slab jutting up from the valley a few miles farther along the creek. Here, in August, 1896, George Carmacks staked the claim that started the Klondike gold rush and fame for Dawson City.

The town is also making use of the buildings and boat, restored at an estimated cost of $450,000 by the federal government for the 1962 festival.

To entertain the summer tourists the Klondike Visitors' Association, a local organization, hired a professional theatrical troupe from Vancouver to play through the season in the reconstructed Palace Grand Theatre.

Financed by $100 contributions from each of the town's 20 businesses and a grant from the territorial government, the troupe is performing The Tenderfoot, written by Vancouver playwright Raymond Hull.

Dawson City residents, dressed in turn-of-the-century Klondike garb, are staffing the tourist information booth, the theatre, old-time gaming tables and the Klondike museum through the summer.

Three nights a week the beached sternwheeler, the SS Keno, is the scene of blackjack, ace away, roulette and other old-time gambling games. But plastic Klondike chips have replaced loaded gold pokes at the cashiers' tables.

The Vancouver actors usually round out the evening's entertainment with a variety show on board, while children from Oklahoma or Georgia sit in the captain's chair in the wheelhouse, spinning the wheel and gazing down the Yukon River as it starts its long course to Alaska and the Bering Sea.

Tourists can also wander around a reconstructed trading post hung with fox pelts, traps and lanterns, or visit the museum, housed in what was once the Yukon's chief administration building. Here a 79-year-old Klondiker, Mrs. Katie McLennan, tells tales of the old gold rush days.

McGill Psychologists Study Influence of Environment

MONTREAL (CP) — McGill University's psychology department is conducting tests to establish what effect environment has on intellectual development.

Out of the tests may come a successor to the IQ tests now given to children in some schools.

The experiments involve children of the same chronological and mental age from "restricted" or slum areas and from middle and upper middle class areas in Montreal.

Dr. George A. Ferguson, chairman of the psychology department, says the experiments and observations conducted here, along with those made in the United States, have raised the argument "that the early environment of the child is very important to his intellectual development."

Stressing that the tests are continuing and that information obtained so far cannot be considered conclusive, Dr. Ferguson says "Early environmental deprivation may, in fact, result in a permanent intellectual impairment."

Previously it was thought a person's IQ was a fixed factor determined biologically. Now, however, it is believed that environment plays a more important role than heredity in the development of a person's IQ.

Dr. Ferguson criticizes the psychological tests now used in schools, clinics and elsewhere, saying they are essentially tests of performance.

"They do not permit us to differentiate the individual who may have low intelligence because he is environmentally deprived from the individual who has low intelligence because of a meagre biological capacity.

'This distinction is clearly very important, and adequate methods for making this type of differentiation must be developed. Clearly, if we are to utilize to the full our intellectual resources, we simply cannot afford a situation in which large numbers of people are prevented from contributing to society because of intellectual impairment resulting from poor environmental circumstances."

Dr. Ferguson said there is evolving evidence that may produce a new theory of intelligence, a new way of looking at the intelligence quotient.

"An IQ is defined as mental age divided by chronological age multiplied by 100. The ratio mental age divided by chronological age is a rate measure. It is a measure of the rate of mental growth.

"To illustrate, consider a child of the chronological age of seven, another child with chronological age of 10, but both have the same mental age of 10. Quite clearly, the child whose chronological age is seven has reached a mental age of 10 at a much more rapid rate than the child whose chronological age is 10.

"Clearly some process is occurring in the first child at a more rapid rate than a corresponding process is occurring in the second child. It is our opinion that the process involved is a transfer process and has to do with the facility with which the prior learning is utilized in subsequent learning.

"The first child has greater facility at transfer than the second child. He is able to learn more in a shorter period of time because of this facility. The transfer theory of intelligence regards the intelligence quotient as a simple rate measure. The higher the IQ, the greater the facility for transfer.

"Our work on the relationship of intelligence to transfer suggests the possibility of new approaches to the measurement of human intelligence.

"The methods currently used for the measurement of human intelligence have not changed markedly in the last 25 or 30 years. Many refinements of technology have been developed and new fields of application have been explored but no substantive changes in the basic approach have occurred for a good many years.

"We are investigating the possibility, very tentatively, of evolving some new approach to the measurement of human intelligence through the measurement of the amount of transfer in various test situations."

New CPA President Will Have Tough Road to Hoe In Following Former Head

By LESLIE MILLIN

CPA PRESIDENT -- J. C. Gilmer, an accountant, is the newly appointed president of Canadian Pacific Airlines. The 55-year-old native of Belfast, Northern Ireland, was executive vice-president and comptroller of the company before his appointment, July 12. He succeeded Grant McConachie who died of a heart attack June 29. (CP Photo)

VANCOUVER (CP) — The man who took over the late Grant McConachie's job is a cool-eyed accountant with the last of a Belfast rasp deep in his throat.

J. C. Gilmer was named president of Canadian Pacific Airlines on July 12, which would have warmed the heart of his father, late of Manitoba's Loyal Orange Lodge.

It was a logical succession from his post as executive vice-president and comptroller of the company.

But no one following McConachie—the colorful bush pilot who spliced 10 little air lines into a national giant and died of a heart attack June 29—would have an easy job.

And Mr. Gilmer accepted a 52-death millstone along with the presidency — the July 8 crash that took a DC-6B, its crew and 46 passengers to a flaming death in British Columbia's Cariboo.

"It's a fascinating, a very dynamic job," says Mr. Gilmer.

Taller than average, he's silver-templed at 55, with an athlete's handshake and a scholar's long skull.

His tailoring is less than perfect, but his speech reflects the orderliness of an accountant and the natural riches of the Belfast native's Irish English.

AIM TO MAKE PROFIT

"Any organization like this has visionaries, people who see business in terms of gross profit rather than net," he says.

"But I would hope to see things in terms of the balance sheet. We are in this business to make money."

He sees CPA at least partially in terms of seat-miles—and he is proud his company keeps its jets in the air 12 hours out of 24, the world's highest average.

J. C. Gilmer trod the world of profit and loss when pilot McConachie lived in a log cabin with a chunk of moosemeat hanging in the corner.

He graduated from the University of Manitoba at Winnipeg in chartered accountancy when his predecessor was the young president of Independent Airways Ltd., and while McConachie went through several companies to become president of CPA, Mr. Gilmer rose through the financial ranks of CPR.

He joined CPA in 1949, two years after McConachie became president, and today pays tribute to McConachie's visionary foresight and instinctive feel for a curious business.

"There are no precedents for this airline business," says Mr. Gilmer.

"Our product changes from day to day, the development is staggering and the increase in passengers confounds the greatest experts and makes any estimate, even the wildest, look conservative."

SWITCH WAS COSTLY

His aptitude for economic hinking helped CPA through he bad years of the early 1960s, vhen the airline lost money dur ng the changeover from piston ngined airplanes to jets.

"The jet changeover saved the usiness but it damned near illed it," he said.

"Jets are more economical to un. You get more seats, more reight capacity, and it's heaper to boot.

"But all the airlines got jets t the same time and they threw hem on the market all at the ame time and there was a glut f jet seats.

"The boom in travel saved us, s the world's disposable in ome grew and travel restric ons dropped. This, and the re able efficiency of jets, took us ack into the black."

Today, CPA's airline routes re roughly in the form of a big with Vancouver—and CPA's ead office—at the crossroads. One crossbar runs from Hong ong to Buenos Aires, and the ther from Australia to Amster am, with spurs to Montreal exico City - Vancouver, and ontreal-Rome.

The flight across Canada is e only uneconomic run on PA's 46,000 miles of routes, ys Mr. Gilmer.

"We are restricted by the gov nment to one flight a day. We n't make money on one flight day.

"This is not a fair shake to e public, or to us."

EW ROUTE COMING

All other flights are reserved Air Canada, to which the vernment has also allotted rthern Europe, except for the ans-polar route from Vancou r to Amsterdam.

A Montreal-Amsterdam flight by CPA has been negotiated, and is due to start in late October.

CPA's only other chance for expansion is in southern Asia, by linking the great market areas of southern Europe and the Orient by a non-stop flight from Rome to Bangkok, and then to Hong Kong.

"We're obtaining the market data for it now," says Mr. Gilmer, "but we're not committed to it."

His biggest immediate problem—straightening out the mess of the July 8 crash—is going well, he says.

"We're doing everything we can, we've offered the investigators all help possible, even engaging any experts they feel they might need."

Expansion—via bigger planes and faster ones with bigger payloads—is just around the corner he says.

"Fantastic development in this field is coming along," he says, "and it will stagger the imagination.

"It will stagger anyone's imagination, no matter how avante-garde he tries to be in his thinking."

HORSES EVADED TAX

One explanation for the herds of wild horses on Sable and Assateague Islands, off the Nova Scotia and Virginia coasts, has been that they were sent there to evade a 1662 tax on horses.

Conscience and Leftists Agitate Ceylon Leader

By DENZIL PEIRIS

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—If Prime Minister Dudley Senanayake had his way, he would shave his head, don Buddhism's saffron robes and retire to a monk's life in some cloistered temple.

For Senanayake is a man of tormented conscience, troubled into ill health by fears that moral consequences of his acts are not consistent with Buddhist doctrine.

Senanayake also is a politician, caught up in one of the most critical periods in the history of this country and its 10,000,000 people.

It is his task to pull Ceylon out of economic near-ruin, refashion good relations with Western powers and at the same time avoid offending Red China.

Since his election for a second time in March, Senanayake has agreed to compensate United States oil firms for property seized by his predecessor, thus requalifying Ceylon for American economic aid. Communist embassies have sent home agitators and propagandists at his request. A note of confidence has been injected into the economy.

But Senanayake must contend with subtle sabotage within his own government.

During the last six months of rule by his predecessor, Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike, leftists grabbed strategic positions in the executive branch. Today, they manage to lose important papers, mail documents to the wrong addressesand in general gum up administration.

Leftists pull wildcat strikes in Ceylon's ports, try to wreck trains and attack Senanayake for high prices and unemployment that began under Mrs. Bandaranaike.

Dealing harshly with sabotage tactics is alien to the character of Senanayake, a rotund, pipe-puffing man of 57, who was reluctant to enter politics in the first place.

His hard-driving father, D. S. Senanayake, became prime minister in 1947 after Ceylon won independence from Britain. Son Dudley became agriculture minister — strictly out of an obedience to his father's wishes.

In 1953, the father was thrown from a horse and killed. Son Dudley, by popular acclaim, was top choice as his successor. Within a few months, he was forced to order police to fire on food rioters and eight were killed.

Senanayake's health failed under the strain and he quit politics.

He was persuaded to return earlier this year. His aides argued he could save Ceylon's Buddhism from the woman prime minister's Marxist friends. Senanayake ran on an anti-Marxist ticket and won narrowly.

Senanayake, again driven by his conscience, gave up his easy-going life of meditation (and his daily round of golf) so he could listen from 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. to the complaints of farmers and workers who thronged to his home.

Again his health failed and 90 days after taking office, Senanayake was under a physician's care for a month.

These periodic crises of health and conscience are of national interest in Ceylon. For it generally is assumed that if Senanayake leaves office again, authoritarian Marxism will be the island's lot for some time to come.

White Man Takes Severe Beating In Los Angeles Rioting, Stores Burned

LOS ANGELES (AP)—More than 15 major fires were set Friday during the day by looters and rioters, some hurling bottles filled with gasoline as riots continued in the Negro district.

One of the first was in a block containing a drug store, laundry, liquor store and apartment building at 107th Street and Avalon Boulevard.

William L. Johnson, a Negro barber next door, said:

"About 1,000 shouting boys, girls, men and women milled through the streets all day. They were acting like wild men. I never saw people act like they did."

Reporters who made their way into the area reported crowds chanting:

"White devils, what are you doing in here."

One Negro called out: "White man, you started all this the day you brought the first slave to this country."

The looting seemed to follow a pattern. When stores in one area had been broken into and cleaned out, the groups moved on to new stores in new areas, sometimes setting afire structures they abandoned.

Most looters appeared to be under 30. Some were small children.

Even with policemen on the street, within sight, a crowd of 200 broke into a furniture store and a pawn shop at Manchester and Broadway.

One man told a reporter: "This is the Negro revolution. We want the world to know."

Another said: "We want to set fire right here on Broadway rather than go to Viet Nam and fight. We'd rather fight for the Negro here. Many of us have fought in the army and it was not to our advantage."

Markets and liquor stores were the favorite looting targets. But any structure was in peril. Even filling stations were raided for money in cash registers—and in some cases the cash register itself.

A police spokesman said: "We simply do not have the men or equipment to control this situation. Looters are entirely out of hand."

Fires blazed during the day in more than half a dozen buildings on the southeast side, sending up columns of smoke visible over the entire Los Angeles basin.

Brick-hurling rioters turned back many fire-fighting units, but squads of police got some of them through to fight the spreading flames.

The police spokesman said: "There have been many cases of our men and helicopters being shot at."

In the third and worst day of riots radiating outward from the south-end community of Watts, throngs estimated at several thousand roamed at will through a 150-block area.

A helicopter televising the scene swooped low over building after building going up in flames, with no fire equipment in sight. Little knots of people stood around and watched.

The helicopter, saying it was under rifle and pistol fire from the ground, suddenly soared and darted among the towering columns of black smoke visible throughout the Los Angeles basin.

One blaze completely consumed a furniture and appliance store covering two-thirds of a city block. Another ruined a large supermarket.

Most white shop-owners abandoned their premises in fear, leaving them easy prey for marauders. Hundreds had windows smashed, then were looted.

Police set up roadblocks around two areas on the southeast side in an effort to keep the rioting from spreading, and to prevent non-resident whites from entering.

CALL OUT TROOPS IN LOS ANGELES WITH DEATH TOLL IN RIOTS NOW 14

SAC Bombers Hit Red Posts Close To Border

From AP-Reuters

SAIGON (CP)—Giant American B-52 bombers from the U.S. Strategic Air Command hit Viet Cong positions 17 miles from North Viet Nam today, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

South Vietnamese government troops followed up the raid with one of the largest offensives ever staged by the 1st Army Corps, the spokesmen said.

Military sources at the Da Nang air base, 380 miles north of Saigon, said 14 Viet Cong were killed in the initial phase of the operation. They said government casualties were light.

A briefing officer said as far as he knew all the B-52s returned safely from the raid.

A U.S. military spokesman announced that five U.S. Navy aircraft were lost during an armed reconnaissance flight over North Viet Nam Friday. A U.S. observation plane was lost over South Viet Nam.

He said the planes were downed by small arms or conventional anti-aircraft fire.

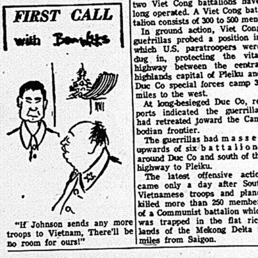
The eight - engine B-52's hit targets 90 miles northwest of the Da Nang air base, where two Viet Cong battalions have long operated. A Viet Cong battalion consists of 300 to 500 men.

In ground action, Viet Cong guerrillas probed a position in which U.S. paratroopers were dug in, protecting the vital highway between the central highlands capital of Pleiku and Duc Co special forces camp 35 miles to the west.

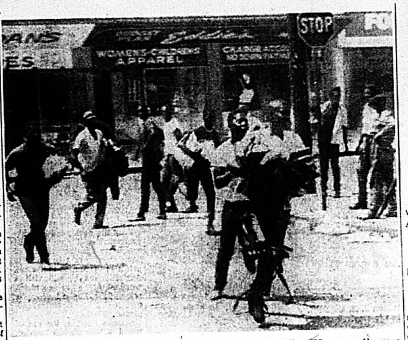
At long-besieged Duc Co, reports indicated the guerrillas had retreated toward the Cambodian frontier.

The guerrillas had massed upwards of six battalions around Duc Co and south of the highway to Pleiku.

The latest offensive action came only a day after South Vietnamese troops and planes killed more than 250 members of a Communist battalion which was trapped in the flat rice-lands of the Mekong Delta 90 miles from Saigon.



"If Johnson sends any more troops to Vietnam, There'll be no room for ours!"



LOOTERS TAKE OVER — Carrying armloads of clothes, Negro youths race from looted stores in the Watts area of Los Angeles as lawlessness continues unabated in the riot-torn district.

Some Local CN Crews May Soon Book Sick

TORONTO (CP) — A rebel employees' group launched a campaign of worker absenteeism Friday to stop Canada's trains from running, in protest against a system that compels them to pay dues to three international unions.

Some railway train crews reported sick at Toronto and London, Ont., Friday, but not in sufficient numbers to affect running schedules.

The campaign is being organized by the Association of Railway Employees, an informal, unofficial group formed one month ago and headed by Fred Hill, a Canadian Pacific Railway engineer in London. They want to conscript the workers in a Canadian union.

"Our sole aim is to force the cancellation of this arbitrary agreement," Mr. Hill said, referring to compulsory dues—

Army Dump Blast Kills Six

HELSINKI (Reuters) — An ammunition dump explosion 45 miles from here today killed at least six persons, two of them children.

Twenty soldiers who were in a hut demolished by the blast are among the missing.

About 50 were injured in the series of explosions which started in an underground ammunition chamber at the huge Uusikyla dump near Lahti and spread to a surface building housing mortar bombs.

A helicopter carried the seriously injured to hospitals in Helsinki. The pilot said flames still were shooting up from one of the dump's storage chambers.

Exploding mortar bombs sent shrapnel whistling among firemen and rescue workers.

Guardsmen Use Bayonets, Rifles To Clear Streets

By JAMES BACON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California national guardsmen forced their way with rifle fire and bayonets today through the riot-torn streets of the Los Angeles Negro district.

But violence continued to spread in the fourth day of looting and burning.

The toll: 14 dead, hundreds injured.

The dead include a sheriff's deputy slain by looters and a Negro sniper killed by guardsmen. A Negro sniper was wounded.

In all, 12 civilians have been shot, 11 of them Negro.

One fireman was killed by a falling wall.

In the chaotic confusion, names of most of the victims could not be learned.

CAN'T CONTAIN RIOTS

Steel-helmeted troopers early today cleared a path through pockets of lawlessness on the city's southeast side, but couldn't restore peace.

Rioters leap-frogged ahead of the trops. Arsonists set new fires after they passed. Other bands of Negroes in cars struck miles from the riot centre in white sections of the city.

Whole blocks of buildings in the Negro section of Watts have been burned to the ground since the rioting began Wednesday night over the arrest of a Negro motorist by white police.

All the rioters are Negro. They battled police and firemen with guns looted from shattered stores and attacked white motrists—with shouts of "Here comes whitey!" and "Kill them, kill them!" Few whites ventured into the 98-per-cent Negro area sometimes called Los Angeles' "black ghetto."

Police called for national guard help Friday when 1,000 law officers couldn't restore order.

The governor's office and local authorities declared a state of insurrection—short of martial law — and the first 2,000 troops was diverted from summer training to the embattled streets.

MORE TROOPS CALLED

Police said 5,000 national guardsmen will be on the street today.

California Governor Edmund Brown cut short a vacation in Greece today and flew back to direct attempts to restore order. He told reporters at Athens he had been in touch with his office and was convinced the riots were spontaneous, not planned.

A psychiatrist in Los Angeles attributed the rioting to anger at the whites—and distrust of them — in the Negro sections where Los Angeles minorities are held in what is termed de facto segregation.

A fire department official said fire losses alone may total more than $100,000,000 in the riot-swept sectors.

One fireman was killed and another critically hurt when a

Chicago Policemen Fight Negro Mob; 65 Are Injured

CHICAGO (AP) — Rioting broke out for the second straight night Friday in a west-side neighborhood with about 100 policemen engaged in a wild battle with several hundred Negroes.

Police reported 18 policemen and 47 civilians, most of them Negroes, were injured in the brick throwing and fighting.

Police arrested 100 persons, most of them on charges of disorderly conduct.

Police continued to patrol the district early today and the situation appeared eased.

Police battled the angry mob up and down an eight-block stretch of Pulaski Road in the Garfield Park district. The rioters, some on roof tops, hurled missiles out of the darkness at policemen and at motorists.

Windows in scores of stores were smashed and police reported much looting.

Friday night's fighting started after hundreds of Negroes came to the scene of Thursday night's disturbance for a civil rights demonstration. The fighting erupted into a full-scale riot after Robert Wiens, 25, a white policeman on his way to work in civilian clothes, was attacked and slashed by a group of Negroes.

A mob had gathered at a fire station Thursday night after a 20-year-old woman was accidentally killed. The woman, Dessie Mae Williams, was crushed by a falling traffic sign which was toppled from its moorings by a hook and ladder fire truck responding to a false alarm fire. Three firemen were suspended.

Seventeen Negro firemen were assigned to the fire station in an effort to forestall further demonstrations.

Rev. Patrick J. McPolin, a Roman Catholic police chaplain, described Friday night's fighting with police the worst he had seen in his 20 years with the police department.

Friday night's civil rights rally was in protest of the Negro woman's death and alleged lack of integration in the fire department.

But Lawrence Landry, spokesman for a civil rights group, told the group that "you live in leaky little houses infested by rats."

Some Negroes in the crowd began chanting: "Revenge!" "Fight!" and "Let's kill 'em!"

Suddenly, about 200 Negroes came streaming down the street after Wiens.

"I was driving through the street and this guy was blocking my car," Wiens said before being taken to a hospital. "I got out and chased him." The burly policeman's head was covered with blood.

As darkness fell, more than 500 persons milled throughout the district. Bottles and bricks flew wildly, injuring police and bystanders. Several white youths passing through the area were assaulted with baseball bats. An empty police squad car was overturned and set on fire.

Windows of cars driven by whites were shattered by beer bottles. A white cab driver, dazed and bleeding, stumbled out of his car. "All I want is to get out of here," he said.

The Weather

Synopsis: Cooler and drier air will be coming into the northern Ontario late today but not before warm air from the Dakotas, where recorded temperature maximums —Friday were from 90 to over 110 degrees, makes its way into Ontario. The heat wave will end Sunday for the northern sections but Monday will be another very warm day for southern Ontario.

Wonder Anyone With White Skin Got Out Says Riot Eye Witness

Robert Richardson, Negro advertising salesman for the Los Angeles Times, witnessed rioting in southeast Los Angeles for eight hours. He wrote the following story for the newspaper.

* * * *

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It was the most terrifying thing I've seen in my life.

It's a wonder anyone with white skin got out of there alive.

I saw people with guns. The cry went up several times—"Let's go to Lynwood," an all-white neighborhood.

Every time a car with whites in it entered the area the word spread like lightning down the street:

"Here comes whitey — get him!"

The older people would stand in the background egging on the teen-agers and the people in their 20s. Then the young men and women would rush in and pull white people from their cars and beat them and try to set fire to the cars.

One white couple, in their 60s, happened to be driving along Imperial before the blockades were put up. They were beaten up and kicked until their faces, hands and clothing were bloody.

I thought they were going to be killed. How they survived I don't know. Those not hitting and kicking the couple were standing there shouting "Kill! Kill!"

Finally, they turned them loose and an ambulance was called and they were taken away.

Two white men driving down Avalon Boulevard ducked when rocks bombarded their car. When they ducked they hit a car with Negroes.

They were beaten so badly one man's eye was hanging out of the socket. Some Negro ministers made their way through the crowd and carried both men into an apartment building and called an ambulance.

The crowd called the ministers hypocrites. They cussed them and spat on them. Some Negro officers tried to disperse the crowd, but they were jeered at, sworn at, called traitors and stoned.

Light-skinned Negroes such as myself were targets of rocks and bottles until someone standing nearby would shout, "He's blood. He's a brother—lay off."

As some areas were blockaded during the night, the mobs would move outside looking for more cars with whites. When there were no whites, they started throwing rocks and bottles at Negro cars. Then near midnight, they began looting stores owned by whites.

Everybody got in the looting—children, grownups, old men and women, breaking windows and going into stores.

Then everybody started drinking—even little kids eight and nine years old. That's when the cry started, "Let's go where whitey lives!" That's when I began to see guns.

I believe the mobs would have moved into white neighborhoods, but it was getting late and many of them had to go to work Friday morning.

But some said, "wait till tonight and Saturday. We'll really roll over the weekend. We'll really get whitey then!"

They knew they had the upper hand. They seemed to sense that neither the police nor anyone else could stop hem.

I heard one say, "just wait till one of the blood gets shot—then heads will really roll. Then whitey will get his!"

Did you ever watch pigeons and see one or two peel off in another direction, and then the whole flock zooms off? That's how it was with the mob. One or two would take off and—zoom—the whole street would jump on somebody.

Kelso Roberts, Native of City, Hooks Tuna

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Ontario Lands Minister Kelso Roberts landed a 597-pound bluefin tuna in Newfoundland's Conception Bay Friday—the 13th—and immediately suggested Premier Robarts come here and give the sport a try.

"I'm quite thrilled," Mr. Roberts said in an interview. "This is a great sport down here."

Fishing from a boat with Newfoundland Attorney-General Leslie Curtis, Mr. Roberts hooked the big fish at about 4 p.m. and boated it an hour later.

War Ended 20 Years Ago

By WILLIAM NEVILLE

Twenty years ago, at seven o'clock on the evening of Aug. 14, 1945, President Harry S. Truman stepped onto the White House porch and proclaimed to the world:

"This is the great day. This is the day we have been looking for."

The war with Japan was over and with it the Second World War.

—Over after almost six years of conflict and misery, culminating in the mushroom clouds over Hiroshima and Nagasaki which ushered in the atomic age and left an indelible imprint on world affairs.

—Over after more than 15,000,000 war dead, countless other casualties and devastation which took a decade and more to repair.

Although spared the physical devastation, Canada made its human contribution to the carnage. Almost 42,000 Canadians were killed in battle against Nazi Germany, Italy and Japan.

Said Prime Minister Mackenzie King that night 20 years ago:

"This peace we have purchased at a great price, a very great price. Now our people must do their utmost to be worthy of it."

Canadians heard the news of Japan's unconditional surrender not from Truman, but from British Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

"The last of our enemies is laid low," he said in a broadcast carried throughout this country. "Let all who can relax enjoy themselves."

And Canadians did — all through that night and the next day, formally proclaimed V-J Day for victory over Japan. Mr. King made Aug. 15 a national holiday; in fact, "a holiday with pay," said the frugal prime minister.

Firemen Out Tagging for Association

TRENTON — Trenton firemen were out Friday and this morning, tagging for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

In other years, the local firemen have assisted the association by placing cannisters in local stores and collecting the money put in them. The firemen have also supplied wheel chairs and special beds for the victims of the disease in this area.

This is the first year an M.D. tag day has been held in Trenton and by report the results were good.

Many Citizens Now Visiting Overseas

TRENTON — Overseas travel, which used to be regarded as something of a seven days' wonder, has become almost commonplace; at least in the Trenton area one hears of local citizens just leaving for or just returning from parts abroad.

Mr. P. P. Miedema and Mrs. Miedema of Manor Crescent, Trenton, have been in Europe for the past few weeks going over the ground where they hope to lead a student pilgrimage next summer. The countries involved will be The Netherlands, France and Germany. Students would study history as well as take in historical sightseeing. Cost per person for the trip and six weeks abroad would be around $500.

A Trenton high school student, 18-year-old Alan Russell, started on July 2 to go halfway around the world, and his travels, which will end when he returns to Trenton the first of September, have taken him to points in the United States and Australia and he will visit a number of other countries, among them, England, where he will see his maternal grandmother.

Graham Dowden, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dowden, has left Trenton for a tour of European countries ending in Bristol, England, where he will attend Bristol University this year.

SEE STARS NOT LIGHTS

Drivers in Mexico City account for the destruction of about three traffic light poles every day.

Front St. Plan Falls Through

TRENTON — According to Donald McPherson, an attempt to implement the Norwich Plan of store improvement on one block of Front Street has fallen through owing to lack of interest on the part of the store owners.

Last year, the Trenton Chamber of Commerce launched the program with a speaker who had seen the plan flourish in London, Ontario. Merchants were asked to co-operate on a color scheme, and remove overhanging signs in front of their establishments.

Mr. McPherson and other chamber members were appointed to implement the plan, but according to Mr. McPherson only managed to interest one merchant in the scheme.

An architect, Anthony Lassing, drew designs for the block earmarked for approval and suggested color schemes.

Simmons Rexall Drug Store on the corner of Front Street, received a face-lifting and it was hoped others in the block between Dundas St. West and Elgin Street would follow suit. Evans' Red and White Groceteria on the corner of Front and Elgin were also improved.

Merchants would be expected to invest around $200 in paint and labor for the fronts of their buildings.

paid to three international unions representing engineers, firemen, trainmen and conductors.

"Railway employees can voluntarily decide whether they want a Canadian union, or whether they want to join the international brotherhoods," he said.

W. G. Flood, assistant general-secretary of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen (CLC) described the association as "a rump organization that is working on its own." He said the members "desire union benefits without wanting to pay for them."

The campaign is directed at both the CPR and Canadian National Railways.

Mr. Hill warned it could spread to other parts of Canada. He said the association has received confirmation that crews will soon book sick in the Ontario communities of North Bay, Belleville, MacTier, Fort William; and in Montreal and several British Columbia points.

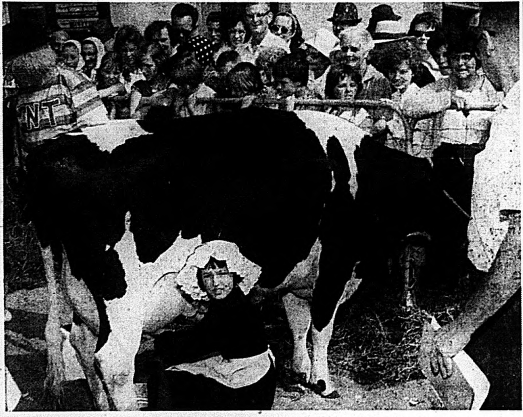
Alderman J. J. Raycroft, 296 Bridge Street East, had about 40 young guests yesterday as the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club's junior squadron piled into his swimming pool. Mr. Raycroft chartered a bus for his guests and took them out for ice cream and hamburgers after their swim. Elizabeth Corke, Mr. Raycroft's lifeguard for three years, assisted him with his crew.



Young and old alike participated in the milking contest in Picton on Thursday. Shown is ten-year-old Anne Gallant of Picton, who was one of 15 women entrants. Mrs. Donley Watkins of Picton won the first prize and the title Loyalist Dairy Princess.

New Milking Technique Exhibited by Contestants

PICTON (Staff) — A lot of loud belly-laughs were heard on Picton's Main street Thursday afternoon when farmers got a real bang out of watching some of the county's celebrities try to milk a cow. A milking contest was the highlight of the day, starting at 3.00 p.m. Crowds gathered at Master Feeds store where four very patient cows stood quietly, awaiting their fate.

Warden of Prince Edward County, Barney Hepburn, was one of the first to throw caution to the wind and approached his adversary from the cow's right flank, being careful not to rattle his milk pail too loudly. Seated on the small wooden milking stool in tails and bowler hat he drew many good-natured laughs from his large audience.

Constable George Wright, dressed in the traditional costume of a "London Bobby", complete with night stick, approached his cow with a great deal more confidence. Perhaps it was the white gloves the constable was wearing, but local farmers were heard to remark they had never seen such milking technique nor such a contented cow.

The contest was, however, for women, how two men became involved is still a mystery. Some 15 women, young and old alike entered the contest and the first prize, a lovely table lamp, was won by Mrs. Donley Watkins, Ontario St., Picton. An identical lamp was also presented as second prize and this went to Mrs. Bud Gorsline, also of Picton. Contestants were judged on costume and technique. Mrs. Watkins as well as winning first prize, taking the title Loyalist Dairy Princess. Mrs. Watkins is 55.

Winding up the day's activities a bingo was held on the market square in the evening, sponsored by Picton branch of the Royal Canadian Legion.

CHILD KILLED

BROOKLIN, Ont. (CP)—Roza Zimmer, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Zimmer of nearby Whitby, was killed Friday night when the car she was in crashed through a fence and fell 12 feet into a bridge excavation eight miles north of Oshawa.

wall collapsed on them. They were fighting a fire in a looted market.

A huge portion of the Negro area was virtually a city, afire.

SNIPER KILLED

Col. Irving Taylor, the guard commander, said one trooper shot and killed the sniper. He was firing from a building across the street on a police substation in Watts, the core of the riot eruption. The other sniper was seriously wounded.

Taylor said both were Negroes.

Fifty - two police officers, eight firemen, and two guardsmen were injured as the military reinforcements joined in the battle to quell the looting and burning.

More than 300 civilians were hurt.

Isolated instances of looting, burning or fighting spread to downtown Los Angeles, West Los Angeles, Pasadena, the Wilshire district and elsewhere.

MOB LOOTS, BURNS

Around 2 a.m. a task force of guardsmen and shotgun-toting police began a massive drive to halt a looting, burning mob heading toward the downtown area.

A heavy guard was thrown around the civic centre police headquarters after rioters tossing gasoline bombs started a fire only 13 blocks away.

Gangs that had prowled on foot switched to cars and drove to new districts to cause trouble, police said.

The fire department estimated that flames alone caused $10,000,000 damage. Looting loss was in the many millions but inestimable.

At least 1,000 firemen were on the job. The sky glowed orange from countless blazes. Yet there were dark patches where power had failed.

Burning cars were no novelty but one reporter saw two collide headon—both burning.

Police arrested looters with cars piled high and stacked the stuff on sidewalks. Some piles were five and six feet high. As officers worked, snipers fired from rooftops and speeding autos. Police returned the fire.

SHOOT FIREMEN

Two firemen were shot as they battled one of the more than 100 major fires set by mobs of looters.

A hit-run car hurtled out of darkness into a national guard skirmish line, injuring one. Officers fired on the car and two suspects were arrested. One was wounded.

More than 2,000 guardsmen moved in on hot spots of violence, and 3,000 more were in reserve in neighboring counties.

Within hours guard officials said "the operation is going very well."

The troops were mobilized Friday after nearly 1,000 peace officers, overwhelmingly outnumbered by Negroes running wild over several square miles, said they couldn't handle the situation.

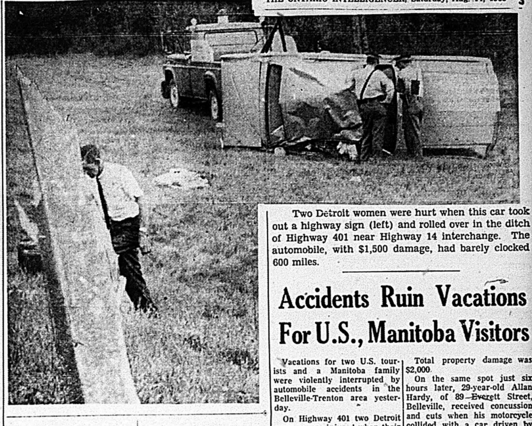
As guardsmen marched in, the city's south side was an incredible nightmare of confusion.

The slain deputy, Ronald E. Ludlow, 27, was shot in the stomach as he and a partner tried to drive looters from a blazing store. He died in the emergency room of St. Francis Hospital in Lynwood.

The total of police and civilian injuries rose past the 200 mark. More than 300 rioters were arrested and police made plans to reopen a long-closed jail.

The national guard was called in after repeated requests by Mayor Samuel Yorty and Police Chief William H. Parker, who said their force of nearly 1,000 men could no longer cope with the violence.

By mid-afternoon Friday rioters began overrunning barricades. Fires and looting spread from a few blocks to several square miles.



Two Detroit women were hurt when this car took out a highway sign (left) and rolled over in the ditch of Highway 401 near Highway 14 interchange. The automobile, with $1,500 damage, had barely clocked 600 miles.

Accidents Ruin Vacations For U.S., Manitoba Visitors

Vacations for two U.S. tourists and a Manitoba family were violently interrupted by automobile accidents in the Belleville-Trenton area yesterday.

On Highway 401 two Detroit women were injured when their car went out of control, took out a signpost and rolled over.

In Belleville General Hospital are Lenore Smith, 62, with head lacerations, and Edna Sandborne, 49, with back injuries.

Damage to the car, which had only clocked 600-odd miles, was $1,500.

On Highway 2 at the 6-RD road a woman and her 18-month-old son were injured in a two-car crash.

In Trenton Memorial Hospital are: Mrs. Lena Gardner, 24, Brandon, Man., with chest injuries, and Harold Gardner, with face cuts.

They were hurt when a car driven by Kenneth Roy Gardner, 23, collided with an automobile driven by Airman Gilles Larivee, 26.

Total property damage was $2,000.

On the same spot just six hours later, 29-year-old Allan Hardy, of 89 Everett Street, Belleville, received concussion and cuts when his motorcycle collided with a car driven by Malcolm Otes, R.R. 1, Trenton.

In Belleville, William Clifford Ouderkirk, 220 Pine St., was released from hospital after emergency treatment when his car crashed into a tree at 338 Dufferin Ave., early today.

Cobalt Investigation

As in the case of the huge theft of stocks and bonds from the Brockville Trust Company in 1958, the investigation of Deloro Cobalt theft, now in an advanced stage, has had repercussions overseas.

For years after the Brockville theft missing stocks and bonds were traced to the United States, South America, Switzerland and other countries. The cobalt taken from the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company at Deloro has been traced to the U.S. and Europe. Some of it, according to a senior investigator, has been found in a metal-processing plant in Texas.

The cobalt theft, discovered last May, once again focuses attention on this region of Ontario in a manner which may not be altogether desirable. Publicity is one thing, notoriety another.

Boost for Economy

The war in Vietnam, whether we like it or not (and who does, least of all those who must fight it) is good for the economy of both the United States and Canada.

As the New York Times has noted: "Nobody likes the war in Vietnam. But in the view of some leading figures in the government, the increases imposed by the war on the nation's military effort could mean more good than harm for the nation's economy."

That Canada is benefiting indirectly is evident from the fact that during the first five months of 1965, our exports to all nations were 4.6 per cent higher than they were for the same period last year, while exports to the United States for the same period rose by 12 per cent.

In May alone our exports to the United States were up 18 per cent over May 1964.

Canada's overall export figure for August will almost certainly be higher still as a result of the $450,000,000 sale of wheat to the Soviet Union.

The sale will also help to reduce Canada's balance-of-payments deficit to an estimated $800,000,000 or less by the end of the year.

Those Overseas "Junkets"

There is an old Canadian joke which has to lo with some one in London, England, writing o a relative in Vancouver and suggesting he hould attend a family wedding, burial or whatever, in Halifax and the fellow in Vancouver eplies saying: "You go, you're closer."

Well, the same situation has arisen in connection with trips to the United States and Europe by government committees.

Queen's Park correspondent Don O'Hearn xplains the situation in the Windsor Star thus: "Two select committees would like to travel to Europe, particularly to Scandinavia. The com-nittee on aging and the committee on youth oth feel it would be valuable for them to see vhat is being done across the water in their ields.

"The drawback is a political one. The hought of the public reaction to committees nade up of members going on 'junkets' to Europe nakes politically-minded members of the govern-nent shudder. So they have ordered that the ommittees must stay on this side of the ocean."

After noting that committees have been ravelling all over North America for years, and hat practically all of them have managed to sit California (including the said committee n youth) O'Hearn says: "The fallacy of the hole matter is that it costs less to visit Sweden om Toronto than it does California. The cretary of one of the committees got prices n air travel and hotel rates for Sweden and alifornia and it was cheaper to go to Sweden.

"However, you couldn't convince the man n the street of that," says O'Hearn. "So if e committees are to know what is being done out youth and the aging they will have to ad about it."

Boredom is an immensely important factor national and international affairs. People t the yawns, they want something exciting to ppen, and if it doesn't come of its own accord, ey will create it. . . . Human beings are in-rrigibly human. They are capable of anything pable of running amok in 187 different di-ctions, and maybe, after two decades of relative ace and politeness, we are coming into (or ther, back into such a period. Please ten your seat belts.—Richard J. Needham in e Globe and Mail.

Nerves Can Cause Illness But Not Any Germ Disease

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: In our family there has been a lot of discussion on whether a person can become sick due to a poor nervous condition. Some of the relatives think that if a person is sick, and the doctor says it is just nerves, that the person is imagining his sickness. We would appreciate your opinion. — R. M.

Either side is wrong if it insists that it is absolutely right.

Certain nervous tension can cause headaches, and they are real headaches, not imagined. Nervous tension can make one sick at his stomach. The vomiting is real, not imaginary. Both of these are forms of being ill.

There have been cases of "hysterical blindness," meaning that the eyes were all right physically, but the nervous condition reached the extreme degree known as hysteria. These victims could not see, but the cause was wholly emotional.

There is no doubt in my mind that some seriously ill patients have died because they just gave up and lost interest. Some more seriously ill ones, with a strong will to live, have hung on and finally recovered.

So yes, I must say that it is my considered belief, nerves — the emotions — can cause real illness, and not imaginary.

At the same time, there is no reason to believe that nerves can cause a disease which has to be the result of germs, any more than nerves can cause a broken leg. That requires force of some sort.

There is equally no doubt in my mind that some people imagine themselves to be ill when they are not. They imagine everything from cancer to pneumonia. In such cases, doctor can "cure the disease" if he can persuade the patient that he is not physically ill. It isn't always easy. Some such people live for years, many decades oftentimes, perpetually "sure" that they are about to die of something they don't have.

It is sometimes a close decision for a doctor to decide what course to pursue with a given patient. Perhaps some "imaginary invalids" are happier that way, in a distorted fashion. If they weren't using up their nervous energy being sorry for themselves, they might — might — be making life miserable for other people by some other foolishness.

Yet there are other patients for whom every resource should be used to cut down their worry quotient. For a couple of examples, there are patients with a predisposition to peptic ulcers, and others who tend to have high blood pressure, and for both of these, health is improved if some way can be found for them to release nervous tension rather than bottling it up.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is chocolate poisonous? Are these indigestible — beef roast browned by cooking in a 325-degree oven several hours, or hamburger cooked through on a moderately hot frying pan without additional fat? I have had disputes with some food faddist friends. — E. S.

Of course chocolate is not poisonous. And neither the beef roast nor the hamburgers will be indigestible under the conditions you cite. Let the food faddists do as they please; don't let them make you do as they please.

Dear Dr. Molner: Every four to six months liquid must be drawn from my scrotum. One doctor says I should have surgery. Another says I should continue to have the liquid drawn. What do you advise? I am 78. — M. G.

This is called hydrocele — liquid is trapped there and cannot escape. The only permanent relief is by surgery. (It is not a serious operation.)

I think this is a decision for you to make. Whether to have the operation, or to put up with the inconvenience of continuing the withdrawing procedure. If you were younger, I'd say have the operation. As it is, you'd best decide.

He was released three days later near Toronto and no ransom is known to have been paid. A Cincinnati bookmaker, David Meisner, was identified from photographs and voluntarily surrendered to Canadian police to stand trial. He was convicted and sentenced to 15 years in prison, Later three other men were convicted and sentenced. Their conviction exonerated Meisner, who was acquitted at a second trial after serving a year in prison. The Labatt case was the fourth kidnapping of an Ontario brewer within a few years.

Raps Poor Roads In Resort Areas

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

I would like to make some comments on the condition of the roads existing in the Land of Lakes Tourist Area. As we all know the tourist business is, and will continue to be, a great asset to our country.

The tourist operators are doing a fine job, in their efforts to make welcome all the visitors in their particular areas. The conveniences they have to offer in modern cottages, well equipped camp sites, are a credit to their labors. The scenery, itself, is almost indescribable. But to travel over some of the roads in the tourist area is an experience one can hardly forget.

In some places between Plevna and Ompah, the travelled portion is so rough one can hardly keep a car on the road. This is a new road, having a good width and could be an excellent highway, if given some care.

We have a business that takes us into the Land of Lakes Tourist Area three days a week. We travel over all the roads leading to and from the different lodges and country stores. I must say it is a real ordeal.

Last week one of our drivers had a breakdown with a truck, which I am sure was caused by the steady hammering over the rough roads. It could have been a serious accident but he was able to control the vehicle enough that he did not receive any bad injuries.

The tourist operators are too busy looking after their businesses to be continually after the roads committee to have decent routes into their areas. I think if more people would complain about this perhaps some action would be taken before next season rolls around.

Crystal Ball Sees Rocketing Of Federal Payroll Soon

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Unless the Government suddenly—and completely unexpectedly—gets tough, look in the weeks and months ahead for a terrific rocketing of the Federal payroll, already, and by far, the nation's biggest.

All the signs point up.

What the postal strikers wrung from the Government, Revenue Minister Benson has been frank to say—and, more important, Prime Minister Pearson has seemed to agree — now must be given to all the rest of the Civil Service.

And, very likely, the Armed Forces, too.

In proportion.

That is, the higher paid staffs —and to be honestly factual, few have been much lower paid than the postal workers, except perhaps messengers, stenographers and junior clerks — will get more than was given the mailmen.

What does the payroll run now?

Start with basic department pay — $983,414,057.

Add "special allowances" — $22,160,297.

Tack on travelling expenses — $79,245,945.

Throw in the Armed Forces and the RCMP — $599,730,360.

And you get an annual total — $1,675,550,659.

Or nearly one quarter of the total Federal Budget.

HIGHER AND HIGHER

So, alright, subtract the RCMP and the Armed Forces — essential services both — and you get $1,075,820,299, still a very hefty hunk of the Budget total.

The figures aren't educated guesstimates — they're accurate down to the last dollar, taken from the Finance Department's current Estimates.

(Strange sidelight has been that the Government, in the face of ever-soaring payroll costs, has been trying to cut back by pinching pennies with the Armed Forces in the supposed economy of integration — while, at the same time splurging with spending on Foreign Aid.)

And now, while agreeing with Revenue Minister Benson that there may be a round robin of pay increases across the whole Civil Service to keep all the Government staff at least matched with the postal wage jump, the Prime Minister has gone a long step further.

He has hinted there should be a willingness on the part of the public to pay some key Federal personnel up to $35,000 or $45,000 or even $50,000.

Top Civil Service pay now is drawn by Deputy Finance Minister Robert Bryce at $27,000 and Tom Kent, the Prime Minister's special policy adviser, at $25,000.

In the ranks of the Government's Crown Corporations, the big-money men are CNR President Donald Gordon at $75,000 Bank of Canada Governor Louis Rasminsky at $50,000 and CBC President Alphonse Ouimet at $40,000 doubled last year.

The idea of paying other Civil Servants that kind of money was suggested by the Prime Minister when discussing the salary —paid two ways — of his able, affable press secretary and executive assistant, Richard O'Hagan.

POLITICAL PAY

O'Hagan gets something like $15,000 or more — par for the Federal course for most Execs and the Government's public relations brass.

But only $10,000 of it is paid by the Government.

Odd, too, when the Prime Minister's number two press secretary James Regan (of "Never Fear, Regan's Here fame) — rates $12,000.

And why only $10,000 from the Government for O'Hagan?

Because, believe it or not, when Conservative Leader Diefenbaker was Prime Minister he paid his press secretary and exec, the multi-talented John "Mr. Canada" Fisher, only $10,000.

(But don't laugh that this Prime Minister should cut his staff pattern like that Prime Minister, for Dief, in his day, tailored his personnel cloth to the fashion previously set by former Prime Minister St. Laurent. Seems they all become confined to the straight-jacket of prime ministerial precedent.)

John Fisher, however, now $24,000 - a - year - Centennial Commissioner — and with his peculiar personnel and political problems likely earning every nickel of it — made quite a bit more than $10,000 when Execing for Dief, with "outside sources," as they were described, sweetening the salary kitty.

So, revealed Prime Minister Pearson, similarly, "outside sources" — and he was frank enough to identify them as within the party hierarchy — were helping to pay the freight for O'Hagan.

But was this kind of thing right — this outside political pay for Government employes?

The Prime Minister, when asked, himself wondered and then suggested that it would have to make do until such time as Canadian taxpayers were ready and willing to pay their top Civil Servants up to that $35,000 to $50,000.

Home Swap Aids Vacation

Lethbridge Herald

A contagiously popular method of getting a long summer vacation one could not normally afford is to exchange homes or apartments with some family in the desired area.

A Canadian professor arranged for an exchange with another professor in Paris who wished to come to Canada. Canadian and American clergymen worked out an exchange with British clergymen.

In academic and church professions this has long been popular, but now the idea is spreading to all occupations. The Vacation Exchange Club, Inc., in New York, provides a listing of homes available both in the U.S. and abroad. Holiday Home Exchange Bureau, Inc., in Grants, NM, will for a fee arrange a suitable exchange.

Such exchanges make it possible to pursue studies during the summer or to get acquainted with other communities. Thus an exchange between families in Alberta and Quebec would be most profitable to both. Areas which have summer schools of course would have a special attraction. Arts and crafts study centres are becoming even more popular than formal university summer schools, where courses can be taken for degrees.

For people who do not like to leave their home unoccupied for a long time, an exchange of homes is doubly desirable. It is a great money-saver and there is no reason why strangers would abuse the home, if proper precautions are taken to assure appropriate parties to the exchange.

Women Rule Roost in U.S.

Peterborough Examiner

An American newspaper columnist, Don Oakley has noted with some awe the power wielded by women in the United States. They own 53.6 per cent of all common stock, he says. They hold one-third of the paid jobs, own more than 50 per cent of all real estate, are beneficiaries of more than half the life insurance policies as well as owning billions of dollars worth of their own, and they are responsible for 80 to 90 per cent of consumer spending.

However, he is at pains to point out that women are not only formidable because of their economic strength but because of the spiritual forces they represent. He quotes approvingly a female bank president, who says that women are 'a force for good which is shaping mankind in each generation into better generations.'

We have no wish to throw doubt on the spiritual qualities of women — it is anyway a hazardous undertaking. But we have difficulty in accepting this blinding and optimistic generalization. If women act as a sort of catalyst to virtue, who was responsible for the mess that people have got themselves into in the past and still find themselves in now — the men? It is often said that American men are dominated by their womenfolk. This too is no doubt a misleading generalization. But someone seems to have a firm grip on Mr. Oakley.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

Old Man Stork, the bringer of bundles of happiness, chalked up an all-time record at the Belleville General Hospital in the merry month of June, depositing 108 choice young cherubs in the laps of proud mammas and papas, hospital officials announced.

The long-billed bird eclipsed his former record by three lusty youngsters, the last high mark occurring in July, 1944, when he brought 105 crowing cuties into the world.

He only doubled once; of the 108 babies there was only one set of twins. However, he favored the male of the species, with 60 of the new arrivals being boys.

The smallest baby of the June quota weighed 4 pounds 3 ounces, while a bouncing baby boy probably gave the old bird a kink in the neck with his weight of 11 pounds 3 ounces.

Business conditions definitely are on the upward trend in this city according to information revealed by Mr. Ed. Ketcheson, city tax collector. The first check-up of the total amount of collections on the first instalment of taxes which fell due on August 6, shows that this year there is a ten per cent increase or a total of $24,195.18 over the same period last year.

Mrs. Andrew Williamson, Mrs. R. B. Chadwick and Miss Aileen McKeown are spending some time in Muskoka.

Miss Barbara Holton of Hamilton, formerly of this city, is the guest of Miss Lenore Stafford, Ann Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stafford and Dr. and Mrs. George Stobie are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Walker at their summer home at Weslemkoon Lake.

Mrs. Charles A. Mott and children are visiting her mother in Prescott.

40 YEARS AGO

Miss Grace Waters is home from Utica, N.Y., to spend her vacation.

Mr. Sanford R. Burrows of this city will attend the convention of the members of the Quarter Million Dollar club in connection with the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada which will be held shortly at Jasper Park, B.C. He will visit Vancouver before returning home.

Mrs. George Bonisteel, Highland Avenue, is attending the Gladioli Show in Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. Jack Fisher is spending today in Tweed on business.

Mr. V. P. Hunt has returned home after spending a few days in Toronto.

Miss Mildred Post, Coleman Street, is spending her vacation in Toronto.

The Rev. Canon Beamish, M.A., rector of St. Thomas' Church, will conduct a drum band service at the armouries Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The 8th C.M.R will attend.

Complaints have been received lately by the authorities with regards to the speeding of automobiles and the using of blinding head lights. The former is contrary to by-law and as for the latter there is no need of them and they are a serious nuisance. Something should be done about it.

Mr. L. B. Cooper of this city was elected Grand Master of the I.O.O.F. at the meeting of the Grand Lodge yesterday in Stratford.

Lieut.-Col. S.S. Lazier was elected one of the five Sir Knights of the Grand Lodge of the Sovereign Grand Priory of Canada at Montreal yesterday.

Working Mothers

Christian Science Monitor

A mother's place is in the home, caring for her children, especially if they are young. This is an almost universally held sentiment, at least in the non-Communist world.

It is, therefore, a shock to hear that there are 12,000,000 children in America under the age of 14 whose mothers work. One million are left without anyone to care for them, not even an older brother or sister. Countless of these apparently suffer serious neglect.

Work of Hank Viscardi Inspiration to Handicapped

DEAR DORIS: Would you please send me some data on Hank Viscardi of rehabilitation fame. Quite a while ago I cut out a prayer that he had sent to you and as I would like to use it in a devotional, I would like to be able to tell a little of the man who wrote it.

It was called "Our Prayer at Abilities Incorporated". I am enclosing a stamped, addressed envelope — LAY LEADER.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR LEADER: Hank Viscardi is an American man who was born with two stumps just a few inches long for legs. In his early days he got about on these stumps, for which a sort of shoe was designed. He was a newsboy in New York until he was well into his twenties.

At about age 27 a doctor designed for him two artificial legs, and for the first time Hank stood as tall as his contemporaries.

Hank's vision and enterprise were responsible for the creation of an industry on Long Island which is called "Abilities Incorporated". This is now an industrial concern which gives employment to several hundred handicapped people, but it started off with a mere handful.

Hank solicited contract work to be done on a piece-work basis from various industries around New York. Such activities as assembling the wires for radio dials, sorting out nails into packages, and various jobs requiring the handling, sorting or assembling of small machine parts, were taken on.

This industrial organization has been operating in the black for a long time, most profits being devoted to the extension of the industry. No one is hired who is not physically handicapped. People lacking one or two legs, one or both arms, or their sight, or their hearing, are numbered among the staff. It is an inspiration to visit the place, which is full of good cheer and optimism.

Hank loves to ask the question, "Who are the handicapped?"—The answer being that the only person who is truly handicapped is the man who lacks the heart to try.

Hank's work has been an inspiration in many locations where similar types of industry, organized to employ handicapped workers, have started. Hank Viscardi (proper name is Henry Viscardi, Jr.) has now written several books related to the theme of overcoming handicaps. Some of the titles are "A Man's Stature", "Give Us the Tools",, "A Laughter in the Lonely Night", and "A Letter to Jimmy". The publisher is Paul S. Eriksson, Inc., 119 West 57th St., New York 19, N.Y.

If you were to write to Paul Eriksson, I'm sure he would send you some interesting facts about Hank, probably far more complete than these I have here dictated entirely from memory.

DEAR DORIS: Last month I wrote to you for advice regarding my mother and myself. I would like to thank you for your advice in this matter.

Sometimes in wanting to do the right thing, we get confused and it is good to know I could receive proper advice.

God bless you.—MRS. W.

DEAR MRS. W.: You're welcome. The thing is that we are often far too close to our personal dilemmas to think straight.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: My niece has recently had a baby girl and is not married. She has given it for adoption. Can we adopt the baby or have permanent custody?

My niece's mother wanted to have the baby too but she said "no'.' Is there anything we can do? — ANXIOUS AUNT.

DEAR AUNT: Through long, hard experience, adoption workers have learned the folly of placing a child where the natural mother can watch it grow up. If, some day, she were to yield to the temptation to tell her child she was her mother, this could upset the apple cart.

A complete separation is best. But there are other babies needing homes. Why not talk to your child care agency about this?

Zagreb Is Picturesque City With Long, Varied History

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia — Zagreb sounds as if it should be a stop of the Orient Express, and it is. The marble and red plush lobby of the Esplanade Hotel would look bare without the trench-coated international types who pass through it as in an Alfred Hitchcock film, speaking in unfamiliar Slavic and Teutonic tongues.

"Balkan city of mystery and intrigue," it would say in the Hitchcock blurb, and there is much of that air about it. There is also much more, for in its long and stormy history Zagreb has seen and been a great deal . . . Illyrian settlement, Balkan centre of free trade in the Hungarian Empire, bastion against Turkish incursions, and modern centre of Yugoslav culture. A city of half a million, it has 28 museums, five theatres, and an opera house that has graduated no fewer than six current La Scala performers.

If you can ignore the gross modern socialist apartments, and exposition halls of the modern section, Zagreb is one of the most appealing cities in Yugoslavia.

The slanting streets of the old section remain intact. In its heart is the only fortified cathedral in Europe. Still standing in front are the rotund bastions which stood off the Turks for four years in the 15th century, and linking them around the cathedral are the arcades of Middle Ages shop stalls. The cathedral is noted for its great wall inscribed in the ancient Gagolica language of Croatia, as well as frescoes, both dating from the 13th century.

Nearby is the market place, teeming with farmers in boots and leather caps from Serbia, Dalmatia and Adria. Stalls are piled high with fresh vegetables and soft curd cheeses. Other stalls gleam with varnished and intricately carved nutcrackers and vases fashioned from single pieces of walnut, and delicately hand-embroidered cloths. Fish from the Adriatic and trout from the 16 Plitvice lakes, are brought here daily.

There is much behind and under the red tile roofs and peeling pastel fronts of Zagreb's stone housing. Government offices are in one-time patrician homes with Renaissance and baroque chambers like the palaces of Venice. Under the arcades on one street are catacombs — now museums of sculpture. Where witches were executed in Medieval times.

Gas lanterns still illuminate the ramparts of Zagreb's winding 13th century wall, built by the city for Hungary's Emperor Bela IV in return for its free status. Beneath, in cellar cafes, with Gothic-arched ceilings, a glass of fiery slivovitz is 10 cents, a flask of wine $1 and a skewer of razajici — the "lovers' dish" because it is so cheap — 50 cents.

ROMANTIC SCULPTOR

And on a scenic, park-like rampart reached by funicular, also part of the old wall, is Zagreb's lover's lane. For 20 years the old quarter was the home and studio of Ivan Mestrovic, pupil of Rodin and probably the 20th century's greatest sculptor. A great bear of a man, whose appearance belied his sensitive, fluid and graceful works, he died a few years ago in the United States, and his home is here — a museum now. The tragic and romantic story of his loves still echoes in the house.

Mestrovic was married for many years to a lovely and rich girl who helped him in his career. His only disappointment was that she bore him no children. Once, when he wanted a particularly shapely model, his wife provided a friend, with whom Mestrovic proceeded to fall in love.

He divorced his wife and married the model. But until her death, his first wife continued to watch him work from her quarters above his courtyard studio, mourning her broken marriage.

Mestrovic eventually fathered four children, and his preoccupation with parenthood is seen in several moving mother-and-child sculptures, one of which stands on the lawn of Zagreb's Rockefeller-endowed medical research institute.

Mestrovic also helped restore the city's oldest church, St. Mark's, which dates from the 13th century. It has a number of original wood and stone statues around the archway, and its multi-colored tile roof, emblazoned with the coats of arms of the city and of Croatia, is a landmark of the city.

Part of Zagreb's original city gate still stands and now houses a candle-lit Madonna shrine. Nearby is an anchor chain from one of Nelson's warships, a souvenir of and testimony to the Croatian navigators who figured prominently in the Battle of Trafalgar. From a Renaissance tower at the highest point of the old city, a cannon is fired daily at noon in continuing commemoration of the victory over the Turks.

Modern Zagreb also has its charm, with leafy green parks lining the Baroque museum and theatre buildings and extending into the rolling wooded hills of the near countryside.

CROATIA SCENIC

Croatia is the most scenic, most varied, and, today, the most popular of the Yugoslav states. It fans out west of Zagreb to encompass 2,400 miles of jagged, scenic Adriatic coastline dotted with little known islands.

The coast has become a haven from the crowding of the French and Italian Rivieras. Opatija in the north looks down from its sunny hillside to a harbor jammed with plush yachts. The casino has become very de rigueur with the Jet Set, and modern hotels are attracting ever growing numbers of European tourists. However, it is rare to see an American in this part of the world.

The gem of the Adriatic coast is Dubrovnik, in the south. A walled city that stopped changing in the 15th century, it was old even then. Fortress-like and forbidding, frozen in stone memories of Romanesque vaulting, Gothic galleries, and Baroque portals, it is a completely preserved medieval city, almost unique in Europe.

The country is a crossroad between East and West, and a more likely place than the rest of Western Europe to meet tourists from behind the Iron Curtain.

LIGHTING THE WAY

By Walter S. Crone

OVERCOMING ONE'S LONELINESS

We would not suggest that lonely people follow this man's lead, but it helped him, for a while at least. He had been a Salvation Army official, and at the time of retirement from active service, went to Florida and bought a home there.

It wasn't long before he erected a "For Sale" sign in front of his property.

Prospective buyers came to inspect the property, but the place was never sold. The real reason for this was that, the owner didn't really want to sell — he was just lonesome and decided that prospective buyers would do in a pinch for conversation and company.

Loneliness is an awful condition. Multitudes of people are suffering in this way. Some of the most lonely and forlorn people live in the centre of large cities, surrounded by millions of others.

When our Creator made us, He gave us a built-in capacity for sharing life with Himself. If we walk with God day by day we experience a mutual sharing of life together, which greatly alleviates the pangs of loneliness.

TEXT FOR THE DAY: "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee." (Hebrews 13:5)

Playground Activities

SOUTH GEORGE

On Thursday night, South George playground held a penny carnival. In the afternoon the children set up and decorated the booths. The booths included such things as penny toss, clothes peg drop corks in tub, bean bag throw, fortune teller and refreshments. At 6.30 the festivities began and then at 7.30 there was a baby contest. The winners of this contest were Davey Archer and Susan Senick. The judges of this event were Carolyn Harwood, Keith Cole, Ross Scrimshaw and Marianne Ironside. Following this there were two lucky cake draws and a grand prize draw. The winners of the cakes were Mrs. Seniuk and Mr. Kellar. The grand prize winner was Mr. Rushlow. When the booths were being taken down there was a scramble for the prizes that were left. The money earned at this penny carnival is for the final event of the season.

Italians Now Eating Less Meat

ROME (Reuters)—In spite of their rising standard of living, Italians are eating less meat and more of the traditional pasta.

Steaks, cutlets, liver and veal are going up in price and down in sales, to the despair of Italy's butchers.

At a recent meeting here to demand improvements in the distribution methods, the butchers wanted to cut down on the middlemen between the farm and the table.

They also asked for a reduction in taxes on meat and a limit on the number of licences granted to butchers.

In 1963, the year of "the boom," each Italian ate an average of 38¼ pounds of meat. The first five months of 1965 show this year's consumption will be only about 32 pounds, five ounces a head.

About half of this will be imported meat.

Meanwhile, there has been a steady increase in the production of pasta, which includes macaroni and spaghetti.

Among the factors accounting for a fall in the national production of meat is competition in the last two years from frozen imports, mainly from Argentina.

The prices are lower and the meat is sold in special frozen meat butcher shops.

Summer Time Dessert Time

When the hot weather comes, appetites slacken. Soft drinks and ice cream shoot to the top of the popularity poll while proteins and vitamins are likely to be neglected. This is doubly unfortunate because almost everybody leads an active outdoor life during the summer, and the need for a properly balanced and interestingly varied diet is as important as ever.

Make sure your family eats sensibly during the sunny summer months. Remember that too much of a good thing is too much and however delirious your children are about ice cream and jello, they will quickly get bored if it is their staple dessert diet.

Summer is fresh fruit time so take advantage of the fruits currently in season to make desserts with an appetizing difference. We have used lovely golden peaches in this recipe for Rich Peach Kuchen. A golden sponge mixture, covered with sliced fresh peaches and topped with a spicy crumble, Rich Peach Kuchen is a delicious summer treat.

RICH PEACH KUCHEN:
(Yields 12 servings):

1 cup granulated sugar, ½ cup soft shortening, 2 eggs, ¾ cup milk, 2½ cups once-sifted all-purpose flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 3 cups sliced fresh peaches, ½ cup margarine or butter, 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs, 2/3 cup granulated sugar.

Preheat oven to 350 deg. F. (moderate). Cream sugar with shortening; beat in eggs. Add milk and mix until well blended. Sift flour with baking powder, salt and nutmeg. Stir dry ingredients into liquids. Spread batter in greased 10½ x 15-inch jelly roll pan. Arrange sliced fresh peaches on top. Combine remaining ingredients and sprinkle over peaches. Bake about 35 to 40 minutes, or until kuchen is done and fruit is tender.

Serve warm with ice cream or pouring cream.

Barnum Proved How Much Public Likes Being Deceived

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Once upon a time we used to think that people loved the truth and would go to the ends of their energies to discover it. But truth, as some have said, is not only stranger than fiction — it is more difficult to face, to embrace, or to endure.

The fabled P. T. Barnum, that self-styled "Prince of Humbug," made a great discovery. Contrary to popular belief, his life-story does not reveal the difficulties of deceiving the public, but rather, how much the public enjoys being deceived. And most especially if they could see how it was being done!

When "Jumbo," the African elephant, was killed in a train accident, Barnum let out a story describing how Jumbo died, sacrificing himself to save a baby elephant. Then, he imported "Alice," whom he promptly billed as "Jumbo's widow," posing her next to the stuffed body of her "deceased husband." In his autobiography, Barnum, recounted such exploits with simple and disarming candor, and spared his readers none of the minute details of his many sensational hoaxes. His major justification provides a lesson in what people are made of: such "clap-trap," he assures us, was possible because it was "mixed with the great realities which I provide."

Apparently, half-truths pass for more than they are worth, and succeed in looking genuine and whole because they satisfy a deeply-felt human need: fantasy gilding reality. Human nature, it often seems, requires and thrives on moods of extravagant expectation. Many people are thus not deceived by the deceivers; they rather take pleasure in being deceived. Reality is enjoyed more when it is less — much less than real.

Thus we smile away the enormous claims of many advertisers. We know that they are not really true, but we enjoy what we know is not truly real. Or, we mouth momentous ideals to our children but feel no disappointment when they fall far short, because we really didn't believe ideally, to begin with. Again, we allow politicians to lead us on wild and woolly chases down lanes that end nowhere, because we actually seem to enjoy watching adroit deceptions. The game is played by all who care to join: a little fiction goes farther than a lot of truth.

It need hardly be added that education does not always educate, nor does history teach. We keep repeating old errors because we seem to enjoy them better than new truths.

We are cultured only when we permit ourselves to become teachable.

We are cultivated only when we turn decisively away from the easy enjoyments of deceptive illusions.

We are civilized only when we power our lives sufficiently so that we can withstand the shocks of truth.

We become mentally strong when we allow ourselves to become emotionally tough.

STORIES OF FAMOUS HYMNS

by HORACE B. POWELL

Break Thou the Bread of Life

Break Thou the bread of life,
Dear Lord, to me,
As Thou didst break the loaves
Beside the sea;
Beyond the sacred page
I seek Thee, Lord:
My spirit pants for Thee,
O living Word!

Bless Thou the truth, dear Lord,
To me, to me,
As Thou didst bless the bread
By Galilee:
Then shall all bondage cease,
All fetters fall:
And I shall find my peace,
My All-in-All.

A Bible study group attending a summer religious conference at Lake Chautauqua, New York in 1880, wanted an appropriate hymn for its worship programs.

Miss Mary Artemisia Lathbury, a member of the group, was asked to write the desired song. She responded with the hymn "Break Thou The Bread of Life", little dreaming that the verses she was writing for her Chautauqua friends were destined to go singing around the world and become one of the church's favorite devotional hymns.

Miss Lathbury was born in Manchester, New York in 1841. Her father was a Methodist minister and from him, no doubt, she inherited the consecrated spirit which inspired her beautiful devotional hymns, her sacred prose, and her religious art for children.

Two of her brothers followed their father into the ministry and, after a brief career as an art instructor, Mary also decided to devote her life to religious work. She began as editor of a Sunday School magazine for children. For years her poems, stories and pictures appeared in leading juvenile periodicals of America.

As time went on, she became more and more interested in hymn-writing and today it is her songs that keep her name before the world. "Break Thou The Bread Of Life" is sung today at communion services of all Christian denominations. Another of her songs, "Day Is Dying In The West", also written at Lake Chautauqua, has become a favorite evening hymn.

A Lift for Living

Jesus Was Trouble-maker, Hurting in Order to Help

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

What a trouble-maker Jesus was! He greatly displeased members of His own family, and some of them judged Him insane. He perplexed and bewildered His closest friends, and they deserted Him. He troubled leaders of His land, some of whom suspected He sought political power. He vexed the honored scribes and Pharisees of His own faith, and they regarded Him as a heretic.

Christ has always been a costly person to know. When men have met Him and have taken Him seriously, they have had to give up some things they held dear. Matthew and Zacchaeus, when confronted by Christ, disowned their unfair business practices. Peter, a Jew, had to relinquish religious bigotries and admit Gentiles into his conception of the Kingdom of Heaven. Millions have thrown away precious prejudices of religion, race and class after becoming acquainted with Jesus. Some things dear to us are simply not safe when Christ the trouble-maker is near and real to us.

Christ often hurts us in order to help us. He is like a thunder bolt that enriches the soil when it strikes the earth. The idea that lightning fertilizes the soil was once commonly regarded to be an "old wives' tale." But recently soil scientists have discovered there is a lump of pure truth in the old superstition. Soil analysts now say that discharges of lightning create about one hundred million tons of fixed nitrogen compounds annually.

This nitrogen is deposited on the soil and on plants with the rain. There it acts as a fertilizing agent. Such lightning blasts and blesses. It hurts while it helps.

So Christ hits us hard with His message and with the impact of His person. When we take Him seriously, Jesus jolts us. He shakes us out of our complacency and makes us dissatisfied with what we are, which is always the first step toward vital spiritual change.

The Gospel of Luke informs us that Simon Peter, after he became a member of Jesus' little band of disciples and had entertained the Master in his home, one time fell down at Jesus' knees, saying, "Depart from me: for I am a sinful man." This is a familiar response to Christ. We admire and love Him. Who could help but esteem Him highly once one becomes acquainted with Him?

CHRIST IS DISTURBING

Yet we cannot help being disturbed by Him. He is a trouble-maker, for when we are in His presence our lives look so shabby in contrast to His spirit. Where He was courageous in speaking the truth, we are so cautious. Where he seemed careless about His own welfare and careful about others, we are careful about ourselves and careless about others. He saved others, and we spare ourselves. He forgave those who hurt Him most —even those who crucified Him — while we forgive only those who hurt us least. He had no place to rest His head, and did not fret over His poverty, while we feel underprivileged if we do not own deluxe models of the latest gadgets on the market. His only fear was the holy awe He held for God, while we fear God less than we fear an unfavorable public opinion. No wonder when we are confronted by Christ, we are troubled.

Is it not easy and pleasant to compare ourselves with our equals? Such comparisons comfort the ego and soothe a troubled conscience. We believe ourselves to be rather decent folks when compared with our neighbors and friends. We are no worse than they, and we trust this excuses us for some of our failings. If we sin, it is in ways our friends sin, too. "I am as good as he is," so we say. Some people are attractive to us because in comparison with them, we make a fairly good appearance. (So the fat man is pleased to see a fatter man; a bald man delights in finding someone balder; and the gossiper is relieved to discover someone who gossips more often and more viciously.)

But when we compare ourselves with Jesus Christ, we can make no conscience - salving claims, "He does it, too;" or "At any rate, I am as good as He is."

An art student visited a gallery of world-famous paintings and was shown from one great work of beauty to another. Before each painting he paused immersed in wonder. Finally, as he was about to leave the gallery, his guide asked him, "What are you going to do now?" The art student answered, "I'm going to learn to paint all over again."

In Jesus Christ we behold unequalled beauty of life and conduct. And we are troubled by the contrasts between the quality of His life and our own. Smug contentment with ourselves vanishes. What do we do then?

We resolve to learn to live all over again, by His example, and in His spirit.

WEDDING

HAGERMAN — McFARLIN

MARMORA — A lovely summer wedding took place on Saturday, August 7th, in St Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora, when Doris Eileen McFarlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McFarlin, Marmora, became the bride of Robert Charles Hagerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Hagerman of Eldorado.

Rev. R. Lane performed the ceremony before a background of gladioli and snapdragons on the altar. She was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Roy Frost played the traditional wedding music and during the signing of the register rendered an organ solo.

The bride chose for her wedding a floor length gown of white lace over taffeta, the bodice was enhanced with patterns of pearls and sequins. Her tiered nylon veil was held by a crown of pearls and sequins and she carried a cascade of red roses and gardenias.

Her attendants were Miss Myrna Hagerman as maid of honor, Miss Charlotte Barnes, Toronto, as senior bridesmaid, and Miss Susan McFarlane as junior bridesmaid. They wore identical dresses of street length nylon over taffeta in pink and headdresses of pink taffeta leaves with shoulder veils. They carried nosegays of pink and white tinted Shasta daisies.

Mr. Leigh Brintnell of Madoc was best man and the ushers were Norman McFarlin, brother of the bride, and Douglas Lee.

A reception was held in St. Paul's Parish Hall where Mrs McFarlin received the guests. She wore a pale blue linen sheath with matching hat and white accessories with a corsage of pink tinted carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore peacock blue Alencon lace over taffeta and a corsage of yellow tinted carnations.

For their wedding trip to the New England States the bride wore a two-piece linen suit in lilac with white accessories and corsage of red roses.

The couple will reside in Brooklin, Ontario.

Showers were given by Mrs. Harold Doyle, Mrs. Gordon Phillips and staff members of the Bell Telephone, Toronto.

Gold Rush To Be Subject Of Musical

LONDON (AP)—The 1898 gold rush, one of the most spectacular events of Canada's history, will be the subject of a new musical at the Commonwealth Arts Festival in London in September.

Called Klondyke, it is written by Jacques Languirand of Montreal with music by Gabriel Charpentier of Richmond, Que., and will be presented by Montreal's Theatre du Nouveau Monde.

Sir Laurence Olivier, a member of the arts festival council, arranged for Britain's national theatre at the famed Old Vic to be available Sept. 20 through Oct. 2 for the company to present 14 performances.

Languirand's story of the fortunes and misfortunes of two gold prospectors is his 10th work. His first play, Les Insolites, won the Sir Barry Jackson Trophy at the Montreal Dramatic Arts Festival in 1956. He row is resident playwright and associate director of the Montreal theatrical group.

Lyricist Charpentier studied with Nadia Boulanger in Paris. He has published five volumes of verse and has been artistic director and program organizer of Radio Canada since 1953.

The musical's director Jean Gascon of Montreal, who also is its star, is the group's artistic director, and a founder-director of the National Theatre School of Canada. He acts as a consultant in the construction of new theatres throughout Canada.

Uncaring Parents, Not Poor Teachers, Make Bad Readers

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a fifth grade English teacher who is steaming mad. I just came from a meeting where a mother of three children said. "Something must be done to improve the quality of our public school teachers. My husband and I discovered last night that our 10-year-old son cannot read. He has been bluffing his way through school. I place the blame squarely on the shoulders of lazy, incompetent teachers."

Would you like to know why this child and thousands more cannot read? Because the parents are so involved with club work or parties or just staring at TV they don't pay any attention to their children. They stock the kids' rooms with toys, gadgets and — yes, their own TV — anything to keep them out of their hair.

If these parents would look over their children's homework occasionally and ask them to read aloud an essay or a theme, or an interesting piece in the newspaper, they'd know whether or not the kids can read. Thanks for letting me have my say.—ANGRY.

DEAR ANGRY: I agree with you and I hope your letter stirs some parents to action. Tonight, as an experiment, if you have a child between the ages of 9 and 12 why don't you ask the youngster to read aloud an item of interest from this newspaper. You may be in for a shock, folks.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm sitting here about to drown in my own tears. For the third time in a week my husband stormed out of the house in a rage.

We never used to argue but now it seems we fight constantly. The cause of the trouble is his mother. She has been with us night and day for 20 years and I've bent over backwards to avoid an argument with her. I am not looking for any medals but it is not easy to have another woman on your neck 24 hours a day.

My mother-in-law has two daughters and a son but she has never visited them. They always come here. Am I wrong to want her to go visit one of her children for a week so we can be alone for the first time in 20 years? — BROKEN-HEARTED LOUISVILLE WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: Since your husband's brothers and sisters are so selfish that they won't give you some relief from that barnacle, your husband should see to it that the two of you take a vacation every year—alone.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We moved to this city 15 years ago and my husband has made a fine reputation for himself in the community.

About five years ago a man whose name is identical to my husband's (middle name and all) moved to this city. This man has been arrested for drunk driving, disturbing the peace and contributing to the delinquency of a minor. We become terribly upset whenever this man's name appears in the paper—which is often.

His address and age are always stated but we feel the paper should either run the man's picture or they should add, "not the Sam Smith who was chairman of the Red Cross drive in 1963". The publisher refuses to do this. We feel it is unfair. What is your opinion?—MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

DEAR MISTAKEN: Sorry, but a newspaper has no obligation to identify an individual by stating who he is NOT.

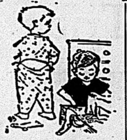
By this time, almost everyone in town must know there's an undesirable character around whose name is the same as your husband's, so stop worrying about nothing.

* * *

If excessive drinking is wrecking your health or destroying someone you love, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic", enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mother's Helper



"WE HAVE several small children near the same age," writes Mrs. Parker Hansel, Orange, N. J., "and their clothes — sorting, storing, laundering and dressing — made a constant mess around the house. So I put all their bureaus and chests in one room, plus a big laundry hamper. Their clothes are in one place. All dressing and undressing is done there, and all fetching and putting away laundry. It's only temporary until they're older—but what neat bedrooms now!"

Princess Anne Will Be 15 On Sunday

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne will be 15 Sunday. Wearing half-high heels and figure-hugging suits and dresses on special occasions, she can generate the first zephyrs of admiring whistles.

She is blonde and has a lovely complexion. She has lost much of what the British call puppy fat.

A year ago her footwear was flatties, loafers and the old-fashioned heavy lace-up shoes that British schoolgirls are made to wear.

Of late, she's been going in more for tailored suits and dresses less like the sack-line jobs that adoring English mothers force on their teen - age daughters.

On a recent dress-up occasion, Princess Anne's skirt was a wee inch below the knee, which was about two inches shorter than anything formal she's worn since a child.

FAMILY CELEBRATES

A Buckingham Palace spokesman said the Princess will celebrate her birthday with her family aboard the royal yacht Britannia.

Later, the Royal Family will go to Balmoral Castle on the River Dee for a vacation in the Scottish highlands.

Readers' Saturday Column

Question:—I am giving a bridal shower and would like to serve a fruit punch (non-alcoholic) during the evening. There will be about 30 ladies present. Could you give me a recipe that will not be too expensive?—Mrs. W. K.

Answer:—I think you probably will decide to serve, during the evening, two rounds of this punch in small glasses that hold 4-oz. each.

NON-ALCOHOLIC PUNCH (thirty 8-oz. servings or sixty 4-oz. servings)

Three 6-oz. cans frozen orange juice concentrate, one and one-half 6-oz. cans frozen lemonade concentrate, two 6-oz. cans frozen tangerine juice concentrate, one and one-half 6-oz cans frozen pineapple juice concentrate, two 26-oz. bottles gingerale.

Just before serving time dilute cans of concentrated fruit juices with 3½ qts. ice cold water. (This is equivalent to the diluting ration recommended on the cans—that is 3 cans water to each can frozen juice concentrate.) Mix well. Add gingerale at serving time. Note: If desired, omit 1 qt. water and add 2 to 3 trays of ice cubes.

Question:—would appreciate some barbecue tips for spareribs.—Mrs. J. F. ....

Answer:

TEXAS BARBECUED SPARERIBS (serves 6)

Four and one-half lbs. spareribs, ½ cup soy sauce, 1½ tablespoons cornstarch. Place ribs in a large kettle with a cover and add 3 cups of water. Bring to a boil and cook 5 minutes. Remove ribs from water and drain well. Brush ribs with a mixture of the soy sauce and cornstarch. Continue to brush both sides of ribs, until all the soy-cornstarch mixture is used. This should be done over a period of 30 to 45 minutes to allow the mixture to penetrate into the meat. Place ribs on greased grill about 3" from coals. Cook until tender, about 20 minutes. Or place ribs on greased grill about 6" from coals and cook until tender, about 40 minutes. Every 5 minutes the ribs should be turned and basted each time with Texas Barbecue Sauce: Mix in saucepan 1 cup tomato juice, ½ cup water, ¼ cup catsup, ¼ cup vinegar, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 1 tablespoon paprika, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon chili powder, and ⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper. Simmer 15 minutes or until slightly thickened. Serve ribs immediately with remaining sauce.

PULLED TWO WAYS

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian literature, like the Canadian nation, is striving for a national identity at a time when nationalism is outdated, says Mrs. Wynne Francis, English professor at Sir George Williams University here. "We are caught in the conflict of needing to identify ourselves, while at the same time being international," she said.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

The announcement of the Ontario Hockey Association to form an Eastern Ontario Junior "B" League has brought some semblance of order out of the chaos that has marked junior hockey in this neck of the Ontario woods the past few years.

And it is about time.

The new setup which brings clubs from Belleville, Kingston, Trenton, Oshawa and Peterborough into an organized fold may mark a new era in this bracket of organized hockey.

In fact it could lead to the formation of a new cycle in hockey in the district.

Manager Gordie Bell of the Belleville Bees, thinks the formation of the new league is what the sport needed. "It is a fine thing," he said, "and will do away with a lot of the problems that cropped up while the 'Bs' were playing 'C' clubs."

Despite the efforts of the OHA and sane-thinking club officials, junior hockey has been more or less a "crazy mixed-up affair" the past few years.

Kingston and Peterborough wanted to stretch their wings and play interlocking games with the Toronto Metro Junior "B" League.

Belleville refused to have any part of the deal and confined itself to playing "B" hockey with Kingston and the Petes and filling in schedule gaps with "C" clubs.

This schmozzle ended up on a sour note.

The Kingston Frontenacs accused by their own city writers of being a team that would rather fight than play hockey were refused admission to the Metro loop because, as a Toronto spokesman allegedly said: "Every time one of our clubs play Kingston one or more of our players have to go to hospital."

Be that as it may. This agent saw one or more games in which the Toronto clubs played and don't think for a minute they were a bevy of holler-than-thou guys who would faint at the sight of blood, or run crying to the bench if an opponent threw a dirty look their way.

Frontenacs may have been the champions, as the Toronto people charge, in the blood-letting, beak-busting race but they didn't win it in a runaway. Actually it could have been a photo finish.

A pleasing aspect of the new set-up is the fact that warring factions in Trenton have settled their junior squabbles.

Howard Weese remains as president and Jack Bonn, noted for his fine efforts with the town's midget and juvenile squads, has been named manager of the new junior "B" club with Gene Poirier named as a coaching possibility.

Trenton has a lot of fine junior material inside its limits and should ice one of the strongest squads in the new five-club circuit.

Oshawa and Peterborough will be strong forces to be reckoned with, what with junior "A" feed boxes at their disposal. Kingston has a nucleus of "leftovers" that should be the foundation of a team that will make itself felt (no pun intended.)

Belleville had a hard-hitting young squad a year ago that gave the Kingston, Peterborough squads a tough run for the roses. I do not know at this writing what leftover material Manager Bell has at his disposal, but no doubt some building will have to be done to keep pace with the potential of the other entries.

In any event the outstanding feature of the new set-up is that both junior "B" and "C" groups of the district will have their respective eggs in their own baskets.

Both circuits should be on sound footing and, as was before noted, a new era in hockey may be in the making.

Tribe Trips Twins; Nats Nip Birds

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Washington Senators aren't exactly burning up American League baseball in their eighth-place spot. But they are conspicuously talented at pulling off double plays.

They demonstrated their specialty for an unappreciative audience at Baltimore Friday night, executing four twin killings at the expense of the Orioles to send the frustrated second-placers down to a 4-2 defeat.

Since the leading Minnesota Twins were taking a 3-1 beating from Cleveland Indians, the Senators' fine fielding extended their league-leading total to 121 double plays, and cost the Orioles a chance to cut into he Twins 8½-game lead.

In other AL games, Boston Red Sox edged Chicago White Sox 3-2, New York Yankees trimmed Kansas City Athletics 3-1 and Detroit Tigers nipped Los Angeles Angels 2-1.

TWINS FUMBLED

Faulty play helped give Minnesota a streak of two losses in three games for the first time in three weeks. Larry Brown raced home in the fifth inning as Tony Oliva fumbled Leon Wagner's single, and Vic Davalillo followed a minute later on Jim Perry's wild pitch. Oliva homered for the Twins.

Felix Mantilla's two-run homer in the sixth pulled Boston into a 2-2 tie, and the Red Sox won it in the seventh as catcher J. C. Martin let a Hoyt Wilhelm pitch get away with the bases loaded for a passed ball and a run.

The Yankees again pulled within one game of the .500 mark as Clete Boyer drove in two runs with a homer and a single.

Dick McAuliffe hit a two-run homer in the second inning, and Denny McLain pitched out of trouble in the middle innings for Detroit's victory over the Angels.

Casey Leaves The Hospital

The 75-year-old manager of New York Mets went to his hotel where he will recuperate further from the surgery.

Less than a week after the operation, Stengel began walking with the use of a walkmobile which kept much of his weight off the injured leg.

With No Thanks to Offense

Troubled Tabbies Defeat Argos

TORONTO (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats, seeking their fifth straight Eastern Football Conference title, are being troubled more by their own mistakes than by the opposition.

The TiCats won their second straight game Friday night, defeating Toronto Argonauts 17-7 before 27,190 fans to join Ottawa Rough Riders at the top of the EFC standings. But they did it with virtually no help from their offensive platoon, once the most formidable in the East.

Against the Argos, tail-enders for the last two seasons and showing painful symptoms of a massive rebuilding campaign, the Hamilton offence contributed only one touchdown, giving away the ball repeatedly and passing up other scoring opportunities on backfield miscues.

What saved the Tiger-Cats was a formidable display by the defensive platoon, which blotted out the Argos most of the way before yielding the only Toronto touchdown in the dying minutes.

Don Sutherin's field goal gave Hamilton a 3-0 lead in the first quarter. Fullback Art Baker capped the only sustained TiCat drive with an unconverted touchdown shortly before half-time and the Cats boosted their lead to 17-0 in the third quarter on a single by Joe Zuger and Garney Henley's touchdown off an interception, which Sutherin converted.

THELEN SCORES

Fullback Dave Thelen took a short pass for the Toronto touchdown less than two minutes before the final whistle. Jackie Parker kicked the extra point.

Neither club got much mileage from its starting quarterback. Zuger gave way to Frank Cosentino in the first quarter after giving up an interception and a backfield fumble. For Toronto, Lamar McHan was replaced by Parker in the third quarter, having failed to complete a single pass in 10 tries.

The switch helped in both cases, although both Cosentino and Parker had a pass intercepted before they got straightened away.

Cosentino eventually moved the club 73 yards in nine plays and sent Baker over from three yards out for the first Hamilton touchdown. Parker, victimized on his second play when Henley grabbed his pass on the Argonaut 15 and rambled over, scrambled effectively the rest of the way and finally averted a Toronto shutout.

The 43-yard march was aided by two penalties against Hamilton on the same play—for pass interference and rough play—that put the ball on the TiCats' 11-yard line.

Offensive statistics were unimpressive on both sides. Hamilton picked up 165 yards rushing to Toronto's 152 but managed only 40 yards in the air, completing three of 11 pases. Toronto passers completed five of 22 for 76 yards.

Americans Battle For Title

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

WINNIPEG (CP) — An American today will take possession of the Earl Grey Cup, emblematic of the Canadian amateur golf championship, for the 12th time in 61 years.

A United States triumph was assured Friday when Bill Campbell, U.S. amateur champion from Huntington, West Virginia, and George (Bunky) Henry, 21-year-old Georgia Tech University student, won 18 hole semi-final matches.

They teed off this morning in a 36-hole final test over the rolling 6,573-yard par 37-35 — 72 Pine Ridge course.

When the last native hope, Ed Ross of Saskatoon, fell 3 and 2 before Henry in semi-final action it marked only the fifth time since the inaugural tournament in 1895 that a Canadian had not qualified for the final.

Nick Weslock of Burlington, Ont., who plays most of his golf at Toronto Mississauga, grabbed the crown in 1963 and 1964. But his hopes of becoming the first man in 58 years to pocket three consecutive titles were shattered by Henry one-up in quarter-finals Friday morning.

Tom Draper, 51, of Royal Oak, Mich., was the victim of Campbell's fourth straight sub-par round and a 4 and 3 defeat in Friday's other semi-final contest.

"I'm very tired," Campbell said in the locker room after his 14th round of golf in nine days. Four of them were as a member of the U.S. team in Americas Cup international competition in Winnipeg last week, which Canada won for the first time.

But the 42-year-old consulting engineer gave little outward evidence of weariness in the first five rounds. His game was as hot as the weather—temperatures have soared to the 90s in the last three days — as he downed Ron Folk of Saskatoon 4 and 3; Bob Boldt of Oswego, Ore., 5 and 4; Randy Brekke of Winnipeg 5 and 4, Ted Homenuik of Winnipeg 5 and 3 and Draper. Campbell was 14 strokes under par for the five matches.

Henry's conquests were Pierre Archambault of Montreal, at the 20th hole; Bill Pidlaski of Winnipeg, 6 and 5; John Johnston of Vancouver, 1959 champion, 4 and 3; Weslock and Ross.

Henry, place-kicking specialist for Georgia Tech's football team, appeared headed for an early shower in his encounter with Weslock, trailing by two at the nine-hole turn.

But the Georgian, who went three rounds in the 1964 amateur in Saskatoon, pounced on several eratic shots by the 48-year-old Ontario veteran to pull even after 16 holes.

Weslock beat himself on the 17th, a par four which runs 429 yards, when he topped his drive 125 yards into a trap, came out well but punched his third shot into a trap to the left of the green.

Agreement Reached

Will Telecast Football!

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian pro football telecasts will begin next Wednesday in the East, and Aug. 28 in the West, thanks to an agreement reached Friday between the networks and sponsors.

Settlement of the football TV contract for the 1965 season follows weeks of negotiations between the networks, the privately-owned Canadian television Company and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the sponsors, and the Montreal advertising agency which controls the TV rights.

It came some two weeks after the start of the Canadian Football League season. CTV will get the ball rolling by telecasting Wednesday's Eastern Conference meeting between Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes in Montreal. In all, the private network will telecast 16 eastern games.

For western viewers, the action will begin Aug. 28, a Saturday, with the CBC telecast of the game in Calgary between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and the Stampeders. CTV's western schedule gets under way the next afternoon, Aug. 29, with British Columbia Lions at home in Vancouver to the Argonauts.

A full schedule of telecast games will be released later.

Two sponsors have been lined up, John Labatt Ltd., breweries, and the Ford Motor Company of Canada Ltd. Labatt will sponsor only eastern games, because of regulations against beer advertising in western provinces. Ford will sponsor half-game telecasts in both East and West.

Both companies will jointly sponsor the Grey Cup game in the east. Ford will also sponsor half of the Grey Cup game shown in the west. A second sponsor is being sought for the other western half of the annual fall classic.

As in other years, the full slate of eastern and western playoff games will be carried nationally by the two networks.

Under the agreement, Bouchard, Champagne, Pelletier Ltd., will retain rights to both East and West games, a concession since it earlier relinquished an option to the eastern rights to Labatt.

Aaron Still Tops; Knudson Has Ace

Palmer "Luck" Holds

LIGONIER, Pa. (CP)—George Knudson dealt himself an ace, Arnold Palmer picked up another shattering deuce and Tommy Aaron was still holding the top hand today at the start of the third round of the Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Knudson, the slender Torontonian who is the only Canadian in the tournament, appeared to be headed for cutoff territory when he fired a four-over-par 75 in Thursday's opening round. But he was down to 69 and a two-round total of 144 Friday after scoring the third hole-in-one in the eight years since the PGA became a medal-play tournament.

That left Knudson three ahead of Palmer, the popular home pro of the Laurel Valley course, who took his second two-stroke penalty in as many days in the course of carding a nine on the par-five 11th hole.

Aaron still held a two-stroke lead over the illustrious field after adding a 71 to his first-round 66 for a 137 total. His closest challengers were Dave Marr, who matched Knudson's 69, and Jack Nicklaus, who scrambled to a 70.

Knudson's ace with a three-iron on the 238-yard eighth was not his only spectacular shot of the day. On the 190-yard 14th he plunked his tee shot into a lake for a stroke penalty and still got down in par by holing out with a 40-yard wedge shot.

Palmer found nothing but trouble on the 11th. He hit a small rock in a gulley on a pracice swing and wound up taking seven strokes. Officials presented him with two more for hitting the stone — technically, grounding his club in a hazard—after he had told them.

The onetime ruler of golf, now on a decided downgrade, posted 75.

A stroke back of Nicklaus and Marr, at 140, was steady Billy Casper. Gardner Dickinson and Ray Floyd were next at 141.

Tweed Speaks Out

"As sponsor of the Tweed Softball Team I feel I should write you to make public my own views on the controversey that has arisen over the umpiring in our final game with Ellis Juniors. First of all, I wish to emphasize that any criticism I make is not directed at the Belleville team. The players were not involved in any disputes, and Bob Ethier pitched an exceptional game.

However, as a sponsor spending roughly $500.00 yearly to outfit and equip a team, pay league entry fees, and pay the salaries of the umpires, I believe I have a right to express my opinions, and am doing so with the full approval of my superiors. I am also a member of the executive of the Belleville and District League and any opinions I express here will be repeated at a league meeting which I hope will be held very soon, with the umpires present and the press and radio represented.

To begin with, it must by now be very obvious that the officiating was not of the calibre that players and fans expect for a crucial play-off game. The Intelligencer game report called the umpiring "unusually inept." The dictionary defines inept as unsuitable, absurd and foolish. The report also mentions that the ineptness hampered the losing team. The amount of discussion of the game on CJBQ radio is a further indication that things were hardly normal.

There were many decisions during the game which we felt were questionable. There is no point in my dwelling on them at length here, as the opinion of one person will not settle anything. I would refer only to the call which erased a 4-1 Tweed lead and was unquestionably the turning point in the game. If the batter Lesage did in fact create interference along the first base line, the umpire should immediately have made the call and ruled the play dead. His decision to make the call came after the two runners had scored and were back in the dugout. I might include here that I have told Mr. Belch, league secretary, that I do not feel Mr. Bawden should be umpiring these play-off games, as he is a member and vice-president of the league executive.

As Mr. Kelleher said on the radio, umpires are only human and make bad calls occasionally just as the best players make errors. It does seem, though, an amazing coincidence that 3 officials could be so equally incompetent on the same night. I mentioned earlier that Bob Ethier pitched brilliantly, but it was hardly necessary for Mr. Kelleher to state that his pitches were "coming in there like bullets." This is hardly of any concern to an impartial umpire.

The sad part of the whole affair is the effect it will undoubtedly have on the future of the Belleville and District league. There were five fairly evenly matched teams in a good, close league, two sudden-death playoffs, and two hard-fought semi-final series. The sorry spectacle that over 500 fans witnessed has undone the prestige that the league has gained this year, and will undoubtedly make it difficult for the league to obtain out-of-town entries in 1966.

I realize umpires, good or bad, are hard to find. But so are good ball teams and I don't think our team has been any disgrace to the league or this district for the past two years. In a league where bat-throwing and bad language have occurred far too often and been overlooked, I was proud of the way our team conducted itself in the face of such adverse playing conditions.

Thank you for the space on your sports pages; although possibly out-of-town teams could be better-covered in the obituary column.

Wally Moffat,
Tweed Lombanks.

Lombanks Defeat Trenton

Joe Barrons pitched Tweed Lombanks to a 7-1 win over Trenton last night in the first game of the O.A.S.A. Intermediate "C" playdowns. He allowed only four hits in hurling the distance.

The next contest in the best-of-three set is slated for Madoc, on Monday night at 8:30.

Barrons walked one man and struck out 16.

McVicar toiled for the losers and gave up nine hits, whiffed five and gave up one free pass.

Terry LeSage and Eldon Gray led Tweed at the plate with a single and double each. Gray drove in four runs with his two hits. Bert Sherry, Paul Meraw, Garry Gorr, Ray LeSage, and Bill Salmond stroked base hits.

For Trenton, Conecay slammed a homer, and McVicar, Walker, and Boudreau added safeties.

Batteries: Barrons and Gorr; McVicar and Walker.

FLINT LEADS

HAMILTON (CP) — Athletes from Flint, Mich., finished on top in four opening-day sports of the annual CANUSA Games Friday, taking a big step towards successfully defending their 1964 over-all championship. More than 1,500 athletes from the two cities are competing in eight team sports in the two-day program.

Golfer Predicted Hole-In-One

MONTREAL (CP) — Luc Brien, professional at the Pinegrove Club in nearby St. Luc, was a bit disgusted with his game during Friday's second round of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship.

He had 79 in his first round and was doing even worse in the second.

Standing on the 17th tee—it was actually the eighth for Brien who was in the section playing the back nine first—Luc announced to the few spectators: "I think I'll make a hole in one here."

He used a No. 8 iron for his tee shot at the par-three 140-yard hole. The ball hit the green and bounced into the cup.

His first hole-in-one ever was a bit upsetting. Brien took a five at the par four 18th—his ninth — and made the turn in 42, seven over par.

Minor Baseball Playoffs

Hold on to your hats. The minor leagues in the city are starting to rustle with excitement and apprehension as the playoffs for E.O.B.A. and B.M.B.A. honors begin.

Three Belleville teams have already secured second round berths in the E.O.B.A.

And meanwhile the city teams will fight for the laurels in the different divisions. On Monday four tyke teams start to do battle. The next day the bantams begin at Park Dale. The final winners in each division will be city champions.

Warren Spahn's 14th loss of the year wasn't exactly like most of the others.

The 44-year-old southpaw was beaten 3-2 by Philadelphia Phillies Friday night when he was tagged for three unearned runs in the seventh inning. But his performance carried greater significance for San Francisco Giants' hopes in the National League race than the loss of a baseball game.

The veteran left-hander, pitching his third game for the Giants since his release by New York Mets, struck out nine Phillies, matching his highest one-game total in more than four years, and was working on a four-hit shutout when things went sour.

Although he has won only five games this season, one of them for the Giants, Spahn has given up only three earned runs in 20 1-3 innings for the second-placers, an outstanding average of 1.35.

The loss, however, dropped San Francisco 2½ games behind Los Angeles Dodgers, who defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1. The third - place Milwaukee Braves, two percentage points behind the Giants, belted Chicago Cubs 8-3; St. Louis Cardinals whipped Cincinnati Reds 7-2, and Houston Astros edged the Mets 3-2.

EXITS ON ERROR

The Giants built a 2-0 lead for Spahn on second-inning singles by Len Gabrielson, Tom Haller and Hal Lanier and Jim Hart's fourth inning homer. But Dick Schofield's throwing error on Bobby Wine's grounder paved the way for Spahn's exit and the three unearned runs.

Claude Osteen checked the Pirates on six hits and contributed two hits of his own to the Dodgers attack as they defeated Bob Eale for the first time in four tries this season.

Gene Oliver slammed a pair of two-run homers and Eddie Mathews connected for another two-run shot as the Braves rolled to their 23rd victory in the last 32 games.

Wildness beat Cincinnati's Jim Maloney, who lost his sixth game against 13 victories when two walks, a wild pitch and Curt Flood's single produced the tie-breaking run for the Cardinals in the seventh inning. Flood padded the margin with a three-run homer in the eighth.

The Astros scored an unearned run in the ninth inning after Joe Morgan reached second base when left fielder Jim Hickman dropped his fly ball.

British Swimming

Girl, 12, Triple Winner

BLACKPOOL, England (CP) The world's youngest record holder in any major sport Friday became the youngest triple winner in the 25-year history of the British swimming championships.

Twelve-year-old Karen Muir of South Africa, five-foot-four and 111 pounds, won the 110-yard women's freestyle Friday, her third event in two days.

Thursday, she wept at poolside after breaking the world record in the 110-yard backstroke with a time of 1:08.7. Later she added the 220-yard women's freestyle medal.

Elaine Tanner, a 14-year-old Vancouver high school girl, led Canada's women's team, winning the 110-yard butterfly event in the world-class time of 1:08.1.

Runner-up Judy Gegan of England finished a full second behind with a time fast enough to break the British record.

Marianne Humeniuk, 17, of Tronto placed fourth in the final in 1:09.8 and Louise Kennedy, 15, of London, Ont., finished sixth in 1:11.1.

19-year-old Dan Sherony, who smashed the world record for the men's 110-yard butterfly Thursday, added another Canadian record to his collection Friday in the qualifying heats of the 220-yard butterfly event.

He led the qualifiers with a time of 2:11.9, 3½ seconds slower than Australian Kevin Berry's world record.

Canadian cach Nick Thierry said Sherry wasn't pressed in his heat and could cut down the time in today's final.

Elizabeth Long of England dashed Canada's hopes for victry in the 200-metre women's freestyle, closing with a strong spurt to smash the European record.

Miss Long's time of 2:16.1 was 1.9 seconds faster than the record held by Italy's Daniela Beneck. All six finalists broke existing national records.

Sandy Gilchrist, a 19-year-old from Ocean Falls, placed second behind his persistent rival Geff Grylls of Suth Africa in the 220-yard men's freestyle final.

Gryllis's time was 2:01.6 while Gilchrist clcked 2:03.4. It was the third win of the week-long meet for Grylls.

Homenuik 2 Strokes Up

By AL McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP) — Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg, who insists Royal Montreal is one of the toughest courses he has ever played, showed consistent form to the rest of the field Friday as he took a two-stroke lead into the final round of the 54-hole Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship today.

The wiry Homenuik combined a one-over-par 71 Friday with an opening round of 72, to register a total of 143 for his two days work—two strokes less than his nearest opponents.

The trio of Frank Whibley of Kitchener, Alvie Thompson of Toronto, the 1963 CPGA champion, and Dick Munn of Victoria were bunched at 145.

Munn, a protege of Vancouver's Stan Leonard, was the only player to break par in the first two days of the tournament.

The field seeking the $15,000 prize money—$2,000 of which goes to the low scorer, was drastically cut following Friday's second round.

The cutoff figure for the 100 low scorers and ties was set at 161, and 101 of the nearly 200 original entrants will tee off in today's final round.

ACE DIDN'T HELP

Ironically, one of those who came in under the 161 mark was Luc Brien of Montreal who fired a hole-in-one at the 17th Friday, but still wound up the day with an 81 to add to his opening round of 79.

Following immediately on the heels of the top four are Montrealers Pat Fletcher and Phil Giroux, Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Al Balding, Toronto, Moe Norman of Barrie and Harry McIlree, Toronto. All finished with a six-over-par 146.

Veteran Gordon Brydson of Toronto, who held the first round leadership with George Hillebrecht of Peterborough at par 70, picked up a 77 Friday for a two-round total of 147.

While Brydson's second-day showing lost him the leadership, his perforance wa good champion—computed after 36 holes for players over 50 years of age. Brydson's enior title brought him $400.

Meanwhile, Hillebrecht, who had kept pace with Brydson in the opening day's play, added an 83 Friday as he ballooned to 153 after taking 11 strokes at the par-four 16th hole.

PULLS SHOT

Homenuik shot a 36, one over par on both nines Friday and would have come in with a 69 except for a pulled second shot at the par-four 18th hole.

Munn, who is only 22 years old, fired nines of 33 and 36 for his sub-par round. He shot eight one-putt greens and took 31 putts throughout the 18 holes. Along the front nine he missed par only at the ninth, where he three-putted from 40 feet out. He registered three birdies of 15, five and 12 feet, and missed par twice on the back nine.

Play resumed today at 8 a.m. and, in the event of a first-place tie, a playoff will decide he winner on Sunday.

HIS 5,907th WIN

VANCOUVER (CP)—Johnny Longden rode the 5,907th winner of his career Friday in pursuit of No. 6,000 at Vancouver's Exhibition Park race track. The 58-year-old jockey, who will remain here until he hits the mark, booted home favored Yankee Fighter with a 3½ length win in the third race of the evening.

Score Was 34-15

Saskys Batter Eskimos

EDMONTON (CP) — Gambling paid big dividends Friday night as Saskatchewan Roughriders battered Edmonton Eskimos 34-15 in a Western Football Conference game before 14,297 fans.

Five times—four in the last half—quarterback Ron Lancaster ran the ball with his club facing short-yardage situations on third down.

The gamble worked on each occasion and enabled Riders to establish a ball-control program that dominated the game completely in the final 30 minutes.

Using the pass sparingly but with outstanding success, Lancaster connected on two touchdown tosses to Hugh Campbell and completed nine of 19 attempts. Lancaster and fullback George Reed added single touchdowns and Jack Abendschan completed the Riders' scoring with three converts, two field goals and a single.

Edmonton touchdowns were picked up by Jim Thomas on a 38-yard dash and Bill Tobin on a one-yard charge. Bill Mitchell converted both and added a single when an attempted 47-yard field goal went wide in the first quarter.

RIDERS HOLD

The Eskimos led 8-7 after the first quarter and 15-14 at half-time. However, they failed to score after that while Saskatchewan moved ahead 20-15 in the third quarter and compiled 14 points in the final session.

The victory was especially pleasant for coach Eagle Ke He was dropped as Edm head coach before last seas and replaced by Neill Armstrong. This was his first appearance in Edmonton since replacing Bob Shaw as coach in Regina.

The victory was the second in three starts for Saskatchewan and left the club two points behind the undefeated Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Edmonton remains alone in the cellar, winless in three starts.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Ted Mann booted home a 22-to-1 longshot, one of three winners he saddled in a muddy meeting Friday at Fort Erie.

The Longshot was Silver Gus, an outsider who took the third race for a $44.20 return on a $2 win ticket. Mann also won with Chic Visitor, a three-year-old gelding, and Lord Quillo, favored at 6-to-5, who came home by a length in the featured seventh race.

With seven wins now to his credit, Mann nearly doubled his output for four weeks in this single meet which was delayed one hour by a cloudburst.

CBS Plans November Show Honoring Laurel and Hardy

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Too often the achievements of movie greats receive no official recognition. But on Nov. 23 Hollywood will give a tip of the derby to those classic clowns, Laurel and Hardy.

The pair will be honored in a special television show over CBS. It is now being put together, and the emcee is Dick Van Dyke, a long-time fan of the late comics.

"The whole thing started at Stan Laurel's funeral, where I delivered the eulogy," Van Dyke said. "Gene Lester, the photographer, suggested it would be a good idea to have a tribute to the team on television, with proceeds to go to the Motion Picture Relief Fund. Well, the word got around, and we started getting calls from agencies and networks who were wild for the idea."

Among the stars lined up for the show: Rock Hudson, Phil Silvers, Lucille Ball, Buster Keaton.

Dick's own affection for Laurel and Hardy goes back to his childhood. With his long-chinned face, he was able to perform a respectable imitation of Stan Laurel. Dick never did it professionally until he had his own TV show. Then he performed a sketch with Henry Calvin playing the rotund Hardy. By this time Dick had become friends with Laurel.

"I called him as soon as the show went off the air," Dick recalled. "Stan said, 'You did the best imitation of me I've ever seen.' Then he gave me 25 minutes of notes and criticisms.

"One thing that he told me was that he wore cuffs on his shirts, but instead of cufflinks he tied them with string. He took the heels off his shoes; that made him look smaller than babe and gave him that funny walk of his.

"And the hat. Most derbies curl up at the brims. I did everything I could to get a flat brim like Stan's—even had the brim pressed out. But it still didn't look right, and Stan said so. 'I would have loaned you mine,' he said. That just killed me."

Leafs Nip Crackers, Move Up

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jack Lamabe proved once again Friday night that he is the major reason Toronto Maple Leafs are in the International Baseball League pennant race.

The right-hander, who joined the Leafs almost six weeks ago, won his ninth game without defeat by stopping Atlanta Crackers 2-1, to move the Leafs within two games of the league-leading Columbus Jets.

Elsewhere in the league, Rochester Red Wings handed the Jets their third consecutive loss 3-2, Buffalo Bisons dumped Jacksonville Suns 4-2 and Toledo Mud Hens defeated Syracuse Chiefs 5-2.

Lamabe limited the Crackers to five hits and scored the game's first run on Bob Sadowski's single.

Salvation Army Personnel Make Life Little Happier For Roblin Lake Campers

The therapy most helpful in mending the mind of a child from a broken home is a week's vacation at a summer camp.

It is this belief that inspires the Salvation Army personnel playing host to underprivileged children at Ameliasburg.

In the 21 years the camp has been operated — first by the Kiwanis Club of Belleville and by its current sponsors for the last 14 years — thousands of boys and girls, dislocated through no fault of their own, have learned the real meaning of the expression "a holiday in the country." Children from eight to 13 are eligible for enrollment. Service clubs of Belleville, Trenton and Picton send many to the camp. Applications require the approval of the secretary of the Salvation Army's mid-Ontario division, regardless.

All those attending the camp are not sponsored, however. Like a girl from Prince Edward from a family in better-than-average circumstances. She prefers Camp Roblin as it is known. She insisted on returning this year after missing last year, when her parents sent her to "one of those $100 places."

The camp is situated high in a wooded setting on the north shore of Roblin Lake. The distance from Belleville is 12 miles. Each year some 500 children go there from centres west to Whitby and east to Gananoque. The project is the responsibility of Salvationists Major and Mrs. Ray Homewood of Belleville.

The camp staff includes Envoy and Mrs. Frank Phelps of Napanee. They completed their second season as the camp's directors for girls last Saturday. Their "guests" call them "Flipper" and 'Flopper." "I guess the girl who nicknamed us was impressed by our style of swimming," explained Mrs. Phelps with a smile.

A likeable couple, the Phelps prompt the impression they are both respected and admired. 'We try to teach discipline without their knowing it," Mr. Phelps said As administrators they watch continually for "homesickness" a disorder that strikes some in each group soon after they arrive. These cases receive personal attention with the result few of them become dropouts, Mr. Phelps pointed out. They recover and usually decide to say on once they become acquainted with camp routine and join in activities with new found friends" he said. Sometimes the advice of camp nurse Mrs. Joe Beasley of Picton is necessary in treating the victims. Psychological upset is the symptom looked for first.

Much of the Camp Roblin program is devoted to swimming and water safety. Girls at the camp this year made fine showings in this sport due mainly to two teenage lifeguards, who hold Red Cross awards of merit. Sharon Ramsay of Trenton and Linda Croft of Kingston also serve as counsellors along with Bonnie Cochrane, Belleville; Anne Butler, Oshawa; Isabel Henry, Bowmanville; Muriel Wheeler and Maisie Millard of Peterborough.

LAND DONATED

Camp Roblin owes its existence to the generosity of a farmer from Prince Edward county and a Senator from Trenton.

The late George Symes Wallbridge donated the property to the Kiwanis Club of Belleville for a fresh air camp in 1944. The Salvation Army's takeover in 1951 and subsequent expansion of facilities was made possible by the efforts of the late Senator William A. Fraser and his friends.

But if you asked a boy or girl who goes there to name a person they remember you'd get "Aunt Kate" as the answer most times. And it's understandable since camp cook Mrs. Katie Hawks of Kingston considers the way to reach a child's heart is through the stomach and tries to prove it. Cleanliness is her first approach to providing good wholesome food for healthy appetites. Once a week she bakes a cupcake for each one of the young campers. The candles on them are lighted and then the group joins in singing "Happy Birthday" to the Salvation Army celebrating its 100th anniversary this year. A youngster whose birthday falls on the same day is recognized in a special way.

The camp's program calls for the young people to observe the basics of religion and encourages them during their stay to follow teachings of respective Faiths. No meat with meals on Friday is a rule that bears out the open mind policy that is practised.

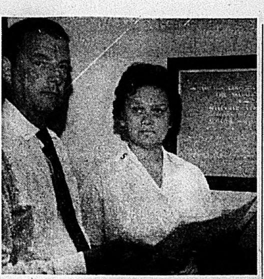
CRAFT PERIODS POPULAR

Craft periods have become very popular among the girl campers. Salvationist officer candidate Carol Lane, of Peterborough, who instructs the classes has the knack of creating interest and maintaining minimum confusion.

Her pupils make costumes, and novel pieces for skits they present around the campfire.

This week boys took over the camp with Captain Len Pearo of Picton as their director. And so the good work continues.

Fortunately, for the less fortunate, people like Salvation Army divisional commander Brigadier W. T. Hawkes of Belleville and Mayor H. J. McFarland of Picton concern themselves with the welfare of our country's youth. Unselfishly they carry on in the tradition of earlier benefactors, who made it possible for the underprivileged to enjoy camping as other children know it.



GIRLS' CAMP DIRECTORS — Envoy and Mrs. Frank Phelps of Napanee find sponsored youngsters more reluctant to leave at the end of holidays. The morning singing period in Fraser Memorial Hall is an CAIRO (AP) — The town council of Abouhammad has offered civil servants an extra week's paid vacation if they give up smoking for a year.

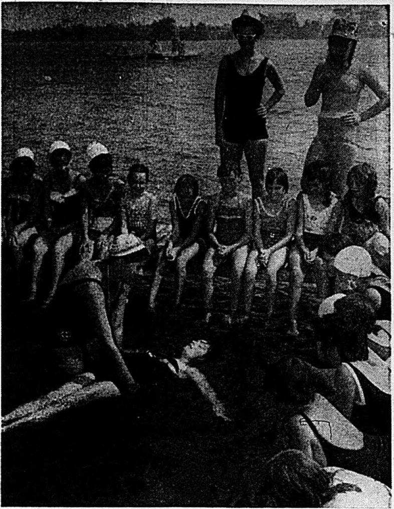
Former Minister In Sask. Govt. Named to Senate

OTTAWA (CP) — A. H. (Hammy) McDonald, former minister of agriculture in the Thatcher government in Saskatchewan, was appointed Friday to the Senate by Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. McDonald, 46, who is a former leader of the Liberal party in the province, resigned his cabinet post and seat in the legislature last May and his appointment to the Senate had been rumored for some time.



WATER SAFETY DEMONSTRATED — Along with swimming the safety period holds the interest of boys and girls on the waterfront. One of the two camp lifeguards, Counsellor Linda Croft of Kingston, teaches lesson, helped by Anne Marie Smith of Trenton.

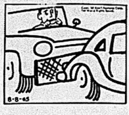
Your Car



Treat Car's Transmission With Care

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

If yours is a standard stick-shift transmission model, keep in mind that first and second gears bear most of the wear and tear.

Completing the shifts to high without racing or roaring away in lower gear can minimize this hard usage. Many drivers also stretch gear life by shifting directly from low to high when the car is on a smooth, level road and pulling little weight.

If you own an automatic transmission car, you can also hold down operating and repair costs with a little good driving judgement. Don't hit the gas pedal hard to get a jackrabbit start. Yet, don't be too timid about accelerating, since this delays proper shifting and wastes gas Start moderately and gradually accelerate to reach road speed as promptly as possible.

Never shift a moving car from reverse to forward speed, or into park. And, be sure you know whether or not your car can be pushstarted in case of trouble. If yours is one that can, find out the exact procedure.

From G. B.: "Is it really necessary to have a wheel alignment job done?"

Tire mileage and gas mileage will certainly benefit. No excess side to side movement, no wheel bouncing to wear tires that create abnormal rolling resistance. Safer car control is gained, too.

S. G. writes: "I bought a used '64 sedan with just 7,100 miles on the clock Now I notice it gives a rough ride, even on fairly smooth roads. One mechanic said it's probably shock or spring trouble."

Since the car is still quite new, that isn't a logical first guess. Unbalanced wheels or overinflated tires would be the more likely suspects in this case.

P.R.: My father tells me you wrote something about squealing noise when the car is getting up speed or when extra power is needed to pass or climb a hill. That's my trouble now, and I'd like to know your diagnonis."

A loose fan belt is probably the reason.

F. G. writes: "Last December I bought a '65 hardtop. Just recently, I took a 850 mile trip and the engine used as much oil as it previously did in 1100 or more miles. What could be going wrong wiith such a new car?"

Probably nothing. It's normal in summer months to use more oil. Higher air and engine temperatures thin out oil more readily and it burns off at a higher rate.

The Golden Years

Toss This in Your Computer And Watch What Comes Out!

By THOMAS COLLINS

It's about time for somebody to knock down the notion that only highly educated young people are now fit to run the world.

Ralph W. Smathers, a recently retired executive thinks he can do it.

"A lot of inane conversation," he says, "is leading the country to believe that the technological developments of recent years have left people in their 50's and 60's hopelessly behind. Some business spokesmen, and even a U.S. cabinet officer, have implied that the older people have such meagre and such outmoded education they had just about as well get on out of the way and let the college kids take over.

"Well, that's pretty cute when you consider that most of the whiz-kids are taking their orders from oldsters who never looked inside a computer — and don't have to."

Mr. Smathers says a good many young intellectuals think the technological revolution is new, and that they discovered it. "While as a matter of fact the man who is now age 65 has been travelling with it all his life."

FACE THE "CRISIS"

"Take the delivery man with his horse and dray. Think what a crisis he faced when the gasoline truck came along. But he adapted to the contraption and survived. Just as the blacksmith adapted to the garage, and the buggy salesman to the used car lot.

"And nobody went around claiming these 'victims' of technological progress were outdated and should be cast aside . . ."

Mr. Smathers believes the changes a person now 65-years-old has lived through in his or her lifetime are about as profound as those taking place now. "They didn't have all the electronic tubes and flashing lights, and were not so complex," he says, "but they were dramatic. And we learned to conquer them.

"The person now in the 60's has gone from the horse and wagon to the train, to the automobile, to busses, to flying machines, to super-highways, and to jets. What transition!

"That same person has gone from oil lamps to electricity, from gramophones to television, from ice boxes to freezers, from pasteboard fans to air conditioning, from crepe de Chine to nylon, from stovewood to gas.

"And do you remember the bookkeeper with his green eyeshade, his bottle of ink, and fine Spencerian hand? Reflect on the drama that typewriters and office machines brought to him. And what about the hand-set printer when the linotype came along?

"Don't tell me any nonsense about people who have conquered all these things not being able to conquer a computer."

A fallacy in the yak-yak about anybody past age 45 now being outdated, according to Mr. Smathers, is the idea that a modern man has to understand the technological changes. Some people do, in order to build and operate them. But everybody else just uses them. "Probably fewer than one percent of all people understand a modern eight-cylinder auto, or the workings of an electric light. But does it matter? We know where to buy them and get them repaired . . . and we know how to use them . . ."

Mr. Smathers concedes that changes come faster now, and grow more complex He's aware it is taking some brilliant minds to bring these changes about. "But most of us don't have to be the geniuses, with the super degrees from universities, to live with and to conquer these changes. We just have to learn how to use them, and for our 60 or so years we have been pretty good at that job.

"The youngsters now telling us we are outdated had better watch it. If their premise is ever established as correct then with the speed of changes now they are going to be old-fashioned before they ever change their first diaper."

NOTICE To Our Customers
FROM
Butler's Dairy

DUE TO MANY CIRCUMSTANCES WE HAVE FOUND IT UNECONOMICAL TO CONTINUE PROCESSING AND DISTRIBUTING MILK AND MILK PRODUCTS IN BELLEVILLE AND DISTRICT. WE HAVE BEEN IN THE BUSINESS FOR OVER 40 YEARS, AND HAVE ENJOYED SERVING OUR CUSTOMERS AND ARE GRATEFUL FOR THEIR SUPPORT SO IT IS WITH GREAT REGRET TO HAVE TO MAKE THIS DECISION.

MANY CHANGES HAVE OCCURRED IN THE MILK INDUSTRY AS IN OTHERS, ESPECIALLY IN DISTRIBUTION, ETC., AND THE HIGH COSTS HAVE TO BE MET SOMEWHERE.

Many dairies have amalgamated. Duplication of costly equipment and delivery service make it prohibitive unless merged into single units. We have therefore agreed that the other 3 dairies take over, and that our customers may be served by the dairy of their choice after August 17th.

We would be glad to have accounts settled with us by then or as soon as convenient, and any tickets outstanding will be redeemed by us.

We are sincerely grateful for your patronage and to our many friends, and deeply regret having to make this decision, but we can find no alternative to combat ever increasing costs in a very competitive market.

Belleville Fair Has Highest Entry In History

With an even break from the weather, the odds bid fair for a record-breaking Belleville Fair in 1965.

For overall production the record already has been passed. It's the biggest fair in history.

The other side of the record is up to customer response.

And the patrons already were shuttling toward the site as the Fair threw open its gates this morning.

Exhibitors have been crowding each other to the margins of entry lists as the opening neared.

Fair president, Bob Phillips, happily noted that the bulky lists had justified optimistic predictions for a gala year.

Relying on that judgment, facilities were expanded to handle the record inflow of exhibitors.

In live exhibits, prize-seeking cattle herds have been streaming in from around Southern Ontario — many of them showing here for the first time.

As for the horseshow — now one of Ontario's classiest — it has taken a running jump at its own record.

300 HORSES ON GROUNDS

Fair secretary Carl Thompson momentarily lost count of the exact number of entries last night, but said it was "well over 300."

Static exhibits have finally burst through accommodation seams and this year the Belleville Curling Club — defrosted for the summer — had to be thrown open to exhibitors. This means commercial, cultural and institutional displays practically span the Fairgrounds from east to west.

Grooming the big show into satisfactory shape before the curtain went up was no easy job, however. Officials and work crews toiled through one of the hottest Sundays in living memory laying on the finishing touches.

While the mercury in spots threatened the 100-degree mark, perspiring workers readied midway attractions, livestock barns and exhibition halls, pausing intermittently for cold showers and cold drinks.

There were last-minute hitches and frustrations but, despite the soaring temperatures, work went doggedly ahead.

The only casualty to the heat was in the poultry pens where a broiling rooster keeled over — then quickly recovered and rejoined the show.

Nine Cruisers Run Aground

BUFFALO, N.Y., (AP)—Nine pleasure boats ran aground Saturday night when a thick fog settled unexpectedly over Lake Erie and the Niagara River.

Three U.S. Coast Guard patrol boats and a police boat guided 10 other boats to safety after finding them with the aid of fog horns.

BELLEVILLE FAIR BUFFALO is led back to campsite by Gerry Brennan after it decided to see the big exhibition for itself last night. It's one of three appearing with chuckwagon show at Fair.

The buffaloes are only one of several new features at the Fair, which commences today and continues until Thursday.

Buffaloes Just One Part Of Gigantic Show to Be Seen Before Grandstand

He couldn't help but draw attention.

When first spotted he stuck out like a Viet Cong in Disneyland.

A youngster took one look, then two more and said: "Holy cow! Here comes a buffalo!"

Even in the West they're in short supply. In Eastern Canada they're still something of a mythical beast. People pay good money to see them for the first time in zoos.

So, to be introduced at an Ontario Fall Fair is surprise enough. But to see your first-ever-buffalo blithely trundling alone down the fair's racetrack is something of a hiccup halter.

Yet there he was, in all his brown bulky majesty, a Western buffalo, stepping along through the Belleville Fairgrounds.

The youngster's exclamation drew a cumulative double-take as more and more people — merely out to see the 1965 Fair go up — turned to look.

Actually there was cause for surprise, but not for alarm.

PART OF SHOW

The buffalo is part of the glittering surprise package the Fair has imported this year for its grandstand audiences.

It comes along with the stampede chuckwagon show, one of this year's dynamic Fair highlights.

The show also comes along with a minor menagerie of hard-riding western horses, a long-horn steer with a span that in closeup seems second only to the Ivy Lea bridge.

There are also three — not one — buffalo. (Or should that be three buffaloes?).

Oh — about that buffalo.

Well, it seems 'twas tethered to a tree near the grandstand while the chuckwagoneers made camp for the night. Somehow, it worked loose and struck out — unnoticed by the cowhands.

But the organized chaos of a big fair is no home were a buffalo may roam.

While spectators sized it up charily, one decided to take a chance on its upbringing.

Gerry Brennan, city insurance adjuster, setting up a Boy Scout exhibit nearby, gingerly approached the critter and tested its temper by hauling on its halter. The buffalo responded, if not with overpowering affection — at least without throwing a tantrum. It allowed itself to be placidly plodded back to its tether, and passed the rest of the evening in well - mannered munching.

The moral being while a visiting buffalo may take few prizes at a classy Eastern livestock show, he is decidedly well-bred.

Gemini 5 Flight Ready

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) Astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad took their first day off in a long time Sunday and relaxed before plunging into final preparations for their eight-day orbital flight scheduled to start Thursday.

Today, Cooper, 38 - year - old air force lieutenant-colonel, and Conrad, 35-year-old navy lieutenant-commander, will be back in a simulated spacecraft at the Mission Control Centre here. They are preparing for the longest manned space flight yet planned.

Training emphasis has been on a critical rendezvous manoeuvre which the astronauts are to conduct during the action-packed first six hours of the flight.

During the second orbit, they are to launch their own satellite from an equipment section in the base of the Gemini 5 spacecraft. They are to back away from the 76-pound electronic package about 52 miles, then begin a game of "space chase" in an effort to close to within 20 feet of the satellite during the fourth orbit.

They are to make 121 circuits.

The time of the flight coincides with that planned for the first U.S. manned lunar landing trip scheduled in 1969.

Insurance Won't Pay Riot Losses

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Devastating rioting has taken a heavy toll in the bustling business life of the U.S. West's biggest city.

Losses are likely to climb far into the hundreds of millions of dollars. Conservative estimates placed fire damage alone at $175,000,000.

Violence has destroyed hundreds of business establishments.

Even the flow of customers to stores in other areas has been slowed by a curtailed public transportation system and the forced closing of schools and businesses.

And the future looked bleak for those businesses hit by fire, burglary and looting. An insurance executive said insurance firms probably will not pay their losses.

NOT INCLUDED

The insurance official, who declined to be identified explained that insurrection isn't included in insurance policies protecting against fire, burglary and robbery.

"The state adjutant-general, Lt.-Gen. Roderic L. Hill, provided the insurance companies with an excellent defence," he said.

"He stated that the situation here was, in his opinion, an 'armed insurrection' in which a 'significant number' of the population of Los Angeles was participating."

But he said he thought that the governments of Los Angeles city and county would be hit by lawsuits from damage victims.

Doubtful Man Can Be Returned

TORONTO (CP)—Doubt was expressed Sunday that John D. Laun, wanted for questioning in a $1,230,000 Toronto pig-raising fraud, can be returned to Canada from Barcelona, Spain, where he was arrested in June.

Assistant Commissioner Harold Graham of the provincial police said in an interview there is some doubt that Laun can be extradited or deported.

"There is an extradition treaty with Spain but it's an old one," he said. "I understand the Spanish government can allow him to remain in Spain if it wishes."

Laun was arrested by Interpol, the international police agency, three years after his disappearance from Toronto.

He was the promoter of a scheme under which 1,135 people invested various sums of money in buying pigs and feed. The animals were to be raised at a pig farm at Sunderland, Ont., 50 miles north of Toronto, with the proceeds of their sale going to the investors.

The operation, called Piggyland, went bankrupt in February, 1962, with a net deficit of $1,613,259. According to the amount of money invested there should have been 18,000 sows on the farm, but there were fewer than 1,500 and many of them were dying from malnutrition.

Violence Carried To Several Cities By Negro Bands

By JAMES BACON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Violence spilled over from the Negro area of Los Angeles encircled by massed troops and spread today to other southern California cities.

For the first time in six days of bloody violence, lawless Negro bands carried the attack to all-white sections with sniping, fire-bombing and rioting.

The sudden spread of terrorist attacks came as authorities declared the main riot area — the 42-square-mile Negro area in south Los Angeles — virtually under control.

A high-ranking police officer said the attacks Sunday night and early today seemed "planned and organized." He didn't say by whom.

The death toll stood at 31.

After five days of senseless and seemingly spontaneous shooting, burning and pillaging, peace seemed near at dusk Sunday.

DARK BRINGS VIOLENCE

Then, with the dark, came spreading violence:

—Negroes rioted in a colored section of Long Beach, 15 miles south of the old riot centre at Watts; Long Beach Officer Richard Lefebre, 23, fell, mortally wounded by a shotgun blast.

—Nightriding gunmen, identified by witnesses as Negroes, blasted shots at homes in all-white Sylmar in the San Fernando Valley.

—Firebombs flared on Hollywood Boulevard in Hollywood and lumberyards were set afire in Wilmington, at the harbor, and near downtown Los Angeles.

—In San Diego, 120 miles south, Negroes rioted through a 30-block area. A white man was stabbed. Three stores were set afire.

—In suburban Van Nuys a warehouse burned, police captured nine Negro men and shot and wounded a Negro woman.

In Watts, guardsmen from the California 40th and 49th National Guard armored divisions began to tip the scales Saturday night after Lieuten-

Try to Arrange Speedy Trials For 2,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A massive legal problem — handling more than 2,000 persons arrested during rioting in south Los Angeles—confronted county and city prosecutors.

As city and district deputy attorneys worked around the clock to process mountains of formal paperwork, other officials sought enough judges and court space to try the defendants, the largest such number in local court history.

"Arrangements were made to handle this tremendous problem so that several thousand persons can be arraigned and tried," said District Attorney Evelle J. Younger Sunday night.

"And we still must be certain that the cases are tried in a manner which will not deny any individual his constitutional rights and privileges, and will guarantee to each a fair and a speedy trial."

Viet Cong Explodes Car-bombs Inside Saigon Police Centre

SAIGON (AP) — While two girl accomplices engaged a guard in conversation, Viet Cong terrorists drove a jeep and a car loaded with explosives into South Viet Nam's national police headquarters today and blew up several buildings.

Four policemen were killed by the blast and terrorist gunfire, reliable sources said. About 20 persons were wounded, including possibly six Americans, the sources said.

The terrorists escaped under cover of machine-gun fire from two other cars outside the police compound. A police guard claimed he hit one of the escaping men.

The explosion severely damaged the home of the director of the national police, Col. Pham Van Lieu. The headquarters consists of three buildings in a block-long complex of police buildings.

Informed sources gave this account of the daring raid:

At 9 a.m. two Vietnamese girls walked up to the guard at the headquarters entrance and engaged him in conversation.

His attention diverted, he hardly noticed a jeep driven by a man in uniform move past him and into the front yard of the headquarters. Then a green and white sedan drove up and he challenged it.

He was killed by a burst of machine-gun fire. The girls fled to a European car down the street. The drivers of the jeep and the sedan ran from the headquarters building, their movements covered by fire from another European car parked just across the street from the entrance.

They entered the car across the street and drove off as both vehicles inside the compound exploded.

One getaway car made a pass near a small police substation several blocks away and opened up on a guard, severely wounding him.

Police later found the other getaway car, abandoned and booby trapped. After defusing the bomb, the police found several sub-machine-guns inside.

The attack was the first serious terrorist incident in Saigon in seven weeks. More than 40 persons were killed June 25 when terrorists set off explosives at the My Canh restaurant on the Saigon riverfront.

Only Two Civilians Turned Up in 11-mile Tour of Riot Section in Los Angeles

By ROBERT MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Four rifles pointed through the window into the pickup truck and a national guard captain in a military vehicle blocked the street. From a rooftop a machine-gun and more rifles enforced the order to halt.

"Go in there if you want, but watch it at 50th Street," the captain said to a reporter. "They've got some of my boys pinned down by sniper fire."

The crack of a rifle three blocks away punctuated his statement.

This was pre-dawn Sunday in dreary Watts, the huge, rundown Negro section of southern Los Angeles. Normally it's loud and raucous and rowdy. For years it's been a magnet for the seeker of illicit thrills and after-hours bars.

But not this pre-dawn. The rifle, the crackle of flames from dozens of fires, an occasional siren and military combat boots on the pavement were all the noises.

Watts had buttoned up on the surface. What was going on behind shuttered doors and in back alleys? One could only guess—and become frightened.

An 11-mile tour of the section in the pickup truck turned up only two civilian pedestrians. And they were in a hurry.

But there were hundreds of police, guardsmen and firemen. Plus a random tourist or two. The tourists didn't stay long.

BLOCK IN FLAMES

One entire city block was in flames. The arsonist's torch engulfed a furniture store, apartment house, appliance store and a pawn shop. Firemen were dousing one corner of the block to keep the blaze from spreading. The rest they let burn. It was too far gone.

Hours before, sniper fire had prevented military - enforced firemen from getting to the block. By the time the snipers were cleaned out, there was no hope.

National guard troops taking a break flaked out along the sidewalks across from the fire. They curled in doorways of stores burned out earlier. Here and there, a flicker of fire could still be seen in the black shells.

Some stores bore crudely lettered signs:

They weren't touched.

Broadway in the heart of the district was an armed camp. Shot - gun - armed police, machine-gun mounted vehicles and rifle-toting soldiers eyed every passing car.

A crane was needed yesterday to free a horse from the CPR bridge on lower Front Street.

The horse, a two-year-old, was being led across the bridge by Sherry Houle, 17, of 24 2nd Street ,when its back hoof slipped off of the tie and lodged in between two ties.

The frightened horse lurched forward in an attempt to get free and slipped further down between the ties.

Police were called to the scene and a Finkle Crane was called.

Dr. Hamilton and Dr. Rogers administered tranquilizers to the horse, a railroad official took out a spike and jacked the track up and the crane hoisted the horse free.

A crowd of about 150 persons watched the operation.

Miss Houle was treated at the Belleville General Hospital for a badly bruised ankle and other small abrasions she received when the frightened horse kicked her.

ANAF Units Lead Parade At Exhibition

The Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association has been honored by the CNE Warriors' Day Parade Committee, on the occasion of the 125th anniversary of the inception of the organization.

They have been appointed to lead the big parade directly behind the National Band of New Zealand which has been brought to Canada to play daily concerts during the Exhibition in Toronto.

The ANAF Units will be led by a well known local citizen, Comrade J. C. Lundberg who is the Dominion president this year and also a member of the Belleville unit. He is very proud of his unit and is looking forward to a goodly contingent of the members to attend the parade on this, to the ANAF, auspicious occasion.

Unit 201 is arranging for bus transportation for members and their wives and tickets may be obtained from the stewards. Seats on the buses could be at a premium so members are advised to pick up their tickets as soon as possible. The date of the parade is next Saturday, August 21st. No better way of celebrating the anniversary could be found than attending this famous parade that honors all veterans, past and present. Wives will be able to get passes to the grounds and grandstand for the march past and can form their own little cheering section as the Belleville unit marches by.

Life-saving Tests Staged

The past five weeks of training ended for seven local swimmers when they passed their advanced life saving classes of the Belleville Kinsmen Pool. The classes were instructed by pool manager Jim Clelland and examined by Ray Godfrey of Belleville.

Miss Debra Holway and Ron Morrison passed their intermediate tests while Jane Ashley, Betty Bannon, Jim Black, Cathy Fox and Allan Reville passed their bronze medallion tests.

The intermediate life saving classes included basic life saving skills up to, but not including, bodily contact with a conscious victim and training to prepare the candidate for search and rescue work by development of water skills.

The bronze medallion emphasizes swimming and life saving skills and is designed to demonstrate that the candidate has the necesary physical strength and stamina to effect a bodily contact rescue. In addition, certain of the items provide preliminary training for the more advanced personal skills and water safety knowledge which are required in the senior awards and for the National Life Guard Service.

Mr. Clelland has been made an honorary associate of the Royal Life Saving Society due to his work in the training of life guarding personnel.

Conklin Midway Twin Corridors of Fun

The Midway, the Broadway of Belleville Fair, dress-rehearsed a cacophonous augury this afternoon.

The Conklin Shows, undisputed Court of Carnival, for decades is here again in a glittering presentation of rides, tented shows and concessions.

Its twin corridors the Great Light Ways of the annual exhibition outrank any of its predecessors for color, entertainment and variety of presentation.

Conklin, the master of carnival, is again well ahead of the trend of the Midway this year.

The alleys of fun, old as circusdom itself, offered tented and outside attractions that easily rate with the best seen here in the long history of the city's agricultural society.

Many units comprise the rides, inside shows and concessions.

Along the tented avenues patrons will find varied amusement, something old and something very new.

The rialto of rides offered a wide variety of thrills from the time-honored merry-go-round, and ferris wheel to the ultra-modern rocket-age gadgets.

Conklin has ingeniously welded education, entertainment, strange freaks of nature, music and dancing into the tented whole of the midway.

Part and parcel since carnivals were invented, the concessions form a lively part of the lighted corridors.

They're back again in all their colorful garb, the insistent voices of the barkers "live" and otherwise, the lively competition of various attractions, the music, the noise and the people.

THE RIDES

Many breath - taking and other rides are available for seekers of off - the - ground thrills.

For the older folks and those who like to take it easy there's the ever popular ferris wheel.

The Rock-O-Plane and the Tilt-a-Whirl are guaranteed to put patrons in orbit, so to speak. Then there's the Octopus and the Flying Scooter.

The "Paratrooper" ride is what the name indicates. A new ride is the Flying Coaster Scooter. There is the Roundup and the Scooter, a miniature roller coaster, too.

A innovation is the "Go Karts". You can race these miniatures at any speed. There's lots of room and plenty of thrills. There is an Umbrella Ride modelled after spacecraft.

And if you like creepy thrills ghosts and whatnot, there's the "Spookerama" a weird exhibition of flying bats, fanged monsters and other spinetinglers from the land of witches.

There's the Snake King of North America with a great variety of slithering serpents, jungle killers, poisonous reptiles and constrictors from all parts of the world.

For strict laughs there's the Fun House. To tell about it would be to spoil it. The Amusement Arcade is a must for the family.

On Concession Rows you can win teddy bears, dolls and assorted prizes. You can pitch pennies, toss baseballs, hurl darts, ring bottles, shoot rifles, roll wheels among a dozen other items of skill and luck.

You can play bingo eat candy floss; chew on candied apples, or "toothpick" French fries with hamburgs and hot dogs.

KIDDIE LAND

A boon to parents originated by Conklin interests some years ago is "Kiddy - Land" a miniature rides entity arranged for the children.

Here Mom and Dad can leave little Joe and Jane to their own fun under the watchful eye of careful attendants while they enjoy the "big" Midway and fair.

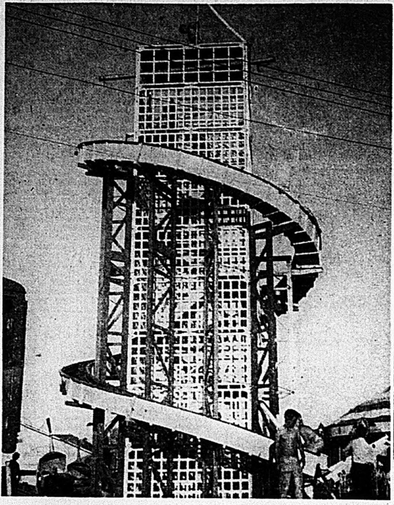
There is everything here to amuse the youngsters from the ubiquitous merry - go - round to airborne "bombers".

If Junior desires an army thrill he can ride the armored tanks, shoot down imaginary enemies and play make-believe soldier.

If he is sportsminded he can pilot a miniature racing car around a whirling track; drive a baby hydroplane motor boat. Or he can enjoy his own train ride in a slowly moving train complete with locomotive, passenger cars and pullmans.

Always a delight to youngsters are the swings. These are something different, safe and highly amusing.

Then there's the throwback to grandpa's days, something the youngsters will enjoy. It is the new horse - and - buggy ride, old yet brand new in children entertainment.



GOING UP! — Midway workers make busy scene as Conklin Shows prepares to unveil its 1965 attractions at Belleville Fair. Tower above is one of the surprises being prepared for patrons on the midway.

WOODS STRETCH FAR

Alaska has 225,000,000 acres of forests.

BROILED ROOSTER! — With temperatures running close to the 100-mark in the hottest day of the year, this was the only casualty as Belleville Fair set up yesterday. Rooster, owned by Colborne exhibitor, was overcome by heat and had to be taken outdoors where it was tenderly tended by seven-year-old Chris Lapointe, West Moira Street.

British Blacks Plan Defence Against KKK

BIRMINGHAM (AP) — West Indian immigrants in Britain plan to set up a national organization to defend their interests and provide protection against the Ku Klux Klan and its methods.

This was decided at a meeting Sunday of the London and Birmingham standing conferences of West Indian organizations, representing some 11,000 West Indians in the two cities.

Violence between whites and Negroes continued Sunday in the Midlands industrial city of Wolverhampton. A fight broke out after a television crew interviewed whites and Negroes on racial tension in the city. Police stopped the fracas before it spread.

Fights also broke out Thursday and Friday nights, but reinforced police patrols prevented major clashes Saturday. Several persons were arrested Friday and more Saturday when about 100 whites march with such banners as "Let's get at the blacks."

Canoeists Add New Elements In Long Trip

HONEY HARBOUR, Ont. (CP)—The Alberta crews in the 600-mile canoe trip designed as a trial-run for a cross-country centennial voyage, have added new elements to the tradition of the voyageurs of 350 years ago.

They have plastic pipes installed in their canoes to transmit drinking water to the oarsmen, thereby getting around the necessity of dipping for water.

This is only a part of the overall efficiency shown by the two western crews whose boats are specially adapted and loaded for perfect balance.

Each crew member has a specific task in the boat and around the campfire and carries it out with speed and precision.

With this efficiency, they have been able to instill competitive spirit in the voyage planned only to give the crews experience.

The Alberta crews have lost the lead only once when the Ontario boats set out 10 minutes early one morning.

AS IN A RACE

Most teams are participating in the trip as if it were a race but the New Brunswick crew would have nothing of that.

Sunday night the eight crews from three provinces and two territories bedded down in Honey Harbour, thus ending the first week of the trip from North Bay to Gananoque.

Today they will enter the Severn River system and expect to reach Orillia Tuesday where a civic welcome at the foot of Champlain's Monument is planned.

Orillia is about 28 miles southeast of Honey Harbour but by water it's a trip of more than 70 miles.

Son-in-law Charged in Double Murder

CROW LAKE, Ont. (CP)—William Hugh Beattie, 24, of Smiths Falls, Ont., has been charged with capital murder following the deaths Saturday night of a 57-year-old man and his eight-year-old daughter in this community about 30 miles north of Kingston.

Milton Barker and his daughter Sharon died from shotgun wounds. Mr. Barker's wife, Helen, 46, is in serious condition with shotgun wounds in hospital in Ottawa.

Beattie, son-in law of the Barkers, was charged Sunday.

N.B. in Good Position Says Robichaud

CARAQUET, N.B. (CP) — Premier Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick said Saturday his province is in a good position to counteract separatist theories and to help Canadian unity.

Speaking here at the congress of the National Society of Acadians, Mr. Robichaud said New Brunswick possesses the "essential elements necessary to become the most bilingual in the country" since it has "the best balance between English and French-speaking people."

"This places the province in a position where it can contradict separatist theories and thus cement Canadian unity," Mr. Robichaud said.

More and more English-speaking Canadians were realizing that progress made by Acadians was in the general interest of all. One of the "most striking example" of the understanding shown by English-speaking people was their acceptance of a French-language university in Moncton.

Mr. Robichaud listed three factors contributing to a real appreciation of the French presence in Acadia: The efforts made by Acadians to preserve human values, the recognition of New Brunswick's role in preserving a bilingual Canada and the present climate of ecumenical and international brotherhood which is making for mutual understanding.

Claim Indians Cross Kashmir Truce Line

KARACHI (AP)—Radio Pakistan claimed today that Indian forces had crossed the UN cease-fire line in the Kargil area of Kashmir and occupied three border posts.

The radio quoted a spokesman of the Azad Kashmir government in the Pakistani sector of Kashmir.

Sunday night the Azad Kashmir government reported that an earlier Indian attempt to invade the Pakistani sector had been repulsed with heavy Indian casualties. That report said India had been shelling Pakistani posts for the last three days.

In the Indian sector of Kashmir, at least two civilians were killed in fighting Sunday night between the Indian army and guerrillas 18 miles southwest of Srinagar, the Indian government radio reported.

The guerrillas were believed to have suffered heavily, the broadcast said.

TROOPS ON MOVE

Long Indian army convoys headed west toward areas hit by guerrilla warfare Sunday but officials refused to say whether this was a big anti-guerrilla operation or merely a precaution.

Young Swimmer Is Overcome But Revived

TRENTON — Larry Brant of 59 Church Street, Belleville, narrowly escaped drowning yesterday evening at Cedardale Beach near Brighton, where hundreds of area residents swarmed to cool off in the water. Brant, in his 20's, had gone swimming after a meal and was missed by friends. He was seen bobbing up and down in the water and when pulled ashore was in a semi-conscious state. Rushnell Ambulance was called and resuscitation was applied. Brant was released from Trenton hospital after treatment.

Has Leg Broken

TRENTON — Nine-year-old Allan Macaulay, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Macaulay of Batawa, suffered a fractured left leg and possible chest injuries when he was struck by a car on Highway 33, near the Bata plant around 8 p.m. Sunday night.

Communications Complex Taken to Noise-free Area

TRENTON — The sprawling Department of National Defence's communication complex north of the No. 6 Repair Depot (RCAF) disappeared from the Trenton skyline a week ago.

Some of the equipment was relocated at the Carrying Place receiving site while some went to the new transmission centre developed at Point Petre on the southern tip of Prince Edward county. The move to the noise - free areas was recommended by engineers when interference around the Trenton base became an ever - increasing problem.

One giant item, a transmitting and receiving aerial, 116 feet high came through the changeover literally without a scratch. It was taken down and dismantled at the Trenton site with the same careful precision a watchmaker re - sets an expensive railroad timepiece. In this way technicians were able to strip down the mammoth head piece by piece without the delicate V shaped apparatus actually making contact with the ground. The removal operation was supervised by R. (Bob) Forrester of Ottawa field manager Electronics Materials of Canada the changeover contractors.

The physical phase of the big move was handled by the local moving firm of Lafferty-Smith Express Lines Ltd., with company principal Harold Haggerty on location personally directing his crews. Wilson Concrete's biggest self - propelled crane was employed to lower the top heavy mast, inch by inch, while a dozen workmen held long ropes taut and guided it gently to earth. It was necessary to raise the aerial back into place, turn the huge head around 180 degrees, and then let it down slowly again before this aspect of the transfer was completed. The continuing inspection program for the defence department was carried out by Ed Bernhoef of Ottawa.

REMOTE CONTROL

An aerial of this proportion and design is used to maintain contact with the various Canadian armed services personnel stationed around the world. It is tuned by remote control located in a building elsewhere on the site. The sharp end can be positioned to any point on the compass in a 360 degree sweep. For instance when it is aimed at Marville, France, the antenna situated there is pointed west to correspond. Reception, however, depends on atmospheric conditions that prevail through the vastness along the route. The voice and wireless signal link is vital in airlift operations to far-off overseas places like the Congo and Cyprus. It is one of the intricate devices utilized by No. 8 Communication Squadron at Trenton with F/L W. R. McKinnon in charge. Its range was tested successfully recently when messages were exchanged during a training flight to the land's end in South American between 6,000 and 7,000 miles distance.

New U.S. Policy Designed To End UN Voting Quarrel

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg was reported ready to unveil a new U.S. policy today designed to break the deadlock over Soviet voting rights in the UN General Assembly.

Details of the U.S. plan were closely guarded. But UN diplomats said the deadlock could be broken only by a reversal of the U.S. stand that the Russians must pay their overdue peacekeeping assessments or lose their vote in the General Assembly.

Goldberg was scheduled to outline the new policy in the assembly's 33-nation committee on peacekeeping operations. He and State Secretary Dean Rusk worked out the final draft of the plan during the weekend.

The former Supreme Court justice has given top priority to the UN financial crisis since he succeeded the late Adlai E. Stevenson as spokesman for the Johnson administration at the world organization. He is understood to have taken the position throughout that the assembly must return to normal operations this fall.

The 114-nation body was paralyzed all last winter by the deadlock over Article 19 of the UN Charter. This provides that member nations who are two years in arrears in payment of assessments will lose their assembly vote. The Soviet Union, France and 11 other countries are in this category, but a showdown has been averted so far by a no-vote truce.

One of the major problems Goldberg faced was to find a formula for easing the U.S. position without arousing widespread criticism within the United States. Several congressional leaders openly opposed any U.S. retreat.

Airport Facility

The long trek from the main passenger lounge to departure points at Montreal airport has long been a source of annoyance to air travellers. Particularly if one is in danger of missing the plane. A Belleville resident of our acquaintance recalls puffing along a long empty corridor at Dorval, carrying his hand baggage and hoping the plane had not taken off.

The reason for his being late was not his fault. The train which should have got him to Dorval with a full hour to spare was half-an-hour or more late. That was nearly three years ago, but the memory of that frustrating day lingers on. Our friend caught the plane all right, but only because it also was late taking off.

However, things are going to improve at Dorval, and a Belleville firm will be responsible. Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing Company of Canada Ltd. (which recently won a contract for conveyor belt equipment from a mining company in Brazil) has been awarded a $790,000 contract for the installation of moving sidewalks at the airport. The parent company of the local firm has installed similar facilities at the Los Angeles, San Francisco and Akron-Canton, Ohio, airports.

At least one European airport—at Copenhagen—has another device to facilitate pedestrian traffic, but it is for staff only. It is a scooter of sorts, not unlike a skurfboard, on which ground stewardesses propel themselves from one point to another with the push of an elegant foot.

Off the Beaten Path

There is a stretch of Lake Superior dotted with offshore islands which, seen from the Trans-Canada Highway between Marathon and Schreiber as the sun goes down, has a primeval quality, a rare strain of beauty that once observed is never forgotten.

It is also a region that has managed to escape the clutches of large-scale commercialization. There are pulp and paper mills and other industries to be sure, and tourism flourishes, but the virgin quality of the land has been largely maintained.

At the Lakehead, and over the border in Minnesota, there are off-the-beaten-track (but easily accessible) areas which the visitor, once he is in that region, should not miss—like Lake Marie Louise on Sibley Peninsula ("The Sleeping Giant"), Silver Islet at the tip of the peninsula where the view down the coast to Grand Marais, Minn., in one direction, and to the dim outline of Isle Royale in the other, far from sight and sound of hot dog stands and the madding crowd, affords a blend of water and sky and landscape on a majestic scale.

Yet vacationers race along Highway 17 and the Trans-Canada, unaware of the treasures at hand. The Fort William Times-Journal spoke on this theme recently. "Thousands of Canadians and Americans who pass through northwestern Ontario," the paper observed, "return home without ever knowing that they were close to the nature sanctuary at Sibley Park, the old Indian picture gallery near Nipigon the site of the fabulous Silver Islet mine, or the spot in Fort William where the first fur traders built their first fort."

One reason why these spots are little known is their comparative isolation and the fact that they are not widely publicized. Still, they are there, for all who wish to see them.

If a mature biology were ever to bring about the birth of a super-human being, how would man react to him? Would he congratulate himself on at last having got a companion in his solitude, and on being able to expect from an abler brain the solution of those great enigmas which have baffled him until now? Or would he regret having made with his own hands the creation to whom he must now stand as an inferior brother?—Jean Rostand in The Substance of Man.

There is a great similarity between the church and the theatre . . . both are highly dramatic. A person who loves the theatre could feel not very far removed from Mass on Sunday and the dressing room at 8 o'clock sharp. — Elaine Stritch, star of Annie Get Your Gun at the Royal Alexandra, Toronto.

NO LET-UP

To Your Good Health

Not Always Easy to Learn What Causes Hiatal Hernia

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes a hiatus hernia? Should it be surgically repaired? — Mrs. E. R.

We know what a hiatus hernia is, and how it behaves, but the cause is not always clear.

This ailment, also called hiatal hernia and sometimes upside stomach in extreme cases, is not related to the very common abdominal hernias or ruptures.

Rather, it is a fault in the place at which the esophagus, or gullet, has to pass through the diaphragm. After all, there has to be a way for our victuals to reach the stomach.

If this aperture in the diaphragm is a little larger than it should be, the extreme upper part of the stomach may force its way into or up through the opening. The result can be misery very similar to that of ulcers.

I can't say whether hiatal hernia is more common than formerly, but it certainly is being recognized frequently now.

Some relaxation of the supporting fibrous tissues in the area may be a substantial factor, and we know that hiatal hernia much more often is found in older people in whom some changes in the fiborous tissues are likely to occur. (I don't mean that young people can't have the problem; it occurs in the 20's and 30's, too.)

Obesity may be a factor — pressure within the abdominal cavity tends to force the stomach out of position. Indeed, loss of some weight often is a very effective means of easing the trouble.

In a booklet I've just completed on hiatal hernia, that is one of the various forms of treatment. (If you want a copy, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents in coin, and mail the request to me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill.)

As to surgery, yes, that may be necessary at times, but most decidedly not always. Many minor cases of hiatal hernia are found incidentally in the course of X-ray studies. A lot of these present no symptoms.

Many others, with non-surgical treatment, are corrected or kept well enough under control so that they cause no discomfort.

Surgical repair is indicated when symptoms involve a persistent burning sensation, difficulty in swallowing, and bleeding.

Dear Dr. Molner: My children and I like salt the way most people like candy. We drink a lot of tea and colas, too. Does that mean we need more salt? Is this seasoning dangerous, as some people say, and will it dry up the blood? — J. P.

We all need a certain amount of salt, although for some people it has to be in very limited quantities.

Your "liking" for it is a matter of taste and, I dare say, an acquired quirk of appetite. Your children probably got the habit by following your lead.

Salt increases thirst, which probably accounts for the amount of tea and colas you drink. Your thirst, thus, makes you want more liquid to carry away any excess salt.

Salt doesn't dry up the blood. However, with certain heart, liver or kidney ailments, the amount should be limited. (Salt doesn't cause these troubles, but it results in fluids accumulating in the body tissues in such cases, and that is harmful.)

Handbags For Men Forecast

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What is "effeminate" for men? Lace collars? Perfume? Tight velvet breeches? At one period or another in history, these have adorned some of the toughest, boldest, and most heroic men of their time.

I thought of this while reading an item in a recent issue of the Insider's Newsletter, reporting that "handbags" for men are becoming popular in Europe and have begun to invade England.

One type is a black leather bag dangling from the wrist by a strap. "No smart man can afford to be without one," insists British designer George Mayard, because the bag contains whatever a man stuffs in his pockets and doesn't "ruin the line" of his suit.

It is hard to believe, but in my own lifetime both cigarets and wrist watches were considered "effeminate" for men. When I was a boy, men carried huge watches in their pockets; not one man in a hundred wore a wrist watch, which was deemed too dainty and feminine.

And, according to Robert Heimann's exhaustive treatise, "Tobacco and Americans," a distinctive American cigaret did not emerge until 1913. Up to that time, and even beyond it, cigarets were considered sissyish and effete, compared to cigars, pipes and chewing tobacco. But within a decade of their full-scale introduction, cigarets lost their "effeminate" connotation.

Nothing is more subjective, more temporal, more easily overturned, than style and fashion. The history of the beard in American life is an interesting example: from decade to decade it has been considered, successively, as masculine, unsanitary, dignified, ridiculous, a mark of affluence and then a sign of disreputableness, and now the brand of the beatnik and non-cnformist.

Actually, the handbag idea for men makes some sense, objectively considered. The increasing popularity of the brief case and attache case indicates that men are now carrying more than their pockets can handle—especially in the way of credit cards so voluminous that they burst wallets at the seam. There is nothing any more intrinsically "feminine" about a handbag than about the lace collars and cuffs worn by the most adventuresome cutthroats of the Cavalier period.

Indeed, it is only comparatively recently in Western history that the male has been content to dress drably, while the female exhibits the bright plumage. Until the rise of the bourgeoisie a couple of centuries ago, it was the male of the species who adorned himself splendidly both among the aristocrats and the fighting men.

"Masculine" and "feminine" are physical characteristics, but hardly cultural ones. In the realm of fashion, the handbag may be standing in the wings, ready to take its place beside the wrist watch and the cigaret as marks of manhood in the modern world.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

August 16, 1965 . . .

English workmen held a public meeting 146 years ago today—in 1819—at Manchester to demand parliamentary reform. The magistrates of the city, on the alert for the first signs of revolution, ordered soldiers to break up the meeting. What ensued was later derisively known as the Peterloo Massacre, because the meeting had been held in St. Peter's Field and the troops were drawn from regiments with Waterloo battle honors. Eleven people were killed and countless more injured.

1812—General Brock captured Detroit.

1857 — Imprisonment for debt was abolished in Canada.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915—a German submarine shelled the northeast coast of England; the Greek government resigned; No. 1 Canadian Stationary Hospital arrived at the Aegean island of Lemnos.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940 — the second VC of the war was awarded to Lieut. Richard Stannard of the RNR trawler Arab for his part in the Namsos expedition; President Roosevelt announced the start of negotiations for U.S. bases on British territory; the RAF attacked an Italian seaplane base in Libya.

Offshore Rights Quandary

Montreal Gazette

The question of what governments have authority over offshore rights — the rights to oil and minerals that lie off shorelines but underwater — is not likely to be one solved by law alone. It is a large question, and a vague one. The British North America Act is clouded and uncertain on the point, as is to be expected, since it was drawn up at a time when even if legal opinions might give all these rights exclusively to the federal Government, practical, or political, problems would arise as to how far the federal Government could proceed in shutting the provinces out.

The conflict of fact is seen in the way that Nova Scotia, long years ago, began burrowing under the sea in its coal mines. Newfoundland has granted offshore exploration rights in an area where they had previously been granted by Ottawa, and Ottawa has granted such rights where they had previously been granted by Quebec. And the Government of British Columbia has opposed the granting of exploration rights by the federal Government off the Queen Charlotte Islands.

• • •

The fact that the whole matter is too broad and complex and controversial to be simply a matter for legal opinion is seen in the way it has been debated at federal-provincial conferences, and is due to be debated at the next conference. It is difficult to see how the federal Government, even if armed with a judicial opinion, could proceed to press Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Quebec and British Columbia out of all off-shore rights. Nor does the matter end there. The other Maritime provinces are also concerned. So are Ontario and Manitoba, as they touch on Hudson's Bay, which is considered high seas. If the federal Government were to press forward on a matter of this kind and importance, it would find itself locked in a struggle with almost all the provinces.

The same question arose in the United States. Did Washington or the states have the off-shore rights? In the decisions of the Supreme Court the matter wavered. The court upheld state rights to off-shore areas 53 times. Then, in 1947, its decision gave the "paramount rights" to Washington. President Truman cited this 1947 decision in twice vetoing bills passed by Congress that would have given off-shore rights to states.

• • •

But in the United States, as may prove to be the case also in Canada, the matter was too massive and difficult not to find a political adjustment. In his 1952 campaign President Eisenhower said he would give the states their rights to all off-shore areas within their historic boundaries (that is to say, the boundaries recognized at their admission to statehood). He redeemed this campaign pledge with a bill, signed on May 22, 1953.

It was in a sense, a compromise. For while it gave the states off-shore rights within their historic boundaries, Washington retained control of the Continental Shelf beyond these boundaries. The President said that those resources on the Continental Shelf "should be administered by the Federal Government and income therefrom should go into the Federal Treasury."

In 1960 the Supreme Court, in view of the Act of 1953, ruled that Texas, Florida, Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi were all entitled to off-shore rights within their historic boundaries. These rights varied from 10½ miles in the case of Texas and Florida, to areas of only three miles in the case of some of the other states. Similar differences might exist in Canada, as the various provinces were admitted under varying conditions regarding their natural resources.

It seems hard to believe that an issue of this kind is likely to be settled in Canada except by adjustment between Ottawa and the provinces. The Government of the United States, even though armed with the Supreme Court decision of 1947, granting it "paramount rights" in off-shore areas, did not see fit to press its rights against all states.

Those who framed the British North America Act did not foresee the day when men would go down to the sea for other purposes than to fish, or would have other business even beneath the waters. It would be best if a development so unforeseen at the time the constitution was drawn up should now be settled, as most other new and deep questions will have to be settled, in the spirit of compromise and by means of negotiation.

The Conservative Dilemma

The Globe and Mail

There is an unreal quality about the political philosophizing in which Mr. George Hees has been indulging lately. Like some other members of the Diefenbaker Cabinet who departed it abruptly in 1963, Mr. Hees is full of ideas for reforming the Conservative Party.

His most recent suggestion is that a new policy-producing machine be established within the party, drawing upon the best brains both inside and outside the group. There should be a number of consultative committees, suggests Mr. Hees, which would study particular fields and submit practical proposals for Government action. These committees, suggests Mr. Hees, should be chaired by former Cabinet Ministers.

The remarkable part of Mr. Hees' proposal is that he should be the person making it. In the insurrectionist days of 1963, a number of people left the Cabinet in dispute with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker. Trade and Commerce Minister Hees, Defense Minister Douglas Harkness and Associate Defense Minister Pierre Sevigny openly admitted their disagreement. Others found more politic reasons for departing. Public Works Minister A. Davie Fulton went forth to rescue the Conservatives of British Columbia — not too successfully. Secretary of State Ernest Halpenny had health reasons. Justice Minister Donald Fleming had private reasons. Transport Minister Leon Balcer, after being re-elected, later left the party itself, for Quebec reasons.

But all save Mr. Harkness left their party at a time when it desperately needed leadership. Apart from Mr. Balcer, only Mr. Harkness and Mr. Sevigny ran in the ensuing election, and only Mr. Balcer and Mr. Harkness were elected. Mr. Harkness, in fact, is the only one of the dissident Ministers who stuck grimly with both his party and his principles. A call from him to reform might wear a respectable air.

From the others, not excluding Mr. Fulton it is a call so distant as to be all but inaudible. When they could not agree with their leader in Ottawa, they found greener pastures. They are coming back now because the possibility of an early leadership convention begins to loom (although it does not seem to loom very large against the convincing portrayal of a campaigning leader now being enacted in the West by Mr. Diefenbaker); but back they are. Do they really expect that those who stayed to continue the fight will now follow their call from the wilderness? Do they really expect to chair those consultative committees?

In 1963, they could not unseat Mr. Diefenbaker. They thought he was the wrong man for the job, but he proved to be stronger than the lot of them; and he is still stronger and frequently right, to boot. Not one of them has yet had the courage to march forth to bell the cat. They wait for someone else to do that, and talk about party philosophy and reforming the Conservative Party from top to toe. There is room aplenty for such talk but scarcely from them.

The truth is that there will be no reform, no meaningful new policy, until the Conservative Party has a new leader; and it would take a real optimist (like Mr. Hees) to see one in the offing. The Conservatives are so divided, in so traumatic a state, that they cannot bring their minds to bear on reform or policy; and even if they could the new leader would make his own policy. If he ever comes over the horizon.

This is the tragedy of the Conservative Party. More importantly, it is the tragedy of Canada. Never before has the country so urgently needed an alternative to the Government in power. The Government has implemented policies, in and out of the House of Commons, that, by their jealously unitive attacks on the United States, could disrupt our whole economy, that injure the democratic process, that could shatter Confederation itself. It has been able to do this, though a minority Government because the Conservatives are so divided internally that they cannot function even as an effective Opposition.

There are many rare and exquisitely beautiful specimens of birds in the galleries of the Royal Ontario Museum. These vary from the large and showy birds of paradise to the gem-like humming - birds. Yet in the Museum there is another bird specimen, the rarest of them all, which name is unknown. Its song has never been heard. The color of its plumage has long since faded. This is a fossilized specimen consisting of a single feather shed in flight nearly 50 million years ago, and now delicately preserved in soft crumbly rock. The feather fell in or near some body of water in the present region of the French Alps. Accumulating muds, which later hardened into rocks, covered it and preserved it for us to study.

17 Racehorses Perish in Barn Fire

SALEM, N.Y. (AP)—At least 17 thoroughbred racehorses, valued at an average of about $8,000 each, perished in a barn fire Sunday night in the main stable area at Rockingham Park.

Thirty horses that broke loose were rounded up 15 miles from the scene.

Among the dead was three-year-old Jubilee Hill, valued at $30,000 by a stall superintendent.

The general alarm fire levelled the 360-foot stable sheltering 42 horses, and started a stampede. Police said the blaze began in a nearby trailer where the grooms sleep.

INJURED MAN DIES

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP)—Robert E. Marr, of Thorold, Ont., whose wife and mother were killed Thursday in a two-car collision, died in hospital here today from injuries received in the same accident. Killed Thursday were Mrs. Robert Marr, 24, and Mrs. Ernest Marr, 47, of Wilsonville, Ont. Three other persons were injured in the accident 15 miles northeast of here.

Absent-minded Professors May Soon Get Job Relief

OTTAWA (CP)—The latest employment suggestion for retired armed forces officers—assistant professorships.

Their job—to handle administration in university departments and free absent-minded (and other) professors from some of their routine.

The idea was put forward after the bulletin of the Canadian Association of Physicists posed this half-serious question: "Do professors need keepers?"

Frank T. Davies, chief of the Defence Research Board's chemical laboratories, thinks maybe they do. He wrote in reply that absent-mindedness among professors, especially in administrative matters, is still rife.

He described an old professor of his he calls Johnny who, when walking home from the campus, would turn around to shield his pipe from the wind while lighting it and, forgetting which way he had been going, would walk back to the campus.

STILL NEED HELP

"Superficial changes have occurred among professors during the 40 years since Johnny taught us conic sections. Nowadays a professor is quite likely to have a haircut or a bath on his own initiative without being prodded by his wife. Nevertheles, this is a superficial change.

"This solution (for absentmindeness about administration) could be painless by appointing a retired officer of the armed services to each university department in the rank of asistant professor.

"He would soon take care of all the administsrative matters which tend to be spread among a half dozen or more professors.

"There is a continuing lament over the shortage of professors in our rapidly expanding universities. Employment of retired officers would ease the strain of recruitment of professors by some 10 to 20 per cent and, besides allowing each professor to work full time as a professor would substantially improve the efficiency of departmental administration.

"Many of these officers are in their early 50s or late 40s with wide experience in specialist branches as well as in the several aspects of administration."

Playground Activities

FIREHALL

A very successful 'Indian Day' was held at the Firehall Playground on Thursday, August 12. The children assembled in their Indian costumes at about 1.30 p.m., some in the costumes they had made the previous day in arts and crafts. The judging of the costumes took place at 2.00 p.m. and the winners were as follows: most colorful, John Spurgeon; most realistic, Heather Cox; smallest Indian, Linda Sinclair; most attractive Indian maiden, Elaine Evans; fiercest looking, Gordon Sinclair.

Following the judging of the costumes several contests were held. The winners of these contests were as follows: best war whoop, 1st, Terry Lapointe, 2nd, Barbara Ellis; best Indian dance, 1st, Bonnie Sinclair, 2nd, Fred Wright.

The judges for these events were Evonne Welch, Debbie Cox and Judy Downey.

The childhen then went for a short parade around the neighborhood and returned to the playground for refresments and a marshmallow roast.

Supervisor Nancy Williams would like to thank those who brought refreshments and everyone who participated in this successful event.

Auto Workers Still Out At Brampton

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Representatives of the American Motors (Canada) Ltd. plant here and striking auto workers said Sunday night there has been no move by either side to reopen negotiations and no meetings are scheduled to discuss the strike moving towards its fourth day.

More than 1,250 auto workers, members of Local 1285, United Auto Workers (CLC), walked off the job Friday night, four hours before the midnight deadline set last Tuesday.

The strike—to back demands for higher wages and improved fringe benefits—was the first in the plant's five-year history. It came as production was about to start on 1966 auto models.

Earl Brownridge, president of American Motors, said Sunday the union would have to be more realistic in its demands before negotiations can be resumed.

James Peters, president of the union local, said negotiations could start immediately if Mr. Brownridge's statement "that the company was not going to pay more than the General Motors rates" were realistic.

Mr. Peters said the company has not met the General Motors of Canada Ltd. rates in all areas.

Hourly wage rates currently range from $2.16 an hour for laborers to $2.76 for the highest-paid skilled workers. The company claims the union is demanding increases amounting to 27 cents an hour. The union says it totals only 12½ cents.

Violence

ant-Governor Glenn Anderson, acting in the absence of Governor Edmund G. Brown, declared a state of insurrection.

Brown cut short his European vacation, returned here, and Sunday toured a Watts area subdued by more than 14,000 guardsmen and 1,000 police—but still ringing with bursts of sniper fire.

Brown's party turned back just short of an area where gunfire blazed.

Early today the statistics told results of six days' rioting: Killed—31; injured—801; arrested—2,603.

In every southern California community with big Negro populations tension mounted, crowds gathered, and police added extra crews.

The terror in the streets caused a rush among white citizens to arm themselves. Homeowners with guns watched through the night in countless homes.

Among the acts of violence:

—A 47-year-old Negro woman's legs were "almost cut off" Sunday by a burst of 20 rounds from a national guard machine-gun at a Watts roadblock. Guardsmen said she refused to halt. Police said her car held a dozen Molotov cocktails.

—A two - storey apartment building in a white section in the harbor district was set afire Sunday night by a gasoline bomb. Police and firemen controlled it.

—A hidden gunman fired at cars on the Golden State Freeway Sunday night in Los Angeles. When police got there he was gone.

"We know some of the terrorists are sneaking out of the Watts area," said a police official. "We stopped cars of men heading toward white sections from Watts with loads of gasoline bombs."

Inside the military perimeter thrown around the Negro section by guardsmen, shortages developed.

Whole blocks of businesses were looted and burned by pillaging mobs — among them many drug stores and markets. Most of those which remained undamaged were closed.

An 8 p.m. - to - dawn curfew kept residents from seeking food and drugs elsewhere.

SHORTAGE SERIOUS

Governor Brown announced Sunday night:

"There is a serious shortage of food in some neighborhoods in the riot areas. It is important to re-establish normal business and public service in south Los Angeles."

At Miami, Fla., Dr. Martin Luther King said he planned to travel to Los Angeles "in the next few days" at the request of Negro leaders in the area. He said he would visit Watts, once order was restored, to deal with underlying social problems.

Long Beach police, aided by Los Angeles officers and national guard units, curbed lawlessness at the city's Negro section and said control was complete there.

They said the officer killed by gunfire may have been hit by a discharge fired as another officer struggled with an armed Negro. It wasn't determined immediately whose gun killed the policeman.

The San Diego riot was also brought under control.

Outlook Good for Increase Of U.S. Tourists to Canada

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—Americans are showing a blithe disregard for President Johnson's plea to holiday in the United States this year and help solve the dollar drain aboard.

Travel to Canada, Mexico and other global watering spots will be greater than ever, all signs indicate.

American tourist travel abroad in recent years has produced an annal deficit of about $1,500,000,000, and such spending this year is an estimated $3,800,000,000 compared with $3,400,000,000 last year.

The number of passports issued is higher by some 17 per cent. Transatlantic air travel has increased more than that. Canada and Mexico grabbed the lion's share of the 13,500,000 Americans going abroad last year and auto crossings to Canada by Americans for the first four months of 1965 are nearly 10 per cent higher.

The American Automobile Association predicts 6,000,000 U.S. citizens will enter Canada this summer.

Canada and Mexico were never mentioned in the requests by President Johnson and others for more stay - at - home holidays this year. Europe was the main target.

MOSTLY FROM U.S.

Canadian tourist receipts in 1964 amounted to about $661,000,000 and 90 per cent was from U.S. visitors.

The Canadian expectation for 1965 is around $700,000,000 with the U.S. still providing most of it.

One possible threat for 1965, aside from fewer visitors, had been the president's proposal to trim the amount of duty-free purchases Americans could take back home.

He proposed a limit of $50 retail—against the existing $166—but has settled for $100. This includes a quart of liquor compared with the gallon permitted in the expiring standards.

But this doesn't take effect until Oct. 1.

Continuing good times in the U.S. seem to be the main reason for the rising American exodus. Personal income and other tax cuts are believed to have financed some trips.

Also cited are fears of tougher restrictions in the future—and perhaps a simple desire to get away from grim international news.

Canadians in 1964 took in $590,000,000 from the U.S. visitors and spent $483,000,000 for a surplus on that account.

Emperor Leads Japanese In Remembrance of Defea

By RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese people heard the broadcast 20 years ago Sunday: "The war situation has developed not necessarily to Japan's advantage."

The recorded voice of Emperor Hirohito was announcing surrender in the Second World War struggle he said was waged against the United States and Britain "to insure Japan's self-preservation and the stabilization of east Asia."

The record had come safely overnight through an attempt by a group of diehard young Japanese Army officers to seize it from the Imperial Palace and force continuance of the fighting.

Court chamberlains and one of the participants, former Lt.-Col. Masataka Iwata, told the story Saturday.

Now a balding, bespectacled employee of a big advertising firm, Iwata said in a television broadcast the officers took over the palace to "insulate the emperor from the outside and beg his majesty to reconsider his decision to surrender."

WERE DETERMINED

"Until the emperor's decision to surrender, it was the unified determination of the 4,000,000 officers and men of the armed forces to have another fight on the Japanese mainland," Iwata said.

Elaborating in an interview with the English - language Asahi Evening News, he said:

"I don't know how many hundreds of thousands of American lives would have had to be sacrificed, but it is cer that millions of Japanese—

Women's Institutes

WALLBRIDGE W. I.

WALLBRIDGE — The regular meeting of the Wallbridge Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. E. Demorest with a fair number in attendance.

In the absence of the president Mrs. D. Shorey, the meeting was conducted by Mrs. H. Phillips. The secretary-treasurer read a letter concerning the group's catering at the Belleville Fair when meals were planned, to be served on the Thursday. Other business was discussed and various plans made. A donation of $25. was made to the Wallbridge softball team. Leaders for the next course of the 4-H Club on "The Club Girl Entertains", will be chosen at a later date.

The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. G. Ketcheson.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess after which lunch was served by an appointed committee.

QUINTE W. I.

The Quinte Women's Institute held its August meeting in the Memorial Hall on Tuesday afternoon August 10th with 17 members and ten visitors present.

Mrs. Charles Wood, president opened the meeting in usual manner and welcomed everyone. The convener of home economics, Mrs. C. Keene took over the meeting with Mrs. D. Atkins giving the motto "Women, especially mothers, and their place in the home today."

Mrs. C. Keene and Mrs. H. Thompson were the leaders of the last 4-H club "What shall I wear." The blouses that were made during this period by the club members were on display. Four girls of this Club put on a skit "a shopping trip", showing how to buy and choose material suitable for the individual who will be wearing the blouse. This was most interesting and enjoyed by all.

Mrs. H. Thompson and Mrs. C. Keene told of how they enjoyed the bus trip with the Boys and Girls Club members to Peterborough on June 28th. There was a group of 205 club members who made this tour. They toured the Peterborough Community Centre, Wesclox and the DeLaval factories. The DeLaval tour was most interesting for Club Members, showing the different processes for manufacturing milkers, separators and other farm items.

Four of Quinte Institute 4-H members will attend Peterborough and Belleville Fairs, judging 4-H Club displays.

Mrs. H. Thompson and Mrs. C. Keene will be Club Leaders for the next 4-H Club dealing with "A Club Girl Entertains."

Plans were made for the leather craft Short Course to be held in the Hall, September 27, 28, and 29th. The Institute members are planning a bus trip to Niagara on August 30th.

The meeting was closed in the usual way and a social half hour was enjoyed.

What's the use of advertising?

well, it helps keep Jack O'Hara on the job

Let's face it. Jack's job as a quality inspector, your job, and mine, all depend on a growing economy. And continued economic growth depends on increased production. Which depends on increased consumption. Which, in turn, depends on sales.

That's where advertising comes in. It's a means of selling goods or services—a rather special means, for one ad in a daily newspaper usually reaches thousands of consumers. Thus it helps to sell merchandise to a great many people. This accomplished, the advertiser must increase his production. So he hires more people.

But if he didn't advertise, if he couldn't sell all the merchandise he produced, it wouldn't be long before he had to lay off some of his workers. If this happened in many businesses, the whole economy would slow down. And a lot of people would be out of work.

But let's look on the bright side of things. Advertising does stimulate sales. Increased sales lead to increased production. And increased production leads to more jobs and more job security, for Jack O'Hara, for you, for all of us.

Think about it next time you pick up your daily newspaper. The ads you read actually help keep all of us on the job.

Hearse Is Not Suitable Vehicle When Courting

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Ours is an unusual problem. We hope you can help us. We will change the names,but I don't think we will fool anyone in our town.

ANN LANDERS

Our daughter is going with a nice young man. He works for a relative who is a funeral director. When Delbert comes to call on our daughter he sometimes drives over in the hearse.

My husband and I do not like the looks of the hearse in front of the house. It creates a lot of talk among the neighbors and sometimes strangers who are passing by just stand around and look. My husband and I would be so much happier if Delbert would walk over to our place or take a bus.

We have mentioned the problem to our daughter but she is afraid Delbert will be offended if we talk to him. She says the hearse is part of his job and he is not ashamed of it.

What is your opinion?—MR. AND MRS.

DEAR M. AND M.: Since Delbert considers the hearse part of his job and he is not ashamed of it, fine. Tell him to park it in front of HIS house. You folks certainly have a right to ask the young man to use more conventional transportation and I hope you will.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 16-year-old boy who has a big problem. Please don't tell me to speak to my clergyman. He is my father—and part of the problem.

I enjoy fun like all other teen-agers. My grades are good and I have never been in trouble. Last week there was a street dance. We live in a medium-size town in Texas and street dances are the fad right now. I went downtown and got in on the fun. There was no rowdiness or liquor or anything like that, just a lot of kids having a good time.

This morning a committee of three ministers came to our house. They asked my dad if he knew I was at the street dance last night. Dad said "Yes". Then they asked him to join their committee to stop the dances. He refused.

I would rather die than embarrass my dad. Will you please advise me if I should quit going to these dances for his sake. He works hard at being a good minister and I don't want to hurt him in any way. Please send your advice fast.—P.K.

DEAR P.K.: You sound like a fine lad to me. I'm sure your dad must be very proud of you.

Although you say you can't talk to your dad about this, I believe he is the very one you SHOULD talk to. Ask him what he wants you to do. If he says the dances meet with his approval, then continue to go — and don't worry about what others say.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Maybe I'm old-fashioned and maybe I am just crazy but I have some strong feelings about morality. Will you please settle something for me.

My son is 28 years of age and has a fine job. He has dated some very lovely girls from outstanding families but somehow fine girls don't appeal to him. He likes the nobodies. Heaven knows where he finds them.

A few weeks ago he met a young woman who was recently divorced. How soon after a woman is divorced is it proper to be seen in public with her? (P.S.: She has a child).—CONCERNED MOTHER WHO WANTS TO KEEP THINGS RESPECTABLE.

DEAR CONCERNED MOTHER: If the woman is no longer married, two minutes after the divorce is "proper". And the fact that she has a child has nothing whatever to do with it.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts", enclosing with your request 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SALADS WITH A LIFT

In this glorious land of ours every season is salad season, for we can buy crisp salad vegetables all year round.

But in August they are "bustin' out all over" the gardens and right now I have a craving for fresh shredded cabbage packed, ½ cup genuine salad every day. Other salads follow.

Here is my favorite recipe for

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Grilled Shoulder Lamb Chops; Fresh Mint Sauce; Spanish Rice; Shredded Cabbage Quick-cooked in Milk; Celery Hearts; Summer Apple Pie; Old Cheddar Cheese; Tea.

CRISP SHREDDED CABBAGE SALAD (serves 5):

½ medium new cabbage shredded (about 4 cups not mayonnaise, ¼ teaspoon celery seed, ¼ teaspoon green onion flakes, ¼ teaspoon MSG (accent), tomato wedges (for garnish).

Just before mealtime shred the cabbage on the ¼" shredder and in a bowl mix it with the mayonnaise and seasonings. If you want to add a little salt do so just before serving. Turn into salad bowl and garnish with a border of small tomato wedges.

AUGUST GARDEN SALAD:

¼ large unpared cucumber, sliced paper-thin, 1 medium tomato, cut in bite-size pieces, ½ green pepper, cut in shreds, ½ pared, medium-size raw beet, shredded on ¼" shredder, ½ cup tiny cauliflowerets or cauliflower, sliced waferthin, ½ cup new green cabbage, sliced as thinly as possible, ¼ teaspoon MSG (accent), shake of garlic salt, ¼ to 1/3 cup mayonnaise, cupped lettuce leaves.

Lightly toss together all ingredients except lettuce leaves. Line salad bowl with cupped lettuce leaves and turn into it the tossed salad. This is a delicious change in your salad routine.

MARGARET'S SALAD (Pete's favorite):

In a bowl toss together about 2 cups torn lettuce leaves, 2 cups torn, washed and dried spinach leaves, 1 spring onion including green tops, finely chopped, 1 cup finely chopped raw cauliflower, ¼ cup sliced radishes, 2 to 4 tablespoons chopped toasted almonds, shake of accent, shake of salt, about ¼ to 1/3 cup fresh dairy sour cream (enough to moisten) and about 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Note: Some folks like ½ teaspoon sugar sprinkled over this salad before tossing.) Toss all ingredients lightly and serve at once.

COOL IT

Food specialists have warned us so thoroughly about this ghastly business of food poisoning that I'm sure you have all read everything I'm going to caution you about dozens of times before — but it can happen so fast in the lazy hazy days of summer that maybe it won't hurt to review the pitfalls — just one more time! Let's dwell on a few of the more common cautionings:

In summer heat and humidity food should not be allowed to stand at room temperature for more than one hour. Foods left at temperatures of above 45 degrees F for longer, are susceptible to rapid spoilage. Often there is little change in taste, color, odor or texture until the foods are totally spoiled. Sometimes there is none. Avoid the use of mayonnaise or salad dressing in sandwiches or salads which must stand at room temperature. Also, watch closely meat, poultry, ham, egg, and creamed dishes as well as meringues, custards and cream-filled bakery products. Use only when these can be kept ice cold or left in the warm air less than one hour.

When preparing food for a picnic, allow enough time for the food to chill thoroughly. Never make up fillings the night before and store at room temperature. It may mean easier spreading the next day but with hazardous results. Be careful! Don't let spoiled food spoil your day.

Substitute wherever possible packaged products such as cheese, fruit cake, pickles, jam, etc., and if possible, it is also fun to take advantage of the roadside fruit and vegetable stands and shop as you go . . . and for a whooper-dooper winder-upper we give you the ancient battle cry of the Food Department of MacDonald Institute "When in doubt, throw it out". What a climax! Susanna

SMELL SAVER

Dear Susanna: My letter is in answer to that pert bright one from G.B. who gave us the solution for removing the odor from strong-smelling pickle jars, etc. that we wish to re-use for preserving and storage.

You will remember how the odor in the jar disappeared permanently by soaking it in a water and baking soda solution —but oh, how the pungent pickle odors still penetrated the plastic and the rubber in those lids! Well, no more, I need too many of these jars for all the picnics our family go on, to put up with having to line them everytime with cardboard or wax paper. Here is all you need to do.

Choose a cloudless morning, and lay them out in the brilliant sunshine for the whole day — You'll be able to bring them back in at night as white and sweet as the driven snow. — Mrs. G. McLellan

(If you have any hints for running a successful household — or any problems — write to Susanna, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope when requesting pamphlets.)

More Canadians Move to US But Fewer Become Citizens

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Increasing numbers of Canadians are settling in the United States each year but fewer are becoming citizens.

Figures for the last decade show this pattern applies to the entire alien population of the U.S.

They also show that among the alien population, Canada is second only to Mexico among countries of origin.

Each January, all aliens who are living in the U.S. must register with the immigration department.

This year 3,393,209 registered, an increase of 770,747 over 1956. Of the total, 631,138 were Mexicans and 365,252 Canadians.

By U.S. definition, aliens fall into two categories — immigrants who apply for permanent residence, and non-immigrants who include students, temporary workers and foreign journalists. Tourists are not covered by alien statistics.

In the 1965 registration, there were 3,024,278 aliens who were permanent residents and 368,931 non-immigrants.

It's possible to live in the U.S. indefinitely as an alien without taking out citizenship papers and many do this. The chief requisite for citizenship, aside from good character and the like, is five years of residence in the country.

FAVOR CALIFORNIA

When the first alien registration was held in 1940, New York State had 25.1 per cent of the total, followed by California with 10.8, Massachusetts 7.3 and Illinois 6.5.

By 1964, California had risen to 23 per cent, New York had 18.2, Texas 7.4, Illinois 6.1, Florida 5.3 and New Jersey 5.2. The order of the top six remained unchanged this year.

There are 91,723 Canadians registered in California, where the climate is a major attraction, and 40,000 - odd in New York and Michigan, the next two most popular Canadian choices.

In 1959 the number of Canadians registering as aliens was 212,851, or 53,000 fewer than last January. Before 1959 Canadian aliens were lumped with Britons in the annual reports.

However, records show 306,446 Canadians were admitted to the U.S. as immigrants in the 10 years up to June 30, 1964. And they also show that 110,659 Canadians became U.S. citizens in that period.

But while the number of Canadians moving to the U.S. has been rising gradually, there has been a general decline in the number taking out naturalization papers.

In 1955, for example 23,091 Canadians settled in the U.S. and 18,151 others became citizens. In 1960 the number admitted was 30,990 while 10,215 became citizens. And in 1964 there were 38,074 admitted while the number who became citizens was down to 9,479.

MARRY AMERICANS

As for aliens generally, 237,790 were admitted and 209,526 naturalized in 1955; 265,398 arrived and 119,442 became citizens in 1960, and 292,248 were admitted while 112,234 became citizens in 1964.

Of the 9,479 Canadians who became citizens in the year ending June 30, 1964, there were 1,005 who had married Americans and 644 children of American parents.

In the 1955-64 period there were 432,573 immigrants from Mexico. After Canada's 306,446 came West Germany with 315,320, the United Kingdom 239,141, Italy 218,365 and Cuba 121,861.

Here are figures for the 12 largest groups of aliens who registered this year with 1964 bracketed:

Mexico 631,138 (611,950); Canada 365,252 (357,111); Britain 257,293 (257,896); Germany 241,978 (247,615); Italy 214,618 (225,320); Poland 126,904 (127,459); Cuba 121,051 (100,817); Japan 59,905 (59,043); Republic of Ireland 57,406 (59,128); U.S.S.R. 53,742 (54,654); The Netherlands 52,610 (54,499); Philippines 46,258 (46,917).

FLED REVOLT

Hungary is not in the top 12 but it was in 1959, three years after the revolt there, when 30,098 Hungarians were listed as immigrants. Since the Fidel Castro government took over Cuba in 1959 a total of 223,771 Cuban refugees have entered the U.S. with status of temporary residents and 43,367 Cuban nationals have come in as immigrants.

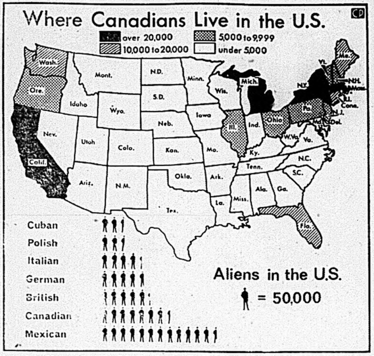
Of the 2,819,246 persons who settled in the U.S. in the 1955-64 period, only 206,990 were from Asia and 20,727 from Africa. This, at least in part, is attributed to the quota system which has been in effect since 1921 and tends to favor white Europeans. Canada and Mexico are not subject to the quota.

President Johnson wants to alter the system so that it will stress skills rather than country of origin. This wouldn't necessarily increase immigration but it would constitute a shift away from the racial basis which has tended to work against colored immigrants.

The U.S. already draws heavily on persons with skills as immigrants. Nearly 10 per cent of those admitted in the 12-month period ending June 30, 1964, were described as "professional, technical and kindred workers." In comparison, around three per cent were listed as ordinary laborers.

About 11 per cent of 38,074 Canadians were in the professional and technical classification, about four per cent were laborers and more than 50 per cent were wives and children or others with no reported occupation.

Most recent figures on specific occupations are for the 1953-61 period. They show that Canadians constituted 25 per cent of the 27,142 alien engineers, 38 per cent of the 25,376 immigrant nurses and 13 per cent of the 12,689 foreign physicians and surgeons admitted.



CANADIANS IN THE U.S. — About 59 per cent of the 365,252 Canadians living as aliens in the United States, are located in California, New York, Michigan and Massachusetts. Map shows that most of the total are concentrated along the West Coast, around the Great Lakes and in Florida. California, with climate the greatest attraction, has 91,733 Canadians, the most of any state. Map also shows that among the alien population Canada is second to Mexico among countries of origin. Little Sloop Twenty Miles From England

FALMOUTH (AP)—The coast guard reported today that Robert Manry and his little sloop Tinkerbelle have been sighted 20 miles south of Wolfrock, off the Cornish coast of England.

The coast guard said the Cleveland, Ohio, newspaper man and his 13½-foot sloop were seen by the fishing trawler Clearwater.

Manry's position was within two or three days sailing of his goal—Falmouth harbor.

Manry, 48, has been at sea 77 days. He set sail June 1 on a 3,200 - mile voyage from Falmouth, Mass., to Falmouth, England.

He was last sighted a week ago 265 miles west of Lands End.

The Trewarvenneth, another British fishing boat, reported alongside the Tinkerbelle at a position some 42 miles southwest of the Scilly Islands. The boat sent word that Manry reported he was fit and well, had enough provisions and asked the course to The Lizard, a point on the southern coast of Cornwall.

Rash of Minor Accidents in Picton Area

PICTON — A rash of minor accidents occurred in the Picton area over the weekend.

About noon on Friday, August 13, an elderly passenger on a motorbike driven by Robert Carter lost his balance and fell to the road. The accident occurred on Highway 33 east of town and the passenger, Mr. Munro, was taken to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital with minor injuries.

Another accident involving motorbikes took place in front of Waites Service Station at the Outlet Park at 10.30 p.m. Friday. Two bikes collided and one of the drivers, David Garry McNamee of Picton was taken to hospital with a broken wrist. The other driver, Earl Jenkin of Belleville, escaped with a shaking up.

On Friday evening three automobiles rolled over near Picton. All accidents involved only one car and there were no passengers. Robert Christenson of Camp Picton rolled his car in the Greenbush area and sustained a broken arm. Jack Henry Parker of 1138 Brimley Road, Toronto, turned over on County Road No. 1, 3 miles from Consecon but received no injuries. Merle Pope of Bloomfield was not injured when her car rolled over on East Lake Road.

A near drowning occurred on Saturday when John Rosin, holidaying on Big Island, was found floating face down by his friends. Picton army camp Fire Chief Bernard Walsh rushed to the scene with a resuscitator but it was found to be unnecessary.

Norris Whitney, M.P.P. officially opened the hydroplane races at North Bay, Consecon, yesterday and announced that the area will shortly be taken over by the Department of Lands and Forests as a provincial park.

During the D Stock Hydro class race on one of the turns a boat driven by Bob Thompson collided with and ran over one driven by Laverne Moore of Picton. Moore received multiple bruises and cuts and was in shock when taken to hospital. Although Thompson received no injuries both boats were badly damaged.

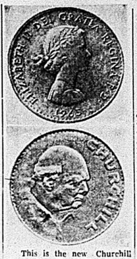
Pope Urged To Oust Cardinal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Catholics United for Racial Equality, have urged Pope Paul to oust James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, Archbishop of Los Angeles, on the grounds that he has "contributed to the current racial outbursts."

In a letter to the Pope Friday, the Roman Catholic group, which has been critical of the cardinal, charged their spiritual leader with "refusal to mobilize Catholics, who compose nearly a fourth of this city's employment, to work for fair employment, housing and education. . . ."

The group also alleged that the cardinal suppressed priests "who have tried to exercise moral leadership." This, the group asserted, "has even more directly created the explosive situation in our city."

Cardinal McIntyre, criticized in the past by some Roman Catholics for not speaking out on racial matters, issued a statement Friday deploring the rioting here.



This is the new Churchill Crown (a five-shilling piece worth about 70 cents), which will bear the uncrowned effigy of Queen Elizabeth with her title and date on one side. The reverse side (bottom) will bear an effigy of the late Sir Winston Churchill with the word "Churchill." The coin marks the first time the head of a commoner has appeared on a coin of the United Kingdom. (CP Photo).

UNQUESTIONABLY! OIL HEAT

Fuel oil is non-explosive.
You could actually extinguish a lighted match in it with complete safety.
And this is only one of the reassuring advantages of oil heating.

Non-explosive heating oil burns only when atomized and ignited inside the sealed combustion chamber of your furnace. You have no worries about safety, or about interruptions in your fuel supply. Safely stored within your home you have your own oil supply, automatically maintained by the oil dealer of your choice, who gives you personalized, no-cost service. All modern fuels are safe, of course, if handled with proper care. Oil, however, is safe under all conditions.

Less cost—continuously! Depending on where you live, you can save $50 or more every year on fuel bills by choosing oil instead of gas and save much, much more by choosing oil instead of electricity.

A home with safe, clean, dependable oil heat is a more valuable home. Insist on oil heat when you buy or build.

Clean—extraordinarily! Dark streaks above vents and radiators occur with all systems—oil, gas, electricity—but not because of the heating fuel. The cause is dust and grime entering the house and circulating in heated air.

A. Laing, One of Tougher Members of Pearson Cabinet, Very Determined

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP)—In a governent oft-criticized for minisrial weakness, British Columa's Arthur Laing stands out as e of the toughter members of ime Minister Pearson's cabit.

The northern affairs minister s acquired the reputation nong critics as a sort of ominable no-man. His strong ands on tricky political issues ve even resulted in attempts some colleagues to underine him.

At the same time he has awn praise from some oppotion spokesmen and editorial riters, and informants say he s the complete confidence of e prime minister.

Mr. Laing's stubborness has en displayed on two imporant issues—the negotiations for ansfer of some services for orthern Quebec Eskimos to the ovince from the federal govnment, and his new national arks policy to curb profiteerg in leases by private operars.

When the outspoken Rene Lesque, Quebec's resources inister, first raised the Esmo issue more than a year o he indicated the province anted complete jurisdicon over Quebec's Eskimos—hether the Eskimos wanted it not.

ROMOTED TALKS

Mr. Levesque found a recepve ear among some federal binet ministers from Quebec. ut the deal foundered when r. Laing stepped in and insted on meaningful consultaons to make sure nothing was one without the Eskimos' aproval.

It took more than a year to ork out an arrangement satisctory to Mr. Laing and the st statement by Mr. Pearson the subject was drafted by e northern affairs minister imself.

In the months following the rst confrontation with Mr. Lesque, reports filtered out of e capital saying Mr. Laing as on his way out of the cabit.

The flood of protesting telerams from B.C. was so great at the prime minister felt it ecessary to issue a public atement denying the speculaon and reaffirming his confience in the minister.

This didn't stop Mr. Laing's ame being mentioned when peculative reports—often a reult of the wishful thinking-outud which is popular among ome ministerial aides — were ritten about possible cabinet hanges.

GNORED POLICY

There were more rumblings f discontent among some govrnment people recently when he 60-year-old minister took on Liberal - appointed senator, onald Cameron, over the deartment's new parks policy.

Mr. Laing decided to crack own on property leases in the ational parks, saying speculaors have made millions of dolars on lease transfers in recent ears. One Banff property eased from the government for 30 a year changed hands for 100,000.

Led by Senator Cameron, usinessmen in Banff and Jaser Park kicked up a storm and t one point were demanding he minister's resignation. The rotests attracted some support ithin the government but gain Mr. Laing stuck to his uns.

The National and Provincial arks Association of Canada allied to his defence and urged he prime minister not to give to a vociferous minority with "vested interest" in scrapping he Laing policy.

O CHANGE INDICATED

So far there is no indication he policy will be changed.

Years of experience in the ough and tumble of politics elp Mr. Laing to appear unuffled by his opponents. After our years in the House of Comons he resigned in 1953 to beome Liberal leader in B.C., where he ran up against another professional, W. A. C. Bennett.

He returned to the House of Commons in the 1962 general election and was given the orthern affairs portfolio when he Pearson government took ower in 1963.

The new magazine will absorb Canadian Weekly, now published by The Star. Southam's Canadian Homes magazine will appear as a separate section of mid-month issues of The Canadian, and also be distributed by London Free Press and Kitchener - Waterloo Record.

The Canadian will be a feature and picture magazine printed in rotogravure with color.

Marines Dig Wells, Bake Bread For South Vietnamese Villagers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy Secretary Paul H. Nitze says U.S. marines dig wells and bake bread for South Vietnamese villagers as well as fight the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas shooting at them from fortified hamlet houses.

In an interview, Nitze answered questions about the marine amphibious force in the foot-by-foot battle to clear Viet Cong out of the jungle, villages and huts in the zone around the air and naval enclave of Da Nang.

A controversy has developed over the destruction of Vietnamese houses in fire fights between marine units and the Viet Cong.

Some of the hamlets are places that have been converted into actual fortified towns, Nitze said. They must be cleared of the enemy as control of the enclave is expanded toward perimeters.

Places which are used as bases for Viet Cong attacks on military installations or harassment of loyal South Vietnamese are "cleared routinely" by marines operating in conjunction with South Vietnamese government representatives. Then Nitze added:

"Where neither U.S. nor Vietnamese forces can maintain continuous occupancy it is necessary to destroy those facilities which have been developed by the Viet Cong for their purposes."

DESCRIBES WELCOME

The secretary said that during his inspection trip to Viet Nam last month he visited a small village north of Da Nang which marines had just secured.

"The women and children were happy to see them," Nitze said, "and each marine seemed like a pied piper with a flock of youngsters following him.

"Most important, the Vietnamese soon gain confidence and regain their self-respect.

"Coincident to this process, the marines help them to rebuild their village, open their churches and schools and reestablish their own village governments."

Nitze said marine units have dug 20 wells, built and repaired roads and village bridges and repaired dwellings.

"On their own time and with their own funds," he said, "marines have baked bread, established a voluntary blood bank for Vietnamese children and paid for operations and hospitalization of afflicted children.

"We are doing this work right on the front lines, in the villages," Nitze said.

Nervous Girl Seeks Aid On Kissing Techniques

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS: I am a 17-year-old girl. I have been going with this fellow, also 17, and I have learned to really love him. My problem is that I don't know the real technique of kissing.

One reason may be because I'm shy and I'm scared to let myself go for fear of what he may think. Is it something that has to be learned through practice? The reason I wrote is he is a real good kisser and I don't want to disappoint him by not being able to show him how much I love him through a kiss. — NERVOUS.

DEAR NERVOUS:

1. At 17, you don't love him; you find him exciting and attractive.
2. "Accomplished kissers" get that woy through much practice — usually too much.
3. A girl shows regard for her friends and respect for herself by giving her attention to what they are interested in; and by little thoughtful acts.
4. "Letting yourself go" might provide far more reason to fear what he — and others — might think!
5. I'm sending you my leaflet "What Is Love?" It may not make a better kisser of you, but it COULD help you sort out your feelings.

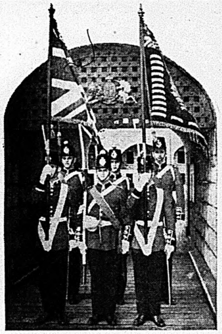
HOLIDAY IN HISTORY



OLD FORT HENRY—Since the War of 1812, Fort Henry has dominated the city of Kingston. It is now a museum of living history. The old stone walls house infantry, cavalry, artillery and naval arms and equipment of Canada's military past. In the shoemakers' and tailors' shops, skilled craftsmen demonstrate their trades. The colourful presence of the famous Fort Henry Guard brings the Fort to life. This precision-trained contingent of "summer soldiers," dressed in 1867 uniforms, daily executes the rigorous artillery and infantry drill of the British line regiments of 1867, Canada's Confederation year. Every Wednesday evening in July and August, the Guard performs a special "Retreat" ceremony. Open until September 19.

UPPER CANADA VILLAGE—When you pass through the 1850 toll-gate, you take a giant step backwards in time. Back to the 19th century, to the pioneer stages of Ontario's history. You'll visit Cook's Tavern, the focal point of Village activity; sniff the unmistakable aroma of freshly-baked bread wafting from Willard's Hotel bakehouse; take a leisurely ride on the bateau. Here are sights and sounds of another day, magically recaptured for you. Open daily until October 17.

170 MILES OF PARKS—Along the beautiful St. Lawrence Seaway, from the Bay of Quinte to the Quebec border, lies a chain of fourteen parks. Take a boat trip on the St. Lawrence or Lake Ontario, or launch your own boat from one of many ramps in the parks. There are facilities for camping, picnicking, fishing, riding, golf and water sports. Parks open until October 17.

Heinz Workers Back on Jobs At Leamington

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP)—By a vote of 556 to 187, workers at the H. J. Heinz Co. Ltd. plant ratified an agreement Saturday for a three-year contract that ended their 18-day strike for higher wages.

The 1,100 workers, members of Local 459, United Packinghouse, Food and Allied Workers (CLC), voted to accept the company offer of a 60-cent-an-hour package in wages and fringe benefits. A basis of settlement was reached Friday after three days of bargaining in Toronto with Ontario Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree.

In a joint statement, both sides described the contract as "the best package deal agreed upon in the food processing industry in North America."

Immediately after the vote, supervisory and maintenance staff entered the plant to start a 48-hour buildup before production can resume.

The first shift of production workers is scheduled to report this afternoon. Tomato processing is expected to begin Tuesday, good news for Leamington's 600 tomato growers who feared the loss of their $4,000,000 crop. Officials said it would take a week to get the plant back into full production.

COLLECT BASKETS

Meanwhile, tomato growers, who voted Thursday never again to sell their product to Heinz unless the strike was settled swiftly, began collecting empty baskets from the company's stockpile of 500,000.

The new contract provides an immediate 10-cent-an-hour wage increase, a 12-cent increase Feb. 1, 1966, and another 12 cents Feb. 1, 1967. Under the previous contract, which expired in February, workers were paid a $1.25 to $2.40 an hour. The company had offered 16 cents an hour over two years.

New scales were set for overtime pay, a key issue in the dispute.

The union had demanded overtime pay of time-and-a-quarter for work, during the tomato season, in excess of 40 hours a week instead of the present 60. They now will get time-and-a-half after 45 hours for next year's season, and time-and-a-half after 40 hours for the 1967 season. The season lasts about eight weeks.

GUARDS CARRY GUNS

The United States Coast Guard is a part of that country's armed forces, though administratively separate from the navy.

Display of Arms at Fair Is Most Interesting Exhibit

Billy The Kid stands under the hot sun in Tuscon, Arizona, eyes staring straight ahead, hands ready to move, and a slight sneer on his otherwise expressionless face. He is ready to kill.

Two British officers, wet with sweat, swing their curved swords at onrushing Frenchmen in the Battle of Trafalgar.

General Francisco (Pancho) Villa, his colt frontier blazing, leads the Mexican revolutionaries against President Carranza's troops in Mexico City.

Two sleek black cars in Chicago pull to a stop and eight mobsters get out. They walk into the building, their Thompson sub machine guns slung under their arms, and a few minutes later, seven men lay dead in the Valentine's Day Massacre.

These great events in history, and many more, come to life in the Canadian Centennial Weasons Panorama at the Belleville Fair.

Over 500 weapons are on display there, among them a Colt Peacemaker and holster used by Billy The Kid, a Thompson sub-machine gun actually used in the Valentine's Day Massacre, two curved swords used in the Battle of Trafalgar and a Colt Frontier used by General Francisco (Pancho) Villa.

The display, with an insurance value of $150,000, was originally the Niagara Gun Museum, but when the lease ran out, the owners, Ted Curl of Whitby and John Wolff of Peterborough, decided to put the show on wheels and tour Canada.

WIRED FOR BURGLARY

Two armed attendants, Rod McGrath and Tom Wood, travel with the display. "Because of the rarity and great value of some of the weapons," said Mr. McGrath, "we have to be armed at all times. The trailer is wired for burglary.

"Each display case has a pressure gauge behind it that sets off an alarm if the case is pulled out.

"The display needs to be repaired continuously. When there's a lot of moisture in the air, the guns rust badly and have to be taken apart and reoiled.

"All the guns have been welded inoperative to comply with Canadian and U.S. regulations."

The oldest weapon in the display is an Indo-Persian Matchlock rifle, built in 1520, and the most modern is a U71 S.M. Gun, manufactured in Israel for use by West German armed forces.

A beheading sword, from 1695, on display at the show, has an inscription in German and Latin, "You Have Done Wrong and I Shall Make Right." A head in a basket beside the blood-stained sword testifies to the sincerity of the sword's message.

An almost priceless Miquoletilock pistol in the display, silver and hand carved, took five years to manufacture.

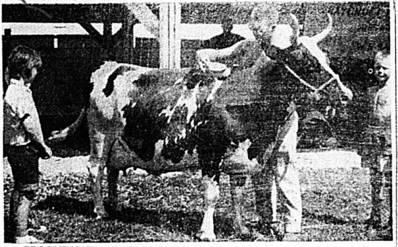
Other weapons on display include a cane rifle that takes a .38 calibre slug; a perfume gun used by madames to sweeten the air in bawdy houses; an early English Air Gun with a crank on it, and a frontiersman sword, with a saw-like blade, that was outlawed as too barbaric by the Treaty of Versailles.

Admission is 25 cents and Kiddies' Day Special is 10 cents. That small investment returns a treasure of pleasure.

Kids Cash in

LONDON (CP) — The news spread quickly when a truckload of candy was spilled across a suburban street after a crash. While police sorted out the traffic, dozens of small boys sorted out the load. By the time someone arrived to collect what was left, the small fry of Balham had departed with bulging shirts and pockets.

YOUNGEST EXHIBITOR — Three-year-old Brenda Way, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Way, R. R. 2 Milford, is possibly the youngest exhibitor in the horse classes at Belleville Fair. Seen here riding her father's Palomino, Brenda will be exhibiting in the pony classes.



GROOMING FOR FAIR — Tom Jeans, of the W. S. Ramer Raycroft Farms, has an interested audience as he grooms Ayrshire milker for showing at Belleville Fair. Fairgrounds swarmed with children Sunday morning as they watched livestock being unloaded and midway trucks arrive.

Horse, Cattle Entries Best in Fair's History

"Most entries ever in both horses and cattle."

That was the jubilant response today from the Belleville Fair committee officials as they commented on the number of cattle and horses being trucked into the fairgrounds for the four-day Belleville Fair which got underway this morning.

Officials said that more than 320 show horses were either already on the grounds or entered in the various classes while there were close to 400 cattle entered.

In both horses and cattle there were increased entries in all classes, it was stated.

"We are still finding room for them but we'll be soon looking for places to put them," they said.

MANY NEW EXHIBITORS

In the cattle classes particularly there were many new entries with showmen from Western Ontario points such as Dartford, Brampton and Brigden showing for the first time.

Both horse and cattle judging got under way this morning with the horse halter classes being run off in the judging ring in front of the grandstand.

Today also is the annual Black and White Day with registered Holsteins in the judging ring.

Poultry classes are also well filled with judging of poultry and pigeons scheduled for Tuesday.

Junior Farmers from four counties also were on hand this morning to start their four-day junior program.

First item on the junior program today was the tractor safety competition. This afternoon there was the inter-club livestock showmanship competition.

The judging of the roots and vegetable display, flowers and apples also commenced this morning.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) is "Red and White Day" with Ayrshires, Guernseys and Jerseys in the show ring, while Wednesday general class Holsteins, and sheep and swine will be judged. Friday, the last day of the fair has been designated as "Beef Day" when dual purpose classes, Shorthorns and Herefords, will be on display.

Back of Moon Mountainous

MOSCOW (AP)—New Soviet photos of the back of the moon show it has fewer seas and is more mountainous than the visible lunar surface, a Soviet scientist reported today.

The part the earth can't see has numerous chains of minor craters extending for hundreds of kilometres, a feature not not found on the side facing earth, wrote Dr. Yuri Lipsky of the Shternberg Astronomical Institute in Moscow.

Lipsky's article was distributed by the official news agency Tass along with several of the moon photos.

Lipsky wrote that the new pictures confirmed indications of the first pictures of the back of the moon, taken by a Soviet satellite in October, 1959, that the two sides of the moon differ.

"On the invisible side there are relatively few seas, and on the whole it is more bright and mountainous," Lipsky said.

"The density of craters on the reverse side also proved to be higher."

Five Psychiatrists Say Riots Erupted Because Of Seething Frustration

This report on the assessment of five psychiatrists on the causes of the Los Angeles Negro riots was written for the Associated Press by Joann Smith. She is a psychiatric case-reporting secretary and the wife of Associated Press staff writer Dave Smith. ....

By JOANN SMITH

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Smouldering hate, resentment, frustration, poverty, hopelessness—and a week of oppressive heat and humidity — are the complex tangle of motives behind the devastating Los Angeles Negro riots, a social worker and five psychiatrists said Sunday.

The six agreed that the horror gripping this city since last Wednesday—the worst civil violence in the U.S. in many years—springs from deep feelings, though it was triggered by a routine drunken-driving arrest in a 98-per-cent Negro district of southeast Los Angeles.

And the weather helped bring the seething emotions to a boil, they said.

"The advent of the heat wave undoubtedly served to fray the nerves of the already frustrated and angry Negro community even more," said Mrs. Esther Fine, social worker and wife of a psychoanalyst.

Dr. Bernice Ennis, assistant professor of clinical psychiatry at the University of Southern California, said: "Climatic factors are important in human behavior. The excessive heat does act as a stimulant and stress on already quite strained individuals."

BITTERNESS IS OLD

But underlying the heat rash of irritability since the temperature soared a week ago lie old bitternesses, they said.

"These people are seriously disadvantaged in an economic sense," said psychiatrist James R. Silber, head of a mental health unit in the heart if the riot-torn area.

"Many of them, because of the high unemployment rate, are bored and perhaps helpless. They live in incomplete families, lacking a father in the home. And often, the mother is away working."

Dr. Silber said the ghetto quality of the almost-solidly-Negro district contributes to a sense of isolation, loneliness, differentness and separateness—which all work together to create resentment.

He added: "The policeman in these areas becomes the representative of the decision-maker, and the resentment becomes directed against him. Policemen are humans also. As they go about enforcing the law, they also feel anxious, which generally results in the creation of psychological distance and a tendency to become more authoritative and less tactful."

Dr. Harold Jones, a Negro psychiatrist, said that the people feel they have legitimate grievances.

"Most of the resentment is against the city police, personified in the police chief, who treated these citizens as though they were of no consequence."

Strangely, Dr. Jones added, the mood of the rioters is generally happy. They know they are going to lose the battles with police, he said. "But the active measures in rioting have given them some measure of dignity and self-respect, which more - passive demonstrations have not."

"An important aspect of the rapid expansion of the riot was the tremendous excitement engendered by participation in collective lawless action," said psychiatrist Alexander S. Rogawski, a mental health consultant.

Chief among the causes of the continuing waves of violence, Dr. Rogawski said, are inequality of educational opportunity and the fact that police are often regarded as a traditional enemy, whose occasional prejudice is often received by Negroes in an exaggerated way.

Psychiatrist Jack Lomas said much of the rioting sprang from "a transference of bitterness and hate from other areas," adding that many Negroes in the strife - torn area moved to Los Angeles after bad treatment in the U.S. South.

Man Beaten In Fight Dies In Hospital

KINGSTON (CP) — A man who was beaten when he intervened in a fight among four men Aug. 7 died of head injuries Sunday.

Carl Smith, 39, of Glenburnie, Ont., had been in a coma since the attack, which occurred outside a service station in Westport, about 30 miles north of here.

Police said the fight appeared to involve a parking space and that Smith had been in an argument with several persons just outside of town shortly before.

Joseph Michael White, 33, of Brockville, John Mark Cowley, 23, of Ottawa, Harold George Renaud, 27, of Westport and Robert Edward Speagle, 23, of Montreal have been charged with assault causing bodily harm.

The men are to appear in Brockville court today.

What They Are Saying

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Here's what they were saying about the Los Angeles Negro riot:

President Johnson: ". . . rights will not be won through violence."

California Governor Edmund G. Brown: "It is clear . . . the lawlessness in Los Angeles is the work of organized gangs . . ."

Police Chief William H. Parker, on accusations of police brutality —". . . a vicious canard."

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Negro civil rights leader—the riots are "absolutely wrong, socially detestable and self-defeating."

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said he is confident his Los Angeles organization can handle any NAACP action deemed necessary and has no plans to come here.

Ike Adams, representative here of the NAACP: "We are all guilty of ignoring the existence of these people."

Rev. W. L. Robinson, Negro pastor of Faith Central Missionary Baptist Church: "The policeman is the big bad wolf (to Negroes) instead of a man who's there to protect them."

'ASK THEM

Robert Smith, co-ordinator for Project Head Start, an anti-poverty program for pre-school children: "Negroes must go in and talk to the people. To ask them what they want. All they want is to be understood."

City Councilman Thomas Bradley, a Negro: "It has become abundantly clear that in the city of Los Angeles, despite the progress which has been made in the field of relations, we have a long way to go."

Beatles Stand On Second Base And Sing To 55,000 In Home Of Mets

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — The Beatles stood on second base, and for some 55,000 excited fans in Shea Stadium Sunday night it was better than the World Series, the All-Star game and 50 grand - slam homers rolled into one.

The crowd—mostly teen-age girls, with a sprinkling of boys and parents — couldn't hear much, despite 29 loudspeakers facing the horseshoe - shaped stands. Most people way up in the three balconies, couldn't see much either.

But many had a good raving cry—individual outbursts ranging from ordinary weeping and screaming to howling and hysteria with jumping up and down.

The nearly universal, sustained screaming prevented anybody hearing the Beatles' famous vocalizing and guitar and drum playing.

The Beatles rode in a red Wells Fargo armored truck, during which they were pinned with badges designating them honorary Wells Fargo agents.

"It was fun—we felt like cowboys," Paul McCartney said just before going on stage.

EASY ON BUMPS

The Beatles rode in the back of the armored truck. Driver John Lee of Brooklyn said Ringo Starr told him, "take it easy on the bumps."

All four gave Lee autographs for his eight-year-old daughter, Joann.

After their 35-minute, 12-song performance, the Beatles stepped from their stage atop second base into a waiting white ambulance. They transferred from the ambulance to the Wells Fargo truck and were driven through streets lined with policemen to the heliport at the nearby world's fair. They flew to the Wall Street heliport in Manhattan in a chartered helicopter and returned by limousine to the Warwick Hotel.

TRY TO JUMP

Some 25 girls jumped from their seats and attempted to run onto the field during the performance but were grabbed by guards.

After the last song, approximately 25 more teen-agers attempted to rush onto the field. All were caught and removed.

Officials in the main first aid station reported 60 young girls were treated for "cuts, bruises, scrapes, bloody noses, exhaustion and hysteria."

The Beatles, who arrived in New York Friday, will fly by charter plane late Tuesday morning to Toronto for a concert Tuesday night.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Eleven eager standard-bred youngsters are champing at the bit waiting for the "Go" that will send them questing for the biggest chunks of gold ever dangled beneath their velvety nuzzles.

In two semi-finals fields of five and six they will thunder down the Fair Grounds raceway with the handsome Black Diamond Cheese Stokes Trophy and a purse of $1575 the targets for the night.

The Black Diamond Cheese Stakes sponsored jointly by the Black Diamond Cheese Stakes Tro- and the Belleville Fair Board is the richest race of its kind ever held on a Belleville track.

It was inaugurated a year ago when Alderman Don Joss donated the trophy for annual competition.

The Stakes will be the feature event of a four-race, nine heats harness meet that is the top grandstand feature for the final night of the Fair, Thursday, August 19th.

The first four horses to finish in the qualifying heats will enter the eight-horse final for the trophy, loot and racing glory.

Presentation of the trophy will be made by Alderman Joss immediately following the final heat. Purse division will be made later. The winner will also receive a handsome engraved cooler, the gift of the Fair Board.

I understand the "teen-age" trotters and pacers are youngsters who have won a limited amount of purse money. However some of them made a fine showing in the Hiram Walker Stakes raced recently at Kingston. In fact the winner of the Walker Stakes was Early Lakes John who has been installed as the favorite in the Black Diamond feature here.

Race committee chairman Gerald Vance assures me there will be no changes, barring accidents, in the field. With his committee, the president of the Quinte Riding and Driving Club has done an outstanding job arranging the all-over meet for Thursday night. They have worked hard in lining up one of the most attractive cards seen here in some time.

Early Lake's John will likely go to the post a well-established favorite. Earl John, to repeat, won the Kingston Hiram Walker Stakes race in 2.07.

However, it shouldn't be a walkaway. A big threat to Early John will be Mrs. Gloria Vance's Nida Dillard who has compiled a neat record here in the Driving Club Saturday night meets.

Other Belleville horses are Ron Isaac's Devon Way and Mrs. G. Zebedee's Deputy Chief Orr. Matching strides will be J. Johnston's Astreasam; L. Willoughby's Red Tornado; Osborne McKane's Miss Gananoque; Clarence Jackson's Melody Tripp; K. O'Neill's Ben Dewey; Leo Fry's Riverdale Bill and—we nearly missed this one, Belleville Jean Oddy's Lucky Linda Gail.

There they are. Take your pick. It's your shirt.

And the supporting cast of this galaxy of young stars is an imposing one, according to chairman Vance.

"Twenty-four horses will go to the post in three additional classes with two heats to each event," he said. "They represent the best horses in the district, most of them well known to patrons of the Driving Club meets."

"There will be nine heats all told, starting sharp at eight o'clock and I think we are safe in saying they will represent one of the best harness racing presentations offered here in some time."

There will be full betting privileges at the track under RCMP supervision and a daily double with two quinellas.

Wallbridge, Warkworth Series Tied

A four-run explosion in the fifth inning gave Wallbridge a series-tying 5-3 victory over Warkworth in OASA Intermediate "D" playdowns Saturday night.

Third and deciding game of the series is slated for Warkworth tonight, at 8.30.

Warkworth climbed into a 3-0 lead in the top of the opening heat. Wallbridge got one back in their half of the inning and it stayed that way until the bottom of the fifth.

Ralph Sine hurled seven-hit ball to get the victory. He struck out eight and walked three.

Bennes allowed eight hits in a losing cause, striking out five and walking none.

James Fair sparked the Wallbridge boys, hitting a double and two singles. Ross Walmsley singled twice with Alex McNaught adding a triple, Pete McNaught a double and John Dudgeon a single.

Lang and Langford rapped a brace of singles apiece for Warkworth. Campbell added a double, Carlaw and Rowe one hit apiece.

Cheesemen Shade Warners

Norm Clapp's solo homer in the bottom of the sixth inning gave Black Diamond a 5-4 Commercial Sortball League nod over Stewart Warner at King George School on Sunday.

The loss hurt Stewart Warner's playoff chances.

The Cheesemen built up a 4-0 lead with pairs in the second and third. Stewart Warner fought back to tie it with one in the fifth and three in the top of the sixth. Then came Clapp's deciding blow.

Sonny Holway pitched a Strong game on the winner's hilltop. He stopped the losers on four hits, struck out 13 batters and walked four.

Len Masters allowed only five hits in a losing effort. He blew third strikes past nine and walked but one.

J. Douglas paced the Black Diamond attack with a home run and a double. Norm Clapp had his game-winning blast, D. Archer a triple and B. Hughes a single.

Floyd Crawford poked a double and single for Stewart Warner with John Trendall and Harry Powers collecting the only other safeties.

The clubs played steady ball with one error charged per team.

Queen, Maids Win Over Local Teams

A diminutive four-girl softball crew called the "Queen and Her Maids" gave the bantam boys of the city a lesson on the game yesterday. The novelty team, aged from nine to 13, defeated the bantam softball all-stars 8-7 in the afternoon, and the baseball all-stars from the same division 10-9 at night, to score a clean sweep in the "men" competition.

In both contests, coach Royal Beaird helped the four visitors from California at the plate and in the field, enabling them to squeeze to the victories.

At the beginning of the comedy-filled games, five dollars was offered to any enterprising fan who could hit one of three pitches thrown by the Queen (Rosie Beaird). None of them were successful.

The girls will visit Kingston today, and Madoc and Napanee in the near future in their tour of the area.

BREAKS RECORDS

HALIFAX (CP) — Marjorie Turner of Lockeport, N.S., broke the Canadian Open and native record for the 220-yard juvenile women's dash during the Bill Haley Memorial Track and Field Meet Saturday. Miss Turner did the dash in 24.8 seconds, beating the previous record of 25 seconds set by Abigail Hoffman of Toronto.

Masanori Murakami received a sports car from a soy sauce firm before he started his first major league baseball game. But once it began he got nothing but trouble from the National League Philadelphia Phillies.

Murakami, the only Japanese ever to play in the majors, stayed around for less than three innings Sunday although San Francisco Giants trounced Philadelphia 15-9.

The 21-year-old left-hander was honored in pre-game ceremonies witnessed by more than 1,200 members of northern California's Japanese community.

With one out in the first inning, John Callison and Rich Allen singled. Murakami, however, escaped the jam by striking out Dick Stuart and Alex Johnson. He struck out two more Phillies in the second, then got into trouble again in the third.

Ray Culp walked, Cookie Rojas singled and one out later, Allen tripled for two runs. That was all for Murakami, who had compiled a 3-1 record in 26 relief appearances after joining the Giants early in May.

DODGERS LOSE

In other National League games, Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed first-place Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2, Milwaukee Braves edged Chicago Cubs 4-3 in 12 innings, St. Louis Cardinals whipped Cincinnati Reds 12-7 and New York Mets blanked Houston Astros 3-0.

Saturday, New York shutout Houston 1-0, Milwaukee walloped Chicago 8-2, Cincinnati edged St. Louis 4-2, Philadelphia defeated San Francisco 4-2, and Los Angeles edged Pittsburgh 1-0 in 10 innings.

Sandy Koufax picked up his 21st victory of the season, allowing five hits in the Dodgers win.

Jim Hart's grand-slam homer in the third inning and Willie McCovey's three-run blast, his 28th, in the sixth powered the Giants' comeback.

Pittsburgh executed three crucial bunts against Don Drysdale, who has had a bad knee, in cutting the Dodgers' lead to 1½ games over Milwaukee.

Denis Menke raced home with Milwaukee's winning run in the 12th inning as Don Dillard grounded into a force play at second with the bases loaded.

The Cardinals exploded for eight runs in the eighth inning, wiping out a 7-4 deficit. Bill White started it with a home run. Deron Johnson, John Edwards and Vada Pinson homered for the Reds.

Al Jackson scattered seven hits for New York's second straight shutout. Ron Swoboda hit his 18th homer in the second inning.

Henry Wins Thrill-Packed Duel

WINNIPEG (CP) — George (Bunky) Henry of Valdosta, Ga., defeated Bill Campbell of Huntington, West Virginia, 1 up in a thrilling 36-hole final Saturday to win the 61st Canadian Amateur golf championship.

The lead changed hands six times. Henry accepted the Earl Grey Cup from Bruce Forbes of Brantford, president of the Royal Canadian Golf Association.

"A really fine performance" was the way loser Campbell, United States Amateur champion last year, described the triumph by the 21-year-old Georgia Tech University student.

It was a great putt, 16 feet into the cup on the 173-yard 16th hole for a birdie deuce, that spelled victory for Henry in the first all-American final in 10 years.

The dramatic putt broke a draw and Bunky held on with good shots and wrapped things up with a clutch 30-inch putt on the final hole.

Both players had trouble controlling shots as winds gusted to 35 miles an hour across the 6,573-yard Pine Ridge course.

Henry's conquests en route to the final test were Pierre Archambault of Montreal, at the 20th hole; Bill Pidlaski of Winnipeg, 6 and 5; John Johnston of Vancouver, 1959 champion, 4 and 3; defending champion Nick Weslock of Burlington, Ont., 1 up, and Ed Ross of Saskatoon, 3 and 2.

Ross's defeat in the semi-finals marked the fifth time since the inaugural tournament in 1895 that a Canadian had not qualified for the final.

Weslock's quarter-final loss dashed his hopes of becoming the first man in 58 years to win three consecutive championships—George Lyon of Montreal did it in 1905, 1906 and 1907.

OASA Playdowns

Juniors Wrap Up Series

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

TRENTON — Belleville Ellis Juniors wrapped up their first-round O.A.S.A. playdowns against Trenton Hyatts by clobbering the home-towners 14-6 on Saturday. Belleville took the Junior "A" series in two straight.

The winners depended upon a powerful 18-hit attack to carry them to the victory.

In the second inning, they manhandled Trenton pitcher Ron Hull for six runs. 11 batters came to the plate and seven of them lashed out hits.

But Hull controlled things for the next three innings and held the Juniors scoreless until the sixth, when they tallied four times on five safeties.

Meanwhile Hyatts were nibbling away at Belleville hurler Bob Ethier. They had led temporarily in the first frame, added another in the third, two in the sixth, and one each in the seventh and eighth. But good clutch pitching by Ethier stopped many threats, as the losers left 12 men stranded.

Hull was replaced by Vaughn Miller in the seventh, and Belleville upped their score to 14 during his three-inning stint.

Ethier gave up seven hits, struck out 14 and walked six.

The Junior's parade of hitters was led by John McKibbon, who smashed a single and two doubles. Don Gardner celebrated the hitter's field day with a brace of base-hits. Mike Chatland, Stu Muirhead, Wayne Woods and Larry Soule stroked a pair of safeties each, and Bob Moon, Bob Ethier and Jim Rutherford slammed one each.

For Trenton, Pete Wiltshire had a homer and single, while Dale Lewis and Ron Hull had two base hits each. Ken Panko added a lone hit.

Batteries: Ethier and Moon; Hull, Miller (7) and McKormack.

Marr Nips Dickenson To Win PGA

Nicklaus, Casper Third

By JIM HACKLEMAN

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP)—Dave Marr won an array of prizes with his triumph in the Professional Golfers' Association championship — $25,000 for a start, along with the prestige of capturing one of golf's four biggest titles and trophy.

But his biggest reward was confidence regained—the confidence he could be a winner.

"I was convinced I would never win again," the Texan, choked with emotion and near tears, said Sunday after his stirring two-stroke victory over Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper in the steaming heat at Laurel Valley's Golf Club.

"When I blew the Insurance Open three weeks ago I said to my wife, 'Susie, I'm just never going to win a tournament'. . I thought maybe it was the end of the line."

He went into the fourth round tied with Tommy Aaron, four under par for 54 holes.

PAY FOR KNUDSON

It was also a good payday for Toronto's George Knudson, who fired a 75 Sunday to bring his 72-hole total to 292. He collected $1.450.

Gardner Dickinson was one stroke behind Marr, with Nicklaus and Casper two back.

Aaron, playing in the threesome ahead with Casper and Sam Snead, came apart completely. But after nine holes, Casper had pulled into a first-place tie with Marr while Nicklaus and Dickinson — playing with Marr—were only : shot back.

However, Marr regained command with birdies on 10 and 11, then clinched it with scrambling, vital pars on the two tough closing holes. His even par 71 gave him a 280. Nicklaus, also with a 71, matched Casper's final-day score and 282 total.

Nicklaus, the heavy pre-tourney favorite and winner of the Thunderbird and Philadelphia classics the last two weeks, got $12,500 for a neat sum of $56,800 in three successive tournaments. The Masters champion has won $126,500 for the year, just $1,730 shy of the record set by Arnold Palmer in 1963.

Defending PGA champion Bobby Nichols was never in it, and totalled 300 with his final-round 74. Ben Hogan, the legend of another era two days past his 53rd birthday, carded 72 for a 289.

Sherry May Swim For Canada

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON (CP) — Swimmer Dan Sherry, fastest man in the world in the shoulder-aching butterfly sprint, is under pressure to reconsider his plan to quit swimming and may be persuaded to stay with the Canadian team for the Commonwealth Games next summer.

The Hamilton-born swimmer, who set a world record in the 110-yard butterfly and then won the 220-yard butterfly at the British national swimming championship in Blackpool last week, said after his record swim Thursday he was "thinking seriously" of retiring. He plans to marry and wants to concentrate on his career with a Toronto duplicating machine firm.

But Nick Thierry, coach of the touring Canadian swim team, says he thinks Sherry will be around for the Commonwealth Games next August in Jamaica.

"I think that comment of his is being taken too seriously," Thierry said Sunday night. "He'll probably lay off for a while but I think he'll be in Jamaica. He's on top of the world. Why should he quit?"

Sherry, 19, went sightseeing Sunday with other members of the 20-member Canadian swim team.

ARE THE BEST

Thierry, who says the 20 youngsters are "the best swim team Canada has ever had," is giving them two days in London before they fly to Paris Tuesday for more sightseeing.

The team moves on to The Netherlands Thursday for a match in Leiden Saturday against the Dutch national team that will wind up their three-week tour.

Thierry says The Netherlands has some top-rated swimmers but he expects his team to show at least as well as it did against West Germany's best at Bonn and Bochum and against South Africa and Britain in the three-country meet last week at Blackpool.

To support his claim that this team is Canada's best ever, Thierry points out that his swimmers broke 27 Canadian records and tied three in 51 events in Germany and England.

The Canadians won all but one final in Bonn and Bochum and took eight of the 21 senior titles at stake in Blackpool. South Africa also won eight events and Britain took five at Blackpool.

Glen Ross Wins Softball Tournament

Glen Ross won the annual Stirling Softball Tournament and the Rod Webb trophy by defeating Plainfield in the final game 20-6. Glen Ross won over Century, Eastminster, and Thomasburg to reach the finals.

Plainfield had been victorious over Rawdon and Springfield before their loss in the finals.

The Glen Ross trophy was won by Bonnie Visser, as she led Glen Ross to four victories with her fine pitching.

There were 10 teams represented, from Century, Cannifton, Foxboro, Glen Ross, Sidney, Springbrook, Eastminster United and Plainfield.

Bill Morton presented the Rod Webb trophy to the winner's captain, Bob Taylor, at the completion of the tournament.

Yankees Divide With A's

Tribe Splits; Shares 2nd With Tigers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Birdie Tebbetts used a pair of pinch hitters Sunday to bring his Cleveland Indians from behind twice and win the second baseball game of an American League doubleheader against Minnesota Twins.

The league-leading Twins had defeated Indians 4-3 in the opener and led 3-1 in the ninth inning of the nightcap.

With two out Tebbetts was looking for a way to rescue his club from a double defeat Larry Brown singled. Then pinch-hitter Max Alvis walloped a home run, tying the score.

Jerry Kindall's 11th-inning homer put Birdie out on a limb again as the Indians came to bat in the bottom of the 11th. But Chico Salmon singled and Brown doubled on Bill Pleis' first two pitches.

Salmon scored the tying run and Brown moved to third when Pleis balked pitching to Duke Sims.

WAGNER APPEARS

Suddenly, there was Leon Wagner with a bat in his hands, taking over for Sims with the one ball count.

Two pitches later Wagner's 22nd home run gave Cleveland a 6-4 victory.

Detroit Tigers joined Cleveland Indians in second place by sweeping a doubleheader from Los Angeles Angels 9-2 and 9-5.

Elsewhere in the American League, New York Yankees split a doubleheader with Kansas City Athletics, winning the nightcap 7-3 after dropping the opener 4-1. Chicago White Sox topped Boston Red Sox 7-4 and Washington Senators whipped Baltimore Orioles 4-2.

Saturday, Chicago edged Boston 5-3, Cleveland defeated Minnesota 3-1, New York edged Kansas City 3-2, Los Angeles defeated Detroit 5-2, and Washington defeated Baltimore 8-5 in 11 innings.

Wagner walloped a two-run shot in the ninth inning of the opener, knocking out Jim Grant, who won his 15th. Al Worthington came on to save it.

Detroit scored six runs in the first inning of the opener and coasted behind Joe Sparma, -95. The Tigers sent 10 men to the plate with Norm Cash's homer and Willie Horton's double the big blows.

In the nightcap, Don Demeter, Ray Oyler and Gates Brown had three hits apiece and Demeter and Oyler each drove in two runs.

YANKEES BEATEN

Rookie Jim (Catfish) Hunter pitched a four-hitter, beating the Yankees in the opener. The Kansas City right-hander, who pitched his first complete game, squeezed home a run with a bases-loaded bunt in the eighth inning.

Steven Hamilton pitched four innings of one-hit relief as the Yankees gained the split. Jake Gibbs, Joe Pepitone and Bobby Richardson homered in the nightcap and Roger Repoz' two-run triple beat ex-Yankee Roland Sheldon.

Baltimore slipped to fourth place, dropping its third straight to Washington. Ron Kline snuffed out an Oriole rally in the ninth, saving it for Pete Richert, 11-9. Woodie Held homered for the Senators.

Canadian Tennis

Texan Singles Champion

By JIM CRERAR

TORONTO (CP)—A 27-year-old Texan and a 19-year-old Canadian came away with most of the glory as the week-long Canadian tennis championships ended Sunday.

Ron Holmberg, 27, of Dallas, Tex., won the men's singles title and teamed with Lester Sack of Clarksdale, Miss., to capture the men's doubles crown.

Faye Urban, 19, of Windsor, Ont., joined Dave Body of Toronto to capture the mixed doubles championship, after winning the women's doubles title Saturday with Brenda Nunns of Toronto.

Officials estimated attendance for the week at about 1,500, which was smaller than normal for Canadian championships but enough to enable the host Toronto Lawn Tennis Club to break even on a budget of $6,000 to $6,500.

Holmberg, who frequently questioned officials over decisions, gave the crowd a fine exhibition of shots although he wasn't the sentimental favorite in either of his two finals.

The sixth-ranked player in the United States made a fine comeback in the singles, after losing the first two sets to Sack by 6-4 scores. He twice broke Sack's service to win the third set 6-4 before the two took a 20-minute break from playing in the 90-degree heat.

Holmberg then broke Sack's services twice again to win the fourth set 6-2 and tie the match. He then polished off his tiring opponent by breaking his service twice more and taking advantage of a double fault by Sack to capture the deciding set 6-2.

The two finalists took another time out, then joined forces to win the doubles title over Don Fontana of Toronto and Bob Bedard of Lennoxville, Que., in a 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3 marathon. The winners had to come from behind in the final set and won it after Fontana double faulted, enabling them to square the set at 3-3.

Miss Urban, who Saturday aggravated a pulled stomach muscle she first suffered early this season, joined Body to outplay Francois Godbout of Waterloo, Que., and Ann Bedard, Bob Bedard's wife, 7-5, 7-5 in a pair of close sets in the mixed final.

Parsons Shade Kingston

Overcoming a 2-0 deficit on the opponents' home field, Belleville Parsons Cleaners nipped Kingston German Sport Club 3-2 in a Kingston and District Soccer League game Saturday.

Parsons' next start will be at Zwick's Island this coming Saturday against the front-running Kingston Hungaria squad. Kick off is at 6:30 p.m.

Belleville carried the play early in the game but could not beat the Sport Club goalie. Kingston moved ahead 1-0, when Geldart misjudged a high shot in the Parsons' goalmouth and headed the ball into his own net.

Kingston made it 2-0 minutes later when Marek took advantage of another defensive mix-up to score.

In the game's second half, Parsons again carried the play, allowing the Sports Club only two shots at their goal in 45 minutes. Belleville's initial goal came when Bryce lobbed the ball to Allan Brown. He passed through the defence and Rutherford slammed it home.

Rutherford completed another play with Brown to tie it 2-2 from almost the same position. Bob Main almost won it when his 20-yard drive hit a post as Belleville kept the pressure on.

Homenuik's 215 Wins Pro Crown

By AL McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP) — Modest Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg, who says he thinks he will be a good golfer "in four or five years," was good enough Saturday to win the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship, $2,000 and the Seagram Shield with his five-over-par 215 for the three day, 54-hole event.

The 29-year-old Homenuik, who described Royal Montreal and nearby Laval-sur-le-Lac as the two "toughest and finest" courses in Canada, finished two strokes ahead of the Toronto trio of Alvie Thompson — the 1962 winner—Moe Norman and Harry McIlree, who pocketed $1,233 each for their three-day stint.

Homenuik, the 143-pound pro at Winnipeg's Bel Acres Club, won the pro-am event over the same course last Wednesday, when he fired a two-under-par 68—a course record. For his CPGA title he put together rounds of 72-71-72 over the tough and tricky par-70, 6,740-yard Royal Montreal layout.

Thompson and McIlree had to recover from five-over-par first rounds to remain in contention. Norman put his bad one in the middle.

MOE HAS 217

Norman had rounds of 72-74-71 for his 217, while Thompson had 75, a par up and a final-day 72. McIlree opened with a 75, but settled down Friday and Saturday to one-over 71s.

Al Balding of Toronto followed the trio at 219 and took home $900. He had just returned to competition following surgery for a shoulder ailment that had forced him to leave the golf tour last winter. He previously won the title in 1955, 1956 and 1963.

Norm Huft of Montreal and two westerners—Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Dick Munn of Victoria—shared fourth spot with 220 and won $700 each.

Munn, a protege of Leonard's, registered the only sub-par round of the event when he came in with a 69 on Friday. However, the Victoria youngster couldn't make it stick and he fired 76 and 75 on his other rounds.

Hunt had 74-74-72 and Leonard had a disappointing 73-73-74.

WHIBLEY SHARES FIFTH

Montreal's Phil Giroux and Frank Whibley of Kitchener shared fifth spot and won $475 each. Giroux fired a hot 71 on the opening round and then went for five-over-par 75s the next two days running for his 221.

Whibley also opened strongly with a 71 Thursday, but tapered off with 74 and 76 Friday and Saturday to drop off the pace. He stayed with Homenuik and McIlree Saturday, one stroke off, until the final nine holes, where he twice hit into ponds and took a six-over-par 41 to finish with 76 and a 221 total.

Homenuik said following his win that he had been satisfied to try for par throughout the final round.

A winner of the Alberta Open earlier this year, the new CPGA champ has been invited to the world tournament at Sutton, Mass., later this week.

Find Drug In Urine Of Horse

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Stewards at the Fort Erie Race Track announced Saturday the first positive drug test of the Ontario thoroughbred racing season.

They said in a statement that analysis of a urine sample taken from Peterry, winner of the third race here last Tuesday, "contained a drug of the nature of codeine."

Investigation — including statements taken under oath from trainer, groom and anyone connected with the horse—is continuing, they said.

Peterry, a three-year-old owned by L. W. Millard of Toronto, was disqualified and the race purse - money redistributed. Lucky Degree, which finished second to the favored Peterry, was declared winner of the race.

Codeine is a drug of the depressant family and in the nature of a pain killer. Cough medicines for horses generally contain codeine.

John Mack of Fletcher, Ont., trainer of the filly, said she was sound and wasn't being treated for any ailments.

"It baffles me," he said. "I was left speechless when the stewards told me about the test. I can't figure it out."

Hollywood Is Real Estate Madhouse; $225,000 Home Bought for Wrecking

By JAMES BACON

A man who had never seen it paid $200,000 for Frank Sinatra's hilltop home, and a woman with a fortune in oil bought Judy Garland's 22-room mansion for $225,000 and then tore it down.

"She just wanted the lot," explains Mike Silverman who negotiated both deals.

Barbara Hutton caused hardly a stir when she gave a $500,000 home as a wedding gift to her son, Lance Reventlow, and actress Cheryl Holdridge.

A $500,000 home is above par, even for Hollywood — but not much. A movie star who lives in a house costing under $100,000 is considered either a has-been or a penny-pinching oddball.

When Bob Hope came here in 1938, he bought a home for under $30,000 near his favorite golf course. Three acres of land went with the house. If Hope would sell, which he won't, the bidding would start at $500,000.

MADE HUGE PROFIT

Hope also bought a golf driving range for $18,000. Some 25 years later he sold the land to MCA, Inc., owners of Universal Pictures, for $1,000,000.

Mae West once bought a grove of fir trees for $6,000.

The land now is in the heart of the Van Nuys business area and is worth $1,000,000 or more.

Marion Davies was a heavy investor in Beverly Hills homesites. She once confided that she could put her hands on $10,000,000 cash that she had made off real estate.

Some of the cowboy stars, like Gene Autrey, Roy Rogers and Joel McCrea, started out with ranches and wound up with millions.

McCrea worked a 2,500 acre cattle ranch at a profit for years. Then a major company discovered oil on the ranch.

"I finally gave in when they offered me $3,000,000 and promised no wells would be seen from the ranch house."

Not all stars have made fortunes in real estate. Oldtimer Jack Mulhall is a case history. So is Pola Negri.

Mulhall once owned what now is the plush section of Sherman Oaks.

"Then in 1929 came the crash and my land went down the hill like a bobsled. Today, I couldn't even buy one lot for what I paid for 500 acres in 1929."

TALKED OUT OF DEAL

Miss Negri once had a chance to buy some real estate for $40,000. One of her husbands talked her out of it.

"He said it would never be anything but an orange grove," she recalls. "Today, it's the four corners of Hollywood and Vine—and the whole block down to Selma on both sides of the street."

Not all of those who missed the real estate boom are bitter. Take Buster Keaton. At the height of his silent screen fame he built a $200,000 house for his bride, Natalie Talmadge. The same house and land today would cost a million, but Buster lost it.

He now lives in a modest home in Woodland Hills, cares for his own walnut trees and orange groves. He also cleans his own swimming pool.

"This house here is smaller than the servant quarters in my Beverly Hills home," says Buster. "But, you know something, I'm happier here."

Make-believe Battles of TV Are Replaced by Real Thing

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television's make-believe, with its back-lot battles and fun-loving fight men, seemed trivial and downright silly in Los Angeles during the last few terror-filled days and nights.

For drama, the city's television stations had plenty of the real thing. Live shots from a hovering helicopter, for instance, showed looters stripping a smoldering store and strolling off with the stolen property.

Film taken from inside a car in the riot zone caught a tall youth in the act of heaving a rock that smashed the car's windshield.

A camera, panning slowly down a business street, showed smoking skeletons of buildings, smashed store fronts with ravaged showcases, mannequins from a clothing store display tossed in a gutter like so many victims.

The scenes must have been shocking to any viewers, but to those of us a short distance away and aware the situation was completely out of control, it was frightening.

END OF NIGHTMARE

When we saw the first units of the national guard in battle dress and with fixed bayonets marching grimly, four abreast, down one riot-scarred street, it was like the end of a long nightmare.

But although the television stations turned in the more spectacular jobs, it was radio to which the alarmed resident could turn at any moment for an up-to-the-minute report on the troubled situation, a reassurance when rumors sprang up like mushrooms all over the city.

It is going to be hard to concentrate on the production problems of The Long Hot Summer, a new entertainment series wtile the memory of this long, hot weekend is so vivid, and sniping and looting still goes on. Combat was never this real.

The Hollywood studios are cranking out entertainment at an unprecedented rate. The Hollywood Reporter, a trade paper, lists 82 TV series currently in local production, plus 15 motion pictures for theatre exhibition.

One result is that facilities, even cameras, are in short supply. One independent producer thought he was lucky to be able to rent studio space—but then found there were no lights available for shooting.

U.S. Football Exhibitions

Large Crowds See Tilts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cleveland Browns' vaunted aerial attack, supposedly short-circuited by the loss of pass-catching ace Paul Warfield, has passed its first pre-season test with flying colors.

Led by quarterbacks Frank Ryan and Jim Ninowski, the defending National Football League champions whipped the San Francisco 49ers 37-21 Sunday in their first exhibition start against NFL competition.

The Browns, who lost Warfield for two months when the former Ohio State flash fractured his shoulder in last month's victory over the College All-Stars, shook Gary Collins and Walt Roberts loose for three long touchdown bombs against the 49ers.

In Sunday's other action Philadelphia's Tim Brown paced the Eagles to a 20-17 NFL exhibition victory over Detroit and the San Diego Chargers, led by quarterback John Hadl, defeated Kansas City 31-10 in an American Football League warm-up.

Saturday night, a crowd of 75,229—largest ever for a pro exhibition in a non-league city—packed the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans to watch the Baltimore Colts overpower the St. Louis Cardinals 22-10 while NFL exhibitions in Atlanta's new stadium and Green Bay's expanded park drew turnouts of 39,120 and 50,837.

The Minnesota Vikings held off Pittsburgh 31-21 in the pro grid inaugural at Atlanta's municipal Stadium. The Packers shelled the New York Giants 44-7 at Green Bay.

Elsewhere Saturday night, Houston upended the AFL champion Buffalo Bills 29-7 at Buffalo and Denver came from behind to whip Oakland 27-17 in an AFL test at Salt Lake City.

The scheduled NFL exhibition between Dallas and Los Angeles was postponed until Tuesday night because of the Los Angeles riots.

QUEBEC WINS

ARVIDA, Que. (CP) — Quebec's team won the Ontario-Quebec junior golf tournament Sunday for the first time since the tourney's creation in 1958, beating the guest Ontarians 24 points to 21.

The Tracks

NEW YORK (CP) — George D. Widener's What a Treat came out of the pack in a field of 18 fillies, survived a claim of foul and won the $63,200 Alabama Stakes at Saratoga Springs, N.Y., by one-half length Saturday.

The daughter of Tudor Minstrel-Rare Treat finished the 1½ miles a neck in front of the Wheatley Stable's Discipline, with William Haggin Perry's Terentia two lengths back.

Larry Adams, astride Terentia, claimed foul against both What a Treat, ridden by Johnny Rotz, and Discipline, piloted by Walter Blum.

The stewards ruled that Discipline interfered with Terentia in the stretch and changed their positions. Terentia was moved up to second and Discipline dropped to third, as Cordially finished fourth.

IS FOURTH WIN

For her fourth stakes victory of the season What a Treat earned $41,080, running her career bank account to $163,122.

She paid $7.60, $4.40 and $3.20. Terentia paid $6.80 and $4.60 and Discipline, who had Queen Empress as a running mate, returned $4.20 to show.

Brambles, owned by William T. Seson of Los Angeles, won the $56,200 Benjamin F. Lindheimer Handicap by two lengths at Arlington Park in Chicago.

Climax II finished second and Loopy Loop was third in the 1 3-16 miles turf race.

The winner earned $33,700 and was timed in 1:56. He paid $28.40, $9.80 and $6.60. Climax II paid $5.80 and $4.80. Loopy Loop returned $10.

EDMONTON (CP) — Sandy Shields, perennial Prairie jockey champion, rode Chariot Chaser to a brilliant, come-from-behind, nose-victory in the Canadian Derby, Canada's richest race outside Ontario.

The 6-to-1 shot from the Lomar Stable of Edmonton won over the even-money favorite Weed Bender, which at the halfway mark in the 1⅜-mile race enjoyed an 11-length lead.

Salty Sultan, owned by Tony Ziegler of Edmonton, finished third, 14 lengths behind Chariot Chaser in the 36th running of the $15,000-added event for three-year-olds foaled in Canada.

Chariot Chaser, owned by Lloyd Wilson, covered the distance over a heavy strip at the half-mile Northlands Park oval in two minutes, 29 3-5 seconds.

Chariot Chaser, a brown filly by Count Jae out of Benatha, paid $15, $4.70 and $3.70 on $2 bets. Weed Bender returned $3.40 and $2.90, Salty Sultan $4.60.

FORT ERIE (CP)—Good Old Mort, Canada's top two-year-old of last season and record money-winner, found his winning form when he took the $11,925 International Stakes Handicap at Fort Erie Saturday.

Using the late kick that carried him to six victories and earnings of $101,455 as a two-year-old, Good Old Mort came from third place to challenge pace-setter Super Flow, then battled the length of the stretch to win by a neck.

Sports Briefs

BEATS RECORD

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Ada Kok, lanky Dutch swimmer, bettered the listed record for the women's 100-metre butterfly Saturday with a time of one minute, 4.5 seconds. The accepted record is 1:04.7 by Sharon Stouder of Glendora, Calif.

RIDES TWO WINNERS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Johnny Longden rode two more winners in five tries Saturday, pushing his lifetime total to 5,999, one short of the record he has come to Vancouver's Exhibition Park to establish. Longden is figured likely to hit No. 6,000 today, when he has four mounts.

EDGES CLARK

ENNA, Sicily (AP)—Joseph Siffert of Switzerland defeated world champion Jimmy Clark of Scotland by three-tenths of a second Sunday to win the Pergusa Grand Prix Mediterranean auto race for Formula One cars.

OTTAWA CADETS WIN

HALIFAX (CP) — The two-man team of Don Fraser and John Hitchcock of Ottawa captured the annual Royal Canadian Sea Cadet regatta Sunday. Eighteen teams from across Canada competed in the three-day races.

Argonauts Release L. McHan

TORONTO (CP) — Lamar McHan, a 10-year veteran of the National Football League with Chicago Cardinals, Green Bay Packers, Baltimore Colts, and San Francisco '49ers, has been released by Toronto Argonauts, the Eastern Football Conference club announced Sunday.

He will be replaced by Ron Calcagno, who played with Indianapolis, champions of the United Football League in 1964, and worked out with Saskatchewan Roughriders of the western conference this year.

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Jim Trimble of Montreal Alouettes, just returned from a scouting trip to National Football League camps, said Sunday he has picked up two cuts from Washington Redskins to bolster his winless club.

The Montreal club dropped the opening game of the young season to Hamilton Tiger-Cats 18-9 Aug. 7 and were tramped by Ottawa Rough Riders 23-2 Aug. 12.

Trimble said he has acquired Terry Fernandez, a 6'2", 238-pound centre and J. W. Lockett, a 6'2", 230-pound fullback.

Rifles Win Over Wheeling

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Rifles Saturday night showed strong indications of giving Toronto sports fans something they haven't had in a long time—a winning football club.

Accustomed to watching Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Football Conference suffer through losing seasons, the 8,174 enthusiastic fans were delighted to view the Rifles' 20-0 triumph over Wheeling, W. Va., Ironmen in their Continental Football League debut at home.

The Rifles displayed a strong ground attack, adequate passing and a solid defence. The offence accounted for a total gain of 316 yards—197 on the ground and 119 through the air—while the defence held the visitors to 144 yards, and only 10 rushing.

The crowd had no difficulty picking out a favorite in Joe Williams, a 24-year-old, 208-pound halfback, who bored holes through the Wheeling defence with his effective rushing and snared a number of passes thrown by quarterback Bubba Marriott.

The Trots

TORONTO (CP)—Duke Rodney, the world's second-largest money winning trotter, set a track record Saturday as he won the $13,000 Maple Leaf trotting classic at Greenwood Raceway.

Ridden by Don Huff, 48, of Rochester, N.Y., Duke Rodney defeated 10 other horses as he completed the 1 3-16 miles in 2:29 4-5. Tie Silk held the former mark of 2:31 1-5, set in the same race in 1964.

Duke Rodney, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Patrick di Gennaro of Scottsville, N.Y., finished 4½ lengths ahead of second-place Sprite Kid. Betsy Herbert was third.

Duke Rodney earned $6,500 for the victory and now has lifetime winnings of $633,692, second only to Su Mac Lad.

The winner returned $3.10, $2.80 and $2.50. Sprite Kid, owned by M. Israel and E. Woloz of Montreal, paid $3.50 and $3.20 to place and Betsy Herbert, owned by Bill Herbert of London, Ont., was $3.40 to show.

HULL, Que. (CP) — Lenny Boy, a brown eight-year-old horse owned and driven by Claude Desjardins of Angers, Que., ran the second fastest mile of the new season at Connaught Park Raceway Sunday to win the featured $800 Invitation Pace.

Lenny Boy paid $3.40, $3.00 and $2.50; Lucky Stone, $6.10 and $3.50 and Lucy G. $2.70.

In Saturday's featured $600 pace, Direct Duke of Talbotville, Ont., driven by Stan Williams, took its third win in a row, putting on a tremendous stretch drive. It paid $7.70, $4.80 and $3.50.

'Put Fear of Negro Into White People Because They Don't Have Fear of God'

Curfew fell on a 50-block area of Los Angeles for the first time at 8 p.m. Saturday. Robert Richardson, 24, a Negro and an advertising salesman for the Los Angeles Times, tells how it looked to him as armed police and national guardsmen stopped and checked cars and pedestrians.

By ROBERT RICHARDSON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The hot summer afternoon is ending. I am talking to Negro residents of the riot - torn area. "Why?" I ask' "Why the riots?"

The answers hit me like a slap in the face.

"We are going to put the fear of the Negro into these white people because they do not have the fear of God."

Now night has fallen. We are moving south on the Harbor Freeway, hearing that snipers are firing on cars there. I'm with three other reporters. We are all tense and bone tired.

And we all are Negroes.

At Willowbrook Avenue and El Segundo, something is happening:

Firemen are hauling up hoses and battling to save a building containing a drug store, a barber shop and a liquor store, but they are losing.

Out on the streets behind us—where there had been a deceptive silence—a hostile crowd begins to form. Suddenly, police officers with raised shotguns come striding toward us. "Out of your car. Hands up . . . high."

We do not know what to do. But we get out, all trying to say at once that we are working newspaper men.

"Get the hell out," is the reply from the officers.

We do it. Five police officers, helmeted and holding shotguns, watch us warily as we move away.

At 120th Street and Central Avenue, I am stunned by the sight of the demolished supermarket that once boasted of its equal hiring practices.

I get out of the car and look at the rubble, thinking this was the store where I came with my mother as a little boy . . . where I met with other neighborhood kids and drank soda pop and talked about football. I want to cry.

I am trying to think about that when someone shouts and footsteps come rushing toward me. The guys in the car yell: "Move man, move."

Then there is a shotgun in my face and a policeman says: "Move on mister. Let's go now. Move."

In the policeman's face, there is no awareness that I am trying to see my childhood in the charred wreckage of the supermarket. His eyes are only the eyes of a man with a job to do.

More officers come hurrying over to our car. So I get in the car and we get going.

All of us are quiet . . . not saying a thing to each other. We are Negroes, driving past looted stores and burned - out shops and overturned cars and debris.

Jet Airliner Explodes Over Lake Michigan

CHICAGO (AP) — A United Air Lines jet airliner with 30 aboard on a flight from New York to Chicago disappeared in a blinding flash and a roar of an explosion over Lake Michigan Monday night, and early today a U.S. Coast Guard cutter reported sighting debris and some luggage in the lake.

A spokesman for UAL said the report was made by the coast guard cutter Woodbine, one of the boats searching for possible survivors among the 24 passengers and a crew of six.

The Boeing 727 three-engine jet presumably crashed into the lake, killing the 30 aboard.

The spokesman said the coast guard reported that they spotted the debris and luggage about 15 miles in the lake off Waukegan, Ill., about 45 miles north of Chicago.

Thunderstorms broke out during the early morning along the north shore of Lake Michigan, hampering the search. There were earlier reports of debris being found in the lake but UAL engineers said that the materials found were not from the jet.

The crash was the first of a 727 plane, a craft with a passenger capacity of 92. Boeing officials in Seattle said that 160 of the 727 model have gone into service since December, 1963.

It was the second airliner claimed by Lake Michigan.

Fifty-eight persons died when a New York-Minneapolis DC-4 of Northwest Airlines crashed during a storm June 24, 1950.

O'Hare airport officials said the United Air Lines jet—Flight 389 which left La Guardia Airport on Long Island at 8:52 p.m EDT — called for landing instructions on schedule. The plane was due at 10:27 EDT.

Capt. Melville W. Towle, 42, of Wyckoff, N.J, acknowledged radio instructions to enter an approach pattern with a crisp, "Roger," after the plane had been located by radar about 15 miles from the lake shore off Fort Sheridan.

A moment later, at 10:20, the plane disappeared from the radar scope and efforts to reach it by radio met with silence. At the same time, dozens of persons reported they saw a blinding flash and heard the roar of an explosion over the lake.

Wallace Whigam, 27, a life guard at Chicago's North Avenue Beach, said: "There was a sudden orange flash on the northeastern horizon like break of day, and then a deep rumbling sound."

Snipers Remain Active

By BOB BURNETT

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gunfire crackled in the darkness Monday night and early today as die-hard Negroes battled police and the national guard in occupied Watts.

No one was hit by sniper fire. Two national guardsmen were hurt, one critically, when a car crashed through a roadblock. Police said the motorist, who was jailed, was not a Negro.

Despite continuing incidents of violence, signs of peace seized at gunpoint from lawless mobs have begun to appear in Watts, the encircled Negro district:

Funerals rolled through streets. The death toll: 33. All but six were Negroes.

Courts processed the first of more than 3,000 suspected rioters arrested.

Food markets opened and clerks, some wearing pistols, sold food as troops stood guard.

City and county offices were opened, buses rolled again, mail delivery was resumed, and clean-up crews tackled wreckage left by six days of turmoil.

DECLARES ENDED

Governor Edmund G. Brown declared the riots ended.

But 15,000 national guardsmen still held the 46-square-mile heart of the Los Angeles Negro district sealed within a perimeter of guns. Said Governor Brown:

"The national guard will remain here until the streets are safe."

Attacks by snipers and fire-bomb terrorists on white sections of Los Angeles dwindled, although there were sporadic reports of firing.

Brown said Monday: "Guerrilla fighting against gangsters continues." The governor also announced he would appoint a seven-member commission to investigate "underlying and immediate causes and means to prevent recurrence of the riots."

An 8 p.m.-to-dawn curfew remained in effect during the night. Guardsmen and police kept people from the streets and halted cars at scores of roadblocks.

HINTS MUSLIMS IN

Police Chief William H. Parker hinted that the Black Muslims tried to take over what started as spontaneous rioting. Police noted 45 men believed to be Muslims were bailed out of jail by a bondsman who previously represented arrested Muslims. Said Parker:

"I will say that other elements moved into it (the riots)."

Belleville Class A Fair Rating Called Description of Excellence

Randall Says Show Here Eastern Ontario's Best

Officialdom's green light was given the 1965 edition of the Belleville Fair last night before an overflow grandstand crowd.

The Hon. Stanley J. Randall, Ontario Minister of Economics and Development formally declared the exhibition open before a large number of the district's political and muncipal dignitaries.

"Your fair" the minister told the crowd that spilled over into the infield and bleachers," has long been Eastern Ontario's leading agricultural attraction."

"They call it a Class "A" fair," he said, "but this means more than a designation. It is a description of excellence."

He said that a research of Canadian archives in Ottawa a few years ago revealed there was a fair in Belleville as long ago as 1821.

"This makes your 1965 fair 144 years old. But as spry as a youngster — as you can see by looking around."

"The date of the first fair," Mr. Randall said, "proves revealing. It shows Belleville was already an enterprising community since the participants included many of the first pioneers. Belleville, after all, had been settled only 30 years.

"And every fair in Belleville and district since 1821 has had something novel and interesting to commend it." he said.

In 1894 the fair featured the "largest cheese exhibit in Canada" and "the grand parade of prize animals in the ring." Emphasis was on horse, chariot, bicycle and foot races.

In 1897, he pointed out, the prize list mentions 69 items of farm machinery including a self-binding harvester, potato digger, an ox yoke and bows.

In 1905 the secretary's salary was increased to $50 a year and the treasurer was voted an increase to $25 a year.

The first mention of "standing crop competition" appeared in 1910. Two years later minutes of the fair carried the first reference to a midway.

There was a 27-cent admission charge for automobiles in 1914. It was included with admission prices for horse carriages.

"Over the years," Mr. Randall said, "your fair has been sponsored by the West Hastings Agricultural Society; the East Hastings Agricultural Society; the Thurlow Agricultural Society and the Belleville Horticultural Society. Today all these groups are merged in the Belleville Agricultural Society — but membership is still from the areas represented by these older societies."

"I wish to heartily commend all those who have helped — and are helping — make this fair the outstanding success it is," he said.

KEEPS IMPROVING

"Your fair," Mr. Randall concluded, "keeps improving every year. For every year the public expects higher standards. In declaring the fair officially open, I hope a record attendance enjoys it as much as I have enjoyed taking part.

Fair president Bob Phillips introduced the minister and extended greetings of the Board. Mayor Jack Ellis voiced the welcome of the city.

Harry Rollins acted as master-of-ceremonies in his usual jovial capable manner and introduced the platform guests.

These included Wardens Fred Beckett, Hastings county, Bernard Hepburn, Prince Edward county warden, and mayors. H. J. McFarland, Picton; Lorne Smart, Napanee and Gerald Lott, Deseronto.

Members of Parliament included Rod Webb, Hastings-Frontenac; Douglas Alkenbrack Prince Edward-Lennox; Robert Temple, Hastings South; Norris Whitney, MLA Prince Edward-Lennox, and Clarke Rollins, MLA Hastings East.

Also on the platform were Fair Board vice president [illegible] Harry Burns, second vice president Cameron Bunnett and three lifetime directors [illegible] Reid, Fred Denyes and Ben Bleeker.

A note of humor was injected when the large crowd stood for the national anthem.

Instead of the solemn notes of "God Save the Queen" the loudspeakers gave forth with four or five bars of a military march.

Strikers May Lose Some Pay

OTTAWA (CP) — The postal strike has been over for more than a week and the mails are running normally. But two items of unfinished business remain:

—The 19,500 members of the Postal Workers Brotherhood have until midnight Friday, Aug. 20, to answer ballots asking them whether they are satisfied with the final pay increases granted by the government and, if not, whether they favor strike action.

—The post office department said it will start in mid-September to deduct pay from those who went on strike.

Neither item is expected to trigger a resumption of the strike, although paying the piper, particularly in the case of more than 4,000 Montreal workers who walked out from July 22 to Aug. 7, could touch off some reconsideration of their position.

The department announced Friday the lifting of the last mail embargo, on third-class householder mail in the Montreal area. All first-class mail returned to normal Aug. 14. Mountains of mail in centres hit by walkouts now have been whittled down to manageable size.

Both the government and the

Abandon Hope of Finding 50 Avalanche Victims Alive

MENDOZA, Argentina (AP) — Hopes of finding alive 50 Argentines buried by Andean avalanches dwindled today. And on the other side of the mountains, a national disaster was declared in Chile where 100 lives have been lost in blizzards and avalanches.

Hundreds of rescue workers fought zero-degree cold and raging winds high in the Argentine Andes to dig through snow and rocks at Las Cuevas, but all 40 of the persons buried there were feared dead.

Six persons were rescued, severely injured, after an avalanche crashed down on the town 70 miles west of Mendoza early Monday.

Another 10 Argentines were missing and feared dead in an avalanche that hit nearby Puente del Inca Sunday. The avalanche killed four other persons, injured nine and wiped out the post office and a resort hotel.

The worst storm in memory still swept the southern Andes after more than a week and the threat of new disasters hung over the mountain border between Argentina and Chile.

Detectives Foil Conmen In Attempts to Fleece Elderly District Women

Police today continued the hunt for a gang of conmen in the Belleville area after a fast-moving detective squad foiled attempts to fleece elderly women. There were no arrests.

It was one of the best organized rackateer attempts ever to hit the city.

The conmen apparently planned to take advantage of the big Belleville Fair opening day when police vigilance should have been distracted elsewhere.

The gamble failed when police got wind of the operation and swiftly spread an unobtrusive dragnet around the city.

The conmen used a trick by now widely familiar, if not dated. However, it can still succeed — depending on the selection of the victim. Usually these are elderly women living alone.

It goes like this. The victim receives a phone call purporting to be from her bank. Her co-operation is requested in helping trap a dishonest employee. If she agrees — and most of the intended victims do — the woman then is asked to withdraw a large part of her savings without comment. She is told the money will be picked up later by bank officials and returned to her account. The "officials" who call later for the cash are the conmen.

Police did not reveal the extent of yesterday's attempts to pull the racket here. However, it is reported the crooks had several victims going for them simultaneously. The haul would have run into thousands.

It is believed the entire operation was foiled when the sum requested from one of the victims was her total savings.

An alert teller apparently became suspicious when the woman said she was closing out her account. Bank officials confirmed the situation and police were called.

Police Chief J. B. McLauchlan warned all banks to check all sizable withdrawals through the afternoon. The result revealed the extent of the operation.

Chief McLauchlan organized a flying squad of plainclothesmen to deal with the situation. Detectives on vacation were called back on duty and joined with a plainclothes detail policing the Belleville Fair midway.

They began tracking down the calls and unobtrusively staking out various houses in the city.

The alert was still on today and police were still anxious to prove beyond all doubt that no one had fallen victim to the trick.

Police said the same operation was tried in Peterborough last week while that city's fair was being presented.

IS NAMED MAYOR

MONTREAL (CP) —Jean-Noel Lavoie, mayor of suburban Chomedey, was named mayor Monday night of the new city of Laval, grouping 14 municipalities on Ile Jesus north of Montreal. He heads an interim council made up of the 14 community mayors and a number of aldermen.

Finished Exports Rising

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is making big strides this year in exporting finished goods, though they still account for a relatively small part of total exports.

Exports of what official records list as "inedible end products" ran to $520,761,738 of total Canadian exports of $3,184,196,846 in the first five months of this year. Comparable figures for last year are $439,603,217 and $3,059,023,376.

This means that while total exports are up four per cent, exports of finished goods are up more than 18 per cent.

Trade figures in dollar values do not take account of changes in price levels. As long as prices continue to rise, export and import figures will show gains even without an increase in the physical volume of goods traded.

The bureau of statistics measures quantities of goods and prices in international trade as an index, with 1948 as a base year representing 100.

PASSES 200

This year the monthly index hit 200.1 in March. DBS reported Monday that the May index is 186.5 The average for the first five months of the year is 175.2

A gain of 75 to 100 per cent in two years in the finished goods sector of Canadian exports is in marked contrast to gains in other sectors.

The index for the largest sec-

U.S. Drops Attempt to Force Russia to Pay UN Assessment

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — UN diplomats were elated today over the new U.S policy ending the threat of a U.S.-Soviet showdown over unpaid peacekeeping assessments.

The diplomats agreed that the U.S retreat, announced by Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, opens the way for resumption of normal operations of the General Assembly after a year of paralysis.

Reaction from Soviet delegates to the UN was cautious, but Chief Delegate Platon D. Morozov commented that "unless we are mistaken and deluded" there now is substantial agreement on normalization of the assembly's work.

He added, however, that the Soviet Union wanted firm guarantees and not just a statement that the United States had decided not to invoke Article 19 of the UN charter. This article provides that a member country will lose its vote in the assembly if it falls two years behind in paying assessments.

The Soviet Union, France and 11 other countries are in this category because of refusal to pay for peacekeeping operations in The Congo and the Middle East. The deficit is $108,000,000.

Goldberg said that because of majority opinion in the world organization the United States had abandoned its attempts to enforce the voting penalty in Article 19. He said private polls among diplomats and UN officials had shown that a majority was not prepared to enforce the charter provision.

"We will not seek to frustrate that consensus," he said, "since it is not in the world interest to have the work of the General Assembly immobilized in these troubled days."

He said the United States still felt the debtor nations were obligated to pay back assessments and that failure of the majority to support penalties had impaired the UN's efficiency.

He also said that the United States reserved the right to refuse to pay assessments if it felt "strong and compelling reasons exist for doing so."

"There can be no double standard among the members if the organization," he said.

Insurance May Cover Early Losses in Los Angeles Riots

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The riot-devastated Watts district today faced the question: Where will the money for rebuilding and repair come from? Or will it ever come at all?

Fires alone in the six days of rioting and killing have destroyed more than 200 buildings, with damage firemen place conservatively at $175,000,000.

Officials haven't even attempted to estimate looting losses.

Who will pay for the immense destruction of property and livelihood? Insurance companies?

William A. Irvine, president of the 2,500-member Insurance Brokers Association of California, said he thinks most damages will be covered.

John Claypoole of the Consolidated Mutual Insurance Co., said, however: "Early damage should apparently be covered, but as it got into the later stages—Friday and Saturday—then there is a serious question as to whether it was an insurrection. It may be a matter for the courts to decide."

Two other firms said they are "withholding a decision for the time being."

One theory had it that the city or county could be held liable for failure to protect citizens and property from rioting. But county counsel Harold W. Kennedy Monday cited a 1963 state law which absolves the city and county of liability in such cases.

What some public speakers lack in depth, they give you in length.

Monday, Inspector Frank Coleman, right, presented a cheque to Percy Hitchcock, president of the Hastings and Prince Edward Muscular Dystrophy Association. Mr. Hitchcock is shown second from the right. His son, a victim of muscular dystrophy, is next to him and at the extreme left is Trenton's fire chief, Cecil Ellis.

Native Appeal Brings Record Crowds to See Attractions at Fair

Belleville Fair may be proving an important social point this year.

For the first time it has taken the plunge in confining all its attractions to Canadian tradition.

And, after last night's gate receipts were counted, it suddenly turned out that the first one - hundred - percent Maple Leaf fair in the city's history could also spell out sugar.

In other words, the grandstand attractions at the Fair's opening night were a success as citizens turned out in their hundreds to see the Ontario dirt - track motorcycle championships.

The registration was slightly above last year's record of 1,804 paid admissions to a crowded grandstand.

This year they managed to squeeze in some extra enthusiasts and counted a full house of 1,912 before the turnstiles were sealed off for comfort's and safety's sake.

Meantime, the worst is still to come, as far as crowd-control officials are concerned.

The all - Canadian - talent aim of the Fair board has brought down on the city the most dynamic of national outdoor attractions — the Calgary stampede chuckwagon races.

These are launched this afternoon on a public all - suspecting of their potential for excitement. By the time the word gets around, tonight promises to be another sell - out.

Meantime, Fair president Bob Phillips admits that all depends on the weather.

He agrees the Fair took a chance in gearing its presentations to an all - Canadian environment.

"Yet, last night's receipts proved it's logical," he added.

"The Ontario motorbike championships sold us out last night," said Mr. Phillips. "Tonight we're breaking out with the chuckwagons. Somehow I think we are going to be as far ahead in native appeal."

ANNOUNCES INQUIRY

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—Justice minister Balthazar Vorster announced a full-scale inquiry into allegations of brutality and electric shock torture in South African jails. The announcement came five weeks after the Rand Daily Mail, a prominent liberal newspaper in Johannesburg, defied police warnings and published a prisoner's expose of the subject.

Horses Judged At Local Fair

Sleek roadsters, beautiful Palominos and trim saddle horses with splendid equipment and competent riders were the order of the day as the judging started at the fair on Monday. A few heavy horses were judged but the day was given over to the lighter breeds and a most excellent showing resulted. Lorne Urch, commentator for the officials, was in his usual fine voice and kept the patrons well informed as to what was taking place and announcing the winners in the various classes.

The Belleville Fair has always been noted for the large entry in the light horses, but this year due to many circumstances, the entry list is not quite as large as in former years. The heavy class of horses is larger than ever and some beautiful animals can be seen in a walk around the barns.

The results of judging on Monday:

Two Drivers, Spectator Injured as Bike Riders Thrill Crowd at Fair

A capacity crowd of well over 2,000 persons watched the thrills chills and spills of the fifth annual Ontario Dirt Track Motorcycle Racing Championships.

There was excitement enough for all as the daredevil riders blazed around the one-half mile dirt track at speeds sometemes close to 100 miles per hour on the back stretch and 90 miles an hour on the shorter front stretch.

The accident toll — three injured; two drivers and a spectator. Larry Ross of Hamilton, a participant in the expert class, slid on the southeast turn and was taken to hospital where he was reported in satisfactory condition with a concussion. George Saracin, 19, of Oshawa, received a badly sprained ankle when his bike tipped over in the practice runs. Everett Adamson, 16, of 15 Monroe Ave., Belleville, a spectator, suffered a fractured left leg when the steel cross bar of a soccer goal in the infield gave way from the weight of people sitting on it and fell on top of his leg.

The riders, 38 in all, were competing for the prize money of $1,000 and for the honor of being Ontario Champions in the four divisions — Lightweight, Junior, Senior and Expert.

The huge crowd filled the grandstand seats completely, and spread all away around the track. The infield too, was packed, as was the fence around the outside of the track, and a large number of spectators even used the roof of the Poultry Building for a vantage point.

ALL BIKES BRAKELESS

The cyclists risked serious injury and even death time and time again. They flew around the curves at fantastic speeds, often scraping the sides of the fence with their leather pants, and opened wide up on the stretches in spite of the fact that the bikes were all brakeless to comply with the rules of The Canadian Motorcycle Association.

The spectacular event, organized by the Piston Pushers Motorcycle Club of Belleville, was chaired by Jerry Sherman of Foxboro.

One expert at the races commented, "The boys are going much faster this year than last year. It's probably because of the new track. They seem to be able to gain more control than they have in the past."

Yvon DuHamel of Montreal, on number 76, powered his way to his third straight Ontario Lightweight Class Championship, with Fred Mitchell of Roxbury, Mass., second, and Ron Wheatley of Montreal, third.

In the Junior Class, Fred Mitchell, besides finishing second in the Lightweight Class, drove his way to the championship. Finishing second was Robert Bouliace of Montreal, and Al Goulet of Maple was third.

After suffering a fractured skull two years ago, and racing in his first half-mile event since then, Gerald Cuerrier of Green Valley, Ontario, copped the Senior Class Championship. David Rockburne of Oshawa was second, with Robert Noel of Montreal coming in third.

In the Expert Class, Doug Showler of Cleveland, Ohio, came first, Don McHugh of Brampton, last year's top rider, came second, and Yvon DuHamel of Montreal was third.

TRACK PRAISED

Expert Class Champion, Doug Showler, of Cleveland, said after his victory, "The track was in real good shape. It's very controllable. The deep track lets you ride on a cushion and lose less time on the turns.

"We average around 60 miles an hour for the track, but it's not really as dangerous as it looks. When you figure the number of accidents for the number of drivers in the various heats, then it's not really too bad."

The drivers are all insured by a large company for $1,000 Medical and $1,000 life. The premium is $8.00 a year. The regulations of the C.M.A. forces the drivers to be covered in this manner.

Larry Bastedo of Hamilton, acted as Senior Referee. He had a host of various colored flags in front of him, which he explained as follows:

"When the yellow flag is held out to the side at the corners, it means a driver is down but he's out of the way. If the yellow flag is held over the head and waved, though, there is extreme danger because the track is blocked. There can be no passing on a yellow flag.

"If the red flag is waved, it means that the race must be stopped immediately.

"The white flag is the starting flag. The cyclists are lined up along the starting line and I walk a few yards down the track with the white flag up. Then I turn, check the driver's positions, and if everything is okay I drop the flag and the race is on.

MANY HEATS RACED

"The black flag means the cyclist should report to the referee at once. It means the driver has been disqualified or that something is wrong with his machine.

"The blue flag means there is one more lap to go, and the checkered flag, of course, is the finish. The winner gets to drive around the track holding the checkered flag."

In the Lightweight Class, each of the nine contestants raced two heats each, and those with the best times raced in the final. The same thing applied to the eight cyclists in the Expert Class.

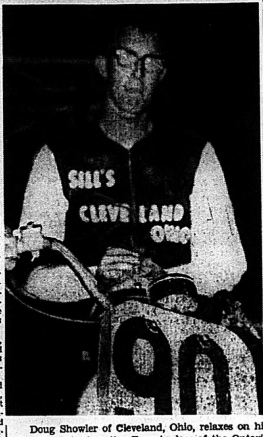
The senior class, with 11 contestants, was divided into two heats. Each rider in the class went two heats, and again those with the best showing went into the final.

In the Junior Class, the 10 riders were divided into two heats, but each rider only went one heat before the finals.

Members of the St. John Ambulance and the Canadian Motorcycle Racing Association were in attendance.

As one spectator commented, "It sure is thrilling to watch those fellows, but it seems like an awful tough way to earn your money."

Amen to that!



Doug Showler of Cleveland, Ohio, relaxes on his bike after winning the Expert class of the Ontario Dirt Track Motorcycle Racing Championships last night at the Belleville Fair.

HORSE SHOW at Belleville Fair yesterday saw a brilliant beginning for the four-day event. Spectators crowded the grandstand through the afternoon to see the champion breeds go through paces. Above, an entry in English saddle horse class is judged by H. Stewart Hall, of Galt.

Woman Pet Control Officer Promised Protection From Jibes

TRENTON — Trenton council last night passed a by-law which will set the wheels in motion to afford protection to Mrs. Hilda Jones, the Pet Control Officer, from "insults" and "jibes" thrown at her by animal owners.

Mr. H. M. Jones was at the meeting to report that a local man had "sworn" at his wife after she had picked up the family dog.

Mr. Jones said also that Mrs. Jones was having trouble with a local policeman who refused to keep his dog tied up. In this case, the councillors said Mrs. Jones was to do her duty, and she had the protection of council all the way.

Trenton solicitor Roderick Campbell, will interview Mrs. Jones today and confer with Crown Attorney John A. Pringle about the best course to take to protect Mrs. Jones, a town employee.

Rate Structure For Fighting Fires Accepted

TRENTON — Councillor Edward Todd, the chairman of the protection to persons and property committee of town council, reported last night that the township council of Ameliasburg and his committee met last week to discuss the township council's dispute about the variance in charges for fire fighting between Belleville and Trenton. (The township is served by both departments).

After hearing that Trenton's department is essentially a volunteer department, while the Belleville department is a "manned" department, the township officials, said Councillor Todd, realized the costs of fire fighting were formulated on an entirely different basis. Councillor Todd said he imagined the town's rate structure would be accepted without question in the future.

Three Obtain Scholarships in Recent Exams

TRENTON — Douglas Conley, 18, 20 McGill Street, Trenton, has won an Ontario Scholarship it was learned today after Grade XIII results were made public.

Another student, David Lowden, 18, of 44A Namao Drive, Middleton Park, achieved nine firsts, and well - known Trenton hockey player Kenneth Reynolds, 18, 99 Marmora Street found the secret of combining sports with high marks as he earned seven firsts and two thirds in his examinations.

No Action On Owen Sound Resolution

TRENTON — After considering a resolution brought down by the town council of Owen Sound, "to prohibit the use of glass container for soft drinks" the members of Trenton council last night decided not go along with it.

While agreeing that broken glass was a hazard on beaches and in other public places, council felt the resolution should recommend to the provincial legislation that a study of safety containers should be made.

APPROVE IN PRINCIPLE

Trenton council voted last night to "approve in principle" the building of a regional jail near Napanee, to replace the county jail at Belleville, serve three counties and several communities. Belleville has approved the regional detention unit and Picton has approved verbally.

WILL INSTALL FLOOR

The community gardens' commission now has town council's "go ahead" to spend $1,600 for the installation of sewer and water pipes and a concrete floor in an area 18 feet by 150 feet at the south end of the building.

In asking for council's approval of the project, Councillor C. V Graham, who is also chairman of the gardens' board explained the area would primarily provide space where children could put on and remove their skates, rather than use the foyer or the newly finished seating area.

WILL REMOVE BOAT HOUSE

The council voted by by-law last night to go ahead with the removal of a boat house, owned by Ross Forster, on road allowance on the east Trenton riverbank. The boat house will be taken down and the lumber saved for Mr. Forster, as will the contents of the building, which, according to Councillor Joseph Gould, include "dolls and doll carriages."

When the Public Utilities Commission discovered a water main running under the boathouse must be reparied, Mr. Forster is reported to have been asked to remove the building. Since he has not, the PUC sought the aid of council the town's senior governing body, to achieve its purpose.

BAN TOBACCO ADS

RAJKOT (AP) — The Indian state of Gujarat has banned cigarette advertisements on state - owned buses on the grounds that smoking is a health hazard and the government should not promote it.

Councillors Teased By Air Conditioner

TRENTON — Trenton council met last night and alternately froze and roasted . . . victims of the whims of the new air conditioning unit.

While the unit is operating, discussion at the council table cannot be heard by the reporters at the back of the chamber, and hardly by the councillors themselves. The result is that the speaker tends to shout . . . then "click," off goes the unit, and the red - faced speaker "roars" a few words until he realizes that he can be heard a city block away.

Toward the end of the meeting, clerk comptroller O. W. Larry shut off the contrivance and opened an old fashioned window.

New Chamber Office Delayed For One Year

TRENTON — D. R. Fraser, a director of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the chamber's building committee, came before town council last night to ask that the completion date for the proposed new chamber office on Front Street be extended from Aug. 17, of this year to Aug. 17 of next.

Mr. Fraser also asked council's permission for the chamber to double the mortgage on the new building, from $5,000 to $10,000. He explained that a former plan to ask local builders to donate their time to the building had been dropped as being "unrealistic", and the chamber heads had decided to engage one contractor for the job and accept donations of materials or cash instead.

Mr. Fraser said the building would be "a $15,000" building once it was finished and should the chamber ever go out of existence, for any reason, the building and land would revert to the town, and could be used as a civic building.

"With cell blocks across the back, it could be used for a police station," he suggested.

All things considered, council voted to cede to the chamber's requests.

LODGE MEETING

TRENTON —There was a good turn out of members at a meeting of the Women of the Moose. The meeting was opened by Senior Regent Nellie Scrymageour. A corn roast will be held at Mrs. Scrymageour's on Aug. 28.

The draw was won by Alice Newton and the prize was donated by Aletha Craighead.

Playgrounds To Hold Fair

TRENTON — Children from Trenton's six playgrounds will stage a Penny Fair in Hanna Park, Wednesday night, starting at 6. p.m.

Before the start of the fair, Mr. and Miss Penny Fair will be chosen and they will cut the ribbon to open the festivity.

Pennies may be spent on such things as the fish pond, miniature golf, entrance to the "spook house" and the chocolate toss.

Wednesday afternoon, starting at 2 p.m., from the Front Street municipal parking lot, the playground children will stage a parade through downtown Trenton, ending at Hanna Park. Theme of the parade this year is "The Twelve Magic Months," and each playground will represent two months of the year. Prizes will be awarded to three winning playgrounds.

Negro Riots

The arrest of a Negro on a drunken driving charge was the catalyst that sparked eight hours of rioting in Los Angeles' Negro quarter last Wednesday. Since then demonstrations, looting and burning have continued almost without cease. In Chicago there have been similar events.

These incidents cause little surprise. They are a logical outcome of decades of oppression of the Negro, of generations of second-class citizenship in the United States.

It takes only a spark—like the arrest of a Negro by a white police officer—to ignite the flame of anti-white feeling. After that anything can happen, as events in Los Angeles and Chicago have testified. It is then that the thin veneer of civilized behavior and of law and order in American Negro society is swept aside, that rational behavior ceases and arson, looting and killing take over.

The mob, it has been said, is a weak and brainless thing. "Burn, baby, burn," became the slogan of the Los Angeles insurrection, as Robert Richardson, a 24-year-old Negro advertising salesman turned reporter noted in his graphic reports from the city.

Such is life in the racial cauldron that is the United States today. Drive through any Negro area in any city in the United States and the tension is like a tangible thing you can touch. The history of mankind is full of similar upheavals.

The Negro has waited a long time for recognition in the United States. He knows that he Civil Rights Bill and his attempts at peace-ul demonstrations have not brought any real mprovement in his situation. He has been nocked and beaten by the white man, even by he servants of the law. It is little wonder that Negro passions erupt now and then.

Roving Director

In the theatrical world no name is more idely known and respected than that of Tyrone uthrie, the tall Irishman who played a leading art in the establishment of the Stratford hakespearean Theatre and lately has been rtistic director of the Minneapolis Theatre which ears his name.

Currently visiting Stratford on his way home om Minneapolis, Sir Tyrone is being succeeded artistic director of the American theatre by other Stratford personality, Douglas Campbell. e may return next year to direct one play.

Meanwhile, Sir Tyrone—he was knighted a w years ago—has increasing responsibilities. is Chancellor of Queen's University, Belfast, position to which he was appointed on the ath of Field Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke.

In his first major address as Chancellor, Sir rone caused a stir by suggesting that Ireland uld be better off as one country rather than sisting with its present divided state. The iversity Senate dissociated itself from the ancellor's opinion and Sir Tyrone countered saying he believed a man in his position uld not be content to utter mere platitudes.

Still, it is easy to see why Sir Tyrone's rds struck a discordant note. While he is ancellor of Northern Ireland's principal uni- sity, his home is in County Monaghan in the h Republic; and it is the republic which is ays to the fore in any talk of a united Ireland.

Brown Spots on Old Folk Are Harmless as Freckles

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What about the brown spots that come on the faces of older people? Can anything be done to prevent them? — S. T. B.

From a health standpoint, these spots are no more important than freckles in younger people. In either case, pigment (coloring matter) in the skin intensifies into a spot, instead of being evenly distributed.

Some young people have lots of freckles and others have very few, if any. It's the same, to a lesser degree, with older people. Some get more of these brown spots than others.

Youngsters can't understand why old people are so worried about these brown spots. What harm do they do?

Old people often wonder why youngsters are so fretful about freckles. What harm do they do? And why can't youngsters (girls, that is) realize that freckles are not unattractive.

You can fool around to your heart's desire with lemon juice, peroxide or other such things to "bleach" them. The results are nothing to brag about.

You can use cosmetics and cover them up, if you care that much. Hollywood has had a number of very beautiful actresses who are as speckled as turkey eggs. The film capital's solution (when the freckles are considered detrimental) is to cover them with make-up.

You can't control these spots with diet, vitamins, patent medicines or black magic. But they aren't creating any trouble, either.

Yes, age plays a part in these spots, and they tend to be more pronounced as you become older, especially if you are a brunette.

Dear Dr. Molner: I recently read that even if babies vomit milk they still get some nourishment from it. I mentioned this at our club meeting and everybody thinks I am way off base, but my mother-in-law says she has heard the same thing. Could you enlighten us? — Mrs. J.J.J.

This article you read wasn't one of mine. But let's think about what is correct and reasonable rather than whether somebody thinks you are "way off base."

First, any baby may, especially if upset, spit up a little milk, just as any of us, under nervous tension, may burp, or not feel hungry, etc.

Whatever milk they spit up gives no nourishment. But conversely, a healthy baby doesn't spit up enough milk to make a great difference.

If a baby spits up milk or food consistently, and particularly all or most of what he or she swallows, get that child to your doctor right away. Something's seriously wrong.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain the Parkinson-White syndrome heart condition. — Mrs. R. R.

Don't confuse this with Parkinson's disease, which has nothing to do with the heart. The full name is Wolf-Parkinson-White syndrome and it's shown through electrocardiograms.

The condition discloses a variation of the speed with which the heart's "impulse to beat" is transmitted. Among people who have a sudden quickening of the heart rate (paroxysmal tachycardia) it is quite frequent.

Such people otherwise are well. They have no organic heart disease. Annoying? Yes. Dangerous, no.

The country then included all the Netherlands East Indies with the exception of Dutch New Guinea.

Fifty years ago today—in 1915—Kovno, the key fortress of the Russians' line of defence in Poland, fell with 4,500 prisoners and 240 guns; a Zeppelin raid killed 10 and injured 36 in England; No. 3 Canadian Stationary Hospital arrived at Lemnos.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today — in 1940 — President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King met at Ogdensburg, N.Y., to plan the defence of the western hemisphere; Flt. Lt. Roderick Learoyd of the RAF was awarded the VC; the Duke of Windsor took the oath of office as governor of the Bahamas.

Provincial Jealousy

Victoria Colonist

Many British Columbians will be mentally blushing over Municipal Affairs Minister Daniel Campbell calling Prince Edward Island a potato patch in reference to the Pearson Government's announcement of a decision to call tenders later in the year for a $148,000,000 causeway between the island province and the mainland. There was no call for him to be rude. But there is justification for his claim that Ottawa is giving the east preferential treatment over the west. And it is a valid point that this great sum of money could be spent to Canada's better advantage elsewhere — perhaps particularly, as Mr. Campbell suggested, as an investment in the productive growth of British Columbia.

Why English Women Are Dowdy

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Speaking of that new "handbag" for men that is moving from the continent to England, as I was yesterday, reminded me of a friend who has just returned from an annual trip to London, bringing three new suits made up for him in Saville Row.

He remarked that he was more impressed (and depressed) than ever before with the dowdiness of the English women. "Why is it," he asked, "that England turns out the finest men's clothes in the world, but its feminine fashions are so bad that the women have to scurry to Paris for high style?"

I know very little about styles as such, but I think the answer to his question has more to do with temperament than with togs. It is not wholly an accident that the symbol for England is sturdy John Bull, while the symbol for France is a beautiful woman.

A nation, like a person, has a temperament in which either the masculine or the feminine traits are dominant. England has always been a man's country; France has a psychological and cultural profile that is more feminine. And America has changed from a masculine to a feminine country in the last half-century; more and more, the demands of our women determine what is made and sold.

Women's clothes are poorly turned out in England because the men do not want their women for decoration, but for utility. An Englishwoman who is chic is immediately suspect of being not quite a good wife or mother. Her husband wants to keep her in tweeds and flat heels.

The Frenchman, infinitely more sensitive, is concerned with color and design and sensory impressions of all kinds. He has almost a woman's eye for decor — which does not mean, but the way, that he is one bit less virile than his British brother. This is a common error made by the Anglo-Saxons.

The French woman dresses well, even on a small allowance, because there has been bred in her, over the generations, the knowledge that her men expect her to look just as charming as possible. If the Englishwoman had had the same stimulation, London dressmakers would be as adept as the Parisians.

(As an interesting corollary to this difference of attitude, the Englishman looks upon any woman over 40 as "a bit long in the tooth," while the Frenchman appreciates the riper and more mature woman, and does not overestimate green youth, as Britons and Americans tend to do.)

When we say an Engliswoman "doesn't know how" to dress with chic, what we really mean is that she has not been obliged to care very much. And with clothes, as with every art, there can be no craft where there is no caring.

Atrophy, Rigidity Ail Modern Civil Service

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Whatever happened, read one of the hundreds of angry telegrams flooding Prime Minister Pearson's busy East Block desk during — and since — the recent unpleasantness in the Post Office, to that old saw "the mail must go through."

The question, and a good one, remains part of the political and governmental "fallout" of the strike.

A good question, because something has happened, after 2,389 years, to the world's belief in the dependability of the mail.

It was back about the year 424 B.C. that Herodutus wrote the first "commercial" for the Persian Post Office Department whose messengers, he let it be known through the then-civilized world, "travel with a velocity which no other human can equal, since neither snow nor rain nor heat nor darkness are permitted to obstruct their speed."

Twenty-two centuries later it still held good for the postal service, for above the door of the main Post Office in New York City — and into the lore of the Canadian mail service — was written: "Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night shall stay these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

So what happened?

HAPPENING ALL OVER

As good an answer as any comes from Canadian industrialist David A. Golden, who speaks with the voice of experience as a former Federal Deputy Minister of both the departments of Industry and of Defence Production.

What happened in the Post Office Department has happened all over in what Mr. Golden has described as "the decline of quality in the Federal Civil Service."

The Government staff, says this ex-Deputy, one of former Trade Minister C. D. Howe's men, simply isn't what it used to be.

And why not?

It "atrophied," he says, in its "attitudes and attributes," in the 22 unbroken years of power of former Liberal Prime Ministers Mackenzie King and Louis St. Laurent, and by the time Conservative Prime Minister Diefenbaker and then Prime Minister Pearson came along, had become "a prisoner of its own mythology."

It wasn't that those 22 years were Liberal — they could have been Conservative or perhaps even New Democratic — it was just that 22 years of one unchanging administration was just about twice too long.

Eight years as in the United States, or at most 12 years, as usually is the case in Britain, is plenty long enough for one regime. Changes in Governments blow fresh air — new ideas and a willingness to adapt and adjust — into Civil Services.

And so 22 years was so unreasonably long without a change that when Diefenbaker and then Pearson took over, the Government staff long since had "atrophied."

NO ROOM AT THE TOP

This "atrophy," says David Golden, was due to the stubborn resistance of the Civil Service establishment to the infusion of new talent in the senior ranks.

There just wasn't any room at the top for new men or new ideas.

Instead, there has been what he describes as "an outcry by the Establishment if a Cabinet Minister should suggest bringing in one of his own people, perhaps a trusted confidante from the professional or business world."

What must happen now, believes this former C. D. Howe lieutenant, is a quick recognition of the "wisdom, even the right of a Cabinet Minister to bring in a small, select circle of inner advisers who are wedded to his and the Government's own policies."

If this happened, it would become a prestige thing for business or industrial executives of national standing to spend a year or so of service in the top echelons of the Federal administrations, giving them a voice in the framing of government policy.

It is that way in Washington, notes David Golden, where to serve an Eisenhower, a Kennedy or a Johnson is a great and signal honor even for the chairman of the board of a mighty corporation.

To serve at the top in the Washington power pyramid is a sure stepping stone for the executive to national fame and usually greater fortune.

If something like this became the executive way of administrative life here in the National Capital, then the atrophy, the rigidity, the petrifying of attitudes and attributes that seemed to make it impossible to either prevent or deal swiftly with the postal strike could be avoided. Open up room at the top, says David Golden, make way for new men, talent, ideas and modern business technologies, and restore the very quality now missing in the Civil Service.

Not One of the Old School

Toronto Financial Post

As Edward Heath, new British Conservative chief, is only 49, the odds are that in due course he will win an election. He will then become only second 20th-century Tory PM who did not attend what the British call a public school, meaning a non-public or private school.

A. J. Balfour, Anthony Eden, Harold Macmillan and Sir Alec Douglas-Home went to Eton, a remarkable score for the school where you learn to wear a silk hat nonchalantly as well as write Latin verse.

Stanley Baldwin and Winston Churchill were Harrovians. Neville Chamberlain went to Rugby where both the game and the famed "public school system" were invented.

This leaves only Bonar Law as the odd man out. Canadian by birth, he attended Glasgow High School, made a fortune in business and was PM for seven months in 1922-23.

Heath was enrolled at a "grammar school." To get into such a school a boy must be clever but need not know anything about silk hats or stately homes. Heath's election means that, rather late in the day, the middle class is beginning to take over the Conservative party from the landed gentry.

This change will assuredly make the party more democratic as the word is commonly understood, and bring it "closer to the people." Whether it will improve the quality of the leadership remains to be discovered by trial and possibly error.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 17th, 1945

Sun-tanned and with hearts filled with enthusiasm over their all-too brief stay with their older brothers of the R.C.A.F., Belleville air cadets numbering 25 strong returned home over the weekend from a ten-day camping period at No. 1 C.F.T.S. at Camp Borden.

Five hundred and twelve air cadets representing squadrons from St. Catharines, Port Colborne, Belleville, Hamilton, Newmarket, Lindsay, Gravenhurst, Harriston, Hanover, and Chesley, comprised the air cadet camp at Camp Borden, and which was described by local officers as the most successful air cadet camp yet held.

Operated as a separate camp unit and under separate authority of air cadet officers, the camp was cited a model for discipline and was a forerunner for a future air cadet camp which eventually will comprise all squadrons in Ontario.

30 YEARS AGO

For the third consecutive year Mayor George O. Tice has been invited to act as official starter at the horse races at the Lindsay Fair in September.

Mr. Bert Ferriss is paying a visit to the "old home town" after an absence of 30 years. He has prospered in the United States and is a successful and prominent hardware merchant in Detroit, Minn.

Miss Barbara Turvey, Isabel Street, has returned home after spending three weeks vacation at Lake Rosseau.

Mrs. J. T. Delaney, Mrs. Gor-Delaney, Miss Olive Delaney and Mr. Maurice Gadd have left on a motor car trip to Winnipeg.

Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Hopkins and daughter, Lorraine, of Toronto, are the guests of Mrs. Hopkins' mother, Mrs. Florence Countryman, John Street.

Miss Aileen Embury of Rochester, N.Y., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meagher, Charles Street.

Yesterday the bands of Belleville, Frankford and Campbellford held a picnic at Glen Ross on the Trent River. Bandmaster Reg. Hinchey of this city conducted the bands in a very pleasing program.

"Daddy" Duesberry of this city is a proud man today and he has proved himself to be some fisherman. Yesterday, when fishing in the bay along the Prince Edward County shore from Nigger Island to the bay bridge, he caught three 'lunge which weighed respectively 18 pounds, 22 pounds, and 40 pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Yeomans of Chicago Ill., are visiting his mother, Mrs. Horace Yeomans, Bridge Street east.

50 YEARS AGO

August 17th, 1915

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Embury and family have returned home from Salmon Lake where they were in camp for two weeks.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnstone gave an at home to mark the opening of their remodelled and newly decorated academy of dancing in the Metropolitan Block on Front Street. There was a large attendance of young people who greatly admired the new quarters. The Ed. O'Rourke orchestra furnished excellent music.

Mr. Harry Ponton is home from Grafton to spend a few days with is father, Lieut.-Col. W. N. Ponton, Sidney Cottage, Trent Road.

striking workers indicated during the dispute that pay would not be granted or expected for days not worked.

EXPLAINS PLAN

A department spokesman said in an interview Monday that the pay deductions—affecting some 12,000 postal employees in Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia—will be made this way:

—Deductions will start in mid-September civil service pay cheques (civil servants are paid twice monthly).

—They will continue for three months, if required, with a maximum $50 being deducted in any one month. An employee whose deduction totals $70 would lose $50 in September and $20 in October. Whether the entire monthly deduction will come off one cheque or be spread over two has not been decided.

Except for Montreal, strikers at other centres stopped work for about seven days or less.

Postal workers in letter-carrier and mail-sorting positions average some $100 a week. Their final increases, after the strike, averaged $510 to $550. Initially only $300 to $360 was granted.

RECOMMENDS RATES

Judge J. C. Anderson, brought in by the government to review postal and other salaries in the same pay group, recommended the final rates. He also undertook to recommend the present boot allowance of $38 a year granted uni formed postmen be made part of salary.

Since the boot sum would then become taxable, a boost to $60 was considered but implementation must await his final report and the government's reaction to it.

Sources in the Postal Workers Brotherhood indicate they expect their members to accept the final increases, even if the sums are not the flat $660 annual increases sought

Almost lost sight of during the strike was the pay demand from other employees in the civil service Group D pay cycle. This includes some 35,000 employees in customs, excise, immigration, stores and maintenance classes.

In separate statements Monday the 80,000-member Civil Service Federation and 33,000-member Civil Service Association reported they have submitted detailed proposals to Judge Anderson for additional salary increases to other Group D classes.

In engaging Judge Anderson, Prime Minister Pearson promised that pay rates of all in the group would be re-examined. The judge's report, according to the associations, is expected later this week.

The 6,600 - member Customs and Excise Officers Association, unhappy with increases granted their categories, is conducting an independent referendum.

This ballot asks members to indicate whether they are satisfied with the association's current no-strike policy, or want it changed to allow strikes. Deadline for return of ballots is midnight Wednesday, Aug. 18.

The customs group and some other civil service organizations feel they must ask their members about their strike position. The government has promised to introduce early legislation on collective bargaining for civil servants and a strike prohibition may be included.

According to Hoy

By

Claire Hoy

Sic Transit Gloria Mundi

Once upon a time there was a bay, and it was called the Bay of Quinte, and some people came upon the bay and liked what they saw.

And the people decided to stay. They built homes by the bay and more people came and they, too, liked what they saw.

And the community grew and it prospered and became known as Belleville. Belleville continued to grow and soon became a city and there was great joy throughout the land and rejoicing by the bay.

More people came to Belleville. Merchants came and built stores. Farmers found the land to their liking. Some industries sprang up. And joy continued throughout the area.

And the main thoroughfare was called Front Street. And many stores grew up on Front Street and it was good.

And Belleville elected a mayor and some councilmen and they ruled honestly and diligently. And to this day, they are still being elected.

And it was good until the fire. And the fire raged out of control on Front Street. The firemen fought bravely but the fire was too big to stop. It was a fire the like of which is not seen often.

And for a while it was not good. A black char was left on the face of Front Street and it looked bad.

But the people did not go away. They took heart and looked for someone to build up the black char into a new building. And lo and behold they found a man.

And it was good.

But not for long.

A real estate company went to the city fathers and told of the great news of a prospective builder for the black char. And the ctiy fathers were happy, but there was a catch.

City fathers in another era had passed a by-law. And the by-law said any new building in the City of Belleville required a said number of parking spaces for a said number of square feet of building.

Alack, the by-law was applicable to certain areas of the city, but there was no room for parking spots in the black char.

Once again the people took heart. And they told the city fathers of their plight, saying, "There is no room for parking spots and a building in that area."

And the city fathers agreed. And the businessmen rejoiced. But it was premature.

The city fathers, in their infinite wisdom, decreed that instead of parking spots, the builder could pay $1,200. For the 40 spots required for the black char, that would mean an expenditure from the builder to the city fathers of $48,000.

And the builder was indignant. And no wonder!

And the black char still stands. And as long as this by-law stands with it, things are not likely to change.

on felony charges ran high—up to $3,000 higher than in normal times.

The first 100 of the thousands arrested were arraigned Monday. Comparatively few were freed on bail. Posting $5,000 bail through a bondsman requires giving him $500 which is not refunded.

Three of the first 100 prisoners to be arraigned were charged with murder. Most of the others face charges of assault, burglary and arson.

Fire and looting damage is expected to exceed $200,000,000.

STRIKE AT CONDITIONS

In Washington, government officials and congressional leaders agreed with President Johnson's statement that it was necessary "to strike at the unjust conditions from which disorder largely flows."

They said the best way to deal with such situations was to push long - range programs aimed at raising education and employment levels.

Transportation For Retarded Is Approved

At a special meeting of the Belleville Retarded Children's Education Authority held Monday evening, tenders for the transporting of children to and from school were received. The lowest tender submitted by Alvin Parkhurst was accepted for the 1965-66 school year. Mr. Parkhurst will acquire two new buses and a station wagon to provide a high standard of service.

Other quotations were received from Rawson Bus Co. Ltd., Foxboro Bus Lines and E. Elliott and Sons.

The Authority also approved and accepted an application for school principal submitted by Mr. Carson Stratton of RR 1, Foxboro. Mr. Stratton has had broad experience in teaching handicapped children having spent 31 years teaching at the Ontario School for the Deaf, and six years teaching at Public Schools during which time he had the opportunity of teaching special handcraft classes. In addition, he has been teaching evening classes in "English to New Canadians" at BCI and VS for the past 5 years. Mr. Stratton is well known in the Belleville area having lived in the city for many years and only recently has made his home in Foxboro.

Mr. Stratton succeeds Mrs. Vivian Bradford who, due to responsibilities at home was unable to assume the duties of full time principal. Mrs. Bradford will continue as a part time teacher at the school.

ANAF Here Is Holding 'Blood for Peace' Campaign

The local branch of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans of Canada is this week co-operating with the Red Cross in its second annual "Blood for Peace" project.

This is a national blood donation campaign organized by the ANAF to give veterans a practical means for honoring the memory of their comrades lost in battle and at the same time contributing to a humanitarian cause. The local branch's second project coincides with the twentieth anniversary of the conclusion of the Second Great War, thereby acquiring added significance.

The veterans will contribute their blood at the Kiwanis Centre, where one of the regular blood donor clinics will be held on Thursday, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 8.30 p.m.

While the supply of blood transfusions is the responsibility of the community as a whole, members of veterans' associations have always been to the fore in the parade of donors. The average veteran of the Second Great War, whose age is well under the 60-year-old maximum limit for donors, has been taught by training and experience that survival of the group often depends upon the conduct of the individual and readily understands the sense of duty to the community which inspires the act of donating blood.

The Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans of Canada include blood donating in the list of their regular activities throughout the year. The Blood for Peace campaign has given them a focus for their efforts, and has encouraged others to organize recruiting drives and plan blood donation events in co - operation with their Red Cross Services.

The campaign is gaining ground each year as more and more of the members of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans find it an appropriate way of remembering their war dead and of commemorating Veterans Day. Since the success of any blood donation drive depends on the recruitment of volunteer donors, the organization of such an event lies well within the means of most veterans groups and is completely in keeping with the practical role fulfilled by members of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in communities throughout Canada.

In supporting their national blood transfusion services within the framework of a national campaign, the members of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans are contributing to the efforts made by the Red Cross to strengthen national bonds where the collection and use of blood is concerned. Within the limitations of blood groups, and procedures for stocking blood and blood plasma, blood donated by the people of one community can help save lives in another community where no blood bank exists or when disaster strikes.

Negroes' Viewpoint

Riots Will Continue Due Police Attitude

Riot over? Yes, says Governor Edmund G. Brown, the Los Angeles police department and the California national guard.

No, emphatically no, says a cross-section of Watts' Negroes surveyed by two Associated Press reporters.

By JAMES BACON
and
BILL BOYARSKY

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"The riots will continue because I, as a Negro, man immediately considered a criminal by the police and if I have a pretty woman with me, she's a tramp —even if she's my wife or mother. That's the Watts' Negro status with the Los Angeles police department."

Thus spoke a young man who admitted he helped fire the market he was standing in front of. He was answering the question: Did he agree with Governor Edmund G. Brown's statement the riots were over?

He was one of 50 people questioned on the status and cause of the riots. All agreed that it's not over.

Rev. E. L. Hicks, a Baptist minister who didn't participate in the riots, predicted:

"There will be rioting here until police brutality stops. The governor may say it's over but we work among the people and we know what is going on. The riot is not over, it's just a quiness."

CAUSES REMAIN

James Robertson, 37, and unemployed, said the causes have not been removed—poverty and hopelessness.

"It may not happen for 20 years but that is not to say it won't happen, if things don't change."

Police Chief William H. Parker and absentee landlords and merchants, mostly Jewish, seemed to be the favorite scapegoats.

Mrs. Rosalie Richardson commented:

"If Parker is removed, the rioting will stop but I'm afraid it won't until he is."

Another woman chorused:

"Or if Parker would just keep his big mouth shut. Every time he talks about Negroes, he insults us."

Parker responded to demands he be fired: "It's the first time in history that it took the sacking of a city to insist the police chief be fired."

HAD HIS REASONS

An unemployed man who said he spent most of Friday and Saturday nights throwing rocks at policemen said:

"Maybe the people of Beverly Hills would riot too if they spent most of their life with a cop's club in their face. Or if they had to get out of an automobile with their hands over their head to be questioned for doing nothing at all."

Wife Visits Lone Sailor Nearing Port

By THOMAS A. REEDY

FALMOUTH (AP) —Robert Manry and his 13½-foot sailboat Tinkerbelle were sighted off England's Lizard Point today, marking completion of the Cleveland journalist's solo crossing of the Atlantic.

The Lizard—southernmost tip of Cornwall—is the spot where the Atlantic joins the English Channel. It is 15 miles south-southwest of Falmouth, the 48-year-old amateur sailor's destination.

"From now on it should be all downhill sailing for him," said one old Cornish sailor after checking the wind and weather.

The Tinkerbelle is the smallest boat to cross the Atlantic non-stop. Manry left Falmouth, Mass., June 1 on the 3,200-mile voyage.

Manry's wife, Virginia, 46, his son, Douglas, 11, and his 13-year-old daughter, Robin, are to greet him. A trawler took Mrs. Manry out to the Tinkerbelle 55 miles off Cornwall Monday for a 10-minute reunion with her husband.

WILL KISS EARTH

"Well, I just hugged and kissed him," said Mrs. Manry. "He said to me: 'I'm just going to kiss Mother Earth when I land. On second thought, I'll kiss you first and Mother Earth second'."

"Robert was very fit and well," his wife said.

Remand Given In Capital Murder Charge

KINGSTON (CP) — William Hugh Beattie, 24, of Smiths Falls, Ont., Monday was remanded to Aug. 23 for trial on a charge of capital murder which followed the deaths Saturday of his father-in-law, Milton Barker, 57, and Barker's daughter Sharon, 8.

The pair were shot at Crow Lake, about 30 miles north of here, Saturday night.

Mrs. Helen Barker, wife of the dead man, was reported in improved condition in an Ottawa hospital with gunshot wounds to her chest and abdomen.

Says African Tourist Trade Flourishing

By LYNN HEINZERLING

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — It isn't all chaos and tumult in Africa.

Despite political manoeuvring, revolts, coups and mutinies, the tourists have never stopped visiting Africa.

Big-game hunters went on shooting and taking pictures throughout army mutinies in Kenya and Tanzania last year.

Communist Chinese weapons and ammunition are arriving regularly in Tanzania for a possible showdown with the remaining white rulers in southern Africa. The rate of tourist arrivals in Tanzania is up 30 per cent this year, a government official said.

In Mozambique, where the "freedom fighters" already are at work, hotel rooms at resorts are hard to find.

Where else can you take a taxi, ride 10 minutes and find yourself watching zebras, giraffes and ostriches at play and lions sleeping under a bush? They do it every day in Nairobi.

Where else will you find roadside signs saying: "Watch out for the elephants!" Not long ago near Victoria Falls, Rhodesia, a woman was killed when her autimobile collided with a kudu.

VISITOR NOT AFFECTED

Colonialism now is a dirty word in Africa, but life hasn't changed much for the visitor.

The chickens still awaken guests at Leopoldville's downtown hotels. Goats graze through the gardens of Addis Ababa's leading hotel, next door to the Imperial Palace.

You can expect almost anything in Africa. For example:

The drinking water in Beira, Mozambique, comes from the Pungwe River. The Pungwe River also is full of crocodiles and hunters are having a field day, since crocodile skin is selling for $1 a square inch in France.

Many Portuguese soldiers in Angola on the Atlantic coast of Africa have monkeys for mascots. A Portuguese captain, after much trouble, captured a gorilla for his mascot. He didn't have it long. Angolan gorillas and chimpanzees are the property of the Portuguese state. The gorilla now is in a Lisbon zoo.

In Lusaka, the newly independent government of Zambia recently called for bids on a new Parliament building not to exceed $350,000. The lowest bid submitted was for $650,000. The government rejected all bids and now is doing the building itself. The cost: $900,000.

In Nairobi, you can buy the kind of fly switch President Jomo Kenyatta carries around constantly for $1.25. But there aren't many flies in Nairobi.

Growing Legend of Britons Paying Homage to Lady Luck

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—Earlier this year a chartered jet from New York touched down in London carrying 118 big-time American gamblers and their wives for a two-week money-spinning spree.

About the same time British newspapers briefly reported a now-commonplace story: A 31-year-old mother of three children in suburban Hornsey pleaded guilty to shoplifting and told the court she regularly lost £15 a week on bingo games.

Betting is a big multi-million dollar growth industry operating on all levels of British society.

The capricious lady called luck has a legion of dedicated admirers, some paying their respects behind velvet curtains in London's softly-lit casino gambling clubs while others offer up their weekly sacrifices in the dingy but functional off-track betting shops and garish bingo halls that are becoming as common as pubs in working-class districts.

All told the gambling turnover in Britain last year was at least £905,000,000 or nearly $3,000,000,000. This is an increase of £35,000,000 on the 1963 figure and about 5 per cent more than the turnover 10 years ago.

CAN IT LAST?

The question worrying many social workers and economists is how long Britain as a whole can afford to continue with its present permissive—some call it enlightened—attitude towards gambling.

What are the long-term consequences for a nation that lavishes four per cent of its total expenditure on goods and services on such unproductive issues as a turn of a card or the form of a horse.

Will the leisure time of many Britons soon become one continuous bingo session with time out for the football pools and the occasional family outing to the seaside casino as a special treat?

These are some of the questions posed in this year's report by the interdenominational Churches' Council on Gambling, the only organization in Britain that keeps track of Britain's progress from small-time punting to full-time betting. The report says:

"The council has no wish to hand out ready-made judgments. It asks that people take seriously the fact that commercialized gambling is on the increase and that in a significant number of cases its effect is restricting and debilitating."

BET ON HORSES

The council's figures, which are only conservative estimates because bookmakers don't publish profits, show that some £600,000,000 was wagered last year on horse racing alone.

Greyhound racing took up about £110,000,000, various forms of football betting drew in £130,000,000, bingo had a turnover of £35,000,000 and other forms of betting made up the rest.

Any attempt to put the brake on this glittering wheel of fortune would involve a reinterpretation of the Betting and Gaming Acts of 1960 and 1963 which opened the legal door to certain forms of organized gambling.

The council is not basically opposed to the spirit of the government bills, which were designed to bring into the open the gambling that was already being done covertly, but it is against certain types of gambling that manage to thrive because of loopholes in the acts.

For instance, the government did not intend to license casino-type gambling at all but the plush gambling clubs soon sprang up when someone discovered the acts were ineffective against chemin-de-fer and certain types of roulette.

As things now stand, after numerous court cases, the clubs can operate as long as they don't make a profit from the play of the game. But they can charge enormous prices — as much as £50—from each person who wants to take part in a 30-minute game.

Iran and Soviet Union Stepping Up Contacts

By ALI MEHRARWARI

TEHRAN (Reuters)—Iran and its powerful northern neighbor, the Soviet Union, are on the threshold of a new era of more intensive contacts and increased friendly ties.

Relations between Iran and the Soviet Union, which have a 1,150-mile common frontier, have probably never been so good as now.

The two countries are working for considerable development and expansion of trade, economic, technical, scientific and cultural co-operation "beneficial to both nations."

Ties have been greatly strengthened by the state visit to the Soviet Union by Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi and Empress Farah in July and the shah's long talks with Kremlin leaders.

For its long-range political significance, the shah's visit to Moscow may well go down in history as marking the beginning of a new era in Irano-Soviet relations.

Not so long ago Iran and the Soviet Union were engaged in a violent propaganda war over Iran's defensive alliance with Turkey, Pakistan, Britain and the United States in the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO).

WOUNDS HEALED

Radio stations in Moscow, Baku, Tashkent, Dushanbe, Yerevan and several satellites, blared insults at Iran. Loudspeakers on either side of the Irano-Soviet border exchanged tirades.

But now the old wounds appear to have been healed.

The shah and the Kremlin leaders agreed on a "considerable expansion" of relations. They agreed to increase trade, conclude new cultural agreements, expand economic and technical co-operation and increase contacts at all levels.

The Russians offered to build Iran an industrial complex, including a steel mill, complemented by a machine tool plant and a tractor factory in exchange for Iranian natural gas and industrial and agricultural products.

A Soviet team of experts is due here shortly with blueprints for dams, roads, airports, power plants and factories.

There is little doubt, observers here state, that the new entente will bolster Iran's position and confirm it as a stabilizing factor in the Middle Eastern situation.

NEW ERA

It suggests a new era in which Iran would regain its traditional position between the two great world powers and an end to Iran's dependence on the West for technical and economic assistance and co-operation.

The upturn in Irano-Soviet relations started in 1962, when Iran gave the Russians a written assurance that Iranian soil would not become a missile base or a base for aggression against them.

In the improving relations which followed the "no-missile" pledge, trade expanded and contacts increased. The Soviet Union last year opened its waterways to Iranian goods in a move to cut the journey to Europe by 15 days and reduce shipping costs by up to 40 per cent.

The Soviet Union now is the biggest single buyer of Iran's non-petroleum exports, and trade is expected to increase by 40 per cent in the next three years.

The Russians have given Iran a $40,000,000 loan for the joint construction of a hydro-electric dam on the Aras River, on Irano-Soviet border. And they are constructing a string of grain elevators across the country and helping Iran to develop her sea fisheries.

Negro Riots Underline Enormity of the Problem

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The destructive Negro riots in Los Angeles have borne out President Johnson's fears that civil rights legislation alone will not resolve the deep-rooted social and economic problem at the base of much of the Negro community in the United States.

Years of degradation and discrimination have left the majority of the Negroes in the U.S in poverty, scattering seeds of resentment and hatred that now are blossoming with unpredictable results.

The arrest by white police officers of an allegedly drunken Negro youth whose car was seen to be weaving through the streets of Los Angeles' Watts district, a congested Negro community, was enough to touch off the worst riots in California's history. So explosive is the Negro problem.

LEGAL RIGHTS WON

Ironically, the riots came at a time in American history when the Negro finally had won legal civil rights and promises of better things to come.

But the patience of the American Negro has worn thin over the years, with the flames of the Los Angeles riots quickly spreading to such centres as Chicago and Springfield, Mass. It will be years before the fruits of the civil rights legislation will restore the Negro to a rightful place in U.S society.

The California riots brought from Johnson a promise that the U.S must "strike at the unjust conditions from which disorder largely flows," and recalled the fears the president had expressed last June 4 that legal freedoms and equal rights were not enough to guarantee the Negro a full share of justice.

Johnson has stressed the importance of tackling the Negro problem through the reconstruction of the Negro family. The widespread breakdown of Negro family life is one of the major causes behind the explosions in Los Angeles and other centres.

MANY LACK JOBS

About one-quarter of the married Negro women living in such slums as the Watts district are divorced or separated, and nearly one out of every four Negro babies is born illegitimate, the result of the family breakdown that is worrying the president.

The high Negro birth rate—it is reported to be 40 per cent higher among Negroes than among whites—and the unemployment rate, that is twice as high among Negroes as among white people, accelerates the degree of poverty which is accompanied by delinquency and crime.

The racial climate in the U.S. as a whole has improved much in the last year but the undercurrent of hatred because of years of discrimination is still prevalent. Only a strong assault on the social and economic conditions that have created this hatred will bring some form of harmony between the white and Negro people of the U.S

Claims Atlantic Provinces Suffering Therapist Shortage

By NICK FILLMORE

HALIFAX (CP)—The Atlantic provinces desperately need therapists and facilities to detect and teach persons with hearing and speech difficulties, says Dr. Adam Sortini, a specialist in these problems.

"There are youngsters in schools in every one of the Atlantic provinces with neglected hearing and speech problems," Dr. Sortini, administrator of the hearing and speech clinic here, said in an interview.

"In some cases, these children are deprived of a chance of getting as good an education as they might because they stutter, have other speech problems, or because they can't hear their teachers properly.

"If the schools had enough speech and hearing therapists these problems could be found in the children and they could be partially or completely solved."

Dr. Sortini, 42, who was director of the hearing and speech clinic at the Children's Hospital Medical Centre in Boston for 11 years, in 1963 became the first administrator of a full-time clinic here.

During the first year there were 1,905 clinic visits, and 3,212 in 1964, an increase of 68.6 per cent. This year there is an appointment waiting list of four months, with applications from all four Atlantic provinces.

The clinic's main goal is to diagnose hearing and speech problems at as early an age as possible. Children at the age of one can be tested and fitted with hearing aids. Extensive diagnostic equipment is available for hearing tests for adults and specific recommendations for hearing aids are made.

The clinic is run by federal and provincial government grants and operated by a board of management.

"We can't handle all the references made to us from the Atlantic provinces," Dr. Sortini says. "But this isn't our biggest concern.

"Our main problems are closely related. There is a serious need for hearing and speech therapists in our schools and communities. But there are none available and we can't train them because we haven't the proper facilities."

Dr. Sortini says no college or university in the Atlantic provinces gives a degree in speech and hearing therapy, or teaching of the deaf. "I know several students at university here who plan to go to the United States to study hearing and speech therapy or teaching of the deaf."

CAN'T MATCH SALARIES

The Interprovincial School for the Education of the Deaf at Amherst, N.S., trains its staff during special summer courses, says school principal Peter Freemantle. "But still we haven't enough teachers. We have a difficult time keeping the ones we do train. We can't match the salaries paid by United States and other Canadian schools."

A school for the deaf scheduled to open at former RCAF Station Torbay, Nfld., this fall will be supervised by three therapists brought from Britain. At the Halifax clinic, therapists are either from Britain or the United States.

Dr. Sortini says the Halifax-Dartmouth area illustrates the Atlantic provinces' need for hearing and speech therapists. There is one speech therapist for the area.

"But Halifax should have eight more speech therapists and two hearing therapists. Dartmouth alone needs five for speech and one for hearing.

"The situation is just as bad, if not worse, in most areas of the Atlantic provinces."

Dr. Sortini has advocated the establishment of a division of special education at Dalhousie University here that would include hearing and speech therapy. "The university is interested, but there are no funds available," he said.

Ann Landers

Should Visit Shut-ins During Life, Not in Death

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just came from my mother's funeral. She was almost 80 years old and a truly fine person.

ANN LANDERS

Mother enjoyed good health up until about three years ago. When her health began to fail, her friends began to fail her, too. The amazing thing about mother's funeral was that dozens of nieces, nephews, neighbors, cousins — people I hadn't seen in years — all showed up. I was sorely tempted to ask them why they didn't come to see her when she would have enjoyed the visit — instead of waiting until now. For weeks mother sat by the window watching the people pass. She was lonely so much of the time it was heartbreaking.

I know a lot of folks read your column. Perhaps some of your readers will recognize themselves in this letter. If you don't bother to go see someone when they are alive I think it is hypocritical to go see them when they are dead. It means only that you don't really care to see them — just that you want to be seen at the funeral. — DAUGHTER.

DEAR DAUGHTER: Thank you for a provocative letter. I couldn't agree more.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Ever since I married this conceited jackass it's been the same old story.

Whenever we go where there is dance music he's the first ne on the floor. He does a few turns with me and then looks for omeone he'd rather dance with. The minute he spots a goodooking girl he grabs her. Her partner, of course, must dance ith me.

I've tried to explain to my husband that the woman may refer to dance with the man she has. But, oh no, he doesn't see hat at all. He thinks he's the first choice of every woman in the orld.

Some of those men who have had beautiful young things natched out of their arms and got me instead have not been ery pleased about it and I don't blame them. Any suggestions? — NO TROPHY WINNER.

NO TROPHY WINNER: Tell the egomaniac the next time he pulls that stunt you will walk off the dance floor and leave him to fight it out with the man whose partner he is trying to grab. Then do it.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been married to a nice man r 25 years. He has always held down a good job and we've ver had any serious problems in our marriage. Now I am orried sick about something and I don't know where to turn.

I'm sure my husband is a kleptomaniac. For the last several onths I've been finding a strange assortment of useless articles ich he has hidden all over the house. I read somewhere that ptomaniacs steal things they have no use for just for the thrill getting away with it. This is what makes them different from linary thieves.

This morning I found some art supplies, travel clocks, screw vers and wall thermometers tucked away in an old tackle box.

I am scared to death he will be caught one of these days. e shame of it would kill his parents. Will you please tell me at to do?—H.J.

DEAR H. J.: Tell your husband at once that you know what he is doing and insist that he see a doctor. The man is ill. If you can persuade him to return the merchandise it will be a big step in the right direction. The store owner will be co-operative, I promise you.

Scott Laing Top Baby In Record Show at Fair

At the maximum age of eighteen months one cannot quite manage "Supercalifragilisticexpialidocious" but nevertheless one can register pleasure and disgust in many ways. Though the words mostly defied deciphering, it was quite evident that on such a very hot day the entries in Belleville Fair's annual baby show were pleased to belong to the tender age when nudism is not frowned upon, but, in this instance, was a requirement.

Mr. Harry Rollins welcomed the juvenile aspirants and their parents to the show, held in the Curling Rink, on Monday afternoon. Though the number of entries was much smaller than last year, the quality of the product offered for consideration was certainly the very highest.

GRAND CHAMPION

A very young laddie, Baby Scott Laing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Laing, 74 Gordon Street, Belleville, age four months and twenty - eight days, captured the title of "Best Baby in Show." Master Laing, needless to say, is not yet quite prepared to jump for joy, but his proud parents will no doubt acquaint him of his accomplishment at a more comprehensive age.

The triplet sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Bowler, R. R. 2, Belleville, were again this year without competition. Little Raymond, Roger and Ronald are now sixteen months old and even Mommy cannot tell which is which except by the texture of their hair.

In the Twin Class the top honors went to Ronald and Gary, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Clark, 34 Alberta Street, Trenton, Ontario. Second were John and Janet Denyes, children of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Denyes of Plainfield, Ontario, and third, Ricky and Timmy Harris, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harris, 104 Wright Avenue, Belleville, Ontario.

DIRECTORS OF SHOW

Directors of the Baby Show were Mrs. Maude Rollins, Mrs. Hazel Harry and Mrs. Lois Rollins, assisted by Miss Lois Down.

Judges were Mrs. Doreen Frederick, Mrs. Doreen Hackett, Miss Carolyn Roberts, and Mrs. Annita Storms.

Mrs. J. E. Boyd and Mrs. Marian Wallbridge acted in the capacity of secretaries.

As usual the St. John Ambulance Brigade stood by to aid in any emergencies. Those ladies on duty were Mrs. Olive Hansen, Mrs. Doris Deryaw, and Mrs. Isobel Goldie, S.N.

CLASS WINNERS

Other winners in the show in the various classes in first, second and thrid places were: girls, three to six months—Lorie Mechele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Moon, 300 West Dundas Street, Belleville; Kim Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carson McLauchlan, 152 East Bridge St., Belleville; Andrea April, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milan Doracka, 161 George St., Belleville.

Girls, seven to 12 months—Elizabeth Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Anderson, 60 Gilbert St., Belleville; Mary Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schmidt, 18 Jackson St., Trenton; Kimberley Diane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Benn of Tweed.

Girls 13 to 18 months—Shelley Lee, daughter of Mrs. Phyllis Gabel, 426 Dundas St. West, Belleville; Christine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Birt of Trenton R.R.4, and Denise Charmine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Doogan, 302 Dufferin Ave., Belleville.

Boys' class, three to six months—Scott Laing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Laing, 74 Gordon St., Belleville; Michael Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Armstrong, 6 South Park St., Belleville; Dale Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Clarke, Stirling R.R. 4.

Boys seven to 12 months—Darryl Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Martin, 14 Albion Street, Belleville; Robert William, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hamilton, 8 Mikel Ave., Belleville, and Michael Steven Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Thompson, 27 Yeomans St., Belleville.

Boys, 13 to 18 months — Jeffrey Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Holler, 178 Farley Ave., Belleville; Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Chatten, 63 Kerr Crescent, Trenton, and Michael Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Megraw, 119 King Street, Trenton.

MEET THE CHAMP! — Scott Laing seems just as tickled about his win as his pretty mom, Mrs. Raymond Laing, 74 Gordon Street. And he has a right to be. He was chosen from scores of entries yesterday as Belleville Fair's best baby of the year.

LIGHT INVITES

Fireflies light up to indicate they are ready for mating and to signal to each other in the dark.

"I WANT MY CLOTHES BACK!"—And who can blame a girl for feeling upset in front of all those people at Belleville Fair's baby show. Many more felt like Mary Lou Edwards, 13 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Edwards, North Front Street.

Delicate shades of lavender were popular at the fair yesterday. Ann Whitefield of Foxboro, sporting a lavender beige hairdo from the French Salon of Hair Design, poses with the winning basket of flowers in the agricultural building. The first prize flowers, exhibited by Lorna Bowerman of Carrying Place, were predominately lavender, as were the glads in the background, second prize flowers owned by Lois Laundry of Picton, were also lavender.

Colorful Displays Highlight Women's Section at Fair

A mecca for those interested in handicrafts and horticulture, the Agricultural Building at Belleville Fair is filled again this year with color and fragrance as Quinte district women exhibit the products of their skilled hands. Directors report their only problem is that of finding room for the large number of displays in the flower, fruit, vegetable, fine arts and handicrafts, cooking, sewing and fancy work and elementary school departments.

Late summer flowers predominate in the cut bloom class. Tall spikes of gladioli in all shades, giant dahlias and many different varieties of zinnias are the most popular flowers, begonia, African violets and ferns are favorites in the plant category. Particularly notable are the flower arrangements, including dried materials and horn of plenty compositions. Exhibitors of arrangements depicting a song title demonstrated imagination and ingenuity. "Days of Wine and Roses" is a simple composition of two perfect orange roses in a raffia covered Italian Chianti bottle. "Ring of Fire" consists of three shades of flame colored gladioli wired in a circle to the handle of a low basket.

HIGHLIGHTS COOKING

Highlight of the cooking and baking display is a birthday layer cake in the shape of an old-fashioned doll, with the iced cake forming a pink and white hoop skirt.

Paintings were the most striking feature of the fine arts and handicrafts class, but copper toolings, leather work, woodcraft and embroidered pictures are all well represented. Handicrafts of another kind — bazaar novelties contributed by 18 Women's Institutes offer fall bazaar planners 180 suggestions of sales table items.

SEWING DISPLAY

Aprons and pillow slips form the bulk of the items entered in the Ladies' Work category, but quilts, bulky-knit sweaters and handmade rugs run a close second. An eye-catching white bulky-knit cardigan with a design of red and green flowers and leaves is a first prize winner. Hooking is the preferred method of rug making. Crochet work, ranging from dainty lace doilies to large bedspreads and tablecloths, still takes an important place in the line-up of entries.

Despite the early summer drought conditions, 11 exhibitors filled the space allocated to the vegetable display with prime quality products of their gardens. Several varieties of pears and apples from local orchards are on show. A good number of Golden Russet apple entries prove that this variety is still popular among district growers.

PUPILS' WORK

The work of elemetary school children is illustrated by samples of penmanship from all grades, maps, murals, nature collections and handicrafts such as decorated waste paper baskets and posters.

Although 85 women exhibitors entered the competitive classes in the Women's Department, Director Mrs. C. Bunnett said only two new exhibitors competed this year and there was only one entry in the junior section for girls from 13 to 18. A total of 45 people entered displays in the fruit, vegetable and flower classes.

Susanna's Family Fare

JUST A MO!

Dear Susanna: I contend my husband is just plain stubborn when he refuses to rake up the grass after cutting it. He has some fool notion "It's good for the soil". Did you ever hear of such nonsense? — Mrs. S. A. Beamish

She did — and there's more too! Not only do grass clippings provide the lawn with a good organic mulch that aids in water retention and prevents sudden exposure of the base to strong sun, but the only times cuttings should be removed are when the area is in shade where mold may develop, or when the layer of cut grass is too heavy and may smother the growth underneath.

On the other hand, if you just happened to have a bent grass lawn, then you are absolutely right. Those agricultural experts tell me this is the one case in which it is necessary to remove the clippings. See? Everybody wins! — Susanna

HOLD IT!

Dear Susanna: To keep silk or chiffon scarves from "riding up" at the neck, make a strap of the lining fabric of your coat or suit, or of some plain material which blends well.

The finished strap should be about 10" long and ¾" wide. Double to form a loop and sew the two ends together at the centre back of your garment just below the collar. Slip your scarf through this loop and adjust it inside your coat or jacket in the usual way. It will stay in place beautifully, and an extra bonus is that you seldom lose a scarf. — Bee

Hair Care Explained At Fair

A new feature at the Belleville Fair this year is a demonstration of professional hair care and styling. This takes place each afternoon and evening in the Women's Building.

Mr. Buddy French of The French Salon of Hair Design, 362 Front Street, Belleville, and Miss Julis Pellerin, well known beauty technician from the House of Helene Curtis are presenting this interesting and informative demonstration.

During this first afternoon the allotted space was filled to capacity with a female audience who witnessed the latest in casual hair styling, from permanent wave to setting and styling. Short, curly hairdos are the new look for fall.

On Wednesday evening Mr. French will present the ultimate in hair style and color for formal occasions, and on Thursday evening some lucky lady will be the winner of a valuable wig of natural hair.

Assisting Mr. French are Miss Darlene Truebridge and Mr. Skip Whitmarsh of the French Salon staff.

Miss Pellerin is assisted by Mrs. Gail Chapman of Belleville.

PINEAPPLE COFFEE CAKE

Make and serve this Pineapple Coffee Cake fresh from the oven. It will melt all your resolves to reduce, but is so soul-satisfying it is worth it.

Two readers sent me the same recipe, on which my version is based, and I'm grateful to Mrs. Evelyn B. and to Mrs. J. F. for bringng the recipe to my notice.

PINEAPPLE COFFEE CAKE

(Excellent — a yeast product — adapted from Mrs. E. B.'s and Mrs. J. F.'s)

Dough: 2-3 cup milk, scalded 1 cup butter (or margarine) 1 package granular yeast, 1 teaspoon sugar; ½ cup lukewarm water (see below), 4 egg yolks, 4 cups sifted all-purpose or bread flour.

Filling: ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 egg yolk, one 20-oz. can crushed (or chunk) pineapple, not drained.

The Pineapple Filling has to cool so make it first. In a saucepan mix together the ½ cup sugar, salt, cornstarch and when blended stir in the egg yolks and pineapple. Cook, stirring, until thick. Remove from heat and let cool to room temperature while you make the dough: Pour the scalded milk into large beater or mixing bowl, add the butter to soften it. Into measuring cup put granular yeast, the 1 teaspoon sugar and fill to ½ cup mark with lukewarm water. Give it one stir and let soak 10 minutes. When milk and butter have cooled to lukewarm add soaked yeast liquid, mix well, then add egg yolks, beating, then the 4 cups flour. This is a soft dough and can be beaten with a wooden spoon, although I used my dough hook on my Kenwood Chef. (For this dough the usual first rising step is skipped.) Have buttered two 8¾ x 8¾ x 1½" square pans (or one 16 x 10" jelly roll pan) and spoon half of the dough into them (or it) smoothly. Spread with cooled Pineapple Filling. Sprinkle board with ½ cup flour (or more is necessary) and roll out remaining half of dough to ¼" or ⅜" thickness and cut into ¾" or 1" strips. Roll each strip under your palms to make them into "ropes" and put these in a lattice pattern crisscross (as you would for a lattice cherry pie) over the pineapple filling — allowing it to peek through. Set to rise until light — about 1½ hours. Bake at 375 deg. F. about 30 to 35 minutes — but be sure not to burn it.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu by Mary Moore

Braised Baby Beef Liver with Steam-fried Onions; Corn on the Cob; Creamed Carrots; Crisp Shredded Cabbage Salad (see Monday); Blueberry Cobbler; 10% Cream; Coffee.

When cool, frost lattice strips with Butter Icing: Cream together 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup unsifted icing sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla and 1½ tablespoons milk or cream. To serve cut into squares or oblongs.

I hope you manage to serve this on the day that you make and bake it, for it is superior when fresh. But if you do bake it in two pans you can freezer-wrap and freeze one for future use.

Mom-daughter Look-alikes Not Really Act-alikes

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS — My mother and I are exact look alikes. We both have blond hair, green eyes and are both 5' 2" with measurements 35, 23, 36. Most girls would love a mother to look like her but I don't. She is divorced at 33 and has dates with men her age.

This is okay with me for it is her life, but my friends think I'm the one who is dating these men. I'm only 14. This is a small community and gossip thrives abundantly in every corner. This makes it easy to get a bad reputation which I'm not responsible for.

How can I lose my reputation and gain respect among the elder people so they won't gossip? I've tried to let actions speak but I overheard a lady say "They all seem nice little girls to parents but . . ." Help! — LOOK ALIKE.

DEAR LOOK ALIKE — There are other things beside physical features which identify the "nice little girls." You and Mom had better start emphasizing your differences.

Have you a teen-age hair-do? Is your make-up as light and casual as it should be at 14? Your dresses and hers ought also to be quite different.

Take her with you in front of a mirror and see what you can do.

* * *

Confidential to WITS' END — I'm sending you the name of a little book on dating, written by a well-known worker with girls and boys. If your mother would read this with you, she'd realize you won't be under her wing much longer. The best way she can help you is to encourage friends and dates, so that you get used to mixing. This way you grow up. Sixteen is not too young for dating of the right kind.

ANGRY DURING MEETING — President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King are accompanied by U. S. Secretary of War Henry Stimson (right) as they inspect troops at Ogdensburg, N.Y., during their meeting in August, 1940. Out of the meeting came the announcement of the formation of a Permanent Joint Board of Defence for the defence of the northern half of the Western Hemisphere. Mr. King was angry during the meeting because he found he had to carry his passport and a visa to enter the United States for the conference. (CP from AP Photo)

Blackburn Recalls Meeting Of FDR, Mackenzie King To Sign Ogdensburg Treaty

Twenty - five years ago Clyde Blackburn, then Ottawa bureau chief of The Canadian Press, covered the meeting at Ogdensburg, N.Y., where Prime Minister King and President Roosevelt signed the Ogdensburg agreement. Blackburn, who retired in 1959, recalls the conference in this story.

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

OTTAWA (CP)—On a hot Saturday morning 25 years ago, Ottawa Press Gallery correspondents were advised to get down to Ogdensburg, N.Y., as soon as possible to cover a meeting between Mackenzie King and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It was Aug. 17, 1940, and many of the reporters were still abed on what was to have been a quiet day. But with Canada at war they were prepared for assignments on short notice.

In the next 36 hours there was a chatty meeting on a private train in the Ogdensburg yards between the Canadian prime minister and the U.S. president. It concluded with the proclamation on Aug. 18, 1940, of what came to be known as The Ogdensburg Declaration.

This was a simple, brief joint communique stating the two leaders had agreed to set up a permanent joint board of defence of the northern half of the Western Hemisphere.

The board was immediately set up and convened. It played an important part through the Second World War and post-war period and continues to function to this day.

TALKED DEFENCE

The leaders talked of many other things—the proposed gift of over-age destroyers to Britain, defence posts in North America and the Caribbean—but these discussions were known at the time only to the conferees and the Mackenzie King diary.

In those days Ogdensburg was reached by ferry from Prescott, Ont., which was an easy two-hour drive from Ottawa. The short notice arose from the usual wartime secrecy and also from the fact the prime minister knew about it only the evening before.

Some days earlier he had sent the president a suggestion that they meet soon for a talk about the war, in which the U.S. was not then involved. On Aug. 16 the president telephoned and said he would be on his private train in Ogdensburg next day for a look at army exercises and suggested Mr. King come down and spend Saturday night with him.

The prime minister knew the president would have the usual corps of White House correspondents along so he tipped the Press Gallery correspondents and helped them arrange to go too.

NEEDED PASSPORTS

There was just one difficulty. A few days earlier the U.S. had announced that persons entering that country from Canada must have passports bearing visas for U.S. travel.

This was a shock to Canadians who had been accustomed to crossing the border with little formality.

Not only the reporters but the prime minister himself had to carry passports with the proper visa. He was annoyed but dutifully complied. He was assisted by U.S. Ambassador J. Pierrepont Moffatt who rode with him to Ogdensburg.

Many of the reporters lacked passports, to say nothing of visas. A photographer was available to take pictures and the passport office was opened to issue them. The U.S. consulate quickly handled the visas.

We had nothing to report Saturday night and nothing to do but try to keep cool in rather uncomfortable accommodations (except for the smart few who accepted tent hospitality in a nearby army camp).

The prime minister was greeted in the Roosevelt car with a cheery "Hello, Mackenzie" which was the president's usual salutation to his old friend. The prime minister was more formal.

REVIEWED TROOPS

They dined and talked. Sunday there was a military church service and then the two reviewed troops and watched a flypast of some 200 aircraft ranging from trainers to the then new Flying Fortresses.

After lunch the reporters were called to the railway car and handed the joint communique. It was simple and brief, probably the most informal international agreement ever to find a place in the Canada Treaty Series and form the basis for a highly important strategic relationship. Here it is in full:

"The prime minister and the president have discussed the mutual problems of defence in relation to the safety of Canada and the United States. It has been agreed that a Permanent Joint Board on Defence be set up at once by the two countries.

"This Permanent Joint Board on Defence shall commence immediate studies relating to sea, land and air problems, including personnel and material. It will consider in the broad sense the defence of the north half of the Western Hemisphere.

"The Permanent Joint Board on Defence will consist of four or five members from each country, most of them from the services. It will meet shortly."

ADVISED CHURCHILL

The prime minister returned to Ottawa Sunday evening and went at once to report to the Earl of Athlone, Governor-General, then to his office to compose a long cable to Winston Churchill to tell him of his talks with Roosevelt and State Secretary Henry Stimson.

The first U.S. chairman of the board was Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York and the first Canadian chairman Col. Oliver Mowat Biggar, a prominent Ottawa lawyer.

It was learned later that there had been another subject discussed by the two leaders, although it wasn't mentioned in the communique.

Mr. King was smarting under the passport - visa ruling and taxed the president about it. Mr. Roosevelt said he understood it had been imposed at Canada's request to deter Canadians from leaving the country to avoid military service.

The prime minister was "thunderstruck," he said later. He had never heard of the request and told FDR he hoped it would soon be repealed. The president said he would see what could be done but it was several years before the ruling was repealed.

An incident that showed how the ruling rankled occurred when the prime minister was leaving for Ottawa. A presidential aide said FDR hoped he would soon come down to Washington for further talks. Mr. King replied he would be delighted—"if they'll let me into the United States."

Russian Army Doesn't Require Wooden Spoons

MOSCOW (AP) — In Czarist days Russian army conscripts got roaring drunk the night before they left home — for 25 years.

The next day, their friends escorted or carried them to the reception centre, to which they reported in the clothes on their backs and lugging a wooden spoon, their only mess gear.

In modern Russia, traditions die hard. Recruits still get drunk the night before. But now they report with a change of underwear, and the wooden spoon is not required.

Also, the modern Red army's conscripts can look forward to getting out in two to five years, depending on their branch of service.

They are paid three rubles—$3 56—a month, and get no leave except in emergencies or as a reward for outstanding service.

In contrast to Western armies, the Soviet military has no re-enlistment problem. Professional non - commissioned and commissioned officers live well in comparison to civilian workers.

There appear to be more candidates for re-enlistment than the services need and the selection boards are choosy.

Last year, the Russians are estimated to have had 3,300,000 men in military service.

English Words Alter Italian Expressions

ROME (Reuters) — English words are popping up with such increasing frequency in Italian nowadays that some purists have dubbed the modern language Englitaliano.

Apart from old standbys like "leader," "speaker" and "partner," which have almost qualified for Italian citizenship, new English words are creeping into the Italian language all the time.

One of the latest is "girl-friend"—used because there is no real Italian equivalent. The Italian word normally used for what Canadians understand by "girl-friend" is "fidanzata" (literally, "fiancee"). But an Italian man may have a steady "fidanzata" without ever getting formally engaged.

Many of the English words used here are connected with sport and the entertainment world.

USED IN SPORTS

Recent soccer scandals in Italy have given birth to "il doping."

Words like "sexy" are used not only as descriptions of movies or people, but also in the titles of films. There was, for example, Sexy Al Neon, a musical revue containing many strip-tease scenes. The word "strip-tease" itself is slowly replacing the Italian equivalent, "spogliarello."

The "topless" has made its mark, though it is strictly banned, and books and records are described as "best-sellers."

Many bars have "i juke-box," which play "rock 'n' roll" and "je, je, je" (pronounced "yeah, yeah, yeah") music.

An actress may be described as having "sex-appeal" and as being a "star," instead of the Italian "diva" or "stella."

DESCRIBE FILMS

There are "i film thrilling" or "i film di suspense," usually murder mysteries or detective stories. Director Alfred Hitchcock is known as "il maestro del suspense."

The world of crime has also made its contribution by bringing in words like "gang" instead of "banda," "call-girl" instead of "squillo," "mods and rockers" and "i teddy-boys" as an alternative to "i teppesti."

Tourists will see places called "snack-bar," which sell 'hot-dogs" and "amburger" (without the h).

In some restaurants, you can order "rosbif" (roast-beef) and "bisteccha" (beef-steak), which, however, often refer to any kind of meat.

"Le baby-sitter" and "le nurse" are in demand, and special baby-sitting services have been started.

Housewives shop at "supermarkets" and "teen-agers" (adolescenti) often get together for a "party" (festa).

Beaten Out By Schlitz Says Witness

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The president of Miller's Brewing Co. testified Monday his company offered $12,000,000 for the Burgermeister Brewing Co. but was beaten out by Schlitz.

Assistant U.S. Prosecutor John Kusack said Klug's testimony was intended to refute a contention by Schlitz that Burgermeister was a failing business when Schlitz bought it in 1961.

Klug said Burgermeister accepted an $11,000,000 offer and both boards of directors and Miller's stockholders had approved the deal when Schlitz moved in.

He said Miller's offered an addition $1,000,000, trying to salvage the deal.

"Burgermeister had a good product, a good plant and the strongest distributor organization in the state," Klug said. "Miller's wanted to be located on the West Coast and wanted to do this through Burgermeister in order to strengthen its distribution system in California."

The U.S. government seeks to divest Schlitz of its interest in both Burgermeister and Labatt's.

Prospect of World Phones Prompts Dialing Changes

By RON HOWARD

LONDON (CP) — Need for closer communication links with the world has doomed London's colorful and tradition-steeped telephone exchanges to the anonymity of mere numbers tucked between other numbers.

London callers in 1969 will no longer be able to seek government officials or Scotland Yard through WHI for Whitehall, lawyers through TEM for Temple Bar or journalists through FLE for Fleet Street. Instead, say general post office officials, they will be able to finger letterless dials for 944, 836 or 353.

Hoping to calm outraged telephone users, Postmaster-General Anthony Wedgwood Benn explained that the project, mainly affecting exchanges in London and five other cities — Birmingham, Manchester, Liverpool, Glasgow and Edinburgh—is necessary to meet the increasing volume of international and domestic long-distance calls.

Prospects of an international dialling system involving an estimated 600,000,000 world telephone users by the year 2000 have also necessitated the change, Benn added.

"These international facilities can be used fully only if all national numbering systems are on the same basis," he said. "Very few other countries have letters on their telephone dials, and three of the largest—the United States, Canada and France — are already turning over to an all-figure system."

But the £1,000,000, three-year project, expected to begin early next year, does not promise to improve the present service in which about 10 per cent or 37,000,000 self-dialed, long-distance calls go astray each year because of technical difficulties.

WRONG NUMBERS

There is also fear that with all-figure numbers, callers will dial more wrong numbers because of the difficulty in remembering the combinations of up to 10 digits.

Less than four years ago post office officials said they had no intention of abandoning their traditional three-letter, four-digit codes, claiming that tests have shown subscribers can memorize exchanges and figures better than all-figure numbers.

Following WHIteball and FLEet Street into history will be London's five poets—ARNold, BYRon, WORdsworth, KIPling and KEAts—in addition to four admirals, three historians, two musicians and one Dutch painter, VANdyke.

While most of the city's 248 exchanges take their names from the locale they serve—hence the status attached to HYDe Park, BELgravia, SLOane or MAYfair — some such as VIGilant, RENown and RELiance sound impressive but make no apparent reference to anything in particular.

Also disappearing are the easily remembered service numbers including DIR for directory information, WEA 2211 for weather forecasts, TIM for the correct time and UMP, short for umpire, which yields recorded announcements of scores of the day's important cricket test matches.

Letters of protest have already begun to flood newspaper offices and the newspapers themselves have taken up the cry.

Peter Lewis, writing in the Daily Mail, counters Benn by suggesting the possibilities contained in the "unpronounceable" syllables.

"Imagine how well the exchanges BRR and GRR would suit some people," he reflects.

"What competition there would be for SSS, BOO and YAH, not to mention TCH and PHT and HUH.

"SSH would be the perfect exchange for the Noise Abatement Society and the girl with MMM would find her phone never grew cold."

The Times suggests that it may not be the technical advantages which have moved Benn towards internationalism so much as the Labor Party's desire to do away with class distinction.

"No social cachet can attach to the owner of a telephone with the number London 3520000 which effectively disguises the geographical and socio-economic differences between Chelsea and Bermondsey," the newspaper says in an editorial.

Papal Health Is Excellent Says Report

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul, rounding out a full month of semi-vacation at the Castel Gandolfo summer residence in the Alban Hills, was reliably reported Monday in fine health and no longer over-tired.

Sources here said the countryside air and easier pace, plus an initial period of reduced audiences right after the Roman Catholic pontiff arrived July 18 at Castel Gandolfo, account for the rested look he has had in recent public appearances.

The Italian weekly magazine Il Tempo has prepared an article for its next edition saying that a newly-detected stomach ulcer was "expected to impede a hoped-for rapid recovery" of the Pope's energy after a heavy workload in the spring.

On the eve of the magazine's publication, however, a Vatican press office official said Monday night that the Pope has no history of a stomach ulcer, either from the past or at present.

"The health of His Holiness is excellent," the spokesman said in answer to an inquiry.

Passenger Travel by Freighter Both Inexpensive, Comfortable

By ERIC WILSON

MONTREAL (CP) — It may sound rough and ready, but freighters are becoming increasingly popular as an inexpensive and comfortable means of travel.

Passengers number at the most 12, delicious meals at the captain's table are often preceded by a drink in a luxurious bar and some lines provide movies.

The best part is the low cost. First-class freighter accommodation from Montreal to England averages $180 one way, with some berths as low as $135. Comparable passenger liner fares run from $200 to $325.

And you needn't restrict your travels to England. A booklet available for $1 (U.S.) from Harian Publications of Greenlawn, N.Y., lists 700 world-wide freighter routes which can take you from Pago Pago in the South Seas to Reykjavik, Iceland. Around the world in 80 days by freighter can cost less than $1,000.

A recent arrival here from England was Norbolt, a 7,900-ton Norwegian freighter on charter to the Bristol City Line. Besides a cargo which included British cider and sports cars, she carried seven passengers on the 10-day trip.

Aboard were a Yorkshire couple bound for a visit with their son who emigrated to Toronto a year ago, a Welsh brother and sister who planned to spend three months seeing North America by bus, a woman from Hertfordshire headed for a visit with friends in Chicago and a Canadian journalist and an American engineer homeward-bound.

PRIVATE SHOWERS

Their accommodations included air-conditioned single and double oak-panelled cabins with private showers, a spacious lounge with comfortable easy chairs and large windows overlooking the sea and a dining room where informal meals were enjoyed with the captain, first mate and chief engineer.

On a snowy-white tablecloth lay plates of cold cuts, salads, seafoods and a variety of hot dishes. Two Norwegian stewardesses provided royal service to the travellers right down to afternoon coffee. The Captain's Dinner — highlight of most freighter trips—featured candlelight and wine.

Cutting through the North Atlantic at speeds averaging 15 knots, the Norholt was out of sight of land for only five days. The passengers filled the hours with card games, a movie, books from the ship's library and radio programs over loudspeakers in the lounge.

On the sixth day the rocky southern coast of Newfoundland was sighted and from then —as porpoises played by the bow—the discovery of Canada held the attention of all.

The ship passed up the St. Lawrence from the rugged beauty of the snow-clad Gaspe Peninsula hills to tiny farming villages marked by the slender beauty of their church spires.

There was an unexpected one-day visit to Quebec City while the Norholt unloaded a British-built crane at a Lauzon shipyard. Then back to the river and a day's sail to the skyscrapers of Montreal.

Loyalist Days Real Success Say Merchants

PICTON (Staff) — We feel that Loyalist Days were very successful in every way, said Reg Johnson, president of Picton Retail Merchants Association, today. "While this was also felt that it would help provide entertainment for the thousands of summer visitors in the county. Judging by the crowds which jammed the streets during the four day observance, the visitors and local residents appreciated the events held," Mr. Johnson added.

There were no special events planned to mark the closing Saturday night but there were many on the streets, many wearing old tyme costumes. A great deal of impromptu entertainment kept the crowds entertained and there were a number of dances at various clubs.

According to most people the opening parade was one of the finest ever held in Picton. The merchants are already planning for a similar event next year and feel that it can be made even bigger and better. They give high praise to the public which so enthusiastically joined in helping to make the days a success.

On Friday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. the "Mutt Show" was interrupted and a Lake Ontario Cement Company pick-up truck drove onto the grounds. The truck, carrying members of the Lake Ontario Cement Company's Staff, displayed many Safety Slogans, and stickers.

When the truck was parked where all children present could readily read the Slogans, members of Lake Ontario Cement's Staff busied themselves passing a thousand popsicles and ice cream bars as a courtesy gesture by the Cement Company.

DROP OUT?

Very unlikely. The successful newspaperboy is at opposite poles from the quitter by the very fact of having a newspaper route.

His experience shows him that the rewards for the goof-off are slim; that there's no room for the quitter and that the laurels of life go to the person able to meet challenges. He's found that initiative pays big dividends and there is no substitute for learning to deal with people.

Guided by men who are trained to work with boys he develops responsible attitudes, and for the first time, money becomes more than a hand-out. Nothing can replace the satisfaction of purchasing with money he's earned on his own.

You would be surprised to know how many of today's leaders built their success stories on a newspaperboy foundation.

Sub-Arctic Supply Route in Canada's Search for Oil

Along The Walnut Run

When the high-riding sun of mid-summer casts constant daylight over Canada's northern sprawl, the pace of oil exploration lengthens into seven-league strides for hardy crews in sub-arctic wastes. Despite big-engineering necessary to drill down over two miles in the quest for black gold, the explorers remain mobile. Several weeks of work underway at one site is already planned for repetition at the next some miles away and as new gear arrives other equipment which has finished its part of the job is sent back on returning transport for shipment to the next drill site. Typical of varied equipment required to grind a 12,000-foot-deep hole through the sub strata just a few degrees from the arctic circle are strange and powerful vehicles to bring drillers vital supplies. Nodwell Transporters, used by one Shell Oil exploration crew in the Wrigley area of the Northwest Territories this year, proved their capabilities of moving over ultra-soft terrain with heavy loads, when they plowed through feet-thick soft mud, swamps, streams and brush. Their loads at one time—tons of cracked walnut shells, brought north by Mackenzie River barge. Used as a filler, the walnut shells are part of a thick mix forced down the drill hole under pressure to plug porous gaps in the rock thousands of feet below so that vital cooling-cleaning-circulating drill mud will not be lost and prevent further drilling.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, AUGUST 17, 1965

Hon. J. Randall Opens Fair, Turns Sod for CN Terminal

Ontario's Minister of Economics and Development, the Hon. Stanley J. Randall, had a full day in Belleville yesterday.

Invited to the city to open Belleville Fair, the provincial economics and development minister actually got in three official duties and in addition managed to sandwich in a couple of side visits, including a boat trip down the bay to view the now building Quinte Skyway at Deseronto.

At noon Mr. Randall was the speaker at the Belleville Rotary Club noon luncheon and in the afternoon officially broke ground for the new $650,000 CN freight and express terminal in the east end city limits and then in the evening officially opened Belleville's 144-year-old fall fair.

Sandwiched in between his official duties Mr. Randall took time out to visit W. E. "Sandy" Sandercock, MLA for Hastings West, and deputy speaker of the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. Sandercock is recuperating at his home after being ill in hospital since late in May.

SOD BREAKING — Hon. Stanley J. Randall, Ontario Minister of Economics and Development, operates plunger setting off dynamite charge to break sod for new $650,000 CN freight terminal. Watching the minister are Robert Temple, MP. Hastings South, H. J. Fast, CN Rideau Area manager, and Mayor Jack Ellis.

The economics minister, former manager of General Steel Wares, came to the city on the invitation of local industrialist Stan Hagerman of Stewart Warner Corp., a long time friend and business associate.

MET BY MAYOR

Mr. Randall and his aides were met by Mayor Jack Ellis and members of the city industrial commission, who acted as unofficial hosts during the minister's visit to the city.

At Rotary luncheon Mr. Randall noted the importance of Belleville as a transportation centre, a function which he said was as vital to Ontario's economy as the Golden Horse Shoe of the Toronto area.

He said Belleville's location, midway between Toronto and Montreal gives it a powerful boost in marketing, shipping and commuting.

Later in the afternoon, as he officially broke sod for the new $650,000 CN freight terminal, Mr. Randall said he was delighted that Belleville had been chosen as the site for the terminal warehouse.

BOAT CRUISE — to Deseronto and the Quinte Skyway was made aboard RCAF crash boat.

He said he would be happy to see the area between Oshawa and Cornwall lined wall to wall with industry.

Speaking briefly at the ground breaking ceremony were H. J. Fast, Rideau Area manager, Mayor Ellis, Robert Tempie, MP for Hastings South and Herbert Pointer, chairman of the Belleville local of the railway employees union.

ROTARY LUNCHEON

Head table guests at the Rotary luncheon included Clarke T. Rollins, MLA for Hastings East; Norris Whitney, MLA for Prince Edward-Lennox; Robert Temple, MP for Hastings South and local civic and fair board officials.

The trip down the bay to view the Quinte Skyway, was made on an RCAF crash boat. Taking in the trip were: Mr Randall and his party; Robert Temple, Mayor Jack Ellis, Stan Hagerman, industrial commission chairman J. C. Houston, commission member Frank Murray and industrial commissioner Ernst Kneisel.

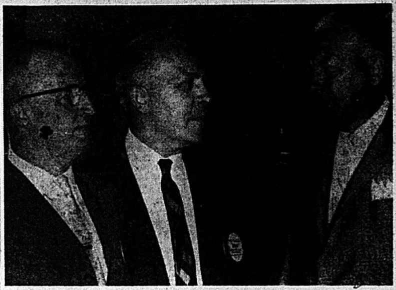
Minister Tells Rotarians Substantial Growth Coming



ROTARY CLUB OFFICIALS President Ernie Burnham and Stan Hagerman, chat with Provincial Economics Minister Randall prior to noon luncheon at Hotel Quinte.

"World trade can solve a lot of world problems." The Honorable Stanley J. Randall, Ontario Minister of Economics and Development made this point in his remarks to the weekly Rotary luncheon yesterday. He added that in all his travels around the globe he had found no resentment against Canadians and thus a warm reception was possible for the export of Canadian manufactured goods.

Formerly president of General Steel Wares Ltd., Mr. Randall is now responsible for stimulating trade and industry and has been travelling the world successfully blazing new trails for Ontario manufacturers. He has predicted a 6 percent growth in the economy this year.

Mr. Randall emphasized that it is not enough for Canada to export raw materials but manufactured goods as well must be sold overseas. His department sponsors "Sales Opportunity Missions" that have already resulted in $88 million worth of foreign trade, some of which was earned by Belleville companies.

"Ontario accounts for 50 per cent of Canada's manufacturing," he said, and as "Ontario's heart of distribution," Belleville is vital to the province's economy. "The city's location between Toronto and Montreal gives it a powerful boost in marketing, shipping, and commuting. District population within a 25-mile radius of Belleville has grown to more than 123,000 and Belleville now serves a trade area of 75,000."

The minister pointed out that things were booming here with many new buildings, including the Bell Telephone building, the YMCA building, the East End Library, and The Intelligencer building. The planned $7½ million hospital and Northern Electric, the first manufacturing plant built in the industrial park, also pointed to an expansion. Mr. Randall noted that the construction of the CNR's new express freight terminal may well be the impetus for new industry to follow. He said that "these are strong signs that the citizens anad industries of Belleville believe responsibility for economic growth and meaningful progress begins at home."

FINE FACILITIES

"Besides excellent transportation facilities — including a port that handles vessels with draft up to 14 feet—Belleville is blessed with serviced industrial sites, a stable labor force, pleasant climate, and stimulating educational and recreational facilities," he continued. "The opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway and the influx of tourists have had something to do with your dramatic growth but creating your own opportunities is a better explanation.

The initiative of such Belleville companies as Foley Foundry, Black Diamond Cheese, Electronic Controls Limited, Deloro Stellite, Deacon Bros. Sportswear, Leo J. Meier Co., Napanee Industries, Essex Electronics of Canada, and Morton-Parker Ltd., who participated in the sales opportunity missions is commendable," Mr. Randall said, "and it has kept Ontario's economy expanding for the past several years."

The advantages of Belleville businessmen in producing their goods in Ontario and exporting them from here are many, the minister continued. They include a labor rate 25% lower than the U.S. and 8% dollar discount, and a province with an abundance of raw material, low cost power, convenient transportation, and direct access to world markets via the St. Lawrence Seaway. "We're living high on the hog"—with 34% of Canada's population, Ontario accounts for about 40% of Canada's $38 billion personal income and $20 billion retail sales. Ontario is a profitable place to work, an exciting place to live, and an excellent place to bring up and educate children and Belleville's position gives it the opportunity to reap the rewards of the export of manufactured goods, he concluded.

Rotarian Stan Hagerman, a personal friend of Mr. Randall, introduced the speaker, while Rotarian Lee Grills expressed the thanks of the club.

U.K. Food Buyers to Visit City

Two members of the United Kingdom Food Buyers Mission to Ontario, will be in the Belleville area Wednesday and Thursday, where they will visit the Black Diamond Cheese plant and the Ontario Cheese Producers Marketing Board and other plants in the Quinte area.

The party will visit Black Diamond Cheese and the Cheese Producers on Wednesday morning and the Don Baxter canning plant and Prince Edward Fruit Growers Association.

Beatle Fans Camp Out At Airport

TORONTO (CP)—Seven dedicated Beatle fans camped overnight at Toronto International Airport in hopes they will be first to greet their idols when they arrive this afternoon from New York.

"We'll wait for a week if we have to," said Pamela Mercado, 14, of suburban Downsview.

She and her six friends were among the hundreds of teenagers who gathered at the airport Monday, 24 hours ahead of the Beatles' scheduled arrival about 2 p.m today.

Rumors the police were sneaking the Beatles into Toronto Monday night prompted the fans to converge on the airport earlier in the day. Most left when the rumors proved false.

The long-haired Beatles performed for 50,000 screaming fans in New York and also taped a television appearance for the Ed Sullivan Show before leaving for Canada.

In Toronto, the only Canadian city included in the 18-day tour of North America, 700 policemen have been specially called out to keep order during the visit.

The Beatles will take home an estimated $100,000 for the two half-hour appearances they will make here.

Income Tax Explained

A column designed for the working taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax office.

By C. A. MILLER
Retired Supervising Assessor,
Income Tax Department

EXEMPTIONS MORE THAN INCOME

Numerous inquiries were received last year from retired taxpayers, wanting to know if it was necessary for them to file an income tax return, when their exemptions exceeded their income.

When there have been no tax deductions made from income received in the taxation year and the income does not exceed the allowable exemptions it is not necessary to file a return. However, if the taxpayer had reported a taxable amount in all his prior years returns, he should file a return for the first years he was nontaxable. This would show the income tax department he is now retired and they would not request any more returns from him.

Should the taxpayer have the type of income from which he is allowed to make certain deductions for expenses, then he should always file a return, whether it shows a taxable amount or not. He may have claimed certain expenses against the income that are not of a deductible nature. This would apply in regard to rental income where the taxpayer may have deducted expenses of a capital nature. It is only current expenses that may be used to reduce rental income.

When a taxpayer has not filed a return on account of not having a taxable income, and later on in the year receives a request from the tax department for a return for that year, he should complete a return showing he is not taxable. This is much better than writing them a letter saying "no taxable income for the year." This NIL return will then be in the taxpayers file and prevent such requests in future years.

For a personal reply, enclose a self-addressed, five cent stamped envelope, plus 25 cents for each question.

Question 1: I had no income this year of a taxable nature as I was off work due to an injury. Should I file a return?

Answer: Yes. You may have income in future years and the continuity of your file in the Income Tax Department should be maintained.

Question 2: I am retired and have had no taxable income for several years. I have always filed a return although I have had no tax to pay. Is this necessary?

Answer: NO. Do not file any more returns.

Indians Discover Own Welfare Committee Tougher Than Agent

HAY LAKE, Alta. (CP)—The Indians of Hay Lake have set up their own welfare committee which is gaining the reputation of being tougher than the federal officials who handle Indian relief money.

The three - man committee screens welfare applicants and decides how much relief each family should get. It works in co-operation with federal Indian affairs branch officials.

"There's no doubt that the committee is tougher than I would be," says Joe Leaks, superintendent of the federal Fort Vermilion-Slavey Indian agency, 400 miles northwest of Edmonton.

After the committee's first distribution of relief money, he says, "several people complained to me that they didn't receive relief. The committee thoroughly investigated each

The system is "working out fine" despite the Indians' initial reluctance to take on the job, Mr. Leaks says. "There is no able-bodied man on this reserve on permanent relief."

The committee isn't the first move Indians here have made since they marched on the Alberta legislature in February seeking provincial aid. A sawmill has been established and construction of 14 houses is planned.

The sawmill, employing 15 Indians, can turn out 20,000 board-feet of lumber a day. Other Indians are working on house construction and building a fire line around the mill.

Verwoerd Now Less Tolerant Of All Left Wing Opposition

By BRIAN BARROW

CAPE TOWN (CP) — The Verwoerd government is becoming more and more intolerant of any real opposition in South Africa.

It does not mind the tame, ineffectual resistance offered by the official opposition in Parliament—the United Party.

What Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd seems determined to eliminate is the sort of opposition which declares unequivocally that apartheid (race separation) is immoral, inhuman and totalitarian.

There are two political parties that still oppose the government in this way—the Liberals and Progressives—and the government seems bent on destroying them. Not by declaring them unlawful organizations, for that would be ridiculous; but by issuing "banning" orders against key party officers.

Dr. Verwoerd has so far left the Progressives alone. They are not nearly so far left in their thinking as the Liberals. But no one doubts the Progressives will be next after the Liberals have been paralysed.

In the last year 30 Liberal officials have been served with banning orders. The conditions of the orders are harsh. Banned persons are not allowed to attend gatherings or to leave the magisterial district in which they live.

MAY LOSE JOBS

They need the permission of a magistrate to attend anything like a family christening, wedding, funeral or other occasion. And often they lose their livelihood because of the restrictions.

All the Liberals banned recently have been law-abiding citizens totally opposed to communism, yet the reason given for their banning has been that they have furthered the aims and objectives of communism.

The sinister aspect of this is that the government does not ban the Liberal party as such, but is hitting at and intimidating individual members, both white and non-white. And these are the people trying to keep the voice of protest alive in South Africa.

There are good reasons why the government won't ban the party. First, its members would join more respectable organizations and would be harder to weed out. Second, the effect on opinion abroad would do further harm to the government's deteriorating foreign relations, especially with the United States.

The Liberal journal Contact has also not been banned, but five of its editors have been silenced by banning orders, making production of the journal almost impossible.

PATON UNTOUCHED

Generally the banning orders are served on top Liberal party officials: National chairman Peter Brown, two national vice-chairmen, one national vice-president, two national treasurers, one national secretary, several national executive members, three provincial chairmen, several provincial vice - chairmen and many provincial committee members.

And after banning key members one by one, the government also bans their replacements.

Verwoerd has not, however, banned Alan Paton, author of "Cry the Beloved Country" and probably the most influential Liberal in South Africa. Action against Paton would adversely affect the government's image abroad.

The government has rather gone for the smaller men who really keep the party machinery working.

It has also been conducting a smear campaign against the party since some of its more hot-headed adherents foolishly involved themselves in acts of sabotage last year. The party has strongly denounced these few errant members and reiterated its opposition to violence as a solution to the country's problems.

NO COURT TEST

It might be expected that if the government had any real complaints against the Liberal party it would present them in court, and that if there were no evidence of unlawful activity it should be left alone.

But apparently the government has no such intention. And not only have the Liberals been smeared but also innocent organizations such as the Defence and Aid Fund, which finances legal aid for political prisoners and helps support their dependents, and Kupugani, an organization formed to combat malnutrition among Africans living below the breadline.

It seems almost as if the Nationalist government will tolerate no person or group that might show there are still hundreds of thousands of people of different races in South Africa who want to work together, help one another and hammer out a decent future for all.

Apartheid has been shown repeatedly to be a myth, and even the government is beginning to realize this. But it happens to be the battle cry that keeps nationalism going and Verwoerd in power. And the myth can only survive if it is separated as far as possible in the public mind from reality.

Canada and Belgium May Share Agreement On Cultural Affairs

By RUSSELL ELMAN

BRUSSELS (CP) — Canada and Belgium, which share French as part of their bicultural heritage, may negotiate a cultural agreement.

Preliminary soundings are understood to have been initiated, although both Belgian and Canadian spokesmen underline that nothing definite has been decided.

A Belgian official suggested privately a formal accord would enhance the effectiveness of existing arrangements under the Canadian government's cultural exchange program with French-speaking countries.

The exchange program, entering its second year of operation and administered by the Canada Council, at present offers $250,000 a year in graduate - level scholarships for study in Canada to the French, Belgians and Swiss in an effort to build up Canada's image abroad as a French- as well as an English-speaking country.

Belgium was allocated seven of the 40 scholarships in the 1964-65 academic year, but this year officials have managed to stretch the same amount of money to provide for 13 awards. Further increases and also possible exchanges of musical, dramatic and artistic ventures are hoped for following External Affairs Minister Martin's recent announcement that the cultural exchange program will be boosted to $1,000,000 a year.

Because Belgium itself is bilingual, the Canadian program has acquired a Flemish accent by opening its doors to the Flemish-speaking majority on an equal basis with the country's French-speaking (Walloon) majority. A suggestion that Flemish candidates be allowed to attend only French-language institutions in Canada was quickly dropped.

Of the 13 Belgians who will study in Canada this fall, four are Flemish and two others have Flemish names but are French-speaking. Two of the Flemish award winners will go to English - language universities; in 1964-65 a Flemish civil servant in the education ministry studied psychology as applied to sport at the University of Alberta.

Some of Belgium's French-speaking winners have also chosen English-language universities, studying subjects such as international law at the University of Toronto. Most of the scholarships, however, are used at the bilingual or French-language universities of Ottawa, Montreal, Sherbrooke and Laval.

Competition for the scholarships, worth from $250 to $600 a month plus an Air Canada return ticket, is announced each fall and is attracting a steadily increasing number of applicants of high standard. A preliminary selection is made in February by a committee composed of representatives of the Belgian education ministry and of the Canadian embassy in Brussels; the final decisions are taken by the Canada Council.

The Belgian government has reciprocated by increasing its scholarships to Canadians for study in Belgium, with five graduate awards being given this year.

The scholarships tend to go to French-speaking Canadians, but English-speaking candidates are welcome and one, a civil servant with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, has just completed a year's study at the University of Louvain.

11-year-old Boy Guilty Of Arson

HAMILTON (CP) — An 11-year-old boy was found guilty in juvenile court of arson Monday for fires last month that caused damage estimated at $33,000.

The boy told police he set fires because he was "mad at his mother" for not raising his weekly allowance.

Judge Hugh C. Arrell ordered him sent to the Ontario Hospital School for Emotionally Disturbed Children at Cedar Springs, about 30 miles southeast of Chatham.

"I'm satisfied this boy did start a large number of fires," Judge Arrell said.

The boy admitted to setting eight fires in four days in June. He was arrested July 18 during police investigations of 11 fires in city apartment buildings and houses.

Over 43 Million Immigrants To U.S. During Last 150 Years

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States has opened its doors to more than 43,000,000 immigrants in the last century-and-a-half.

Europe was the source of 35,000,000, nearly 4,000,000 came from Canada and Newfoundland and almost 3,000,000 from Latin America.

Barely more than 1,000,000 were from Asia and Africa.

The figures show how firmly the U.S., now a country of 193,000,000, has looked to Europe for new blood. And the quota system, begun in 1921, continues that trend.

President Johnson, carrying on a campaign started two years ago by John Kennedy, is trying again to reform immigration laws.

If successful, he would make individual skills rather than nation of origin the key requisite. But as Canada's recent overhaul has shown, skill requirements still effectively bar most Asians and Africans.

Some think the president will stub his toe on the issue. It's not a popular one, and the sons and grandsons of immigrants who helped build this country do not necessarily welcome newcomers.

PREFER CANADIANS

In a recent public opinion poll, Canadians emerged as the most popular immigrants. Nearly 30 per cent of those questioned said they preferred Canadians while just one per cent said they disliked Canadians the most.

The Anglo - Scot group was favored by 20 per cent, followed by Scandinavians, Germans, Irish, French, Italians, Poles and Mexicans.

Twenty-six per cent said they disliked Asians the most, 15 per cent picked Russians and 11 per cent Mexicans.

This pattern is what might be expected in the light of the past. Of the 2,819,246 persons who settled in the U.S. in the 1955-64 period, only 206,990 were from Asia and 20,727 from Africa. This, at least in part, is attributed to the quota system which tends to favor white Europeans and works against colored immigrants. Canada, Mexico and other independent nations of the western hemisphere are not subject to the quota.

As of now, quota immigrants are limited to 158,561 annually but admission actually has been running at less than 100,000. The rest of the nearly 300,000 immigrants a year are from non-quota areas or under special arrangements such as congressional exemptions.

The Johnson legislation would in effect do away with the quota system and, initially at least, add perhaps 100,000 immigrants a year. A competing bill would put every country, Canada included, under a quota of a maximum of 20,000 a year each.

Canada supplied 38,074 immigrants last year, Mexico 32,967 and Britain about 32,000, or less than half its quota of 65,361

The quota for the Republic of Ireland is 17,756 but only 8,134 places were filled in 1964. In contrast, all but about 2,000 of Germany's quota of 25,814 were filled, and the number of Italian immigrants slightly exceeded the 5,666 quota.

In comparison with these fairly substantial quotas are those for Africa, Asia and even such West Indies countries as Jamaica and Trinidad with 100 places each and often a long waiting list.

The White Tribes of Africa Holding Difficult Position

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — Where the Zambesi River loops across southern Africa, history has drawn a unique racial frontier. Independent black Africa and minority - ruled white Africa meet here in silent, sullen challenge—and as both sides become entrenched, the future of the white man in Africa grows more unpredictable.

Among 294,000,000 Negroes inhabiting a continent more than three times the size of Canada, there are only 4,000,000 whites—three-quarters of them in the republic of South Africa. How they live and what their prospects are prompted British journalist Richard West to travel 14 African countries—10 of them black-ruled—for a report first published as a newspaper article, then as a book called The White Tribes of Africa.

West, who writes for both the Conservative Sunday Times and the left wing New Statesman, claims to have begun his first trip to Africa with "no special prejudices either way." He ends by being in favor of "Africa for the Africans" but along the way comes up with some sharp comments from people living with the problem of adjusting to multi-racial societies.

In Ndola, on the highly industrialized copper belt that once powered the economy of the Central African Federation and now is part of independent Zambia, Canadian clergyman David Stivens told West.

"Had we in Canada been asked to make the psychological and spiritual adjustment which has been demanded of the folk here over the past five or 10 years, we would all be psychopaths."

OFFERS VIEW

In Tanzania, where a medley of European and Asian nations, Communist and Democratic, vie for African goodwill in the steamy heat of Dar es Salaam, an Australian offered this view on race relations:

"The more sophisticated people are, the more difficult it is for them to get on with the Africans. That's why the Portuguese get on better than the English, the Italians better than the Czechs, the Chinese better than the Russians."

Some Africans get on better with Europeans than others, West found. In the easy-going West African countries, notably Gambia, the races rub along together without friction, and Africans are far less color-sensitive than in other parts of Africa.

Among the most successful whites in African society, West found, are the Israelis. A poor nation, they are proud of having made themselves an economic power and eager to pass on the fruits of their experience.

"At a deeper level, they are anxious to see the Negro race prove itself equal to any other. The Jews know all there is to know about the horrors of racial prejudice."

At the other end of the scale in West's book come the white Rhodesians. Unlike their neighbors in South Africa, Rhodesians have no historical ties to their land, only a sentimental and nowadays bogus attachment to the "pioneer spirit" of Rhodes and Jameson. Two-thirds of the 225,000 whites in Rhodesia are post-war immigrants from Britain who came for a standard of living they could not aspire to at home and who now dread that African power will take it from them.

WHITES BORED

West found Rhodesia a "sullen" land, where the boredom and incompetence of many of the whites were matched by a frightening lack of knowledge or interest about the nearly 4,000,000 blacks whose emancipation they fear so much.

One white political leader, at the end of an interview in which he had lambasted West with the familiar refrain about "coming to tell us how to run our country," suddenly lowered his voice and asked conspiratorially: "Tell me, what are the Africans thinking?"

What of the future for the white man in Africa? West predicts white expertise will long be needed and valued in the new independent countries, especially in commerce and industry. He adds his own personal "hunch" that the position of the white man will grow "better rather than worse" as time goes on.

He believes the real threat to Africa's peace comes from two opposed systems: the Chinese Communist strategy of "stirring up the dregs of tribal savagery" and the danger of the "poison of apartheid" spreading from the foot of the continent to the whole body.

If You Like Drinking Wine, Better Learn the Language

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

MEDOC, France (AP)—What should one say when the sommelier, the wine steward, pours that first trickle of wine into the glass and stands anxiously at elbow awaiting an opinion?

In jet set circles it's considered de province, if not downright declasse, to smack the lips greedily, roll the eyes wildly and say: "That's good booze."

As in all civilized pursuits, wine sipping has its own vocabulary, and you can startle your friends, wipe the supercilious smile from the waiter's face and score a wicket or two of intercontinental one-upmanship over your dining companions by mastering a few rudimentary phrases.

Alexis Lichine, the Russian-born American who imports millions of dollars worth of wine to the United States each year, is co - owner of three chateaux in southern France and has done as much for wine consumption as Louis Pasteur did for milk. He gave an impromptu lesson in the vintner's vocabulary in the cool darkness of the chai, the wine cellar, at Chateau Lascombes, one of the great growths in Bordeaux' famed Medoc district.

Taking a glass of '64 Chateau Lascombes by the stem, he held it aloft to the dim bulb burning in the sconce on the white-washed wall, studied the precious liquid intently for what seemed an interminable time, then swirled it around gracefully in ever increasing circles until it swayed back and forth in the glass.

SNIFFED ODOUR

Next, he wrapped his long patrician nose over the lip of the goblet and drank in the fragrance in long, soulful sniffs.

Lichine took a tentative sip, pursing his lips menacingly, then swished the wine back and forth in his mouth.

Suddenly, Lichine spat the wine out on the gravel floor.

"A bit astringent," he decreed. "The good things that happen to wine have not begun happening yet. This wine won't be ready for bottling until a year from next fall, then it will be at least another two years before anyone should even think of drinking it. After that, it will be one of the greatest."

That night in the barrel stave-paneled dining room of Chateau Prieure-Lichine, a 16th century Benedictine priory that Lichine calls home when he is not in his Manhattan apartment, the man who has written the encyclopedia of wines and spirits devoted his most loving phrases to the bottles of '60 Prieure, '57 Lascombe and '58 Chateau Roumier Haut Barsac Sauterne that he served with an excellent lamb supper.

These he did not spit out on the floor, a practice that wine tasters follow only to keep mind and body together in the line of duty.

The first, a dark red Bordeaux from his own vineyards, he pronounced to be "agreeable, if a trifle unctuous."

"It has superb balance, the fruit and flower has been preserved nicely; it has roundness, character, natural body."

ONE OF BEST

The next, another red Bordeaux from his prize vineyard just three miles away, was considered one of France's dozen great wines by the classification system that Napoleon III ordained in 1855.

On it, Lichine heaped the flower of his vintage vocabulary.

"Une grande bouteille d'une grande annee—a great bottle from a great year," he cooed. "Notice the deep purple robe, indicative of just enough tannin to ensure a slow maturing wine. Ah, what race, what breed, what elegance. This wine has finesse: that undefinable something that makes a great wine great."

The final wine, a white which was really amber in color, Lichine praised for its "exquisite bouquet, its delicate ambience, its rare elegance, its superb mellowness, its natural fruitiness."

Next morning, Lichine arranged for us to tour the Medoc district, that gravelly strip of land running along the Gironde River for 60 miles north of Bordeaux, where much of the world's finest wine is made.

By noon, we had stopped off at Chateau Margaux, Chateau Latour and Chateau Lafite, the three greatest in the district, then spent the afternoon visiting Chateau Gloria, Chateau Beychevelle, Chateau Mouton Rothschild and Chateau Talbot, all names to make a sommelier pop his cork.

SWIRLED, SNIFFED

Wherever we went, it was the same story: We swirled, we sniffed, we sipped, we spat. "Unctuous." "Agreeable." "Grande annee." "Character." "Robe." "Race." "Finesse." Never again would words desert us at that first trickle from the bottle.

We learned to look for the words "mis en bouteille au chateau"—bottled at the chateau—on the label of any really fine bottle of wine and to look for the name of the chateau burned in the cork.

"People should throw away those little plastic cards that tell them the great years," Lichine told us. "It is more important to know where the wine came from, who bottled it. The worst year from a great chateau is far superior to the best year of a vin ordinaire."

Somewhere along the line, we learned the one word that will send any sommelier screaming back to his wine cellar in horror.

The word is "coupage"—it means that the wine has been mixed, blended with some inferior growth probably brought in by tank car from Algeria.

In the French wine country, Algerian coupage is worse than the Algerian political situation.

Confidential Report Sent Says Kierans

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—Revenue Minister Eric Kierans of Quebec testified Monday he forwarded a confidential report on the Yvon Dupuis affair to Guy Favreau despite rumors that "the investigation should cease or too much damage will be done."

Mr. Kierans said he went ahead with an investigation of the Dupuis affair despite what he called evidence of "intervention by backroom men in politics."

Mr. Favreau was then federal justice minister. Mr Dupuis is a former federal minister without portfolio who faces trial in the fall on influence-peddling charges.

Mr. Kierans was testifying at the preliminary hearing of Roch Deslauriers, 31, a St. Johns chiropractor, on a charge of fabricating a document.

The charge, and 11 counts of perjury, were laid against Deslauriers following his testimony at the preliminary hearing of Mr. Dupuis, who was committed for trial on charges of accepting $10,000 for his influence in an unsuccessful attempt to get a racetrack for a group including Deslauriers.

AFTER 'ADMISSIONS'

Under questioning by Raymond Daoust, private prosecutor in the Deslauriers case, Mr. Kierans testified he sent the report to Mr. Favreau Jan. 30, 1964, "mainly and almost entirely on admissions made by Mr. Dupuis" during an interview he had with Mr. Dupuis

A number of newspaper men testified later they had come into possession, late in January, of portions of the confidential dossier that Mr. Kierans sent Mr. Favreau.

Gerard Pelletier, former editor - in - chief of Montreal La Presse, said he received the dossier from Mr. Kierans.

Mr. Pelletier testified that he met Mr. Kierans twice in late January. After the second meeting, he had sent a reporter to pick up the confidential file from the revenue minister's office.

Mr. Pelletier said the file did not prove very useful to his newspaper.

Mr. Walker of the Montreal Star said the Star decided against using the material on the grounds that it was libellous.

Indian Forces Seize Outposts In Pakistan

NEW DELHI (AP) — Indian army forces have attacked across the ceasefire line dividing Kashmir into Indian and Pakistani sectors, seizing three Pakistani outposts overlooking a road leading to the India-China front, a government spokesman reported Monday.

The attacks took place Sunday night and it appeared the Indian Army sent several battalions into the fight against Pakistani Army regulars.

The Indians charged the Pakistanis had sought to cut the road to Leh in the Ladakh region of the Indian-held part of Kashmir. China claims part of Ladakh and in the fall of 1962 sent troops to the area.

The Indian spokesman said the army troops surged across the ceasefire line near Kangil. This is about 80 miles northeast of Srinagar, capital of the Indian sector of Kashmir, and about 100 miles northwest of Leh.

The Indian attack appeared to change the character of the India-Pakistan feud over Kashmir which since Aug. 5 has revolved around Indian charges that Pakistani guerrillas had infiltrated into Indian Kashmir.

At Srinagar, an Indian spokesman told a reporter "a near-war situation" exists.

Most Insurance Companies Rule Out Insurrection as Reason for Non-payments

English Lingo Butchered in New Delhi

NEW DELHI (AP)—A lot of people in the Indian capital are having a good time poking fun at themselves and each other.

The laughter started with a newspaper article describing Indian modifications of English, the language imported centuries ago by British colonial rulers.

Collectors of Indian - English classics have been gleefully pouring in contributions.

One reader told of a clerk who wanted time off to attend his mother's funeral.

"I may please be granted three days' casual leave," the clerk wrote, "because the hand that rocked the cradle has kicked the bucket."

The fellow who ran out of money put it this way: "I found it difficult to make both my ends meet."

And there was the host who hoped his guest wouldn't feel shy about asking for another helping at dinner.

"Eat shamelessly," he said.

"No thanks," the guest replied. "I am fed up."

All this is confusing to foreigners newly arrived in India but in a few months they learn that "yesterday night" means "last night" and that "half pants" translates as "shorts."

Indians have no trouble with Indian-English, of course and can accurately pick out a speaker's home district by listening to the way he murders the Queen's English.

FROM CLASSROOM

Scholars looking for the murderers often trace the trail back to the classroom and the people who ostensibly teach English.

"You stay behind the class," one teacher told his student. "I'm not empty now."

What he meant was: "You stay after the class is ended. I'm busy now."

Small wonder, therefore, that a student wrote his father:

"Glad and sorry to tell you that I passed and failed in the shorthand and typewriting examinations held in the months of September and October respectively."

A few Americanisms, thoroughly Indianized, have crept into the language.

Like an American drugstore cowboy, a member of India's new generation saunters up to a fellow teen-ager on the street corner. But he doesn't say, "What's new?" He says, "What are the newses?"

In many cases, Indian-English usage is a direct result of conditions peculiar to India.

Thus, a traveller who braves creaking buses and maybe even ox carts to get to a distant city often will begin a letter home with: "I am safe here."

All this has given great fun to the upper crust of India's educated elite who speak English. But when it comes to determining "who murdered the Queen's English," many of them are inclined to repeat that old Indian favorite:

"Don't blame my name."

NEW YORK (AP)—A number of major United States property insurers Monday ruled out insurrection as a reason for non-payment of damage claims arising from the Los Angeles riots.

Although most property insurance policies provide financial protection against riot, virtually all stipulate that damages resulting from war or insurrection are not covered.

Several California officials, including Governor Edmund G. Brown, have referred to the riot as "insurrection."

But a number of insurers—including at least two giant firms—said they will settle property damage claims on an individual-case basis.

Others said they want more information from the ruined Watts district of Los Angeles before setting a claims policy.

FIRMS AGREE

Spokesmen for a number of insurance firms said they agreed with a statement by Roger Arnebergh, Los Angeles city attorney, that the courts would not consider the riots armed insurrection.

American dictionaries generally define insurrection as an organized rebellion or revolt against government. The insurance information institute, a spokesman for the industry, said there is no common definition for the word used by the industry.

In the less destructive riots of the summer of 1964 in Rochester, Harlem and Brooklyn, N.Y., insurance companies did not invoke the insurrection clause.

Most insurance policies provide financial protection against riot damages through an extended coverage endorsement to a standard fire policy. A spokesman for the insurance information institute said it is a rare businessman or home owner who fails to have the extended coverage protection.

WILL SETTLE

Two of the largest U.S. insurers, The Travelers Insurance Companies and Aetna Life and Casualty Co., said they will settle claims without regard to the insurrection clause in their policies.

The Hartford Insurance Information Office, representing most Connecticut insurance companies, said payment of claims would be determined on interpretations by company officials, not by California authorities.

However, almost all states, including California, regulate their insurance companies. Companies invoking the insurrection clause to refuse payment of claims would face potential political problems, if other companies paid claims.

Only Trying To Keep Out Of The Red

VANCOUVER (CP)—The faces of directors of the Pacific National Exhibition were a bit red today—about red ensigns.

The reason: The latter part of the parade route to be toured Saturday by Prime Minister Pearson en route to open the 14-day PNE is a virtual forest of red ensigns, with only a few of the new Canadian maple leaf flags in evidence.

An official said the PNE's budget is limited so it bought only a limited number of the new Canadian flags which was approved earlier this year as Canada's official flag.

He said the PNE was only trying to keep out of the red.

TWEED — The burghers of this popular centre Hastings village are justifiably proud of what is called the smallest jail in Ontario. The reasonable facsimile of a hoosegow is a landmark here and well-sprayed publicity is bringing in plenty of the tourist curious.

While on that junket to beautiful Bon Echo Park some time ago I talked with an elderly resident who informed me in a leg-pulling yarn that the old boys of the village were a more or less clannish clan.

"In fact," he said, "lawbreakers of those days—and they were darned few—disdained to travel in pairs. They were lone rangers so the powers-that-be built a jail to accommodate the minimum—and maximum."

Apparently the clannishness—if it ever existed—has given way to a togetherness that has paid and is paying large dividends in community welfare.

It started two years ago when officials and members of the Canadian Legion branch of the village decided the fingers that used to pull triggers for their country could be utilized for producing money for the community centre.

They organized a highly successful Sports Celebrities Dinner that was followed by a similar event a year ago.

The third Celebrities' Dinner is slated for Wed-Wednesday, September 8th, and all indications point to it out-ranging its predecessors by a substantial margin.

Jim Halpenny who with a hard-working committee, spearheaded the drives for the 1963-64 affairs, is again at the helm and has already laid the foundation of success.

Jim's committee was enlarged this year by willing hands from service organizations as well as members and officials of the village Minor Hockey Association.

Proceeds of the first two dinners, some $4,500, went into the Community Centre's exchequer. This year the excess funds will be divided between the Centre and the Minor Hockey Association.

The tickets are ten dollars but the committee decided to give the younger fry a chance to enjoy the festivities as well as meeting the celebrities in person. Students up to Grade 13 can purchase a ticket for five dollars opening the way for a neat father-and-son party. They can be secured in the city at Carl Thompson's Variety Store on Front Street.

Headling a galaxy of colorful sports personalities is King Clancy of the Toronto Maple Leafs ("I took part in a hundred fights—and niver won one") who is the guest speaker. Master of ceremonies is Steve Douglas, well known sports radio and television commentator.

One of the more colorful celebrity attractions will be "Pinky" Lewis, famous Canadian trainer who was long associated in this capacity with the Hamilton Tiger Cats. Pinky has a delightful sense of humor and will recall many incidents of his training career.

The National Hockey League will be well represented at the guest table with Jim Roberts, Kent Douglas, Bobbie Baun, Bob Pulford and others yet to be named.

Vince Scott and Vince Mazza, famous Cats of the Tiger jungle of Hamilton will be there.

Whipper Billy Watson, Canada's famous pro wrestler, will make an all out effort to be on hand, while there is a possibility, if training and other commitments permit, of George Chuvalo, Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, putting in an appearance.

"We expect many more names in sport," Mr. Halpenny says. "Tweed should be the meeting place of Who's Who in sport on September 8th.

Arrangements are in the making for the greater part of the visiting celebrities to play golf at the Bay of Quinte Country Club in the afternoon.

The dinner is being held in the Tweed-Hungerford Community Centre. There is plenty of room—and plenty of tickets left. At that, Mr. Halpenny says, over 200 have been sold to date. Better get 'em.

Narrow Dodger Margin To Half-Game

By HAL BOCK

Give an old gaffer some rest and there's no telling what he will do.

In the case of 33-year-old Eddie Mathews, he's liable to lead you to the National League baseball pennant. In the case of 38-year-old Robin Roberts, he's liable to leave you pretty embarrassed.

Mathews continued his torrid August hitting spree Monday night, driving in six runs on four hits as Milwaukee Braves outlasted St. Louis Cardinals 10-8 and moved within one-half game of stumbling Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League race.

Roberts, who came to Houston Astros as a free agent after being released by Baltimore Orioles, continued his amazing rejuvenation with his second straight four-hit shutout as the Astros blanked Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0.

Milwaukee manager Bobby Bragan, whose Braves have won 26 of 35 in their dash to the top of the league, gave Mathews a day off two weeks ago and the veteran third baseman hasn't been the same since.

"Don't wake me up—let me keep dreaming," Mathews laughed after taking the Cardinals apart. His four hits gave him 18 in his last 33 swings, a .545 pace that has lifted his season's average 25 points to .259.

TOOK WEEK'S REST

Roberts shut out his former Philadelphia Phillies teammates in his first National League start in four years last Monday night and Astros' manager Luman Harris gave the veteran right-hander a week off.

Robin responded to his second start with an almost identical effort, throttling the Pirates on four hits and retiring the last 13 men in a row. He struck out seven and walked only two.

Los Angeles' lead dwindled to a mere half-game over the Braves as Philadelphia's Chris Short beat the Dodgers for the fifth time this season, 6-1. San Francisco Giants mathematically eliminated New York's 10th-place Mets 3-2. Chicago White Sox shaded Boston Red Sox 5-4 in the only American League game played.

PODRES LOSES

Philadelphia gave Short, 14-8, a four-run cushion in the third, knocking out loser Johnny Podres, 4-6. Rich Allen's two-run was the key hit.

Maury Wills stole his 76th and 77th bases of the season, going 27 games ahead of his 1962 pace when he set a major league record with 104.

Rookie outfielder Ken Henderson drove in the winning run for the Giants with a seventh-innings single as the Mets dropped their 82nd game of the year. Willie Mays hammered his 33rd homer for the third-place Giants, who trail Los Angeles by just 1½ games.

Pete Ward's ninth-inning double drove in the winning run for the White Sox after Bill Skowron's sacrifice fly had tied it. Red Sox starter Earl Wilson socked two home runs—his fifth and sixth of the season.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

"Best Pass Defence"

Unbeaten Bombers Defeat Lions

By DENNIS ORCHARD

VANCOUVER (CP)—The silent fox of Canadian football summoned enough words for a whole sentence and said them almost with a smile:

"We've got the best pass defence a Winnipeg team has ever had."

Coach Bud Grant was putting credit where it was obviously due Monday night after his Blue Bombers turned off British Columbia's passing attack and beat the Lions 12-6.

It left Bombers snugly atop the Western Conference, unbeaten in four games, and a winner twice over the team that has captured first place for the last two years. BC is tied for third with Calgary on a win and two losses.

"It will be tough to knock us out of first," said Grant. "B.C has to win three games more than we do."

A crowd of 36,457, second-largest in regular-season play for the Canadian Football League, saw Bomber defenders hold Lions to a couple of field goals in what was the first home defeat for B.C since Oct. 20, 1962.

INTERCEPTS, SCORES

Deep men Ernie Pitts, Ed Ulmer and Barrie Hansen, and linebackers Jack Simpson, Ken Maglicic, Al Miller, Dick Thornton and Henry Janzen allowed B.C quarterback Joe Kapp to complete only six of 24 passes. They intercepted four others and Janzen took one of the interceptions 75 yards for a first-quarter touchdown that gave Bombers a lead they never relinquished.

Winnipeg also snapped up two Lion fumbles and Ulmer outkicked Neal Beaumont substantially to keep B.C in a hole at crucial stages of the game.

Ulmer hoisted four punts for single points. Simpson missed a convert and had to settle for singles when field goals went awry from the 27 and 34-yard-lines.

It was 9-0 at halftime and in their haste to recover, Lions made more trouble for themselves. Kapp was readying a throw to the end zone from the Bomber 20-yard-line when he fumbled the ball early in the third quarter. Lions recovered, but had to settle for a 29-yard field goal by Kempf that made it 9-3.

It was 11-3 in the fourth quarter when Lions moved in for what appeared to be a touchdown. Kapp hit end Mack Burton in the end zone with an 18-yard-pass, but Lions were called back for illegal interference. They made do with Kempf's second field goal, this one from the 18.

LOSE ANOTHER CHANCE

Yet another opportunity went by the boards in the final seconds, when Thornton outpaced Willie Fleming to one of Kapp's passes, picked it off, and ran it 64 yards before he was tackled at Lions' 17-yard line to end the game.

Hansen and Simpson made the other interceptions for Winnipeg, and Mike Martin of the Lions intercepted a throw by Kenny Ploen. Fumbles cost Lions the ball twice in the first half.

In a defensive game with breaks all-important, it didn't count that Lions led statistically with 195 yards rushing, 125 passing, and with 18 first downs. Ploen completed nine of 15 passes for 90 yards and the club had 112 yards rushing for only 12 first downs.

Bombers enjoy a nine-day layoff while Edmonton visits Calgary Wednesday, B.C visits Saskatchewan Friday, and Calgary returns to Edmonton next Monday.

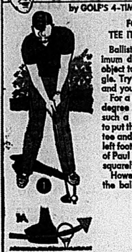
THE ARNOLD Palmer Method

by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER

FOR EXPERTS ONLY: TEE IT HIGH AND FORWARD.



Ballistics experts tell us that maximum distance is achieved if an object takes off at a 45-degree angle. Try it with your garden hose and you'll see what they mean.

For a golfer with an average 11-degree lofted driver to achieve such a high trajectory, he'd have to put the ball on about a foot-high tee and play it well-forward of his left foot. Probably no one, this side of Paul Hahn, could hit such a shot squarely.

However, some golfers can tee the ball higher than normal and play it well forward — off the left toe — and add some distance. If a ball teed in this manner is struck squarely from such a teed position (No. 1 and No. 1A), the club meets the ball on the upswing. The ball travels its normal height, but farther, because it carries less backspin.

This technique can be used only on tee shots. On fairway woods you must play the ball in a normal position — opposite your left heel — and sweep it away at the bottom of your swing arc (No. 2 and No. 2A). To play such shots far forward would probably cause you to hit behind the ball or to top it on your upswing.

Recommends More Meets

Approve Boxing Head Man

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives approved Monday a bill to establish a federal boxing commission after sparring over broadcasters' objections that the measure would turn the government into a censor.

The vote was 346 to 4.

The measure, which goes to the Senate, was an aftermath of Cassius Clay's controversial one-round knockout of Sonny Liston in Lewiston, Me., last May.

It would set up a three-man commission with licensing and other authority over professional bouts to be broadcast by television or radio in interstate commerce. The commission would have the power to bar the broadcast of fights it considers not in the public interest.

STARTS DEBATE

It was this authority to prohibit broadcasting of a bout—whether on radio or home TV or by pay TV—that set off the only controversy.

The author of the measure, Chairman Oren Harris, (Dem.-Ark.) of the House interstate commerce committee said that during the weekend the broadcasting industry had sent telegrams to congressmen objecting to a U.S agency being able to say in advance what they could carry.

The broadcasters expressed concern that this would be a bad precedent in that it was prior restraint and a violation of freedom of speech.

TORONTO (CP)—More international track and field meets must be held in this country if Canada hopes to improve her Olympic performances.

That's what Geoff Dyson, British national coach for 14 years and present director of the Royal Canadian Legion's Sports Training Plan, recommends.

"Progress is still to be measured by Canadian athletes competing internationally in front of Canadian audiences.

"I'd like to see the Amateur Athletic Union promote duel meets. Start with places Like Jamaica, Trinidad, Mexico, countries on Canada's level. See how we do. Then move up."

Dyson opens the legion's annual coaching clinic in Guelph Thursday. He will be "coaching the coaches, teaching the teachers. I said when I came here that I would not be in competition with Canadian coaches. I have never coached an individual here.

"We want to make the coaches and teachers more knowledgable in track and field know-how, make the over-all standard of coaching higher."

"Competition for Canadians in Canada is inadequate. I would like to see more interprovincial rivalry. The youngsters in big cities have the advantage of being able to get to the major meets. But how about Moose Jaw, Red Deer, places like that?

"What's to encourage a boy from Medicine Hat to become a hammer thrower, no matter how good he is? He probably couldn't get to Toronto for a meet and if he did, there'd be no opposition."

"Canadians are not well informed on what other countries are doing. Then the Olympics came along and it's a terrible awakening. The same thing held true in Great Britain, though it's not as bad now.

"National record performances got tremendous play, gave everyone a false sense of achievement.

"Britain's showing at the Olympics last year was her best ever in track and field in my opinion. But it took 20 years to do it. We started building that team after the war."

MANY ARE IMMIGRANTS

About 1,000,000 Commonwealth citizens now live permanently among Britain's 60,000,000 population.

Canadian Junior Tennis

OTTAWA (CP)—There were few surprises at the Canadian junior open tennis championships as foreign seeded players took a heavy toll of unranked Canadians here Monday.

About half the field of 250 players was eliminated in the first day of open play at the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club.

Canadians will have an uphill battle to win titles, except girls in the 18 and 16 classes, who have a good chance because top-seeded U.S. girls are engaged in their own national tournament.

Chuck Brainard of Hamtramck, Mich., and Dan Bleckinger of Oshkosh, Wis., showed how tough it will be for Canadian boys to wrest the 18-and-under crown from U.S. hands.

Brainard shut out his three opponents with six sets of 6-0, while Bleckinger also breezed through his three matches with case. In his third match he beat Brian Robertson of Regina, 6-2, 6-1.

However, the Americans still have to meet Canada's top seeds, Barry Shakespeare of Halifax, Pierre LaMarche of Montreal and Vic Rollins of Vancouver, who were given byes into the fourth round.

The only thing that marred the day's play was the high number of defaults. There were about 30, mostly by Montreal players.

Minor Baseball Results

IBEW overcame a 2-0 deficit in the late innings, downing Tip Top Cleaners 5-3, to capture the B.M.B.A. peewee division elague crown last night, at Park Dale.

Tip Tops scored single runs in the third and fifth before IBEW tied it in the sixth and scored three in the top of the seventh. The losers got one back in their half of the inning but that was it.

Moe Thompson copped pitching honors over opponent Paul Hall. Thompson gave up eight hits but was tough in the clutch, fanning 13 and walking only one. Hall allowed just four hits and struck out 14. He walked five and four of them in succession during the seventh - inning, game-winning rally.

Catcher Jeff Mason and Dean Lang spearheaded the IBEW attack with a brace of singles each.

Austin Wilson had a perfect three - for - three efofrt in defeat while Terry Ray had two hits. Richard Kerr and John Mulvihill also hit safely.

In one half of the tyke section semi - finals, DeMille Construction tounced Jaycees 17-4 in the first game of a two-of-three series. No result was available for the other series game.

Tim Whalen and Mike Bell combined on a four - hitter for the DeMille squad. They struck out 13 and walked three.

Greg Duffy and Wayne Andrews allowed eight hits in defeat with nine errors by the team hurting their efforts. They fanned ten and walked nine.

John Venutti had a double and single and Mike Hayes two singles to spark the winners.

Murray Dale banged a home run and single for the Jaycees.

Four Teams To Seek Tuna Cup

WEDGEPORT, N.S. (CP)—Four teams will be seeking the Sharp Trophy in the International Tuna Cup match opening here and at nearby Cape St. Mary's Wednesday after a seven-year recess.

The United States, Mexico, Canada and the Caribbean will compete during the 3½-day meet in waters off southwestern Nova Scotia.

The match was discontinued after 1958 when not a single bluefin was taken. But many have been caught recently.

About 20 tuna have been taken by rod and reel in the area since the season opened and commercial fishermen have harpooned another 40 or more.

Alfred P. Trask of Yarmouth, N.S., a member of the Canadian team, has taken four during practice sessions. The biggest was 757 pounds.

Watkins Leads Race In East

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ottawa Rough Riders dominate the individual statistics after two weeks of Eastern Football Conference play.

Ted Watkins of the Riders was on the receiving end of three Russ Jackson touchdown passes against Montreal Alouettes to take the lead in the scoring race with 18 points. A former Rough Rider, fullback Dave Thelen of Toronto Argonauts, has picked up 12 points on two touchdown passes to place second among the scoring leaders.

Last season's top point-getters, runner-up Moe Racine of Ottawa and champion Don Sutherin of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, hold down third and fourth place with 10 and eight points respectively.

Ottawa quarterback Russ Jackson leads the passers in total yards, touchdown passes and average gain. Jackson has completed 15 of 35 passes for 230 yards and four majors.

LEAD RUSHERS

Bo Scott and Rick Black of the Riders lead in the rushing department. Scott has picked up 160 yards in 22 carries for an average gain of 7.3 yards. Black is averaging 5.8 yards a carry.

End Stan Crisson of Hamilton, who caught only eight passes last season, has six receptions and one touchdown to date to lead among pass receivers. Joe Zuger of the TiCats is the leading punter with a 46.5 average on 19 kicks.

In other departments, Jim Rountree of Argos is leading in kickoff returns with an average run of 20 yards and another veteran, Ed Learn of Montreal, is again leading in punt returns.

HEADS RYDER CUPPERS

NEW YORK (AP) — Byron Nelson, one of the all-time greats of professional golf, was named Monday as non-playing captain of the United States Ryder Cup team which will play Great Britain at Southport, England, Oct. 7-9.

Western Scoring Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Place-kicking specialist Peter Kempf booted two field goals Monday night to jump into fourth place in the Western Football Conference scoring race as British Columbia Lions lost 12-6 to Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Kempf's six points gave him 17 for the season on eight converts and three field goals. He trails Saskatchewan Roughriders Hugh Campbell, the leader with 24 points, and B.C's Willie Fleming and Winnipeg's Leo Lewis, tied for second with 18 points.

In a defensive game in which the two teams' big scorers were shut out, Winnipeg's Jackie Simpson collected two singles off missed field goals. Simpson now has 12 points, tying him with seven other players.

Emphasis on Laughter In New CBC Fall Programs

By DONALD PHILLIPSON

TORONTO (CP) — The emphasis is on laughter this fall as CBC-TV replaces seven of last year's programs with five new comedies and three adventure series.

The comedies follow styles that have proved successful in past years. Okay Crackerby follows the problems of Burl Ives as an Oklahoma multi-millionaire who wants to become a gentleman, and I Dream of Jeanie is about a beautiful girl-genie who lives in a bottle owned by a Cape Kennedy astronaut.

Get Smart stars Don Adams as the world's worst secret agent in a fairyland of gadgets, and Hogan's Heroes is a war comedy about the lighter side of American airmen's attempts to escape from a German prisoner-of-war camp.

There is a message for today in Hank, in which Dick Kallman plays a high school drop-out who drops into college—studying without registering and trying to support a young sister at the same time.

The programs that have been withdrawn are The Rogues, The Saint, The Defenders, Candid Camera, Country Hoedown and Red River Jamboree. Old favorites that will be back again include Perry Mason, The Fugitive, Bonanza, The Ed Sullivan Show, The Dick Van Dyke Show and The Beverly Hillbillies."

BASED ON SEAWAY

The adventure drama most eagerly awaited by television executives is Seaway, an hour-long Canadian-produced weekly drama based on the St. Lawrence Seaway. Director Maxine Samuels, creator of The Forest Rangers for children's television, has recruited an impressive staff which now is filming on location in Eastern Canada.

The two new American dramas are The Trials of O'Brien, an hour-long courtroom series starring Peter Falk, and A Man Called Shenandoah. In the latter, Robert Horton, former star of Wagon Train, plays a man who wanders the west trying to rebuild his lost memory.

Canadian comedians Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster will star in four shows and Juliette will be back in her usual timeslot, following Hockey Night in Canada Saturdays.

Tommy Hunter, popular country and Western singer on radio, will have his own television show and Don Messer's Jubilee will continue.

Red Skelton will be back on Mondays and Bob Hope's drama hour moves into Perry Mason's former time on Tuesday.' For what may be his last season, Raymond Burr will dominate the courtroom Sundays as the star of Perry Mason.

Front Page Challenge and Flashback, the two Canadian panel games, will continue, as will Take 30.

In a stronger bid for afternoon viewers, the CBC's own stations will carry two new 15-minute series, Guiding Light and Search for Tomorrow. As the World Turns and Moment of Truth will still be available at times depending on local options.

Children's television will carry on last year's series, as will the news and public affairs departments.

This Hour has Seven Days is back before the Sunday late news and a new program, Background, will carry editorial opinions each Tuesday on controversial topics of the day.

Scores Two TD's

ATLANTA, Ga. (CP)—Canadian footballer Jim Young scored two touchdowns Saturday in Minnesota Vikings' 31-21 National Football League pre-season exhibition victory over Pittsburgh Steelers.

Young, of Hamilton, Ont., for three years considered the best halfback in Canadian collegiate football with Queen's University at Kingston, currently is trying to become the only Canadian in the National Football League.

Young's touchdowns came in the third and fourth quarters after the Vikings had built up a 17-0 halftime lead. The first was scored on a three-yard plunge and the second on a 34-yard pass-and-run play with second-string quarterback Ron VanderKelen.

Young was drafted last year by Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League, but passed up the CFL and a chance for another year of collegiate eligibility to accept an offer from the Vikings.
